Why was the royal tour of 1939 such an extraordinary success? It was drenched with colour, and that no doubt had something to do with it. But the real reason lay in the personalities of the King and Queen. In the first instance, the immense crowds may have been drawn partly by curiosity. People like to watch parades, and this was the biggest parade Canada had ever seen. But more powerful emotions were soon aroused—the direct contact of the people with their sovereign. And there was the awareness that the royal couple also represented ordinary family life at its best. Their manner was unaffected; they displayed constant sympathy and consideration, and they won the affections of Canadians everywhere.

It was mid-May when Their Majesties reached Canadian soil at Quebec. And a merry month of May it was, even though the war clouds were gathering ever more thickly over Europe. In that same spring, while Hitler's legions were preparing to mass on the borders of Poland, Canadians were still struggling out of the depression, the dreadful scars of which were not yet healed. Out West, the first bumper wheat crop in nearly a decade was in its early growth, and farmers were worrying about the price they would get for it. Across the line, New York Yankees were on the march to another championship.

The royal tour only ran into one snag throughout, and that was out at sea. The late R. K. Carnegie, one of the newspapermen aboard the Empress of Australia, and afterwards a member of The Ottawa Citizen's editorial staff, wrote that for two days the vessel was held up by thick fog, and when this lifted she found herself surrounded by ice. However there was no mishap, and the ship anchored off the south shore of the Island of Orleans on the night of May 16.

Next day the triumphant procession began, one which was to lead from Quebec to Victoria and back again by a more northerly route, then briefly down into the eastern United States and finally up to the Maritimes.

"Tumultuous welcome" is the common phrase the writers used to describe the scene at Quebec. They soon ran out of adjectives. Indeed, as the tour progressed, several reporters confessed they could find no words to describe the scene properly.

In Quebec, the Queen chatted in French with her dinner partners, Premier Duplessis and Lieutenant-Governor Patenaude. She and the King used the same language later in greeting the Dionne quintuplets at Toronto. The girls were then five years old, all dressed up for the occasion in long white court dresses and poke bonnets.

Ottawa, we are reminded, greeted Their Majesties with "reverential adoration". Well, that may not have been so wide of the mark. The city was packed. Among the thousands who flocked in from all parts of the Ottawa Valley were throngs of school children, who massed in the Experimental Farm grounds and waved flags and alarmed the starlings with their shrill clamour.

There were the historic moments: the royal assent to eight bills in the Senate chamber, and the Empire Day broadcast from Winnipeg.

But some of the most pleasant incidents to recall happened along the way, far from the big cities. At White River, where the royal train, shining in blue and silver, made a service stop, the King and Queen decided to go outside, although they were supposed to be resting. They said they would like to meet the mayor. This caused consternation, because White River had no mayor. However a citizens' committee quickly rallied and elected one on the spot, while loggers and Indians from the north woods looked on.

At another halt in the northern wilderness, someone on the station platform called out: "How do you like Canada, Your Majesty?" "I love it," George Rex replied.

At Winnipeg a fine rain was falling, but the King and Queen insisted on driving around the city with the top of their car down. At that stage the King had a bandaged hand as he waved to the people, for he had jammed his fingers painfully in the train door.

Then there was the blind veteran to whom the Queen brought words of cheer; and the American orchestra which travelled 200 miles in order to play for Their Majesties at the Lakehead; and the northern Ontario Indian who presented the Queen with a miniature birch-bark canoe of his own workmanship; and the 50-foot welcome sign at Vancouver covered with a solid mass of flowers; and the embarrassment of some citizens along the route when they were told by neighbours that they had hung their Union Jacks upside down.

In the reports of the time there are repeated references to the King's infectious smile and to the Queen's animation and her obvious interest in the people and the things around her. The royal couple exerted a powerful personal magnetism; all of us who saw them will agree on that. We also found, as a woman reporter had discovered at Quebec, that "Queen Elizabeth is much lovelier than her pictures. She seemed just what a queen should be."

Prime Minister Mackenzie King summed up the feeling of Canadians when he said on the first state occasion that their admiration was "for the qualities of heart and character which you possess, for what you are in yourselves."

Abuse Of Franking

(BRANTFORD EXPOSITOR)

THIS newspaper has received—as, presumably have its contemporaries—a 16-page booklet containing reprints of one newspaper reporter's accounts of the World Assembly for the Moral [illegible], as it was called, held last month on Mackinac Island, Michigan.

This event was "covered" appropriately by various news services and by several newspapers individually. Doubtless the reports reprinted and now distributed are all that good newspaper reports should be. But doubtless, also, not every newspaper had the space or the inclination to print, or its readers the desire to read, approximately 15 columns of type on the subject—and that is what this particular collection ran to.

That, however, is strictly a matter for the editorial policy and readership requirements of the newspaper concerned. Also, the privilege of interested groups to hold assemblies for moral re-armament or anything else they choose (provided they are within the law) is not begrudged or challenged. The Moral Re-Armament organization, successor to the Oxford Group Movement (not to be confused with the earlier and quite different Oxford Movement in the Church of England), has attracted a large and international following, and engages the attention of many inquiring people. Among the latter were 11 members of the Parliament of Canada who attended the Mackinac meeting.

All this, again, is a matter for personal choice and preference, and this newspaper would be the last to suggest the slightest encroachment on freedom of conscience in the matter.

It does feel, however, that there are proper limits to the liberties that may be enjoyed even in propagandizing what its supporters deem to be a most worthy cause. Specifically it questions both the right and the good judgement of a member of Parliament who uses his office, and the franking privilege allowed M.P.'s to distribute, through the mails, reprint literature of the character here described.

Yet the franking privilege has been so used—or, rather, abused—by at least one of the 11 members of Parliament who went to the M.R.A. sessions. For it was from this member, C. W. Carter (Burin-Burgeo, Newfoundland), that The Expositor received the literature. The latter, as observed, came through the mail in an envelope bearing the "free" stamping of the House of Commons. Doubtless the M.P.'s intentions were as good as his zeal was great, but he would have been on sounder ground had he done his private missionary work at his own rather than the public's expense—particularly at a time when the Postmaster-General is crying out that his department is not taking in enough money and must, perforce, charge everyone (except privileged parliamentarians) higher rates accordingly.

A minister, addressing a women's missionary meeting, said that "thousands of gallons of rum go into Africa for every brother who is sent there." Whereupon one of the sisters whispered to her neighbour, "Rather a large allowance for those missionaries."

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

For as often as ye eat this bread, and drink this cup, ye do shew the Lord's death till he come. Wherefore whosoever shall eat this bread, and drink this cup of the Lord, unworthily, shall be guilty of the body and blood of the Lord.

But let a man examine himself, and so let him eat of that bread, and drink of that cup. (I Cor. 11: 26-28.)

Feed the flock of God which is among you, taking the oversight thereof, not by constraint, but willingly....And when the chief Shepherd shall appear, ye shall receive a crown of glory that fadeth not away. (I Pet. 5: 2, 4.)

Should Be A Law Against This

(Windsor Star)

According to statements made in the Commons, in an apartment block in Winnipeg the landlord is asking prospective tenants not only whether they have children, but whether they intend to have any. They are warned the advent of a family means cancellation of the lease and vacation of the apartment.

We regret the name of the landlord wasn't made public, so he could be held up to public opprobrium. If there are many more like him, sooner or later something stronger than public disapproval will become necessary. A demand will arise for a law under which no landlord can refuse to accept a tenant, or evict one, because of children.

The family is the hub of Christian civilization and of all other civilizations worthy of the name. Anyone who by such forms of compulsion, would try to prohibit or limit families is running counter to humanity and to the welfare of the state.

If a landlord has property to rent, and refuses to rent it to families with children, then he shouldn't be allowed to rent it at all. That would serve him right.

Are Truisms True?

(Christian Science Monitor)

"A rolling stone gathers no moss," quotes the stay-at-home.

"But it takes on a high polish," replied the traveler.

So it goes. A popular maxim is not always so axiomatic as it sounds.

Take another, for example: "Oil and water will not mix." True, in the ordinary sense. Yet the experimenter knows that many kinds of oil do mix with water to form emulsions, or suspensions of finely divided particles of one liquid in another, and that the study of these forms a whole branch of organic chemistry.

Then recall that passage from Rudyard Kipling to the effect that "East is East, and West is West, and never the twain shall meet." How many who quote it know that the import of the full verse is quite the opposite?

Oh, East is East, and West is West, and never the twain shall meet,
Till Earth and Sky stand presently at God's great Judgement Seat;
But there is neither East nor West, Border, nor Breed, nor Birth,
When two strong men stand face to face,
Though they come from the ends of the earth!

Slightly different, eh?

But Better Not Try It

(Prince Albert Herald)

It isn't often that the speeder is given the benefit of any favorable consideration. We have come to regard him as part fool, part lawbreaker and a wholly dangerous citizen in any event. An English student of science and the forces of gravity and so on now appears on the scene with an elaborate thesis to the effect that speeding has one merit at least.

His theory is that a man hurled from a machine moving at the rate of 90 miles an hour—particularly a motorcycle—is safer than a gentleman who is travelling at a mere half that speed. When he is thrown at the faster rate he is projected in a line almost parallel to the ground, instead of being dumped unceremoniously upon it. Therefore, he finally meets it at a gentle angle and slides along to safety on his ear.

French Communists

(Calgary Herald)

The biggest threat, and one which has not been eliminated by this election is that the Communists will somehow obtain a place in the French government. Their sizeable vote and few seats will be a fine rallying cry of "discrimination in a democracy". Only a few weeks ago in the Italian municipal and provincial elections, the Communists obtained one third of the votes cast. Immediately Communist leader Togliatti demanded a place in the government. He even invited the right-wing parties of Italy to join a "Popular Front" movement to "change the course" of the country. That is what the strong French Communist party is trying to do and once the Communists succeed in getting a foothold in the crumbling house of French democracy, it won't be long until it becomes a state prison for the French nation.

Get New Grain Experimenting In Saskatchewan

SASKATOON (CP).—Farmers may be saved millions of dollars by the results of a University of Saskatchewan research project to "weatherproof" grains.

Dr. J. B. Harrington, head of the Field Husbandry Department, says new varieties of grain developed after 15 years of laboratory and field research will prove invaluable in the fickle climate of the Prairies.

Grains have been developed which yield well and are still highly resistant to spring frost, sprouting, shattering, bleaching and drought.

He referred to the development as "weatherproofing" and said this was the first time plant breeders had worked toward improving grain development in the spring rather than in the fall — the purpose of the early-maturing varieties.

The Field Husbandry Department imitated various weather conditions by installing controlled freezing chambers and glass houses — a controlled climate system which greatly speeded up the experiments.

Apex wheat and Fortune and Valor oats have resulted from the experiment.

Special grants from the National Research Council and the Saskatchewan Government financed the project.

Doctor Exchanges M.B. for M.D. After Wait of 50 Years

CALGARY (CP)— Dr. George D. Stanley, one of Alberta's best-known doctors and a life member of the Canadian Medical Association, will get his MD degree this month.

He could have received it in 1901, but the 50-year wait was worthwhile—it saved him $25.

Holder of an honorary degree of doctor of laws from University of Alberta for his contribution to Canadian life, and a leader in his field, Dr. Stanley will be given his doctor of medicine degree June 15 when the class of 1901 will be entertained at University of Toronto's medical convocation.

The story behind this situation isn't unique; when he was graduated from U of T medical school in 1901 it was with the degree of bachelor of medicine, which was then a distinct degree.

To obtain his MD it would have been necessary to write another examination and pay $25. Dr. Stanley had neither the time nor the money, so he skipped it and came west.

Had Tuberculosis

The reason for leaving Ontario was that he had tuberculosis, and in those days the only cure for the disease was plenty of sunshine, plenty of food and plenty of rest.

"Well," says Dr. Stanley, "I found southern Alberta had plenty of sunshine and I had a strong stomach. And as for hope, well, they thought I was going to die once, but that was 50 years ago. I got over the idea long ago."

Now the cheerful, vigorous doctor is 75 years old and has lived a full life rich with experiences of the early west.

He didn't go on his honeymoon until 12 years after his marriage. Married to the former Annie Colvin of Hamilton who died in 1944, he had to leave his wedding reception to go on a case in the country, and patients came so thick and fast the young couple just never got away.

Born in Exeter, and brought up in St. Mary's, Ont., Dr. Stanley started practice at High River, Alta., later moving to Calgary. He has been a Conservative member of the Alberta Legislature and a member of parliament.

Dr. Stanley has always appreciated the vigorous spirit of the west. For instance, in the early days, a blackjack game that lasted less than 24 hours saw less than $20,000 change hands at times was something of a fizzle, recalls Dr. Stanley.

"They were good boys," he says. "For them it was a pastime. You must have a pastime. The games would go on on Sundays and the Presbyterian minister would drop in.

"The boys would donate poker chips. The minister would cash them and use the money to carry on the Lord's work in the west. The boys respected the minister and he respected them. There was nothing wrong with it."

Says Clergymen Marry Too Soon

WOLVERHAMPTON, England (CP). — Clergymen should marry for money unless they have a private income, says the Rev. Wilfred Ellis, 60-year-old bachelor Vicar of St. George's Anglican Church here.

After visiting his old Theological Training College and finding the library lined with baby carriages belonging to student priests, Ellis wrote in his Parish Magazine:

"I think the clergy marry unwisely and too soon. The funds of the church are for pastoral work and will never suffice to maintain a social position or an expensive education for children."

Mr. Ellis says that most priests would be better parsons if they remained single. Married, their loyalties are divided between family and church, unless they have private means.

Ellis, who has a private income, is not interested in matrimony for himself.

"I'm happy as I am, sharing a home with a bachelor curate," he said. "Yet, there are women in my parish who still consider me marriageable."

Dachau Citizens Become Friendly With US Troops

By RICHARD K. O'MALLEY

DACHAU, GERMANY, July 9 —(AP)—The name of this little Bavarian town used to be enough to chill the blood of most Germans.

On its outskirts, low-roofed barracks housed thousands of people imprisoned by the Nazis. Two chimneys used to belch smoke as SS (elite) guards stoked the crematory furnaces.

American troops liberated Dachau concentration camp in April, 1945.

The creamatory area became a memorial site. Refugees eventually were housed in the old barracks.

But relationship between American occupation personnel and the people of Dachau never became friendly.

One Dachau citizen commented: "We knew the Americans wouldn't like us because we were, unfortunately, residents of a town in which a notorious concentration camp existed." The Dachauers themselves felt wrongfully blamed for the Nazi camp.

Tried For Improvement

It was not until late last year that Herman Frankel, and Lt.-Col. Vincent J. Conrad, in charge of a military post service centre, decided to see what could be done to better relations.

They found that even the Dachauers themselves didn't mingle much.

Frankel decided to try a community chest drive to help the needy last Christmas. The drive was a success. Then little by little they joined together in other things.

Then Conrad saw to it the German children were permitted to use a skating rink reserved for Americans. A kindergarten was built by the American service centre for the use of German children and relations improved still further.

The last barrier was on the way down when Conrad invited German civic representatives to an officers' club party.

Today the old saying has been forgotten. Germans and Americans are well on the road to good relations.

OLA Petes Take Over Lead By Trouncing Fergus, 28-5

Trampling Fergus Thistles underfoot 28-5 here Saturday night, as Mimico beat St. Catharines, the Petes took over sole possession of first place in the OLA senior "A" standing. A thousand fans viewed the one-sided tilt in intermittent rain and wondered audibly how Fergus had defeated the Crowe crew earlier in the week. Petes gained ample vengeance in this encounter.

After a 4-1 first quarter, the homesters racked up 10 straight without a return in the second for a 14-1 halftime lead. They then outscored Fergus 7-3 in the third and 7-1 in the final frame. Play was fairly fast but not exciting, and quite clean throughout. But eight penalties were handed out, four aside. The winners were minus Dootch Vitarelli and Don Ashbee, and the losers were without Harry Kazarian.

Big Ross Led

Top sniper for Peterborough was Ross Powless, who turned in a fine driving game to score three and aid on six more for nine points. Right behind him was Arn Dugan with seven goals and an assist for eight points. Seven each were gained by Bob Thorpe and Harry Wipper, who got on Jerry Fitzgerald, another hustler all through. Russ Slater and Curly Mason clicked for four points apiece, three going to Em Creighton, and two each to Joe Whitnell, Mick Magee, Nit O'Hearn and Ike Hildebrand. Don Crowe scored one. Moon Wootton was good again in goal.

Jack Lumley was the only visiting player to get more than one point, as he scored two goals. Single markers were counted by Jack Foote—formerly of Peterborough and Owen Sound—Jim Halls and Stan Abbott. An assist apiece went to Hec McKenzie and to Bill Killingbeck, a native of this city. Goalie Speck had a tough evening as the league-leaders pelted him hard and often.

Teams:

Fergus: Goal, Speck; defence, Killingbeck and McWhirter; centre, Abbott; wings, Halls and Foote; rover, Dobie; alternates, Pearson, Harris, Lumley, Smith, D. Gear, R. Gear and McKenzie.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

The committee is now preared to receive entries for the Selkirk Trophy competition. Rinks must be of schedule calibre. Play begins next Monday night and continues on Tuesday night.

A number of local bowlers took in the mixed rink tournament at Cooburg on Saturday.

There will be no bowling tomorrow night. The greens will be closed to have in good condition for the big day Wednesday.

The winning skips in Saturday night's tournament were H. Staunton, S. Shields and S. Cummings.

The final doubles game in the provincial elimination series will be played some night this week. The pairs are: R. Whalon and B. Jeffries, vs. J. Cullen and F. Worsencroft.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. C. Jay, who are, this weekend, celebrating their forty-fifth wedding anniversary.

Today's thought: It is not what is on a man, but what is in him.

Torontos Whip Fergus 14-10 In Lacrosse Tilt

By The Canadian Press.

The east beat the west in Ontario Lacrosse Association's senior play during the weekend, and Toronto's West Yorks got rid of a jinx.

The Yorks ran out on their home floor Sunday to fashion a 14-10 win over the last-place Fergus Thistles. The victory was their first at home since they opened the season.

Jack Howes with four, Jim McNulty and Frank Facto with three and Len Teatro with two goals led the York attack. Single counters were registered by Bruce Webster and Benny Harris.

Jay Jay Hill and John Lumley scored two each for the Thistles. Single goals came from Russ McWhirter, Hec Mackenzie, Elmer Harris, Doug Gillespie, Bob Gear and Jack Foote.

Mimico Mountaineers, upsetting the St. Catharines Athletics 13-11 Saturday traded goals with the home squad during the second half after building up a 5-3 halftime edge.

Ken Lyttle, Frank Atwell each scored three goals. Bud Knox and Pop Chard got two apiece and Ted Towner, Don McPhail and Archie Dixon scored once.

Jim McMahon tallied three for the losers.

At Brampton, the Excelsiors came from behind to down Hamilton Tigers 9-5.

Bob Blakely led Brampton with three goals, Al Garbutt got two and Don Beatty, Bob Sutherland, Ralph Gowland and Gord Watt notched single scores.

The Tiger scoring was led by Tom Love's three-goal effort. Blain McDonald and Mer McKenzie got one each.

Belleville Edges Batawa 2-0

BELLEVILLE, July 9 (CP). — Scoring in the third and eighth innings, Belleville defeated Batawa 2-0 here Sunday in a Central Ontario Senior Baseball League game.

Both scoring rallies started on a walk, with Bowers coming home on two stolen bases and a single to right field in the third and Dean scoring on a double in the eighth.

Battery for the winning Belleville team was Bell Bowers and Dean with Wright and Acquino pitching and catching for Batawa.

Norwood Defeated

NORWOOD, July 9 (ENS). — Herman defeated Norwood 11-4 in a fastball game here on Friday evening. Although Norwood was ahead 3-1 in the end of the fifth Herman counted three in the sixth to be one up on Norwood.

Crawford took over in the fifth innings pitching for Mallory. Fredericks relieved E. Spencer in the eighth.

Cubs Upset Royals Twice At Weekend

By The Associated Press.

It looks as though the whammy Montreal Royals hold over Springfield Cubs for the first half of the International League season is at an end.

Until Saturday, the league-leading Royals had fattened themselves on the Cubs by beating them 13 straight times. But the tune changed Saturday night when the Cubs won a 14-inning 1-0 affair. Then Sunday the Cubs polished off the Royals again in 14 innings behind the nine-hit pitching of Frank Marino, a flinger who is no stranger to extra-inning games.

Not only did Marino pitch the victory Sunday, but he won his own game in the 14th when he singled home catcher News Burbrink.

Don't Hurt Cause

The two weekend losses did not hurt the cause of the Royals much. They still have a safe nine-game edge over the second-place Buffalo Bisons, who had a holiday at the expense of Rochester Red Wings. The Bisons collected 17 hits off the offerings of four Wing hurlers, to make it easy for Tom Acker to score his seventh victory.

Toronto Maple Leafs, outhit five to nine, nevertheless whipped the Baltimore Orioles 5-2 behind Russ Bauers, who had a shutout going into the ninth inning. But Anse Moore whacked a home run with Mike Goliat on base to spoil it.

Ottawa Giants won both ends of the only doubleheader of the day from Syracuse Chiefs 8-2 and 2-0. Alex Konikowski hurled the shut out. Elmer Corwin won the opener although he needed help from George Heller.

Whitby Merchants Defeat Cobourg 18-6

COBOURG, July 9 — Whitby Merchants defeated Cobourg Legion here Saturday afternoon, 18-6, in a Lake Shore Intermediate Baseball League game.

Bill Ziner, pitching for the winners, was never in danger of losing. He held Cobourg to three singles for the first seven innings.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Howie Morenz turned professional with Montreal Canadiens 28 years ago today. The Stratford Streak, one of hockey's most colorful figures, twice led the National League in scoring and was a three-time winner of the Hart Trophy as the league's most valuable player. He died March 8, 1937, from complications following a hockey injury.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Years ago, Belleville and Peterborough staged some very stirring diamond duels. COBL fans will always fondly recall hurling battles between Williams, Ouelette, Gibson, etc., and Heckman, Rose, Kitchen and others. Arguments persists among oldtime Central League followers as to which was the best battery, Heckman and Swanston of the Petes, or Williams and Mills of Belleville. But in recent years, the Petes pulled out of the COBL (along with Oshawa) to play in the Toronto Viaduct League. However, tonight at 8.30 here, if the weather is right, Belleville and the Petes meet once more in an exhibition. It will be real interesting to see how these loops now stack up against each other.

* * * * * *

The better ball clubs up this way are probably of a Class "C" pro calibre. Yes, pro scouts rate the Intercounty League as good as Class "B", and Oshawa Merchants have defeated some of those teams in exhibitions — and we hope to get a crack at Guelph soon. As the Petes lead Oshawa and the rest in our loop, you'd have to rate the team at least Class "C", wouldn't you? Tris Speaker and other Cleveland Indians' officials were in London, Ont., a week ago trying to work out an agreement with the Majors of that city. They were surprised that London didn't turn out-and-out professional. But the Majors won't make the jump unless the whole league does.

* * * * * *

Working With Pros

A verbal agreement has been made between the big league Indians and the London Majors. As Speaker said, the Indians have options on dozens of promising college players and other amateurs, and they can shoot a few over to London if that club needs help. Cleveland then naturally would expect first crack at a good youngster playing for London. A similar hookup might be made by the Petes, if they were interested, with Detroit Tigers, for instance, provided the Tigers were agreeable. After all, they're the nearest major league club to Ontario. The advantage would be that the Petes could pick up one or two good ballsters a year, if needed, who had been previously scouted by a big league team and put on its list. True, the Tigers could later lift a player or two from us, but they can do that now, anyway. We feel it's worth a thought, at least.

* * * * * *

High cost of living definitely affects sports, too. Price of equipment, accommodation, meals, travelling, etc., keeps shooting up. An example of this in football is shown by the Ottawa Journal scribe. He points out how the prices leaped since last year, hip pads then being $11 and now being up to 23! Shoulder pads hopped from $15 to $33, footballs $18 to $27 and helmets $22 to $33. Golly! Most Big Four clubs in 1950 spent more than $100,000 and expect to put out a greater sum this autumn. They sure need big crowds every game at higher admission prices to operate.

* * * * * *

Plucking The Thistles

Fergus Thistles, who edged the Petes 11-10 last Friday, were trampled into the earth 28-5 here Saturday. Ought to be a saliva test. As Mimico Mounties were beating St. Kitts 13-11 at the same time Saturday, the victory put the Petes in top OLA senior spot once more by themselves. They're at Mimico on Wednesday and have Hamilton here Friday, neither one being a soft touch. Whole crew clicked well against Fergus, and husky Ross Powless was the leading point-getter. Arn Dugan was in good form, also, and Bob Thorpe, Harry Wipper and Jerry Fitzgerald were other high scorers. Fergus didn't have a look-in after the first quarter.

With Mimico winning two in a row the end of last week (taking Toronto and the A's), the Mountaineers crept up within shooting distance of Petes and St. Kitts. Locals have 22 points, Saints 20, Mimico 16, Hamilton 14, Brampton 12, Toronto 10 and Fergus eight. Doug Gillespie of Owen Sound has taken over as coach of Fergus, so Tank Teather returns to St. Catharines as assistant to Joe Cheevers. Doug Cove of St. Catharines is due to take over Jack Gair's job as Hamilton coach, with Jack remaining as a player. Bunny Morganson says Ken Dixon is out for a few weeks at Mimico with an old back injury, but scrappy Don McPhail is sparking the squad. Brampton and Fergus are both claiming Bill Allum and Don ... "A" Cricketers Get Win Over Dentonia

The Peterborough-Whitaker 'A' cricketers defeated Dentonia 64 for six wickets to 56 in a council match here. Previously, Dentonia had won from the local club. The visitors had a rough time against fine bowling by A. V. Pope who took eight wickets for 20 runs. Three were down for 10 and the side never recovered from this bad start. D. Lamb scored 25 later but the innings closed for 56.

The local had no easy task scoring against well-known bowlers like George Mann and E. Boyden but they got them wtih the loss of six wickets. B. Roberts scored 20 before he was finally caught in the long field. F. Booth came in No. 4 and was not out at 22 at the finish. He saw the fourth, fifth and sixth wickets go down with the total at 54 but then W. Rashleigh kept his end up and Booth scored the winning run without further loss. The score:

Dentonia

Batting—G. Mann 7, B. Royston 9, E. Boyden 0, H. Lutz, G. A. Buckmaster 0, D. Fraser 0, H. Sharpe 1, D. Downs 1. Extras 2. Total 56.

Fall of wickets—1 for 9, 2 for 9, 3 for 10, 4 for 32, 5 for 32, 6 and 7 for 47, 8 for 48, 9 for 55, 10 for 56.

Bowling—A. Pope 8 wickets for 20 runs, F. Botoh 1 for 26 and B. Illingworth 1 for 8.

Peterborough "A"

Batting—B. Roberts 20, J. Arkley 1, A. Pope 6, F. Booth 22 not out, F. Sharp 4, A. Harris 0, G. Langley 0, W. Rashleight 1 not out. Extrast 10. Total for 6 wickets, 64.

A. Fraser, T. Pope and R. Illingworth did not bat.

Fal lof wickets—1 for 12, 2 for 32, 3 for 37, 4 for 52, 5 for 52, 6 for 52.

Bowling—E. Royden, 5 wickets for 20 runs, G. Mann 1 for 34.

There are not cricket council matches next Saturday, July 14, as Ontario is playing Quebec in a provincial match at Toronto. A. V. Pope has been selected to play for Ontario and the locals wish him every success.

All-Out Fight Over Suspension

ATLANTA, July 9 — (AP).— An all-out fight over the 90-day suspension of Manager Dixie Walker of the Atlanta Crackers in the Southern Association was promised from a sick-bed Sunday by club president Earl Mann.

Mann, commenting for the first time since the suspension, said: "I want you to know.... that we are going to use every weapon we have to fight this thing to the very end. We will go to the very limit in Dixie's defence."

Walker was barred for the remainder of this season and 18 days of the next by Southern Association President Charlie Hurth after a dispute with Umpire Paul Roy at Mobile June 29.

At the time Roy forfeited the second game of a double-header Atlanta was playing against Mobile.

"As I see it," said Mann, "Roy lost control of the game in Mobile. He let the situation get out of hand and could think of nothing else to do but forfeit.

Peterborough Leading Glover-Dobbin Trophy

The Peterborough Golf Club carries an 11-point lead into the second round of the Glover-Dobbin Trophy competition on Aug. 18 at Kawartha Club as a result of thir win 26½ points to 15½ on Saturday at the Peterborough Club. Some good golf was seen but the turnout was down, due mostly to the Canadian Open being on the same day in Toronto, and so many golfers from here taking it in.

Ball sweepstake winners, as listed by Len Lawrence, of the match and handicap committee, were: First low gross, Herb Bradburn, of the Peterborough Club, with 75; second low gross going to Stan Whiddon, of Kawartha ... with ... won on Saturday while the "B" team lost in Toronto.... Peterborough Club golfers took a lead over Kawartha Club in Glover-Dobbin Trophy play.... OGA district junior qualifying competition is on today at the northend links.... Don Wood of this city won the 400-yard free style event for junior men in 4:59.4 at the Ontario swim championship trials in Hamilton on Saturday.... The 42-day meet for harness horses is now under way at Thorncliffe in Toronto.... Jim Hendy of Cleveland Barons was here Saturday talking to Roy Armstrong re junior "A" hockey.... PMLA schedule tomorrow: Peewee game at nine a.m., followed by a tadpole tilt; bantam drill at two p.m., with an open workout at 3.30; bantam practise at 6.30 p.m. for two hours.... Quinte bantams play southenders at 6.30 Wednesday eve in Riverside.... Girls' Bowl games tonight: Ashby vs. Marines, Cobourg vs. Woollens.... Men's tilts tomorrow: UEW vs. Revoy, Orphans vs. Lakefield.... A special girls' game on July 12 after the addresses in the Bowl.... The works.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Harners racing returned to Toronto in robust fashion Saturday as more than 7,500 persons attended the opening of the Thorncliffe Raceway's 42-day meeting.

Malcolm Hanover, owned by Kenneth Mackinnon of Owen Sound, accounted for both divisions of the featured pacing stake. He was the betting favorite.

Maudeen Volo was second in the first division but faded to fourth in her second try.

Bill Simmons handled the lines for Malcolm Hanover and drove two superlative races.

The public had a thrill in the first race when Edna Volo, owned and driven by J. E. Seguin of Kingston, trotted home in fine style and paid $28.10. She had been virtually overlooked in the wagering because she was a first time starter. When Cecilia G., the favorite, won the second race, the daily double paid off at $285.95 for a two dollar ticket.

At Dortmund, Germany, Althea Gibson of New York, American Negro champion, Sunday won the women's singles in an international tennis tournament with a straight set 6-3, 6-2 victory over Hannah Kozeluh, self-exiled former tennis champion of Czechoslovakia who now lives in Berlin.

Felicissimo Ampon of the Philippines beat Bengt Johansson of Sweden, 8-6, 6-2, 6-3 to win the men's singles.

At Detroit, the American and National Leagues laid the legal groundwork Sunday for the House of Representatives monopoly-committee hearings opening in Washington the end of July when baseball's method of operation will come in for searching study.

In addition, the two big leagues meeting separately, discussed behind closed doors the selection of a successor to Commissioner A. B. Chandler.

Canada defeated France 3-2 in an informal lawn tennis challenge match at the Stade Roland Garros Paris Sunday.

Lorne Main of Vancouver defeated Jean Claude Molinari 6-3, 6-3, 7-5 and Henri Rochon of Montreal whipped Robert Abdesselam, 6-1, 6-2, 6-3.

At Inglewood, Calif., Valumet Farm's great Bewitch Saturday moved within close striking range of becoming the turf's all-time winning mare when she raced to a convincing victory in the $25,000 Vanity Handicap.

The favored six-year-old toyed with rival mares and fillies and ... bankroll.

Added to her previous winnings of $425,655, the net purse brought the Bewitch earnings up to $442,605, $2,930 shy of the all-time high for mares.

Choose Players For 18th All-Star Game

By JACK HAND

DETROIT, July 9—(AP)—Big Don Newcombe of pennant-minded Brooklyn, and Ned Garver of the last-place St. Louis Browns are expected to be the starting pitchers Tuesday in the 18th all-star baseball game at Briggs Stadium.

"Expected" is the word because managers Casey Stengel of the American League and Eddie Sawyer of the Nationals won't announce batting orders and pitchers until today.

The dope book says Newcombe (12-6) is a cinch. All eight members of the National League staff worked during the weekend, but Newcombe pitched only two innings in Brooklyn's victory over the Phillies Sunday.

Stengel is handicapped by the American League rule forcing him to pick only one pitcher from each club. Three of the best in the league—Vic Raschi and Allie Reynolds of the Yanks and Bob Feller of Cleveland—aren't on the squad. The idea is not to handicap clubs in the race by using up their pitching strength.

If Casey calls on Garver (11-4) he can be assured of not wrecking any contender's rotation. And he won't be giving any pennant rival a break. For the Browns play Philadelphia next and Garver still would be available for use against Boston next Sunday.

Selected By Fans

The lineups, excluding pitchers, were selected by vote of fans in a national poll by newspapers, radio stations and magazines. The fan-picked men must play the first three innings, at least.

Unless somebody slips on a cake of soap in the bathtub, they'll all be here, lining up like this:

GUEST TO ROW

Jack Guest, Jr., will row in the Canadian Henley the last week of July and also at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Guest, beaten in the Diamond Sculls in England last week, will start home by ship Thursday.

Red Sox Wallop Yanks 6-2 Fanning Pennant Dreams

By RALPH RODEN,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Can Boston Red Sox do it this time?

That's the question fans are asking today as the thrilling American League pennant race takes time out for the all-star game.

The Red Sox fanned anew the pennant dreams of their legions Sunday by beating New York Yankees 6-2. The victory was Boston's eighth straight at home over the Yankees and the 13th in the last 17 starts.

By winning, the Red Sox took over second place from the fading Yankees and remained one game behind the front-running Chicago White Sox who posted a tough 5-4 decision over the last-place St. Louis Browns.

The Yankees are two games behind and their third-place position is endangered by the onrushing Cleveland Indians who took a doubleheader from Detroit 8-3 and 10-2. The Indians are only four games out of first place.

Dodgers Pull Away

While the American League tightened up, Brooklyn Dodgers pulled 8½ games away from the runner-up New York Giants in the National.

The Dodgers downed Philadelphia Phillies 6-4 in 10 innings while the Giants dropped a 6-5 10-inning decision to Boston Braves. St. Louis Cardinals split a pair with Pittsburgh Pirates, losing the opener 6-2 but winning the nightcap 9-8. A doubleheader between Chicago and Cincinnati was rained out. In remaining American League action, Washington Senators humbled Philadelphia Phillies twice, 3-1 and 8-2.

A crowd of 29,843 fans roared approval as the Red Sox came from behind to trip the Yankees for the third time in as many days in Boston.

New York nicked Ray Scarborough, who turned in his second complete game of the season, for a 3-0 lead in four innings. But two-run homers by Lou Boudreau and Clyde Vollmer in the fifth and sixth innings off Vick Raschi turned the tide.

Overcome Deficit

Chicago also overcame a deficit to beat the Browns. The Sox trailed 4-3 entering the seventh when they tied the score. They won in the eighth on two singles and Bob Dillinger's run-scoring fly.

Early Wynn and Mike Garcia turned back the Tigers before 41,154 fans in Detroit. Cleveland scored five runs in the seventh inning on five hits and a walk to snap a 3-3 tie and win the opener. Vic Wartz accounted for all of Detroit's runs with a homer in the sixth.

Con Marrero and Sid Hudson pitched Washington to its double victory over the A's, both yielding only seven hits. Mickey Vernon drove in four runs on a triple and single.

Homer Helps

Jackie Robinson of the Dodgers belted a home run with Duke Snider on base in the 10th to beat the Phils. Reliefer Jim Konstanty served up Robinson's playoff sock and was charged with the loss.

A 10th-inning home run also beat the Giants. Sid Gordon delivered the winning wallop for the Braves off Dave Koslo.

Ralph Kiner celebrated his return to action after a three-day suspension by socking his 20th homer and two doubles to lead the Pirates to victory over the Cards in the opener at Pittsburgh.

Red Schoendienst cracked two home runs and batted in four runs to spark the Cards to victory in the nightcap.

Sacrament Is Subject Of Lesson Sermon

"Sacrament" was the subject of the Lesson Sermon which was read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world including First Church of Christ, Scientist, Peterborough, on Sunday.

The Golden Text was "The hour cometh, and now is, when the true worshippers shall worship the Father in spirit and in truth."

Selections from the Bible included the following from John 4:24, God is a Spirit: and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth."

Correlative citations from the text book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," included the following: "We worship spiritually, only as we cease to worship materially. Spiritual devoutness is the soul of Christianity. Worshipping through the medium of matter is paganism. Judaic and other rituals are but types and shadows of true worship. The true worshippers shall worship the Father in spirit and in truth."

Train Engine, Three Cars Derailed At Bridge By Automatic Switch

3 Men In Cab Escape Scalding Steam
Section of Track Torn Up
As Engine And Tender Flop On Side

The CPR Havelock-Bobcaygeon mixed train was derailed at 9:40 a.m. today when it ran into an automatic derailment device, 200 yards east of the swinging bridge over the Trent Canal in Ashburnham. Both the fireman and the engineer received minor cuts but the whole cab crew of three consider themselves fortunate they were not scalded to death by the escaping steam. Somehow the automatic derailer was in operation, unknown to the train crew. Its purpose is to send the train off the track rather than have it plunge into the canal when the railway bridge is being opened to allow boats to pass through.

CPR officials are keeping mum about the details. They would not say whether or not the bridgeman had signalled the train that the derailer was engaged so the bridge could be opened.

Track Torn Up

The coal-burning engine hit the derailer and continued along for a couple of hundred feet before flopping over on its left side on the south bank. A section of track was torn up and the soft bank was chewed for a considerable distance where it was struck by the moving engine.

Fireman B. L. Nichols, Campbellford, received scratches on his side and back. And Engineer Frank McKay, Havelock, had several cuts on his left shin.

Nicholas and a brakeman from Havelock, P. L. Sheridan, leaped from the cab before the locomotive had come to a churning halt. McKay then jumped from the cab momentarily expecting an explosion.

The tender and three freight cars of the mixed freight-passenger train were also derailed.

Wrecking Train

Just how long the line will be blocked is not known at press time. A wrecking train equipped with a crane was said to be on its way from Toronto. Other wrecking equipment is slated to come from Havelock.

"No one can say how long it will take to restore running traffic," said one CPR official. "They'll have to start working on it first."

Fear that an explosion was imminent caused city police to hold back spectators for a time. Clouds of steam were billowing from the damaged boiler.

SMASHING THROUGH the iron guard rail at the Young's Point canal bridge a New York car Saturday afternoon nearly landed in the canal. Three United States tourists were injured in the accident and a fourth was unharmed. LEFT, a close-up of the wrecked 1950-model car and RIGHT, a general layout of the accident. The car broke through the guard rail and landed where a group of spectators are gathered. In the foreground is the canal. The dotted lines shows the car's path to where it landed at X. From there to the lip of the canal was only 15 feet.

Three Hurt As US Car Crashes Rail

2nd American Auto Rolls Over Girl Driver Unhurt

Three United States' tourists are in St. Joseph's Hospital with injuries received Saturday afternoon when their car crashed through the guard rail of the Canal bridge, Young's Point, and dropped 12 feet down the embankment.

The badly-damaged car came within 15 feet of dropping into the canal.

Most seriously injured is 82-year-old Frank Jester, Dallas Texas. He has a fractured right shoulder and other minor injuries. His wife, age 61, and Mrs. Errol Green, Ashville, NY, both received a general shaking up.

A third passenger, Errol Green, owner of the 1950-model car, escaped unhurt.

The trio are reported to have spent a comfortable night in hospital.

Crossed First Bridge

Mr. Jester was driving north on Highway 28 when the accident occurred. He got through the first bridge at Young's Point without difficulty but the car went out of control just as he came to the Canal bridge.

It crashed through the iron guard rail, fell 12 feet down a concret embankment and stopped on its side, 15 feet from the canal. The car was badly damaged.

The two Jesters and Mrs. Green were rushed by ambulance to St. Joseph's.

A large crowd that converged on the scene of the accident temporarily snarled highway traffic. OPP Constable Wallace Mohns investigated.

Car Rolled Over

Another United States' tourist, Miss Lee Willoughby, 21, Maryland, NY, was more fortunate. She overturned her car in the ditch a mile south of Lakefield on Highway 28, Saturday afternoon, but she escaped injury.

Miss Willoughby was driving north to be with her parents at Crow Lake. She lost control of the car as it rounded a curve in the highway and upset in the west ditch.

The vehicle made a complete somersault and came to rest, right side up.

Lindsay Members On Council Want Assessor

LINDSAY, July 9.—The appointment of assessor for Victoria county is being urged by the Lindsay members of the county council.

This promotion of hiring a county assessor began when Town Clerk Allely of Lindsay read a letter stating that the assessment of the town had been raised by $200,000. Mayor Lamb complained by stating that Mariposa, which he called one of the richest townships in the county had only had a $100,000 assessment raise, while Lindsay's raise had been double that amount.

The mayor also suggested that Lindsay should have left its assessment as it was until the outlying county's had raised theirs.

The solution decided upon was that Reeve Butler and Deputy-Reeve Greaves urge the county to hire an assessor to obtain equalization of assessment throughout the county.

Bond Campaign For October

OTTAWA, July 9 —(CP)—A sixth series of Canada Savings Bonds will be launched in October, Finance Minister Abbott announced today. Terms of the new issue will be announced later.

Mr. Abbott said the heavy purchases—totalling $1,700,000 — in the five previous series "would in itself justify the new issue." The issues had encouraged more than 1,000,000 Canadians to save.

He said that personal savings are "doubly important" under present economic conditions and that the widest possible distribution of the bonds "is a necessary objective of national policy."

For this reason, the government plans a strong sales campaign, both in the field of sales to the general public through banks and investment dealers and through the payroll savings scheme.

2 Youngsters Hurt

Two Peterborough children were treated at Civic hospital for injuries received during the weekend. Six-year-old Robert Ross, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Ross, 8 Argyle St., suffered a broken right arm when he fell from the steps of his home while playing. He put out his arm to protect his face as he fell to the sidewalk. Susan Goldie, 20-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Goldie, 131 Montgomery St., was treated for 1st and 2nd degree burns received from spattering hot grease. She was brought to the hospital early Sunday afternoon and received medical attention in the out-patients department. The burns were not serious and she is out playing today.

Tourist Invasion High 2nd Weekend

Peterborough and district's second greatest influx of tourists of the season took place over the past weekend according to figures released at the Junior Chamber of Commerce booth on Charlotte St. today.

A total of 226 people were helped at the booth with 318 inquiries. This number is only 100 less than the peak total of 326 people who sought information during the July 1 holiday weekend.

On Saturday and Sunday 74 people were placed in accommodation in the area.

Bill Duignan, booth operator, said today that housekeeping cottages are still highest in demand in the accommodation list. However he explained that a few cottages have been listed as available.

The influx continued over this morning with 18 people stopping at the booth to make a total of 42 inquiries.

Death Puzzles Kingston Police

KINGSTON, July 9 (CP). — Police puzzled today over the death of Jack Woodrow Johnson, 34, of Hamilton who died Saturday after failing to regain consciousness after he was found lying near the CNR freight sheds last Wednesday.

Dr. G. C. Lindsay, coroner, said an autopsy performed by Dr. W. D. Hay, Queen's University pathologist, disclosed that Johnson died from a brain hemhorrage. Dr. Hay said a large bruised area found at the base of the skull beneath the left ear could have been caused by a fall.

Whether an inquest will be held depends on Crown Attorney T. J. Rigney's examination of Dr. Hay's report.

An army court of inquiry has been ordered to investigate the death.

Johnson who was unmarried, will be buried at Grimsby.

Believe Brent Crater Of Meteoric Origin

BRENT, Ont., July 9 —(CP)—Evidence that a crater recently spotted near here may be of volcanic or meteoritic origin was found by a group of Dominion government experts who ended a week-long study of the area Sunday.

Dr. H. M. A. Rice's finding of rock particles was the first definite clue to the origin of the giant depression four miles north of here. The crater, with a diameter of one and three quarter miles, recently was noticed on an aerial photograph.

If it is found to be meteoritic it will be one of the largest in the world, ranking with the recently-discovered Chubb crater in Ungava.

No final decision can be made until geologists make laboratory tests in Ottawa.

Hint Civil Mobilization

ATHENS, Greece, July 9 — (Reuters) The government today threatened "civil mobilization" to break a strike of 6,000 civil servants, now in its third day. The civil servants walked out Saturday for a 50-per-cent pay increase.

WINS KINSMEN CAR

Ernie Sutherland, 580 Douglas Ave., Saturday night won the 1951 model car at the Kinsmen carnival held at Riverside park. OPP Sgt. Lloyd McClure drew the lucky ticket for Mr. Sutherland. Keith Delahaye, Bethune St., won the fishing rod and reel. Draws were made shortly before midnight while a large crowd looked on. President Harley Weir thanked the local residents for supporting the Kinsmen project. Funds will go toward helping needy children.

$80 IN FINES

Fine amounting to $80 were paid today in police court on charges under the Liquor Control Act. Michael McMahon, Manlece Ave., was charged with consuming liquor illegally, his second offence, and fined $50 with $2.50 costs. Charged with drunkeness over the weekend and fined $10 with $2.50 costs were: Leo Hobbins, 200 Lake St.; George Stevenson, 227 Armour Road; William Traynor, Lakefield Road.

Wm. Primeau Funeral

Funeral of the late William A. Primeau of 34 Cricket Place, who died in an Ottawa hospital last Friday in his 71st year, was held today from the Anglesey Funeral Home to the Church of the Immaculate Conception. Requiem mass was said by the Rev. James Greenan and pall-bearers were Robert, Jack, William and Harry Primeau, all nephews, Frank Butler and George Hildenbrand. Graveside prayers were said by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. F. J. O'Sullivan and burial was at St. Peter's Cemetery.

Easy Does It

MONTREAL — (CP). — The owner of an 18-ton bulldozer was ordered in Quebec Superior Court to pay $345.65 damages when the machine cracked the cement foundation of a house under construction while operating on the property. The owner of the house testified that he had warned the operator of the bulldozer not to come too close to the foundations.

Women Injured In Accidents During Weekend

Two women were hospitalized over the weekend as result of accidents in the city.

Shortly before noon Saturday Mrs. Jack Behan, 12 Stewart St., was rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital after she was knocked down by a car at Olive and Rink Sts. Her condition today was considered "satisfactory". The extent of her injuries is unknown.

Lillian Rice, 24 Bruton St., Port Hope was driving west on Rink St. when the car reached the intersection of Olive and Rink Sts. collided with the woman.

PC Harold Andrew investigated.

Sunday evening Mrs. Minnie Weldy, 132 South Main, Portville New York, was taken to hospital when her car hit the bridge at the canal on Maria St. Her nose was badly cut when she struck the steering wheel.

She had been driving west on the canal bridge and edged close to the right side, the front fender finally colliding with the steelwork. She swung to the left and then back to the right.

PC W. A. Scott investigated.

A second minor accident was reported Saturday at Aylmer and King Sts. Cars, owned by E. J. Bush, 506 Patterson St., and Preston Martin, 696 Monaghan Road, received scrapes. APS Claire McGillen and D. M. Stark investigated.

On Sunday a dog caused a minor accident on George St. at Townsend St. A car, driven by Frank B. Marrs, 4 Bruce St., stopped for a dog crossing the road. A second car, driven by Ian Scott Tollerton, 589 Fagan Ave., stopped behind the Marrs car. A third car, driven by Andrew C. Shedden, collided with the rear of the Tollerton car.

Constables W. A. Scott and Robert Menzies investigated.

Pioneer's Irish Oak Brooch Presented to Actress

The Misses Helen and Ethel Brown, and Mr. Herbert Brown, of Knowlton, PQ, made an interesting presentation to Mrs. Robertson Davies on Saturday evening, July 7, following the final performance of "At My Heart's Core" at Brae Manor Theatre, Knowlton. Grandchildren of Mrs. Frances Stewart, pioneer settler of Douro, and one of the founders of St. John's Church, Peterborough, they gave Mrs. Davies a brooch which Mrs. Stewart brought with her from Ireland when she came to this country in 1822.

Mrs. Davies played the role of Mrs. Frances Stewart in the play, as she did in its first performances in Peterborough during the Centennial celebrations in 1950.

Music Collection

Mr. Brown and the Misses Brown, former residents of Peterborough, are now living in Knowlton, and have an interesting collection of their grandmanuscript music books copied by mother's possessions, including Mrs. Stewart ,then Frances Brown of Dublin, during the period when she studied music with the Italian master, Muzio Clementi; the lessons, in that day, cost five guineas, or approximately twenty-five dollars apiece. Clementi's son, a clergyman of the Anglican Church, later emigrated to Canada to the Peterborough district, and descendants still reside in this city.

The brooch given to Mrs. Davies is of Irish oak, and is beautifully carved with shamrocks.

The Knowlton production of the play brings the number of its performances up to forty. Members of the Peterborough cast who appeared there, in addition to Brenda Davies, were John Primm and Donald Glen, in their original roles of Edmund Cantwell and the Hon. Thomas Alexander Stewart.

Four More Of Gang Arrested In Hamilton

HAMILTON, July 9 (CP) — Four more youths from a downtown gang were taken into custody during the weekend on charges of contributing to the juvenile delinquency of two 14-year-old Welland girls. It raised to nine the number of youths arrested for an incident that allegedly took place on nearby country roads recently.

Three of the four youths taken into custody during the weekend surrendered to police. The four are: John Galivan, 18, George Turnbull, 18, Harvey Brown, 18, and Edward Rankin, 18.

All nine appeared in court today and were remanded until Friday for trial. The others are Wilfred McPhee, 16, Joseph Schimel, 17, James Guiliana, 17, John McDonald, 21, and George Colborne, 16.

G. E. Wilson Funeral

The funeral for George Edward Wilson, Deseronto, Ontario, who died Thursday, was held Saturday at the Hendren funeral home, Lakefield. The Rev. Townsend, Deseronto, conducted the service.

Pall-bearers were Harry, William and Braden Blewett, Rex, Homer and Norman Wilson. Flow- ... Sturgeon.

New Stop Signs For Local Streets

Peterborough's new stop signs —yellow, black and white—are part of the city's effort to keep up with the changing times.

The signs are included in those recommended for continent-wide use by a joint committee of three US traffic organizations. Several are in use now; and it is expected they will eventually replace the black and white signs.

City engineer A. E. Chalmers says he doesn't like them as well as the old black and white ones, but he said that many traffic engineers do prefer them.

The yellow is a shade known as "highway yellow," and the white panel on which the black letters stand is "reflectorized." That means it glows when headlights shine on it.

The alternate choice would have been a simple yellow sign with black letters and a half-inch black border. All yellow on this is reflectorized. The yellow on Mr. Chalmers' choice doesn't glow.

The city engineer remarked that the Department of Highways for Ontario is changing all its road signs to black and white diamond shaped ones. Those recommended by the US group are yellow and black.

Band Program At Park Trombone, Chimes

W. Scott, trombone soloist and H. Barton, chime soloist will be featured in the Salvation Army band concert in King Edward Park, Tuesday evening. This is one of a series sponsored by the Peterborough Recreation Commission.

Mr. Scott will play Priceless Gift and Mr. Barton, In the Garden.

The program will begin with the chime prelude, O God Our Help in Ages Past, and will include the following selections: Golden West March, a classic from the Great Masters No. 1, While the Days are Going By, Dovercourt Citadel March, Wings of Sing, a medley of American melodies, Star Lake March and The Old Rugged Cross.

Youth Shot In Thigh Hunting Groundhogs

Norman Johnston, 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Johnston, 213 Westcott St. was accidentally shot in the thigh near Castleton Sunday.

Johnston was hunting groundhogs on the farm of his grandmother, Mrs. Gertrude Dinngman, Castleton, with another Peterborough youth, Robert Whateley, 15, 231 Westcott St., when the accident happened. Whateley's gun in some manner discharged and the bullet entered Johnston's left thigh.

Prov. Constable Bill Baluk of Cobourg who investigated rushed the injured youth to Peterborough Civic Hospital. His condition was reported today as good.

Indian Hunt

Archaeologists Seek Village On Island

Today a party of six began to dig into Washburn Island at the ... end of Lake Scugog, be... tion of K. E. Kidd, Assistant Keeper of Ethnology at the Museum and Provincial Archaeologist, J. E. Harper of the Museum staff is in charge of the actual field work.

The group is excavating a prehistoric Indian village site which skirts the lower end of Washburn Island, and vases made of pottery and stone and bone artifaxes will be among the relics which the ... will find ... from the Iroquois tribes of which one was the Huron in Simcoe County. A good deal is known about the Iroquois tribes of which one was the Huron in Simcoe County. A good deal is known about the

Earliest Indians

Among the early tribes to come into Ontario were the Mound Builders whose largest work was the Serpent Mound at Rice Lake. They were migratory tribes from the south, probably the Hopewells. The Indians who 2,000-3,000 years ago had a village or succession of villages at the north end of Lake Scugog are thought to be the "Point Peninsula" tribe.

The "Point Peninsula" culture is so named after evidence of it was first discovered at Point Peninsula in New York State. It is a much earlier culture than the Huron or Iroquois cultures about which quite a bit is already known.

P. W. Sweetman of Toronto, a member of the excavating party, commented today to the Examiner that "The history of Ontario before European occupation is involved and can only be unravelled by investigations of this nature. Archaeologists are finding that successive waves of people lived in this province. The latest were tario archaeologists believe, from samples of pottery already obtained on Washburn Island that the Indians who lived there were the earlier Point Peninsula of Woodlands tribes. He said: "Many of their villages have been found in New York State, and others on the French River. The waterways were the great migration routes of the Indian period, and we suspect that the Point Peninsula Indians entered Ontario from the west by way of Lake Superior, Georgian Bay, the French River, Lake Nipissing and finally through the Kawartha Lakes. Eventually they probably crossed over into New York State.

"Such theories of migrations which took place possibly two or three thousand years ago, have not been proved since archaeologists have made little extensive excavations on their villages in Ontario. However, we do know that the Point Peninsula people certainly had contacts as far west as Lake Superior since they used tools made from copper mined on Isle Royale in that lake."

See No Settlement In Airways Strike

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., July 9 (CP).—The strike of 70 employees of Saskatchewan Government Airways today entered its fifth day without any indication of settlement.

The employees' union promised a prepared reply today to a statement by Resources Minister J. H. Brockelbank that pilot Stuart Miller was dismissed because of a poor accident record.

Members of the Canadian Airlines Employees' Union (CCL) went on strike in protest against the dismissal of Miller and the union's immediate reply to Mr. Brockelbank's statement was:

"Either Miller comes back or the strike continues."

Officials of the union, representing 70 pilots, engineers, mechanics and other employees of the airline which flies into the northern bush country, said the strike is 100 per cent effective.

Mission Band Guests WMS

NORWOOD, July 9 (ENS).—The July meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the United church was held in the Sunday school room with the president, Mrs. John Starke, in charge.

Mrs. R. J. Leeper read a letter she had received from the Rev. Lindsay who had addressed the June meeting, stressing her appreciation and thanks.

Mrs. W. G. Barrie took charge of the devotional period, the members of the Mission Band and their leaders, Mrs. A. R. Atkinson and Mrs. W. H. Hudson, were welcomed and entertained at this meeting.

Mrs. W. F. Jenkins read the scripture lesson taken from 18th chapter of St. Luke. Miss Ann LaBresh played a piano solo entitled "Minuet in G" and Miss Shirley Millett sang a solo. Mrs. Max Brown read a story for children entitled "Christian Living in West Africa." Mrs. Barrie led in prayer and Miss Caroline Brown told about Miss Constance Wagar going to Trinidad.

Mrs. Rork Ferguson sang a solo with harp accompaniment, and the children united in singing the chorus.

Miss Sandra Flett gave a reading and Mrs. H. W. Hudson gave an interesting talk on Mission Band work and had members place pictures on the flannelgraph describing a family in Japan. Mrs. W. G. Barrie gave a talk on Trinidad and Mrs. Gideon Brown gave a reading "Trinidad Through the Eyes of a Visitor." Miss Doreen Brown took the 25 members of the Mission Band to the basement where games were played and lunch was served.

In Business Again

MONTREAL, July 9 — (CP) — Idle grain elevators in Montreal harbor got "into harness" again Sunday as several lake freighters, held up by a breakdown of the jack-knife bridge over the Lachine canal at nearby Ville St. Pierre, reached port and began unloading grain cargos. The ships were tied up for an 18-hour period Friday and Saturday.

Lay Rape Charge

TORONTO, July 9 — (CP).—A rape charge was laid Sunday night against two youths accused of attacking a Toronto girl whom they had driven in an automobile to a field south of nearby Agincourt. Arrested by suburban Scarbara Township police and held in Writby Jail were Roy Grandby 21, and Bruce Leech 22.

NEW YORK, July 9 (AP). — Manhattan's Times Square area was a maze of polka dots today—spotted by the scarlet fezzes of thousands of Shriners here for their 77th annual convention. Some 100,000 Shriners and their families are expected to attend the six-day meeting that started Sunday.

Falls To Death

NEW YORK, July 9 (AP). — Mrs. Audrey Barrow Shafter, 45, daughter of Edward Grant Barrow, former president of New York Yankees baseball team, plunged 11 stories to her death early today, police said. Authorities said she fell or jumped from her apartment.

$15,000 Blaze

KITCHENER, July 9—(CP)—Three sheds and two new tractors were destroyed by fire Sunday at a tile yard near here. Loss was estimated at $15,000. Firemen said heat that built up in the plant when a heat distribution fan was cut off during a power interruption caused the blaze. The fire was at St. Clements eight miles northwest of here.

COMMUNIST DEMONSTRATOR—Police haul off a Communist demonstrator who tried to interrupt ceremonies in London Wednesday honoring American Independence Day. The demonstrators failed to interfere with presentation to St. Paul's Cathedral by Gen. Eisenhower of a roll call listing the names of American servicemen who died in Britain during the last war.

Ruhr Making Strong Bid To Retake Industrial Lead

DUSSELDORF, July 9—(CP)—Germany's Ruhr is bidding strongly to recapture its old position as Europe's No. 1 industrial workshop.

This vital territory already has out-distanced France in many lines of production. Its products are flowing in a growing volume to markets in the Americas, Asia, Africa and Western Europe.

In 1945 most of its steel furnaces were cold, mines were unmanned, chemical plants idle and its transport system ruined. Now the Ruhr produces 135 per cent of its pre-war level (1936). Overall industrial output spurted 36 per cent. during the last 12 months.

The Ruhr still lags far behind Britain and in the world picture the Soviet Union is ahead of both Britain and Germany.

Illustrative of the Ruhr's recovery are comparative annual production figures for West Germany, Britain and France in three of the sinews of modern power—coal, steel, electricity.

American officials estimate these as:

Steel: West Germany, 12,121,000 tons, Britain 16,524,000 tons and France 10,548,000 tons (including the Saar).

Coal: West Germany 110,748,000 tons, Britain 219,480,000 tons and France (including the Saar) 65,832,000.

Electric power: West Germany 43,920,000,000 kilowatt hrs., Britain 55,020,000,000 and France 31,440,000,000.

Economic co-operation administration officials say Britain is producing at 144 per cent and France at 123 per cent of their 1938 level compared with west Germany's 135 per cent of its 1936 output.

Keeping the Ruhr in the Western economic community is a keystone of Allied policy.

The stamina of German workers, the skill of their Ruhr engineers and managers, material aid from the United States and a 48-hour week were big factors in West Germany's recovery.

Ruhr leaders say the only real brake on greater production is the dearth of basic raw materials.

Marmora LOL Attend Church

MARMORA, July 9—(ENS)—The annual church parade of Marmora LOL 319 held Sunday evening to St. Paul's Anglican church was the largest seen in years. In addition to Harmony LOBA 600 and Marmora's two juvenile lodges No. 34 (boys) and No. 39 (girls) participating, sisters and brethren attended form neighboring lodges to swell the number on parade to more than 100. Led by the Spencer Kiltie Band principal streets were paraded en route from the Orange hall to the church and vice versa.

Before a large congregation which taxed seating accommodation Canon J. M. Brownlie delivered an address on the text, "Look unto the rock when ye are hewn". The scripture less was read by Past County Master W. J. Cottrell. As the anthem, the choir sang "My Own Dear Land."

Upon return to the hall short addresses were given by Canon J. M. Brownlie and representa- grand master of Ontario East, Right Wor. Bro. Fred Bateman.

Peiping Announces Cease-Fire Parley

LONDON, July 9—(Reuters)—Peiping radio made Sunday's Korean cease-fire talks the main item of its English-language broadcast heard here today.

It quoted a New China (Communist) news agency message from Yyongyang which said briefly that a preliminary meeting had been held with "United Nations liaison officers."

Peiping radio does not usually refer to "United Nations troops". It usually calls them the "American-British aggressors."

The message also said that armistice talks will begin tomorrow.

Reuters News Agency To Celebrate 100th Birthday On July 11

By FRASER WIGHTON

LONDON, July 9—(Reuters)—One hundred years of news gathering will be celebrated when Reuters, the world news agency, reaches its centenary in London July 11.

In 10 years it has grown from a tiny London office to one of the the biggest international organiztions of its kind.

Its communications girdle the earth, serving thousands of newspapers and numerous broadcasting networks over the five continents. Its full-time world staff numbers more than 2,000.

Reuters' century will be celebrated at a banquet attended by 1,000 newspaper proprietors, publishers and editors, diplomats and other public figures from Canada, Britain, the United States and around the free world.

Kent Cooper, executive director of The Associated Press, who has described Reuters as "that greatest of international news agencies," will propose the 100th birthday toast.

Prime Minister Clement Attlee will respond to the toast to Reuters' guests, proposed by Sir Christopher Chancellor, general manager of Reuters, who was recently knighted by the King.

Now owned by the newspapers of Britain, Australia, New Zealand and India, the Reuater agency's ideal still is honest, impartial reporting. The deed constituting the trust provides that integrity, independence and freedom from bias shall be preserved at all times, and that it shall never pass into the hands of any single interest, group or faction.

In the early days, Reuters founded by German-born Paul Julius Reuter relied on the mail to link up with existing communications. But the carrier pigion —used by Reuters in emergency as recently as the last war — the steam packet and the hansom cab were all brought into use.

Mission Makes Proposals For Guatemala

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

The reports of the international bank for reconstruction and development frequently give the reader the flavor of travel in far countries.

The reports tell of the bank's missions to this land or that, of the loans it makes, and why. They tell, most of the time, of peoples in need of a better way of life—a way which generally seems possible if improved use is made of their resources.

The most recent of such reports is from a mission to Guatemala, Central American country of lowlands, mountains and plateaus, which reaches from the Caribbean Sea to the Pacific Ocean. It is about the size of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick combined, but has nearly three times as many people, more than half of them Indian.

The mission was headed by Dr. George E. Britnell, head of the department of economics and political science at the University of Saskatchewan, who went to Guatemala in June of last year under the sponsorship of the bank in collaboration with the Guatemalan government.

Would Expand Agriculture

The mission's report, as summarized by the bank, recommends expansion of agriculture, particularly in coffee and low-cost food crops; development of transportation, particularly of highways; and says these would lay the foundation for gradual diversification of the economy and increased manufacturing.

The mission proposes opening up the Pacific coastal plain to mechanized agriculture in order to increase production of basic foodstuffs, such as corn, beans, rice and meat. First, however, the malarial mosquito must be combatted.

To provide finances, the mission recommends an all-out effort to increase coffee production, the country's most important export.

Highway Program

In recommending a highway program, the mission comments that completion of the Pan-American highway would be of particular benefit to Guatemala, as it would promote international commerce with Mexico and El Salvador and other Central American republics, and open the country to tourist trade from Canada and the United States.

The mission proposes, above the present level of expenditures, a maximum investment program over the next six years of the equivalent of $60,000,000, on the assumption that the equivalent of $20,000,000 will be invested from abroad.

Dr. Britnell, the mission's head, was born in Macrorie, Sask., educated at the University of Toronto, where he took his Ph.D. in 1938. He has been with the University of Saskatchewan since. He was economic adviser to the Saskatchewan Royal Commission on the Saskatchewan coal mining industry, 1941, and was an advisor to the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Pearson-Leonard Nuptials

In a double-ring ceremony at Immaculate Conception Roman Catholic Church, Saturday, Alice Anne Leonard, daughter of Mrs. Leona Leonard and the late Daniel Leonard, became the bride of William Samuel Pearson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Pearson.

The Rev. J. Greenan officiated with Peter and Tom Pearson, the groom's brothers, serving him. The church was decorated with larkspur and delphinium. Music was played by Miss Rose Mary De Noble and during the signing of the register Mr. Anthony De Noble sang "On This Day."

The bride, given in mariage by her brother Mr. Romeo Leonard, wore a gown of ivory satin fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and a front panel of lace over the satin. She wore a fingertip veil of nylon net with lace edge, caught to a tiara of lace with seeded pearls, and her cascade bouquet was a lilies, stephanatis and fern.

Miss Mary-Ann Leonard of Lakefield, niece of the bride, was her only attendant, beautifully attired in orchid sheer over taffeta with matching headdress and gloves. She carried a nosegay of garden flowers.

The groom was attended by his brother, Jack Pearson. Ushers were John Conlin and Joseph Hickson.

The reception was held at the Colonial Room with tables decorated with garden flowers and silver wish bones.

Receiving with the bridal party the bride's mother wore a dress of mauve triple sheer and a cartwheel hat of black bengaline and black accessories and her corsage was of pink carnations. The groom's mother, also receiving, wore a dress of beige shan-fur with natural panama straw hat and natural accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

When leaving later for a motor trip to eastern Canada and United States, the bride wore a white nylon dress with blue and pink figures and white accessories. She wore a corsage of pink carnations.

On return they will live at 390 Parkhill Rd.

Former German War Prisoner Would Like Job

WINNIPEG —(CP)— A former German prisoner of war who figured in Manitoba's greatest wartime manhunt, has written a Winnipeg newspaper asking for a job in the province.

Karl Keller of Gottingen Land, Germany, one of 19 prisoners of war who escaped from a prison camp at Clear Lake in Riding Mountain National Park in October, 1943, said in his letter he was the instigator of the break for freedom.

The disappearance of the men was noticed after a routine camp check. All RCMP personnel in northwestern Manitoba were thrown into the search and trained police dogs were brought into the hunt.

A blizzard blew up and two days after the break the scantily-clad men straggled back to camp.

In his letter Keller contradicts a government statement which said no prison break was planned or carried out by the prisoners.

The statement had said the men were within the prescribed boundaries but had become confused and lost their way when the blizzard struck.

Keller, who was a member of the German Wehrmacht, said he was the leader of the plot and "we marked our way with paper—just in case we would want to return."

Lost Confidence

He described the slow, tortuous going over a country alien to them. The prisoners lost confidence in their chances for success when they realized how ill-equipped they were to make their way over a strange hostile country.

He said the prisoners had split up into small groups but "following the law of self-preservation we tried not to lose sight of each other in the blizzard."

Keller said the group huddled together for warmth, anxious only to return to camp. They tried to light a fire to attract attention. One of the men had a bugle but repeated calls failed to attract attention of searchers.

Finally, after two days and two nights of freedom, they saw the camp enclosures, he said.

Notwithstanding his unhappy experiences here Keller is anxious to return—as an immigrant.

He is 39 years old and a research worker. He said he is skilled in the breeding of laboratory animals, and is anxious to obtain a position dealing with medical research.

Harold Moncrief Marries Barbara Simnett, Lindsay

The marriage was solemnized Saturday afternoon at four o'clock in Lindsay, at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, of Barbara Simnett and Mr. Harold Sidney Moncrief. The groom is son of Mrs. Moncrief and the late Sidney Earl Moncrief, Peterborough, and his bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Simnett of Lindsay.

Baskets of pink carnations and white delphinium banked the altar and the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Donald McQueen, minister. Music was played by Mr. Robert Cutt and during signing of the register the bride's younger sister, Miss Jacqueline Simnett, sang "Because."

The bridal gown was a strapless model with bodice of white French lace and tiered skirt of net cut on the bias and she wore a jacket of the same lace which had dolman sleeves coming to points at the wrists. Her veil was fingertip length and caught to her headdress of lace and net with clusters of orange blossoms. She carried a cascade of pink roses and white stephanotis.

Bridal attendants were Miss Beulah Blackmore of Peterborough, maid of honor, Miss Betty Ann Simnett, and Miss Hazel Moncrief, sisters of the bride and groom, junior bridesmaids, and flower girl was the groom's cousin, Gwenyth Hancock. Mr. Simnett gave his daughter in marriage.

The maid of honor wore a dress with a jacket of yellow taffeta with overskirt of appliqued net and a matching picture hat of yellow net and she carried a cascade bouquet of lavender gladioli. The junior bridesmaids were identically frocked in pink and blue net with insets of French lace in the skirts and they wore matching sweetheart hats of net and carried oldfashioned nosegays of pink carnations and white sweet peas. The flower girl had a pale green taffeta frock and wore a matching taffeta sweetheart bonnet. She carried a basket of mixed seasonal flowers, this basket being the one carried by her mother when she was flower girl at the wedding of the groom's mother.

Brothers of the groom assisting were Mr. John Moncrief as groomsman and Gordon Moncrief as usher with Glenn Tate.

The reception following was in the Benson Hotel, Lindsay. The bride's mother received in a powder blue crepe gown and hat of navy milan straw and she wore navy accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. The groom's mother, who also received, was attired in navy sheer and wore a navy picture hat and navy accessories and corsage of Talisman roses.

Leaving later for a honeymoon in the Laurentians the bride was wearing a lavender shantung dress and white accessories and carrying a white flannel shortie coat. Her corsage was an orchid.

Mr. and Mrs. Moncrief will live at 479 Sherbrooke St.

Betty Mather In Satin Gown Is Bride Of Douglas Harris

Nuptial vows pledged Saturday afternoon in George St. United Church united Betty Marion Mather, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry P. Mather, and Mr. Arthur Douglas Harris, son of Mrs. Harris and the late Sanford Harris, all of Peterborough.

Blue and white delphinium made a lovely setting for the ceremony which was performed by the Rev. Arnold A. Mathews. Traditional wedding music was played by Mr. Charles Allen, organist, and during signing of the register Miss Mary MacFarlane sang "I'll walk beside you."

The bride chose a gown of chalk white slipper satin with long cathedral train. It was fashioned with a closely moulded bodice finished with a tiny Peter Pan collar and long tight fitting sleeves with points over the hands. A stiffened, ruffled peplum was outlined with Cluny lace. Her full length veil of silk embroidered English tulle was caught to a tiny bonnet-shaped halo of matching satin and lace, and she carried a cascade of American Beauty roses and stepphanotis.

Mr. Mather gave his daughter in marriage and her attendants were Mrs. James Grant of Kingston, matron of honor, Miss Olive Mather, bridesmaid, and tiny Judy Grant as flower girl.

The matron of honor and bridesmaid were in similar frocks of net over taffeta in Bermuda pink and sunny gld, made with bouffant skirts and tightly moulded bodice topepd with quaint capes. Their headdresses were tiny bands of matching material with a single rose on one side, and they carried nosegays of roses and gladioli. The flower girl was adorable in a floor length frock of powder blue taffeta with full tucked overskirt of fine pale pink silk tulle. She carried a tiny nosegay of summer flowers and wore a tafeta headband with clusters of mixed flowers at each side.

Groomsman was Mr. Harry Wooden and the ushers were Lloyd Starke and Dave Gracie.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Mather wore a gown of French lilac silk sheer with a hat of matching shade milan braid and her corsage was of small pink rosebuds. The groom's mother was gowned in rose crepe with appliqued pockets of lace cut work and wore a white summer straw hat with touches of black velvet and a corsage of roses.

Folowing the reception in the church parlors the couple left on a wedding trip to the east coast. oFr travelling the bride wore a suit of powder blue gabardine, a tiny cloche hat of white and white accessories. Her going-away corsage was of American Beauty rosebuds.

Mr. and Mrs. Harris will live at 704 George St.

DOROTHY DIX

Young Widow Finds Choice Of Beaux Most Complicated

DEAR MISS DIX: I find myself in a most unhappy situation and I am asking you for counsel. I am a young widow with a child, and I have managed to make myself fairly secure in the business world. I had been keeping company with a man who has also been fairly successful financially. We both appreciate the nicer things in life, such as entertainment, clothes, hobbies, etc. Our families are not the type that would get along together and we are of different religious beliefs.

My friend does not dislike my child, but has never shown signs of affection towards her. He assures me that the differences in religion and family background are of no consequence in our case and that he loves me for myself alone. I believed I loved him, but hesitated over marriage, afraid it might not be a success. We quarreled over my indecision and parted.

Dorothy Dix

Since then, I have met another man who has asked me to marry him. He is charming to my baby, our families get along well together and he is more settled in his ways. I think he would be a fine foster father to my child. In the meantime I have occasionally met my former boy friend and he has called me, asking me to forget our quarrel and go back together again. I believe I still love him, but am assailed with doubt as to whether or not I should accept the man who likes my child and seems a better matrimonial prospect, or go back to the one I love. L. P.

ANSWER: With so many doubts in the atmosphere, I don't think either suitor is the man for you. I could certainly never advise you, or anyone else, to marry a man you don't love—which would seem to eliminate suitor No. 2.

And for any young mother with a child to contemplate marriage to a man who is not wholeheartedly fond of her baby is to lay the groundwork for a miserable future. This point alone would make me very wary of suitor No. 1, and in conjunction with all the other vital matters on which you don't agree makes him indeed a poor prospect as a husband for you. At this point either marriage would be disastrous, and you'd be better off continuing as you are, making your own way, supporting your child and being answerable to no one.

Your love for the first young man doesn't seem too strong; perhaps if you were not seeing him and had him discontinue his phone calls, you might develop a stronger attachment to your second beau. Don't rush into either marriage and perhaps time will resolve the question for you.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: What can a wife do with a husband who swears and throws things and breaks up the furniture if anything goes wrong in the home or he has had a bad day at the factory? For twelve years I have been trying to solve the riddle I am married to and find out what makes him act the way he does; whether he doesn't like me, or doesn't like marriage, or what's the matter. When we are at home alone at night he never speaks to me. When his friends come to dinner he spends the evening making fun of me, deriding my figure, my walk and how much money I spend. It is hard to keep the tears back and put on a front, and I feel I cannot do it much longer. I would rather go and make my own living than to stand what I do. ANNE

ANSWER: Many husbands use their wives as escape valves for all the bottled-up temper and nerves and irritability that they dare not show the outside world. Many a man takes his revenge at the way the world treats him by mistreating his wife, and many a man inflates his own ego by deriding and ridiculing his wife before people and showing how superior he is to her. So because your husband treats you the way he does is no sign that he regrets being married to you or wants to get rid of you. Probably, on the contrary, he finds you necessary to his comfort and happiness, because you not only make him a comfortable home, but you afford him an outlet for his spleen.

But perhaps your husband would find more interest in a wife who would fight back instead of taking his ill treatment. You might try it and see.

DEAR MISS DIX: I have known this boy for four years and in that time he has shown signs of being in love with me. However, I do not return that love. At present he is in the service and on his last leave we had a misunderstanding. I am wondering whether I should write first or wait for him to take the first step.

CHARLOTTE

ANSWER: Since you say he has shown "signs of being in love," you do have some doubt about it. If his feeling for you is friendly, it would be a nice gesture on your part to write a note and try to clear up the misunderstanding. Let it be clear, though, that you want to be friends with him and nothing else. If, however, you really feel that he is in love with you, it would be kinder to let the matter drop, rather than incite hope that you may return his love.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Meatless Main Dishes Can Help Balance the Budget

Let it not be said that Mary More was asked and did not give.

Etta D. says please keep on with the meatless main dishes, and I do it gladly for I need some new ones in my own repertory—for I foolishly spent $1.75 in riotous living (in other words—steak for four people!) and now we are on the cheese and egg routine. I hasten to add that the steak was delicious and I can flex a mean muscle this morning, but I fear I am delaying that alleged housewives' revolt by buying the controversial beef.

Party Rice

This is that starred item to go on your vegetable plates when you have an important vegetable such as new green peas or the first green beans or new corn of the season to accompany it.

Prepare rice by washing 1 cup of it—brown or white—in a sieve under running cold water until no cloudiness can be seen in the water while stirring. Boil hard until rice is tender. Drain and pour boiling water through it to separate the kernels. Stir into it 2 well-beaten eggs, 1 cup milk, ¼ cup butter, ¼ to ½ cup old grated cheese, 1 teaspoon grated onion, ½ cup finely chopped parsley, 2/3 cup minced uncooked spinach, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1¼ teaspoons salt. Pour into buttered casserole and bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for 45 minutes.

Noodles with Almonds

Do not be timid about this—it calls for poppy seeds too and is a delicious dish that men enjoy.

In a heavy frying pan melt 1 tablespoon butter and let it become just slightly golden. Add ½ cup blanched coarsely chopped almonds, an dstir until heated then add another 2 tablespoons butter, drained hot boiled noodles (from a 5 or 6-oz. package when uncooked), and 2 teaspoons whole poppy seeds. Heat through, stirring gently, then serve on hot platter garnished with big bunches of parsley.

Cheese Fondue (a simplified souffle)

In a frying-pan melt 2 tablespoons butter then add 5 slices white bread which have been cut into ½-inch cubes. Stir until lightly browned, then turn into greased casserole. Cover with ¼ pound shredded old cheese. Pour over this a mixture of 1 large or 2 small eggs, beaten with 1 cup milk, ½ teaspoon salt, 1/16 teaspoon pepper, and ⅛ or ¼ teaspoon dry mustard. Sprinkle top generously with paprika. Stand baking dish in large pan containing hot water and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 40 minutes. Lovely with bright-green-quick-cooked spinach or broccoli.

Kidney Bean Rarebit

Have top of double boiler over boiling water and melt in it one-half pound diced mild or medium-old cheese. Add 1 No. 2 can red kidney beans and their liquid and B cup diced green pepper. Heat through to make peppers crispy tender. Serve on crisp oven toast or crackers.

GOOD FASHION

From any point of view this is good. Hip pockets give both front and back interest, skirt has graceful pleats. And that deep collared neckline can have a suncutout at back or not as you like.

Pattern 9113 comes in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20. Size 16 takes 5⅛ yards 35-inch fabric.

This easy-to-use pattern gives perfect fit. Complete, illustrated Sew Chart shows you every step.

Fashion Vignettes

By Evelyn Kelly Croucher

ARTICLE 7

Lady Fashion is a whimsical but lovely weathervane. An influence here, an impression there and a new style is created or a color popularized. Business in fashion centres dropped during the Kefauver hearings due to television holding spectators spellbound all over the continent. As they said in New York, business was "Kefauvered."

But a new and strictly glamor-influence was making itself felt in Broadway's smash hit, "The King and I," based on Margaret Landon's true story, "Anna and the King of Siam." The talk in fashion's creative circles, inspired by the play, is exciting and prophetic, and you may well expect to see the Siamese influence in every high-fashion field this fall, in textiles, millinery, jewelry, evening frocks, blouses and in hostess wear.

The characteristic drape of the Siamese skirt, for example, could replace this spring's favorite sheath frock. This Siamese skirt called the panang, is straight cut, draped very softly, asymetrically at either side.

There's the narrow Siamese coat, side-slitted, worn over an embroidered petticoat, a national style, which offers lovely possibilities for fall evening wear and hostess ensembles. Another adaptation in at-home wear could stem from another national Siamese costume, the red tunic, green-sashed, worn over red and green striped full trousers.

The typical Siamese headdress is made of bamboo pieces fastened together with cloth to form a rather wide, high, head-hugging turban. This could well usher in a vogue for high, largish turbans, intricately draped of velvets or lames.

Heavily embroidered and jewelled collars may set the pace for replicas in costume jewelry to show off a plain, simple frock. Already the costume jewelry designers have produced a charming lapel ornament, a gilded replica of the ceremonial umbrella used on the car fender to designate royalty. Another novel and interesting accessory touch is a large pendant which has a matching belt buckle. Throughout the resplendent in jewel studdings. It's a panoramic parade of glitter and splendor which suggests an entirely fresh approach to fashion. Fun to re-read Margaret Landon's book and watch for signs of Siam!

ONLY TONI GUARANTEES
a wave that feels_looks and acts like
NATURALLY CURLY HAIR!

WHICH GIRL HAS THE NATURAL CURL AND WHICH GIRL HAS THE TONI?
Eloise Sahlen and Susie Parker, two of New York's loveliest girls. The Toni girl says, "my wave is as soft as silk and it takes no more care than naturally curly hair": Can you tell the naturally curly hair from the Toni wave? See answer below.

FEELS SO-O-O SOFT!
And that softness starts right from the scalp . . . goes right to the tips of the hair. With a Toni there's no brittleness . . . no frizziness . . . even from the very first day!

IT'S HERE

PERMAFIX—Toni's New Wonder Neutralizer Makes a Toni Wave Superior to any other wave you've ever had!

LOOKS SO-O-O LOVELY!

There's gleaming life in every flowing Toni wave. So natural looking that even professional hairdressers often cannot tell the difference.

ACTS SO-O-O NATURAL!
Rain or shine . . . shower or shampoo, you need never think about your Toni waved hair . . . it needs no more care than naturally curly hair.

Toni's PERMAFIX Neutralizer is a newly discovered formula, safer and yet more effective. No other Home Permanent has PERMAFIX. That's why no other Home Permanent can guarantee the completely natural wave that is always yours with a Toni. Yes, you'll find your new Toni—with new PERMAFIX Neutralizer—softer, lovelier, longer lasting than any other wave you've ever had! Beautiful Eloise Sahlen, the girl on the left, has the Toni.

OBITUARIES

MISS LAURA J. DAVIDSON

A lifetime resident of the Peterborough district Miss Laura Jane Davidson, 563 Park St. N., died at her home Sunday after a short illness.

Miss Davidson's grandfather was James Davidson who settled on the 1st line of Smith township in 1830 after emigrating from Inverness, Scotland. He was one of the township's pioneers.

Miss Davidson was born in North Monaghan township, daughter of the late James Davidson and Mary Ann Shannon. She was educated there and later moved to Peterborough.

She leaves a sister, Mary Ethel Davidson, Peterborough; a brother, James Herman Davidson, Montreal; and a nephew, the Rev. James E. Harvey, Whitby. A sister, Mrs. J. H. Harvey died in 1918.

For many years Miss Davidson was a clerk in the old Turnbull department store, now on the site occupied by Zeller's. She retired in 1929.

Miss Davidson was a member of St. Andrew's United church, and was active in the Elizabeth Bell auxiliary of the Mission Society, and in the Bible Class.

The body will be at the Park St. residence until 11 a.m. Tuesday. The funeral service will be in the Comstock funeral home, Tuesday, 3 p.m., the Rev. Dr. Bruce Gordon, Trinity United church, officiating. Burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.

MRS. F. B. BENZINGER

Mrs. Frederick B. Benzinger, 97, 74 Hunter St. E., died at her residence Saturday.

The former Emma Caroline Byers, she was born and educated in Germany and has lived in Peterborough 10 years coming here from the Muskoka district. She was a member of the Presbyterian Church.

She leaves one daughter, Mrs. Alice Burke, Miami, Florida and two grandchildren, Mrs. Ruby Gilpen, Toronto and Mrs. M. Clancey, Hamilton.

The funeral will be held from the Kaye Funeral Home Monday at 3 p.m. to Prospect cemetery, Toronto. The Rev. H. Kaye of Lakefield will conduct the service.

Dollar Down

MONTREAL, July 9 — (CP) — The American dollar today opened at 6 1/16 per cent premium to the Canadian dollar, down ⅛ from Friday's close. That is, it took $1.06 1/16 Canadian to buy $1 American.

The pound sterling was $2.97, down 5/16 from Friday.

2 Youths, Truck Found In Quebec

CORNWALL, July 9 (CP) — Police here said today that a truck-load of furniture and its two youthful passengers missing since Sunday have been found in Sherbrooke, Que.

Reports that the truck, Donald Madott, 17, of Toronto and Nelson Beaudin, 19, of Sherbrooke had disappeared came from John McLaughlin, 33, of Toronto.

Police said McLaughlin, who had been hauling the furniture from Montreal, wandered into a service station in nearby Aultsville early yesterday with a bump on his head and suffering from amnesia.

The truck is reported intact and headed back to its Toronto destination. The youths will be detained at Cornwall for questioning, police said, but declined further comment.

Hales Family Hold Reunion

Annual reunion of the Hales family was held Saturday afternoon at Jackson's Park. Attendants were the descendants of William Hales and Jane Walton who came from County Cavan, Ireland, in 1818 and settled in Hastings County. There were 78 present.

An interesting sidelight was the display of a velvet table cover embroidered by the couple's eldest daughter who was born on the ocean trip from Ireland. This table cover is now the property of her niece, Mrs. Ida Bonham of Tory Hill.

A dinner and supper were served by the ladies.

Results of races run off for the children were:

Two years and under—Teddy Garside, Carole Johnston, Donna Howe.

Eight and under—Glenda Garside, Iris Bonham.

Boys under 5—Bobby Hamilton, Gregory Cameron; boys 9 to 11—Bob Hales, Danny Hamilton, Wayne Browne; ladies' race—Edna Bonham, Elma Browne, Marjory Hamilton; men's race—Alex Bowers, Hugh Munroe; needle and thread race—Mrs. R. Tucker and Mrs. E. Watson and Mrs. W. Lean and Mrs. E. Hales tied, Lois Williams and Mr. Johnston.

A prize given to the oldest lady present went to Mrs. Jessie Lansing and to the oldest man, Arnold Prest.

Those attending were:

Mrs. Jessie Lansing, Mrs. Mellville Moore of Bancroft; Mr. and Mrs. Bert Northey, Cameron; Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Munroe, Ft. William; Hugh R. Munroe, Ottawa; Mrs. M. Garside, Donna, Glenda, Beverley and Teddy, Ajax; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Johnston, Yvonne and Carole, Queensville; Mrs. M. Hamilton, Danny and Bobby; Mrs. A. Sharp Earthquake Recorded At New York

NEW YORK, July 9 —(AP)— Fordham University's seismograph Sunday night recorded a fairly sharp earthquake about 2,100 miles southwest of here.

The first tremor was felt at 8:10.45 p.m. EDT and the second at 8:15.56 p.m.

The university located the earthquake about 1,900 miles southwest of Cleveland, O. That would place the quake in West Guatemala, the school said.

The quake was "unusually deep" and could have caused considerable damage, the report added.

De Laval Employees Hold Picnic in Nicholls Oval

Blue skies and sunshine welcomed the throng of families who crowded Nicholls Oval Saturday afternoon for the annual De Laval picnic.

Races and contests were run for the young and old. The kiddies quickly located the booths dispensing ice cream cones, soft drinks and chocolate bars, and the strips of tickets provided for these gradually vanished. The pony arena was also a source of delight.

Immediately following the supper hour presentations were made by the company vice-president and general manager, C. L. Uper. Ambrose A. Blodgett received a handsome silver tray, emblematic of his initiation into the Silver Circle Club representing 25 years of continuous service with the company. Each lady present received a set of mixing bowls and the gentlemen smart neckwear.

The special registration prize of a Kenwood blanket was won by Keith Wilson and the four lucky prizes of $5 each for the attendance draw went to F. Allen, B. Pitchford, H. Foster and J. Hopkins.

A. Hodgin was the lucky winner of the major draw for a lady's bicycle, with consolation prizes of $10 each going to G. Carey, L. Pratt and F. Rady.

Awards for the largest family on the grounds went to Mrs. B. Woodcock, and for the couple present longest married to Mr. and Mrs. J. Ashmore and the one for the youngest child in attendance was received by Roy Hadwyn.

In the evening there was a variety program.

Successful contestants in the long list of sporting events were:

Chinatown Holds Lively "Lion Parade"

MONTREAL, July 9 (CP). — A "lion parade" to the staccato explosions of fireworks and the syncopation of drums and cymbals, Sunday highlighted the 12th annual convention of the Chinese Nationalist League in Montreal's Chinatown.

Strings of money and lettuce, hung from windows along the Lion's route on Clarke, Lagauchetiere, and St. Urbain Streets were "eaten" by the prancing effigy to symbolize strength and support for the league.

The delegates, representing the 6,000 members of the Chinese Nationalist League of Canada, spent today in policy deliberations at Nationalist headquarters.

See Fox, Guest In Big Struggle For Future Title

LONDON, July 9—(CP)—The Times says today in a sports-page story that the result of the 1951 diamond sculls paves the way for a "terrific struggle" in the future between the new champion, Britain's Tony Fox, and Canada's Jack Guest, Jr.

Fox, a 21-year-old Cambridge medical student who taught himself to row because he couldn't afford a coach, won the diamonds at Henley-on-Thames Saturday against Denmark's Erik Larsen, who had previously eliminated the 18-year-old Guest.

In Saturday's final, Fox hit the booms shortly after the start and Larsen built up an apparently unassailable lead of three lengths, which he held to the mile mark. Then Fox turned on the heat. Larsen, apparently "rowed out," partially lost control of his craft and Fox skimmed ahead to win 4½ lengths.

"One-hundred yards from the post Larsen was completely rowed out and it was only with difficulty that he was able to stagger home," writes a Times Special Correspondent. "The result opens up a prospect of a terrific struggle in the future between Fox and the young Canadian, J. Guest, and given the weather, an eight-minute diamonds."

The record for the diamonds is eight minutes and two seconds, established by Philadelphia's Joe Burke in 1936. The reference to the possibility of an eight-minute diamonds is encouraged by the fact that Guest, rowing his first big race in senior company, lost at Henley by only six feet in the extremely fast time of eight minutes and 10 second.

Mrs. T. Perdue Buried Downeyville Cemetery

DOWNEYVILLE, July 9 (ENS) —The funeral of the late Mrs. T. J. Perdue was held from the Burrows funeral home, Lindsay, on Friday, to St. Mary's Church, Lindsay, where requiem high mass was said by the Rev. F. Kay at 9 am. The funeral was largely attended by relatives from Detroit, Mich., Toronto, Peterborough, Ennismore, Lindsay, and Downeyville. The pallbearers were six nephews of the deceased, Messrs. Aubrey, Vincent and Harold Crowley from Peterborough, John Mark and Albert Crowley from Lindsay.

Mrs. Perdue, born Brigid Crowley in Emily township, was the daughter of the late William Crowley and Catherine Flynn. She was in her 75th year and lived here until her marriage. She resided in Detroit, Mich., until a few years ago when she and her husband moved to Lindsay a few days before her death in St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough.

She is survived by her husband, T. J. Perdue, two sisters, Mrs. Dan Haskins (Katharine) of Rochester, NY, Mrs. D. J. Winn (Lucy) of Toronto, two brothers, Frank Crowley, of Detroit, Mich., and David Crowley, of Lindsay; also a nephew, Roy Crowley, of Detroit, Mich.

Msgr. J. V. McCauley, of Lindsay, assisted by the Rev. V. G. McFadden, said the prayers at the cemetery. Burial was in the family plot in St. Luke's cemetery, Downeyville.

UE Soccer Club Wins 2-1 Over Hamilton

In a closely contested soccer exhibition game in Hamilton on Saturday, Peterborough UEW won 2-1 over Hamilton UE to maintain their unbeaten string this season. The first half was quite even with play going from end to end fast and each goal in turn being threatened. After he had just missed on a couple of tries, Strong received a fine long through pass from A. Smith and, shaking off two challengers, he went in to drive home a low shot into the rigging. Jones was then tested as Hamilton fought back and, finally, the centre- forward scored as he converted the winger's centre It was 1-1 at the half.

Again i. s tight soccer in the second hali, both sides playing it fast and clean. With 15 minutes gone, Featherstone went in on the left and was brought down from behind in the penalty area. From the resulting spot kick, Craig put the visitors ahead. Hamilton pressed hard and Jones saved from the left and Craig blocked a shot on the open net. Some faulty finishing spoiled good scoring chances. Strong almost beat the Hamilton goalie, who made a grand save. The Peterborough players were: Jones, Allen, Mundy, Cotton, Craig, G. Smith Holroyd, Robertson, Strong, A. Smith, Featherstone, and alternates Ward, Davies, Holt and Jensen.

3 Sisters Own Race Track

MONTREAL—(CP)—Three sisters are the big powers behind racing in Montreal and they say they have as their object the improvement of racing in Quebec.

The women are Mrs. Jeanne Seremba, Mrs. P. Yvon and Mrs. Lucien Chartrand.

"We want to improve the quality of racing here and to make our track really modern," they declare.

The result is that gradually Old Blue Bonnets is having its face lifted and is being generally improved. It's part of the sisters' five year plan to bring their track up to the pitch they think proper.

Last year the sisters established an electric tote board. This year they are building new barns so that at least 100 horses can be quartered here.

The sisters inherited the track on the death of their father, Joseph Cattarinich. Native Montrealers, they have refused large offers for it.

Said Mrs. Seremba, "We have been with racing ever since we were little. We wouldn't be happy away from it."

When the 42-day season closes in Montreal she goes to Toronto to follow races there and off to Florida for the winter for the same reason.

GOLF GALLERY—Good weather and top golfing brought crowds to Toronto's Mississauga course Saturday for the final round of the Canadian Open Golf Championship which Jim Ferrier of San Francisco won. Ferrier Wins Canadian Open For Second Year

By FRASER MacDOUGALL.

TORONTO, July 9 (CP). — Stern-faced Jim Ferrier of San Francisco, who plays every shot as if his life depends on it, won his second straight Canadian open golf championship Saturday with a typical display of skill and studied concentration.

Two strokes off the leading pace when he started the last round of the $15,000 72-hole test, the former Australian shot a sparkling 67 over Mississauga course for a total of 273—two strokes fewer than his nearest rivals.

Thousands jammed around the 18th green roared their applause when the defending champion settled his spikes, paused for more than 30 seconds then tapped home a seven-foot putt for his fifth birdie of the round over the par-72 course.

The 273 was good enough to withstand a last-minute rush by Ed Oliver of Seattle and Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex., who wound up with 275. Jack Burke, Jr., of Houston, Tex., leader for two days, skidded with a disastrous 76 for 280 and fifth place. Dapper Jimmy Demaret of Ojai, Calif., finished fourth with 278.

Ahead of Mangrum

It was Ferrier's fourth big golf title this year and it moved him ahead of Lloyd Mangrum as top American money winner of 1951. His Canadian victory brought him $2,250 in cash and possession for another year of the Seagram Gold Cup.

Five Canadians Score

Five Canadians were among the 34 professionals who dived the $15,000 pot of prize money, up $5,000 from previous years. Stan Leonard, of Vancouver, led the Canadians with a 282 which put him in a four-way tie for sixth place. He collected $750 plus another $200 and the Rivermead Cup as leading Canadian.

Henry Martell, of Edmonton, scored 287 and won $180, Murray Tucker of London had 288 and won $149, Pat Fletcher of Saskatoon got $100 with his 290, and Jules Huot of Montreal Laval earned $60 with his 291.

A newcomer to Canadian open play, Al Severson from the Hillcrest club at Mt. Clemens, Mich., was low amateur with 283 and Nick Weslock of Windsor Essex was next with 288.

Ferrier became the third to win the title in successive years. The late Leo Diegel did it twice—in 1924-25 and 1928-29. Sam Snead had two of his three wins in 1940 and 1941.

Ferrier shot the lowest score of the tournament on the opening day Wednesday with a 65. He dropped out of the lead on the second day with a par 72 and then moved within striking distance with a third-round 69 when Burke began his collapse after identical scores of 66.

HERE IS HOW CITATION must have looked July 4 when he added $33,050 to his life-time total. He only needs $14,000 to reach the million dollar mark in earnings. He is still a great threat in the Handicap ranks. He won the $50,000 American Handicap July 4 at Hollywood Park.

North Toronto Wins From "B" Cricketers

In Toronto on Saturday, the local "B" cricket team was beaten 184 to 37 by North Toronto, the second win in a row for that team over Peterborough. A feature of the match was the bowling of the veteran ex-captain, Frank Dyer. He bowled 19 overs, as many as the three other bowlers tried, and he took four wickets for 63 runs. The scoring:

North Toronto — Batting: G. Foster 10, K. Moore, F. Chelenger, W. Leach 40, H. Morley 35, R. Williams 25, F. Currie 16, P. Turner, R. Golding 26, R. Sutton 22 not out, F. Gretney 3 not out, extras 7; total for nine wickets, innings declared closed, 184. Fall of wickets: 1 for 5, 2 for 5, 3 for 11, 4 for 86, 5 for 90, 6 for 122, 7 for 127, 8 for 146, 9 for 164. Bowling: F. Dyer 4 wickets for 63 runs, B. Nolan 2 for 37, W. Freeman 2 for 56, J. Wild 1 for 23.

Peterborough — J. Wild, W. Freeman 13, E. Stephenson 1, H. Dibben 12, D. Dyer, F. Dyer 9, S. Jennings, B. Nolan, R. Fraser, G. Robinson, R. Harding 1 not out, extra 1; total 37. Fall of wickets: 1 for 0, 2 for 1, 3 and 4 for 16, 5 for 30, 6, 7 and 8 for 34, 9 for 36, 10 for 37. Bowling: R. Sutton 1 wicket for 18 runs, D. Gooding 1 for 11, W. Leach 6 for 5, F. Currie 1 for 2.

CPGA Planning Fall Tournament

HAMILTON, July 9 (CP). — The Canadian Professional Golfers' Association executive Sunday night gave formal approval to an arrangement whereby it is hoped a team of Canadian professionals will meet a United States team early this fall.

The basis of play wil be the same as that governing the Ryder Cup team competition between the United States and Great Britain.

The teams will compete for what will be known as the Hopkins Trophy, comparable to the Ryder Cup prize.

It will be donated by J. J. Hopkins of Washington, DC, an honorary director of the CPGA and president of Canadair Limited.

Pending approval of the Professional Golfers' Association of America, the first competition of the new international series will be held possibly at a course in the Montreal area to be chosen later.

The two professional associations in each country will name 10 players, eight as competitors and two as alternates.

Under the proposal, the teams will compete in match play under the Nassau system of scoring each nine holes.

England Nears Cricket Win

MANCHESTER, July 9. (Reuters) — Alec Bedser, Surrey fast medium bowler, put England in a winning position in the third cricket test today when he took five wickets for 54 in South Africa's second innings which ended at 191 just before lunch.

England neds 139 runs to win. The match is scheduled to end tomorrow.

Bedser, 33, took five of the remaining seven fourth African second-innings wickets which fell this morning for 70 runs in 100 minutes. The last six crashed in an hour for 36 runs.

The Surrey man, bowling with plenty of fire, took the last five for 12 runs with the new ball. His figures brought his match analysis to 12 for 112—his best feat in test cricket. It also brought his number of test wickets to 155 thus equalling the number claimed by Maurice Tate of Sussex. Now only Sydney Barnes, of Lancashire, with 189, has taken more test wickets than Bedser for England.

South Africa resumed their innings at 121 for three wickets in a rain-affected pitch.

Eric Rowan and Jack Cheetham, the not-out batsman, took their fourth wicket partnership to 84 before Rowan was caught off Laker. Rowan had scored 57. Cheetham was the first Bedser victims, being bowled for 46.

Score at lunch were South Africa first innings 138; second innings 191. England first innings 211; second innings five for no wicket.

Doris Hart Sweeps 3 Titles

By ROBERT S. JONES

WIMBLEDON, England, July 9 —(AP). — If one of their own could not win the Wimbledon women's tennis crown, English fans had another choice—"Heartbreak Doris," meaning Doris Hart.

The shy Miami girl, runner-up to the coveted title twice, made it on her third try, and the fans were almost as happy as if an English girl had come out on top. That's how fond they are of "Heartbreak Doris."

In defeating Shirley Fry of Akron, O., 6-1, 6-0, in the final Saturday, Miss Hart left no doubt as to her superiority, showing one of the finest collections of strokes seen here in recent years.

The experts here shudden when they think of who is going to rule women's tennis here for years to come. American girls took all semi-final spots.

But they will take 26-year-old Doris as a substitute for the two deposed queens — Louie Brough and Margaret Osborne Dupont.

It was a great all-round day for Miss Hart. After she won the women's title, she teamed up with Miss Fry to defeat Miss Brough and Mrs. Dupont in the final of the doubles, 6-3, 13-11. Then, finally, she paired with Frank Sedgman of Australia to whip the Australian combination of Mervyn Rose and Mrs. Nancy Wynne Bolton, 7-5, 6-2, in the mixed doubles.

Floating Lab Will Sail On Arctic Trip

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C., July 9—(CP)—A $250,000 floating laboratory will sail from here shortly on a partly-secret voyage to the Arctic.

Capt. Tom Manning, skipper of the converted yacht Cancolim II is a zoologist. Mate Fred Barber is a geographer. The deckhands include two oceangraphers, a biologist and a glaciologist.

The voyage is a project of Canada's defence research board.

Capt. Manning, an Englishman who built far-northern bases for the Canadian Navy during the war, said basic research is the main object of the trip—soundings, weather observations, information for navigation charts. He declined to say what else is involved.

Will Fly Home

The vessel will remain in the western Arctic after her summer's work ends in September. The crew of 20 tie her up at the Eskimo village of Tuk-Tuk near the mouth of the MacKenzie River and fly home to work on compiling the data gathered.

The vessel's plates have been strengthened with big beams of douglas fir so they can withstand the pressures of Arctic ice. Sails have been rigged fore and aft in case the engines fail.

The deckhouse was lengthened to include a complete laboratory. Were the rich once relaxed in deck chairs there now is a cluster of scientific gear housed under canvas.

The Cancolim has been sheathed in a special skin of Burmese ironbark an inch thick. For ice work, it is tougher than steel.

Girl 13 Injured In Car Collision

TORONTO, July 9 — (CP) — An ambulance taking a 13-year-old Ohio girl to Toronto Saturday for an emergency brain operation after a two-car crash near Bradford, Ont., blew a tire on the highway just outside of Toronto.

A passing army abulance was stopped and the girl, identified as Sandra Berry of Springfield, O., was taken to Toronto general hospital for treatment.

Hospital officials said Sunday her condition was "serious."

The girl was injured when a car police said was driven by Joseph C. Pinkerton, 49, of Detroit, struck the car driven by her father, Herbert E. Berry. Five other persons in the cars suffered injuries.

Police said Pinkerton has been charged with dangerous and careless driving.

Firefighting Crews Reduced At BC Blaze

CAMPBELL RIVER, B.C., July 9—(CP)—The crew fighting the once-mighty Campbell River forest fire has been reduced by at least 200 men, the British Columbia forest service reported Sunday.

At the peak of the 20,000-acre fire on Vancouver Island, the worst to hit BC in a decade, an estimated 750 men were fighting to ring the blaze.

The forest service said a "large part" of the fire now has been struck out. It added, however, that a stiff wind could still be dangerous, possibly fanning the fire out of control again.

The blaze was tamed last Tuesday when the first rain in nearly three weeks splattered down on the flaming timberland 14 miles west of here.

Destroys Red Train

TOKYO, July 9—(CP)—The Canadian destroyer Huron destroyed Communist train Sunday with 12 rounds from its main batteries near the North Korean east-coast city of Chongjin, a naval headquarters communique announced today. The Huron also effectively bombarded bridges and railroads around the city.

HALIFAX, July 9 (CP)—Port officials worked overtime during the weekend to handle one of the heaviest periods of business in several months. In port or due to arrive before dawn today were 12 ships totalling nearly 100,000 tons.

Three Drowned As Boat Sinks

ROUYN, Que., July 9—(CP)—Three Rouyn residents were drowned Sunday in Lake Opasatica, 16 miles southwest of here, when their boat sank while they were watching power boat races after the dedication of a vacation chapel.

Drowned were: Donatien Charron, 28, his three-year-old son, and Forgues Blais, 25.

Mrs. Charron, 26, the only survivor, said Blais had placed some rocks in the bow of their outboard motor boat to weigh it down against waves from the racing boats.

"All of a sudden a big wave came over the top and the boat sank," she said.

The accident occurred during the fourth race, shortly after the chapel was dedicated by the Rev. J. M. Pelchat of Rouyn.

Ship Goes Aground

AMHERSTUNG, July 9 (CP)—The excursion steamer Columbia, owned by the Browning Steamship Company, was slightly damaged Sunday when high winds forced it aground at Bob-Lo Island in the Detroit River. No one was injured. The Columbia, only three weeks out of dry dock, remained aground for several hours until an inspection party arrived. It returned to its Detroit berth under its own power.

Refugee Problem

MONTREAL, July 9—(CP)—The partition of Palestine has created a serious Arab refugee problem, Dr. R. B. Y. Scott, former professor of Old Testament Literature at McGill, said Sunday on his return from a visit to the Middle East. The "tragic plight" of more than 750,000 Arabs, displaced from their homes in what became Israeli territory, "has not received the world attention it deserves," Dr. Scott said.

Sees Church Victor

MONTREAL, July 9—(CP)—Francis J. Cardinal Spellman of New York said in a sermon Sunday it is the church and the church alone that will conquer the godless and ruthless leaders of Russia. The Cardinal headed a pilgrimage of 300 persons from 12 states to the Shrine of Ste. Anne De Beaupre, near Quebec.

Movie Column

Young Actress Organizes Two Playhouses

HOLYWOOD, July 9—(AP)—Everybody talks about the sad state of the stage, but nobody ever does anything about it.

Nobody, except a few tireless people like Ann Lee.

Miss Lee is a tall, beautiful and capable blonde of 30 years. She is an accomplished actress, having played three years with Gertrude Lawrence in "Lady In The Dark" and another three with The Lunts in "O Mistress Mine". Like many Broadway players, she spent her summers in the sticks, playing the summer theatres.

The salaries, are less than on Broadway, but enough to live on.

Three years ago, Miss Lee took a departure from the usual summer theatre circuit in the east. She went to Santa Fe, NM by whatever means possible (and there were many) she raised enough money to build a 250-seat theatre. For the first season, she imported a group of players directly from New York.

Tried Expansion.

The success of the playhouse prompted expansion. The company played five nights weekly in Santa Fe, plus a night in Albuquerque and another at Los Alamos atomic centre.

A year ago Miss Lee branched out further in bringing theatre to the southwest. She helped establish a winter season at the Sombrero Theatre in Phoenix. It was also a success.

"We were very lucky in having Hollywood players to draw on for leading roles," she said. "They know we can't pay big salaries and they are willing to work for a minimum for the experience and a vacation from the movies.

Among the players who have worked for Miss Lee: Cesar Romero, Diana Lynn, Mickey Rooney, William Bendix, Guy Madison, Zasu Pitts. Kirk Douglas played in "Detective Story", as preparation for doing the film version.

Now that her two theatres are well under way, Miss Lee is tending to her own career. She is playing her first film role, in "Boots Malone" with William Holden.

Capsule Review

"Captain Horatio Hornblower" is excellent adventure stuff. As with all such films, the dialogue and action can be stilted at times. But there is enough eye-catching excitement and color to offset that. Gregory Peck supplies the proper dash and authenticity as the remarkable 19th century skippre, and Virginia Mayo is decorative.

Soldier At Bedside Of Badly Burned Son

LONDON, Ont., July 9—(CP)—A blond-haired child lying seriously ill in War Memorial childrens hospital here saw his soldier father Saturday as Pte. William Ebel of Stratford, completed a flying trip to his bedside from the war front of Korea.

The father was given compassionate leave and was flown home after his two-year-old son Billy was scalded by boiling water June 19. Burns covered all his body except his face and hands.

Ever since that day little Billy has been asking for his daddy.

Pte. Ebel also saw for the first time his second son, Larry Robert, now three months old, who was born after he left for Korea.

Bishop Dismisses Toronto Rector, Plans To Appeal

TORONTO, July 10. (CP)—The Rev. Harry Garbutt, dismissed Monday as rector of St. Barnabas Church here, said today he intends to take his dismissal to the highest courts of the Anglican Church in Ontario. The 49-year-old clergyman was notified of a "change in the incumbency" in a letter from Bishop A. R. Beverley of Toronto. Mr. Garbutt said he would relinquish his charge only if the bishop proves he had a canonical right to take him. He said the bishop, who removed him for "breaches of canon law," did not follow canon law himself in requesting a minister's resignation from a self-supporting church such as St. Barnabas.

Today through counsel, he said he wanted to meet the Bishop face to face and Bishop Beverley announced he would receive the rector this week.

The bishop told Mr. Garbutt that Hubert C. Cox, chief hospital chaplain for Toronto, had been appointed to replace him because 'it does not seem possible to me that there can be any peace in the parish unless there is a change."

Reasons for Mr. Garbutt's removal were incorporated in a report from a diocesan commission on differences which concluded its hearings last Friday.

Breaches of Canons

The report stated that "there have been deliberate and repeated breaches of the canons of the diocese during the period of Mr. Garbutt's incumbency."

Listed were: alterations to the church building without consent of the congregation; failure to maintain a proper vestry list; repeated appointment of a rector's warden not qualified for the post by reason of residence, and holding a parochial tribunal which was improperly constituted.

The commission ruled that the barring of seven parishioners from communion was "not justified in respect to the persons involved."

It said "the celebration of marriages of divorced persons is another example of his disregard of generally-accepted church practice."

"Many people have ceased to attend St. Barnabas rather than accept Mr. Garbutt's ministry and leadership," the commission concluded. It unanimously recommended his dismissal.

Mr. Garbutt, speaking in his defence, said the trouble in the church was the fault of a minority of "troublemakers."

British Switch Tactics, Soften Threats

TEHRAN, Iran, July 10 (CP)—A sharp switch in British tactics in the Iranian oil dispute became increasingly clear today. There's a surprising move to soft-pedal previous threats to withdraw all British technicians from Iran.

A new policy of trying to hang on as long as possible—in the face of nationalization of holdings of the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company—is replacing the tough talk of only a week ago that the big refinery at Abadan and the surrounding south Iranian oil fields would be shut down.

There was no indication that Premier Mohammed Mossadegh would change his "no compromise" determination to seize control of the billion-dollar company's Iranian installations.

But a government spokesman said the premier is giving careful consideration to President Truman's offer Monday to send his personal representative, W. Averell Harriman, to Iran to help find a settlement.

Mossadegh told US ambassador Henry F. Grady that Truman's latest mediation attempt came "a little late."

Atmosphere Clears

The atmosphere was cleared a little after A. E. Mason, AIOC acting general manager, said Monday that the British staff would remain indefinitely.

The policy switch apparently was dictated from London, where the Labor government has been under fire from the Conservatives for talking of giving in to the Iranians.

Meanwhile, the troubled Abadan area was ordered under a midnight to dawn curfew starting Thursday. Brig.-Gen. Azizallah Kamal, military governor in the area, also ordered shipping traffic on the broad estuary of the Shatt El Arab River stopped during the curfew hours.

No reason was given for the order.

The sudden moves came after Iran had notified the United Nations she was withdrawing her recognition of the world court at The Hague.

Envoys Discuss Anti-Spy Moves

LONDON, July 10 (Reuters)—Envoys of the United States, Canada and Britain are meeting here to discuss anti-spy measures to safeguard atomic secrets, the foreign office announced today.

The meetings began Monday and are a continuation of last June's conferences in Washington.

There will be no public releases on what the experts decide but the talks are being held against the background of several "leaks" of critical information to Russia by men in Britain and the United States.

Discussing security in London today were K. Glennan, of the United States, N. W. Perrin, deputy controller of atomic energy for Britain and C. J. Mackenzie, chairman of Canada's atomic energy control board.

First Strike In 39 Years Ties Up Big Gold Mine

TIMMINS, July 10 (CP)—Timmins-Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines Ltd., the largest gold mine in North America, is strikebound today for the first time in 39 years.

The mine, which employs about 1,500 miners and surface workers, was shut down by striking employees as the 11 o'clock shift came off Monday night.

The strike followed a meeting of about 200 union members at Harmony Hall, local union headquarters. They rejected an offer made by the company Monday.

By 11 p.m. nearly 500 men had joined picket lines just off limits of company property. The orderly picketers did not approach company police at Hollinger boundaries, and town police had only heavy traffic to contend with.

A union sound truck broadcast instructions for men on the 3 p.m. to 11 p.m. shift to go home and come back for a mass picket line at 5:30 a.m. today.

Volunteers from the picket line Monday night started putting up tents across the road from the mine property and strike committee leaders moved in to set up headquarters.

One man crossed the picket line, but came back out of his own accord. Then most of the picketers started for home, leaving only about 50 or 60 on the line about 1 a.m.

The strike climaxed negotiations between the company and local 4305, United Steelworkers of America (CCL-CIO) started Oct. 27, 1950.

Lack of agreement led to an Ontario Labor Conciliation Board hearing June 1, 1951. The report of the board, handed down Thursday, recommended mainly the irrevocable check-off of union dues and a 13-cent-an-hour increase.

The union said in a statement outlining causes for the strike that it rejected the company's offer of a two-cent-an-hour across the board raise in addition to an eight-cent average raise based on a job evaluation scheme.

King Looking Better Returns To London

LONDON, July 10 (Reuters)—The King drove 30 miles to Buckingham Palace Monday from the Royal Lodge at Windsor where he has been convalescing for three weeks after a catarrhal inflammation of the lung May 25.

It is understood he has benefitted considerably from his stay in Windsor, and will receive official visitors at the Palace during the week.

The King looked well after his lengthy rest.

Huge Air-Raid Siren Gives Syracuse Fright

SYRACUSE, NY, July 10 — (AP). — Syracuse had an air-raid scare early today when a huge siren atop the Carrier Corporation plant wailed for about 10 minutes.

The high-pitched shriek wakened most of the city's 220,000 residents.

Police said steam in the plant apparently built up to the point where a safety valve opened and set off the siren, part of the city's air-raid warning system.

Truce Agenda Progress UN Reports

Fighting To Continue Until Agreement, Kaesong Zone Neutral

SEOUL, Korea, July 10. (AP) — Cease-fire representatives today "made progress toward an agenda to discuss an armistice," United Nations delegates said tonight.

Discussions will be resumed at 10 a.m. Wednesday (8 p.m. EDT Tuesday) in Communist-occupied Kaesong.

A communique issued by UN Commander Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's headquarters said the two opening sessions Tuesday were held in "an open and formal atmosphere."

(Reuters News Agency quoted Maj.-Gen. Lawrence C. Craigie, vice-commander of the Far East air forces, as saying the talks were "very satisfactory.")

At the outset of the talks Vice-Admiral C. Turner Joy, head of the five man UN delegation, announced discussions would be restricted to military matters in Korea. He said the allies would not talk about anything else—no politics, no economics, no military affairs elsewhere.

Reporters Barred

Allied war correspondents were not permitted in Kaesong. They will not be allowed to go Wednesday, either, as planned earlier.

Brig.-Gen. Frank Allen, chief of information, announced that plans to send 16 correspondents to Kaesong Wednesday were cancelled because Ridgway "will do nothing to jeopardize the success of the conference."

He said newspapermen would be sent to Kaesong "after the conference is on the track."

The report on Tuesday's sessions was given to the press by an army officer who had not been at the four-hour Kaesong meetings.

He said Communists had designated a "United Nations house" in the war-ravaged city for the use of UN delegates.

The Allies returned Tuesday night by helicopter to their "peace camp" at Munsan without comment.

When they arrived in Kaesong in the morning, the briefing officer said, the UN officers were met by American jeeps which preceded them there.

Field Guarded

Helicopter pilots reported the delegation was met by 15 jeep loads of Chinese, including some bearing side arms. They said armed Chinese stood guard around the field where the helicopters were parked throughout the day.

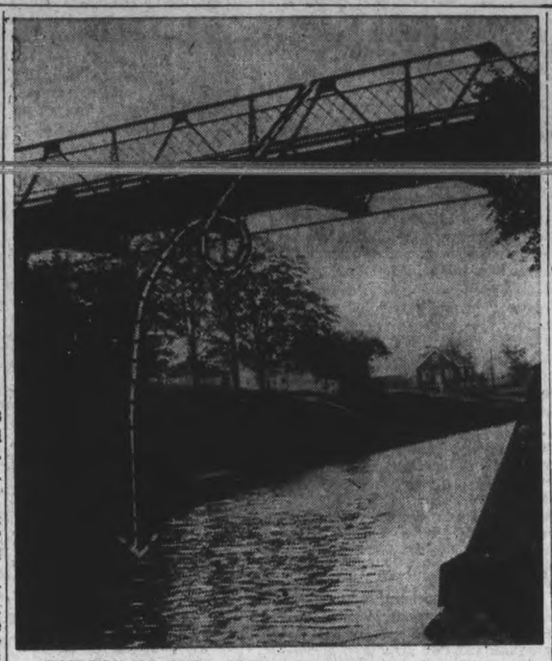
Lie Resumes Norway Holiday

NEW YORK July 10 (AP). — Trygvie Lie, UN secretary-general, left for Norway by plane on Monday confident he has done all he can to advance the Korean ceasefire.

He will resume a vacation with his family, interrupted when Russia first proposed a ceasefire two weeks ago.

"I think I have done all I can at UN headquarters for the time being and that my presence isn't so necessary as when I returned," he told reporters before leaving.



Stolen Car Chase Enlivens Manhunt

AURORA, July 10 —(CP)—A 100-mile-an-hour chase after a stolen car today switched a 24-year-old holdup suspect who escaped Sunday from a Hamilton police manhunt for John Mackay, area.

jail, to this north Yonge Street head spotted the car at 4 a.m.

Provincial Constable E. Whitetoday at Thornhill, five miles north of Toronto. It contained two men, one of whom, police believe, was Mackay.

Whitehead chased the stolen auto 14 miles north to Aurora where the escaping car turned off the road and sideswiped a tree. The two men escaped into the woods.

Trio Swept Over Falls Boy 4 Drowns, 2 Rescued

MINDEN, July 10. (CP)—Bobbie McCullough, 4, of Islington, was drowned Monday when he lost his grip on his father's neck after they were washed over Moore's Falls emptying into Gull Lake near here. His father, Dalton McCullough, said they had been riding in their motorboat when it struck a log at the brink of the eight-foot waterfall and were jolted out of the boat into the water.

His nine-year-old daughter, Wendy, was also in the boat.

Ralph Pilley of Midland Ave., Scarboro, saw the accident from shore. He put out in a boat and rescued the father and daughter. The boy's body has not yet been recovered.

The falls are located where Gull Lake drains into Moore's Lake.

Motor Stops

The three members of the McCullough family were in a motorboat on Gull Lake when the boat's motor conked out. Helpless, they drifted toward the falls. Before the boat reached the drop, it hit a stop-log, which projects 10 inches above the water surface and is used to increase the water depth.

Mr. McCullough and his children, jolted out of the boat, were swept under the log and over the falls by the swift current. When they surfaced below, the father called to Bobbie to hang on to his neck, and the boy did. But the father could not fight the foaming rush of water and he went under twice. When he came up the second time, the boy had disappeared.

Provincial police are directing dragging operations. The McCullough family lives at 7 Goswell Ave., Islington.

Winter In Alberta

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., July 10. (CP)—It snowed again Monday in southern Alberta. Some wet snow was reported at Waterton Lakes National Park, just north of Montana. It was the first report of snow in southern Alberta in July but two falls occurred last month.

Russ War Hero Ryazanov Dies

MOSCOW, Jul y10 —(AP)—The Soviet government today announced the "untimely" death of Lieut. Gen. Vasily G. Ryazanov, 52, an outstanding officer in the Red air force.

An official statement said Ryazanov's death occured July 8. It gave no details.

Ryazanov was one of the outstanding Soviet heroes of the Second World War.

Ryazanov also was a deputy to the supreme Soviet (congress) of the Ukraine and a candidate for the Central Committee of the Ukrainian Communist party.

Ryazanov's death occured on the same day that the Red air force staged a major display of new jet aircraft.

Bus Falls 25 Ft. 2 Women Killed

JASPER, Alta., July 10 (CP).—Two women were killed and five seriously injured late Monday when a sightseeing bus rolled down a 25-foot incline near this Rocky Mountain resort town. Jasper is about 190 air miles west of Edmonton.

Twenty-eight persons were travelling in the bus operated by Jasper Park Lodge and driven by Ed Reynolds, 25, of Ottawa. The other 21 passengers suffered bruises and abrasions.

Bill Johnson, the driver of another bus slowed down to pass a parked truck just south of the Miette river bridge about one mile south of Jasper.

The crust of a new "blacktop" surface of the road gave way, said Johnson. He added the bus stopped, teetered and then rolled down a 25-foot incline at the side of the road.

Names of the dead and injured were not immediately available.

US Government Seeks To Revoke Bail Allowing 15 Lesser Red Leaders Liberty

NEW YORK, July 10 (AP)—The government today sought to revoke bail under which 15 lesser Communist leaders charged with conspiracy have been at liberty.

In the petition to revoke the bill, furnished by the Civil Rights Congress Bail Fund, the federal prosecutor charged that the fund's trustees were "wholly irresponsible." Three of the trustees have been sentenced to terms in jail for criminal contempt for failure to answer questions and produce the fund's records.

The government also obtained from Judge Alexander Holtzoff an order directing 16 of the 17 indicted lesser Communist leaders to appear Wednesday to show cause why their bail should not be increased. Four of those 21 under indictment are fugitives.

Meanwhile, mystery writer Dashiell Hammett sought to obtain bail for himself after landing in jail for refusing to tell who furnished bond for the four fugitive convicted Communist leaders. He drew a six months contempt - of - court sentence Monday night. Judge Sylvester J. Ryan denied him bail.

Bandits Rob Bank Second Time

Woodbridge Citizens Chase Gunmen But Lose Their Trail

WOODBRIDGE, Ont., July 10. (CP)—Four bandits held up the Royal Bank here today and escaped with an unknown amount of cash. The quartette entered the bank shortly after 10 a.m. They made a quick escape by motor car after forcing a bank employee, Doug Kearney, to hand over the money.

Glenn Newans, manager of the bank in this village 13 miles northwest of Toronto, and accountant Bob Miller led citizens in a chase along No. 7 highway.

The same bank was held up May 10 by three armed men who escaped with $9,600.

The chase was given up after the pursuers lost the trail in nearby Thistledown.

Rob Depositors

Bank employees said the robbers took the cash in the cage and robbed depositors who came into the bank. When the manager refused to open the vault even when a gun was held to his head, they gave up and left after ripping out the telephones.

Bank employees said they believed the robbers were the same men who held up the bank in May. Ope detected the same accent in one man and others said there were similarities in build in the two groups of men.

2 Freighters Collide Off Cape Breton

HALIFAX, July 10 (CP)—The freighters Bulkarier and Zebrula collided off Cape Brenton Island's southeast coast today but both vessels reported they will be able to make Sydney, 50 miles away.

The 2,399-ton Bulkarier, a Montreal-owned cement carrier, and the Zebrula, a refrigerator boat owned in St. John's, Nfld., radioed they are taking water in the forward holds but are headed for port under their own power.

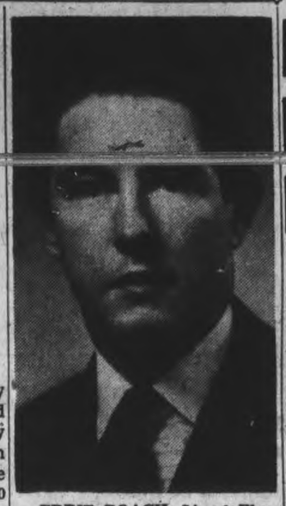
There was no immediate indication of what caused the collision.

The smash occurred between Forchu and Guion Island before 10 a.m. EDT.

The R.C.A.F. here said neither ship has asked for assistance. The weather was reported moderate along their course.

Army Denies Soldiers Selling Jeep Parts

OTTAWA, July 10—(CP)—The army today denied reports that soldiers have been selling jeep parts to service station operators in the Ottawa Valley, and said the reports are without foundation.



It denied, too, that a fire which partly destroyed an ordnance depot here a month ago delayed organization of the 27th Brigade by ruining a lot of uniforms. There were no uniforms in the gutted part of the depot, the army said.

Ex-Police Chief Asks Inquiry

CRYSTAL BEACH, Ont., July 10 (CP)—Former police chief Gilbert Robertson has appealed to the Ontario Police Constables Association to look into his recent dismissal, it was learned today. He asked a protest be made on the grounds he was not given a written copy of the charges against him.

Meanwhile other complications have arisen at this Lake Erie resort which in the last fortnight has fired its police and fire chiefs, lost its fire department through a protest walkout and called in the provincial police for protection.

Reeve Claude Brewster has called a special council meeting to consider action of Crystal Beach firemen in re-electing Fire Chief George Pietz, recently relieved by council of his duties. The firemen have informed Reeve Brewster that the department is "ready to resume its functions under Chief Pietz."

EDDIE ROACH, 34, of Elm St., who died as the result of a dive off the McFarlane St. bridge. His death was caused by internal injuries and a possible broken back.

National Leading 1-0 In Second Of All-Star Game

BRIGGS STADIUM, July 10—(CP)—Ned Garver (11-4) of St. Louis Browns took the mound for the favored American League team against Robin Roberts (10-7) of Philadelphia Phillies, National League choice, in the 18th all-star baseball game today.

A capacity crowd of 52,000 was on hand.

The day was warm, muggy and bright.

The American League has won 12 of past all-start games and the National Leagu five. The Nationals, winners last year 4-3 in 14 innigs, have yet to win two games in a row.

A blue-coated brass band played bravely for the crowd that trickled in slowly.

First National

Ashburn lined Garver's first pitch into left field for a two-base hit. Dark was out on a fly to left and Ashburn slid safely to third. Musial walked. Berra caught Robinson's pop fly in front of home plate. Musial stole second when Fox dropped Berra's throw. Ashburn scored on Fox's error. Hodges bounced out.

First American

D. DiMaggio butned Roberts' first pitch and beat Elliott's throw to first. Fox popped to Campanella. DiMaggio was cut down at second when Kell swung and missed an outside pitch. Kell walked. Williams popped to Elliott. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

Second National

State of Emergency

CAIRO, Egypt, July 10 (Reuters).—A state of emergency was proclaimed today as police and troops stood by to guard against "an attempt to disturb public security" in an anti-British demonstration. The government banned all public demonstrations Wednesday—the anniversary of the British bombardment of Alexandria in 1882.

Eddie Roach Lives Only Few Minutes

Excellent Swimmer Friends Declare, Made Jump Before

Injured in a high dive from the McFarlane St. bridge, Eddie Roach 34, 581 Elm St., died early Monday night before he arrived at St. Joseph's hospital.

Roach, an excellent swimmer and diver, attempted a one-and-a-half front somersault from the rail of the bridge but he landed on his stomach. The rail, five feet higher than the road level over the Trent Canal bridge, is 45 feet above the canal.

He was not immediately knocked unconscious. Witnesses to the accident could see that he was stunned but he was able to swim painfully to the east bank, some 30 feet from where he fell in the water.

Helped By Chums

He was assisted from the water by two chums. By this time he was bleeding from the nose and "turning blue".

Firemen were called and used the inhalator on him for seven minutes. At that time he was still conscious, but he was dead by the time he arrived at hospital.

Roach was known to have a bad heart and had been warned by doctors not to indulge in anything too physically strenuous. Friends say he was an excellent swimmer and had dived from the so-called "high bridge" many times without injury.

"He must have dived from that bridge a hundred times," Jimmy King, 30, George St., said.

Hit On Stomach

"I told him not to dive off there," said King. "When he came down he hit right on his stomach. You could hear the smack.

"He came up all right and I watched him come in toward the canal bank," related King. "It wasn't until he was right in close that I could see blood coming from his nose. I jumped in and gave him a hand."

King was assisted by Dick O'Brien, Stewart St. The trio had gone to the canal for a cooling swim before heading uptown for the night.

The fatally-injured man began to turn blue but he asked city police not to apply artificial respiration as he had an injured stomach and he had swallowed no water. Later firemen arrived and used the respirator on him for seven minutes.

Ask Yugoslav Be Deported

OTTAWA, July 10—(CP)—The Yugoslav government has demanded the extradition of a former Yugoslav national, now reported to be living in Toronto, whom it has charged with committing mass murder during the Second World War.

The Yugoslav Legation, disclosing that a note has been handed to the Canadian government, identified the man today as Radin Radoslav Gruicic and said he entered Canada several years ago as a displaced person.

The External Affairs Department said it has turned the case over to the Justice Department, which has opened an investigation.

Canada Ends Formal State Of War With Germany

OTTAWA, July 10 (CP)—Canada today ended her formal state of war with Germany.

The state of war, which began in September of 1939, was ended with the publication of a Royal proclamation in the official Canada Gazette.

This country thus followed Britain, Australia and New Zealand, all of which formally ended the war Monday.

President Truman has asked Congress formally to end the war for the United States.

The action has no effect on war claims and other reparations which will be decided later. It means only that a state of war no longer exists and that German Nationals no longer will be regarded as enemy aliens.

The government announced last fall that it intended to end the state of war as soon as it could.

Active hostilities ended when the Germans surrendered unconditionally June 5, 1945.

It now is expected that Hon. T. C. Davis, head of the Canadian mission to West Germany, will be appointed Canadian ambassador to that area. A German consulate-general recently established in Ottawa also is expected to be raised to diplomatic rank.

Boat Upsets, Waitress 16 Saves 3 People

BELLEVILLE, July 10 (CP). — Three elderly United States holidayers identified only as Mr. and Mrs. Douglas and Mrs. Fuller of Jarvis, NY, were saved from drowning during the weekend by 16-year-old Gloria Gerner of Toronto.

The girl, fully clothed, jumped into the water and made three trips to their overturned boat 50 yards offshore to drag them out of Lake Kashawahanant, 80 miles north of here.

She had been setting the table in the lodge there for lunch when she heard a scream. From a window she saw three persons clinging to the boat.

Seconds later the girl had leaped from a small dock. When she reached the boat she told two of the three to hold onto the side of the boat while she swam to shore with the other. She then went back and pulled the other two, both exhausted, to shore one at a time.

Dropped Silver

"When I heard a scream I dropped the silverware on the table I was setting and ran to the lake," Miss Gerner said.

"None of them could swim," she went on. "I told two of them to hold on to the side of the overturned boat and started back with one woman." Then she swam back for the others.

The girl said the boat had tipped over in 30 feet of water.

Charles Brock, of 21 Ellsworth Ave., Toronto, a guest at the lodge witnessed the rescue. He said one of the three Americans in the boat had hooked a large fish and all three leaned over the side of the boat as the fish was brought in. This caused the boat to tip over, and all three were tossed into the water.

Gloria Gerner attends Scarboro Collegiate. Her mother said she learned to swim three years ago.

Not Worried

The respirator crew included Budd Cruikshank, Harold Cain and Fred Murphy.

When Roach was being taken away in the police truck he seemed in not too serious condition, and the firemen doubted if the carbogen gas to assist him in breathing had been necessary.

He was dead on arrival at St. Joseph's.

Dr. Warren Gamble pronounced him dead shortly after 8 p.m.

Coroner Dr. Herbert Young said that he believed death was caused by internal injuries and probably a broken back. There will be no post mortem.

Roach was well known in local sporting circles. For the last five years he has been assisting Herb Payne to supervise the Pines pavilion at Chemong.

He was a lifetime resident of Peterborough, son of the former Mary Hickey and the late John Roach. He was a member of St. Peter's Church.

Besides his mother he leaves two brothers, Jack of Vancouver and James of Peterborough; three sisters, Mrs. Lorne Nelson (Dorothy), Milton Ont.; Mrs. John McIntyre (Helen), and Mrs. Clifford Darling (Kathleen), both of Peterborough.

The funeral will be from the Anglesey funeral home to St. Peter's Cathedral for requiem mass at 9 a.m. Thursday. Burial will be in St. Peter's cemetery.

Official forecasts issued by the Dominion public weather office at 9:30 a.m. EDT today:

Synopsis:

A band of sunny weather extends from Central Ontario to west of Lake Michigan. It is bounded to the southwest by cloudiness, southeasterly winds and showers occurring chiefly at night. This poorer weather was moving toward Southern Ontario on Tuesday morning's weather chart, and may be expected to arrive late Wednesday.

Cool air which entered Georgian Bay area Tuesday morning will likely penetrate as far as Lake Ontario, during Wednesday, but developing southeasterly winds should then cause it to retreat.

Regional forecasts valid until midnight Wednesday:

Niagara, Lake Ontario and Georgian Bay regions; Toronto and Hamilton cities:

Sunny, clouding over late Wednesday afternoon. Showers late Wednesday evening. Not much change in temperature. Winds light. Low tonight and high Wednesday at Toronto and Trenton 60 and 80, St. Catharines and Hamilton 65 and 80, Muskoka 55 and 80.

Summary for Wednesday — Sunny. evening showers.

Haliburton region:

Clear, except briefly cloudy this afternoon. Wednesday sunny becoming overcast in the evening. A few showers late this afternoon. Showers Wednesday night. Not much change in temperature. Winds west 15 today, light Wednesday. Low tonight and high Wednesday at Killaloe 55 and 75.

The briefing officer said the American jeeps carried the UN's two admirals and three generals to UN House. They travelled under armed Communist escort.

As the briefing officer was making his report, the North Korean Communist radio at Pyongyang said that withdrawal of all foreign troops was one of the conditions of peaceful settlement of the Korean war.

The Red radio said eventual solution of the Korean problem should be left to the Korean people themselves.

However, the Kaesong talks as the UN viewpoint was outlined by Joy, will be restricted entirely to military matters.

In his opening statement, he called on the five Red generals to show good faith in the negotiations and pledged the UN delegation would do the same. This, the admiral said, would generate an "atmosphere of confidence."

"In such an atmosphere," he hope for success."

Avoid Politics

And he set strict limits to the subjects of discussion. Joy said the Allies want a stable peace, but under no circumstances will they talk about:

1—"Political and economic matters of any kind." That includes the question of a United Nations seat for Communist China.

2—"Military matters unrelated to Korea." This ruled out Formosa and other trouble spots.

Joy said he and four other military commanders comprising the UN delegation would only "discuss military matters in Korea" necessary to end "hostilities in Korea, under conditions which will assure against their resumption."

Fighting To Continue

Fighting will continue, except in the Kaesong neutral zone, until a cease-fire agreement is reached and "an approved armistice commission is prepared to function."

The Admiral's statement was made at a brief session opening the negotiations. Sources in Tokyo predicted the talks would last for weeks.

The 10 opposing commanders met from 11 a.m. (9 p.m. Monday EDT) until 12:31 p.m. Then they recessed until 4 p.m. (2 a.m. EDT).

The afternoon session broke up after 2½ hours. The allied delegation then resumed its journey back to the allied peace camp.

Military releases made no mention of what the Chinese and North Korean generals said in their opening statement. Press releases by the UN were the only source for the western world on what happened.

Allied newspapermen were not permitted in Kaesong the first day of talks. But 16 correspondents and cameramen will go to the war-ravaged ancient capital of Korea Wednesday. They will not be permitted to attend armistice talks at the conference room in an abandoned private home, but they will be briefed by an officer who attends the meeting.

Neutral Zones

The only announced agreement reached by the delegates in the opening session was that there would be no fighting "in those neutral zones agreed upon along and through the route to Kaesong."

In preliminary sessions Sunday the Communists turned down an allied offer to create a neutral strip centred on Kaesong 25 miles long and 10 miles wide. It would have stretched from Munsan, base of the UN negotiators, to Kumchon in North Korea.

The Communists said they would rely on the UN commander-in-chief, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, not to launch any attacks in the Kaesong area. Ridgway previously declared a neutral zone radiating five miles around Kaesong.

The official Chinese Communist Peiping radio said merely that preliminary sessions "concluded smoothly."

Admiral Joy and his four fellow negotiators left Munsan in five helicopters for the first formal armistice session Tuesday morning determined "to do our part to bring about an honorable armistice on terms that are satisfactory to the UN command."

Joy gave a copy of his statement to correspondents.

"Honorable" was heavily underlined.

Prices Stay Mixed On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, July 10 (CP). — Prices stayed fairly mixed as the session progressed on the stock market today.

At noon a slight weakness appeared which caused some issues to go a little lower. Trading continued its extremely slow pace of the last two weeks and volume for the first three hours of 512,000 was about 43,000 more than the same period yesterday.

Papers, agricultures, and constructions showed a majority of gains. Steels, banks, manufacturing companies, foods and retail stores eased. Utilities and refining oils were mixed. Most price changes were in small fractions.

Western oils slipped moderately lower at noon.

Base metals were fairly mixed but with the tendency on the downside. Golden Manitou, Noranda, Consolidated Smelters, East Sullivan and Falconbridge dipped fractions while Labrador, New Calumet, Steep Rock and United Asbestos advanced.

Golds had showed little change or trading. A few senior producers slipped downward while secondary golds were about evenly balanced.

Injured Man Hurt In Second Accident

STRATFORD, July 10.—William Bannon, of RR 2, Gads Hill, survived a double shock Monday before finally reaching the Stratford General Hospital. He had been under his car fixing it, when the jack collapsed and the vehicle fell on him with one wheel cutting his head.

His son, Eugene, immediately rushed his injured father to Stratford Hospital, but on the way was involved in another accident.

In the collision with a car at the crossroad at Kinkora the injured Bannon was thrown against the dashboard, considerably aggravating his condition. When he reached hospital he was in a bad state of shock. Corporal J. M. Douglas of Stratford is investigating.

Senate Voices New Suspicions

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP) —Senate investigators were reported to have an eye cocked at a State Department office in New York today in checking charges that Red sympathizers have infiltrated the "Voice of America."

Senator Pat McCarran (Dec. Nev.) said these charges about the government's radio program were made Monday at a closed hearing conducted by two Senate groups he heads. He declined to name the witnesses who made them, but said in his opinion there was "no doubt" their testimony was correct.

But two other Senators, who asked that their names not be used described the testimony as "hearsay" which they said would have to be checked further before any conclusions could be reached.

One of these lawmakers said the charges dealt mostly with the state department's New York "Voice of America" office.

Car Hits Bridge Tourist Killed

NORTH BAY, July 10 (CP) — Mrs. Margaret Tarbert of Cleveland was killed and three other persons were seriously injured when their automobile plowed into the side of a consrete bridge-culvert near here Monday.

Injured and in hospital here are Mrs. Tarbert's daughter, Susan, about 16; George Richards and his teen-age daughter, Lenore, all of Cleveland. Richards was driving the car.

Police said the car caught fire, but they have not yet been able to determine whether it started blazing before or after the accident.

The occupants of the car were returning home after a holiday.

Outboard Union Elects New Heads

A new president and vice-president were elected Monday night at a special membership meeting called by Local 230, Outboard Marine Workers' Union.

Fred Burrett, former chairman of the grievance panel and of the negotiating committee, is the new president. He succeeds Joseph McGuire who has been promoted to a foreman's position and is therefore outside the bargaining unit.

Cec Hancock is the new vice-president. He succeeds John Meehan who has retired from active union duty. Mr. Hancock was formerly on the educational committee.

Two other officers retain their posts: Charles (Pete) Meridew, recording secretary, and Gord Reynolds, secretary-treasurer.

The election for the two offices was at the Knights of Columbus hall. A large turnout of the membership was reported.

Neighbors Protest Trucks Parking

A pair of traffic problems came before council Monday night.

A number of Dalhousie St. residents and firms reported by letter that traffic on that street was blocked for long periods of time by trucks parking in front of the National Grocers Co.

At times, the letter read, 11 and more trucks were parked on the street. The writers mentioned that in case of fire, it would be virtually impossible for the fire department to reach a fire in that district.

Vestry clerk Walter Dyer of St. John's Anglican Church wrote council to ask permission for a no parking sign to be placed at the church's Hunter St. driveway.

He said the church has often had trouble with parked cars blocking the driveway at the times of funerals and weddings.

Father-in-Law Shot At Two Men Charged

LINDSAY, July 10—Two Lindsay men face charges of discharging a firearm within town limits on Sunday. They are William Goodhand and George Pinnet, of nearby Cresswell.

It all started when Albert Playter, of Langstaff, came to the home of George Quibell, his father-in-law. Playter wanted to know where his wife was staying.

Quibell didn't want to talk to Playter, but Goodhand and Pinnet, both boarders at Quibell's, spoke to Playter through a screened window.

The pair insisted that Playter leave. He didn't want to go. Suddenly there was a shot, and Playter left. The bullet passed through the screen, through a garage door, and lodged in the earth.

18 Books In 2 Weeks Boy Leads In Marathon

Carolyn Howden was the winner of the draw prize held in the Treasure Island Reading Club at the boys' and girls' department of the Public Library on Saturday.

A lucky draw prize is being held every two weeks at the library.

Bob Howden, of Aylmer St., who has read a total of 18 books in the past two weeks is in the lead for the grand prize which will be awarded at the end of the summer to the member of the club who has read the most books.

The Treasure Island Club is a summer project of the library to keep up children's interest in books and library during the summer months.

Obituary

THOMAS SOMERS

Thomas Somers of Warkworth died at his home suddenly on Monday at the age of 75 years.

He was born in Percy township. Mr. Somers was married twice; his first wife, the former Mary Lamey, a sister, Mrs. Thomas Lonergan, and a half-brother, William McDonald, all predeceased him.

He leaves his wife, the former Carolyn Self, and a daughter Miss Mary Somers of Toronto. There are two sons, Joseph Somers of Warkworth and John of Rosemead, Calif., and a sister, Mrs. Minnie McGrath of Rochester.

Mr. Somers was a mason by trade and a member of St. Jerome Roman Catholic Church.

Funeral will be held on Wednesday from the Allen Funeral Home to St. Jerome Church where requiem mass will be said at 10 a.m. by the Rev. H. J. Fitzgerald. Burial will be at St. Jerome cemetery.

AIR VICE MARSHAL J. L. PLANT, CBE, AFC, of the Royal Canadian Air Force, who has been assigned to the Atlantic Pact air force in Europe as Assistant Chief of Staff for personnel and logistics. He will be attached to the headquarters of Gen. Lauris Norstad, commander of allied air forces in Central Europe.

Cavan Township May Raise Taxes

A bylaw to raise certain rates and taxes for the township of Cavan and also trustee levies was introduced at the July meeting of the council.

The following new rates were presented as bylaws and a motion was passed that they be read a third time and signed and sealed: County general rate, 14 mills; Peterborough suburban high school area, 13.1 mills; Durham high school area, 6.1 mills; secondary school rates, 4 mills; township rate, 13½ mills; arean grant, 1.6 mills; Federation of Agriculture, ½ mill; public school rate, 5.9 mills.

A motion was passed that a grant of $35 be given the Legion.

Permission was given to the clerk to close the township office from July 28 to August 6.

Accounts totalling $3,937.20 were ordered paid.

Peace Treaty Restores Japan's Freedom

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP)— Restoration of Japan's independence without formal restrictions on its military, political and economic development is provided by the latest and nearly-final draft of a peace treaty.

The United States has submitted to the major wartime Pacific allies the 5,500-word revised draft of a proposed "peace of reconciliation" expected to be signed in two months with few changes.

The new text was made available today to The Associated Press.

The State Department is circulating the proposed treaty in the expectation that it will be accepted by the other governments—except Russia—for signing with only minor alterations. The US has proposed that a peace conference be held at San Francisco Sept. 4 to 8.

Settle Differences

The treaty revision reflects the settlement of differences between the US and Britain worked out by Ambassador John Foster Dulles, and rules out reparations as such on grounds Japan does not have the capacity to pay. The treaty, however, requires Japan to negotiate possible compensation for the Philippines and other occupied countries by making available Japanese industrial skills and services.

The treaty will clear the way for the projected separate pact by which the United States plans to retain troops in Japan and bases nearby, with Japanese consent.

It calls for the withdrawal of "all occupation forces of the allied powers" within 90 days after the treaty becomes effective, but permits the "stationing or retention of foreign armed forces in Japanese territory under or in consequence of any bi-lateral or multi-lateral agreements which have been or may be made between one or more of the allied powers, on the one hand, and Japan on the other."

Peterborough Youth Hurt In Accident

Carl Sullivan, 30, 419 Downie St., is today reported in satisfactory condition in Oshawa General Hospital. He received a badly sprained back and internal injuries Sunday night when involved in a two-car collision on Highway 2, near Courtice.

He will likely remain in Oshawa hospital for another nine days before he can be moved to Peterborough, and he will remain in a cast for two months.

Sullivan was injured when riding in the car of Michael John Coughlin, 391 Armour Rd. Coughlin was driving east and pulled out to pass a transport. He collided with an oncoming car driven by Allan Shortt, 22, Oshawa.

Shortt received a broken nose and facial injuries and a passenger, Robert Ross, also of Oshawa, received a scalp wound and an injured shoulder.

Austin McCole, 183 Douro St., a second passenger in Coughlin's car, escaped injury.

Rain was falling heavily at the time of the accident.

Airborne Plates Register Ray Tracks

By RENE LAGACE.

MONTREAL (CP). — A quiet, soft-spoken University of Montreal professor is making cosmic ray experiments that may be of great value to fliers of the future.

Prof. Pierre Demers of the Physics Department is preparing his 21st balloon launching to record the rays' behavior. He hopes the launching will take place early in June.

Made of polythene—a recently developed material—the balloons carry photographic plates that record tracks of the rays for study under the microscope.

Th rays — ions or electrified particles that constantly bombard the earth—are little known to science. First discovered around the turn of the century by Victor Hess of Austria, the rays have little power left when they reach the earth

However, scientists recently advanced the theory that the rays may be dangerous at altitudes of more than 60,000 feet. A United States scientist said some weeks ago he believed the rays could be fatal to pilots of future rocket ships

Would Settle 3 Points

Working with the aid of five of his students, Prof. Demers is striving to settle three points:

1. The origin of cosmic rays.
2. Their nuclear reaction.
3. Their behavior in the magnetic field of the earth and sun

The rays are said to originate from the sun, to be born in space or to be a mass that has existed since the creation of the world. Scientists favor the theory that they are sun-born.

Still vague to science are their nuclear reaction and their behavior when entering magnetic fields.

One Other Centre

Prof. Demers' department is the second in the world that prepares emulsions used on the photographic plates. The other centre is the university at Jenny in Basel Switzerland, which, unlike the make its own balloons.

The emulsions, a yellowish substance made up of gelatine and silver bromide, are the result of long hours of research by the professor. He was guest at the University of Milan last year to explain how he makes the emulsions.

The glass plates are contained in an aluminum-covered gondola —12 feet long by one foot wide— attached to the tail of the balloons.

Varying in size from 28 to 56 feet and filled with hydrogen, the balloons rise to heights of as much as 120,000 feet before the hydrogen gradually escapes.

All But Six Recovered

Of 20 balloons launched previously, only six were not recovered. The gondola carries instructions for the finders, warning them not to open the plates container.

There's a $10 reward for the return of the balloon and plates intact.

Immediately upon recovery, the plates are developed because the impressions wear off after a while and Prof. Demers and his students

Born in Deal, England, of Canadian parents, the 37-year-old professor has been devoting his time to cosmic ray work since 1947. During the Second World War, he was one of the scientists that pioneered the establishment of the Chalk River atomic energy project.

The much-travelled professor has had his share of adventures. He fled from Paris, where he was doing post-graduate studies, the same day the Germans took over the city in 1940. Using a bicycle, he made his way to Spain and Portugal and spent a month in a fishing village before obtaining passage aboard a freighter bound for Montreal.

THE TUNGSTEN STORY

TUNGSTEN'S IMPORTANT TO EVERYONE

A vital essential to modern industry, the bulk of this rare metal normally comes from China and Korea.

Recently the Canadian Government took over one of the three Canadian Tungsten mines in the PRODUCER CLASS, in an attempt to supplement our industrial requirements.

And the U.S. Government has GUARANTEED to pay the extremely high price of $3.25 per pound for all Tungsten produced in a FIVE-YEAR period.

- TUNGSTEN MUST BE IMPORTANT, OR
- THE TWO GOVERNMENTS WOULD HARDLY
- ADOPT SUCH DRASTIC MEASURES

One of the mines in the PRODUCER CLASS is owned by TUNGSTEN CORPORATION OF CANADA LIMITED, which plans PRODUCTION OF TUNGSTEN in July.

A substantial ore stockpile is already prepared for processing, and a crew has been lining up the mill for some time.

We are firmly convinced the shares of TUNGSTEN CORPORATION OF CANADA LIMITED represent a promising opportunity.

However, before inviting any investment, we believe it to be sound business practice to furnish the prospective purchaser with full details of the undertaking.

Therefore, if you will sign the coupon below and return it to us promptly, we shall be pleased to forward free of charge, a copy of "The Tungsten Story", and additional interesting information on Tungsten.

The Shares are LISTED and TRADED on the MONTREAL CURB MARKET. Quotations supplied through your local broker or contact us direct.

Hockey Club Publicly Owned

SAULT STE. MARIE, July 10 —(CP)— This city's senior hockey club, the Greyhounds, will be publicly owned by next Fall if plans made Monday night by bear fruit.

At an open meeting it was decidede to form a company to take over the hockey club, with $10 shores to be sold throughout the city. More than $5,000 has already been subscribed, but it was decided that $20,000 would be needed to sponsor a good senior team.

Plans were made for the acquisition of new players, affiliations with smaller local teams, and the encouragement of young local hockey players.

A four-man committee was elected to organize the company. It is composed of Terry Murphy and I. A. Vannini, lawyers, and Al Broughton, Pat Mahoney and Russ Ramsay, business men.

It is hoped the Greyhounds will play in a new senior hockey league embracing North Bay, Sudbury and Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 10 — (ENS)—The Rotary Home Week Carnival got under way on Monday night with a parade of bands and decorated bicycles through the streets of the town. The RCAF band from Trenton led the parade, followed by a number of army vehicles of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. Next came the Havelock Pipe Band and a number of decorated bicycles. Bringing up the rear of the parade was the Campbellford Citizens' Band.

Prizes were awarded for the three best decorated bicycles in the parade, and Sandra MacDonald took first prize, Shirley Marek, second, and Joy Ireland, third.

The various booths were fairly well patronized, but a number of blaring loud-speakers, set up at vantage points along Front St., met with the disapproval of many citizens, one group even rented a cottage at Healey Falls, six miles out of town, so that they could get some sleep in the evenings. The carnival is slated to last all week,

Toronto Lieutenant Wins Rifle Trophy

BISLEY, England, July 10 (CP) —Lieut. Gilmour Boa of Toronto today won the first Service-Rifle Aggregate Trophy of the annual National Rifle Association match with a score of 100 out of a possible 105 points in the Southern Railway, Kinnair and BSA competitions.

He was awarded a facsimile of the challenge cup and a prize of £5.

Monday the 26-year-old marksman won sixth prize in the Southern Railway match, scoring 34 out of 35.

CSM. Norman Beckett of Hamilton, who tonight will contest a tie with Boa in the Kinnaird match, won second prize in the aggregate competition with 98 points.

Another Canadian, Pte. G. W. J. Oakes of Hamilton, Monday won a prize in the Kinnaird competition with a score of 33 in the open class.

Ladder Slips, Falls 18 Feet, Man Breaks Leg

CAMPBELLFORD, July 10 — (ENS). — Fred Fry, 40-year-old Campbellford man, suffered a fractured right leg, and a fractured nose as well as shock and multiple cuts and bruises on Saturday afternoon, when he fell 18 feet when a ladder he was working from slipped. Fry fell the full length of the ladder. He was taken to Campbellford Hospital by two fellow-workmen, where X-rays revealed his injuries. After treatment he was allowed to go home.

FIRE ORPHANS—Orphaned by a forest fire along the Campbell River of British Columbia, these two fawns were among six taken to Vancouver's Stanley Park. They are held by zookeeper Alan Best.

Scouts, Cubs, Brownies Hold Field Day

Brownies, Cubs and Scouts of the 17th Peterborough Troop, based at St., Alban's Mission, Cameron St., and their families enjoyed a field day and picnic Saturday at the summer home on Pigeon Lake of Scoutmaster Walter Wood and Mrs. Wood. More than 100 were there to enjoy a wide program of field and water sports.

Assisting with the races were Cubmaster Bob Miller; Miss Doreen Smart; Brownie leader, Mrs. A. Maskell; Mr. Geo. Beauchamp; and Mrs. Wm. Higgins. Starter for the races was Mr. Cyril Barnes, chairman of the group committee. A well patronized booth serving soft drinks and ice cream was attended by Albert Orr, assisted by W. Wood, Bob Miller, and B. A. Thompson.

Guests for the day were Peterborough's Scout Commissioner Mr. G. Groombridge and Mrs. Groombridge.

Boat-rides, surfboard riding, and water-skiing were principle attractions during the afternoon. Larry Griffin, age 12, displayed exceptional skill in his first attempt at water-skiing, handling the tricky skiis very well. Others making successful debuts on the skiis were W. Wood, Bob Miller and Mrs. W. Higgons.

Fathers present indulged in the age-old pastime of horse-shoe pitching.

After a picnic lunch on the lawn the youngsters played a game of base-ball, and the evening closed with a sing-song around a huge campfire, the familiar Scouting songs led by Sea-Scouts, Ronald, Gerrard and David Hatton.

Winners of the sports events were as follows:

Toddlers' race—Douglas Beauchamp, Donna Orr, Bobby Higgins; girls, 5 to 7—Beverly Orr, Donna Orr; Boys 5 to 7—Billie Jackson, Colin Gardner; girls, 7 to 9—Merle Patterson, Gail Bowler; boys, 7 to 9—Brian Higgins, Tom Wood; girls, 9 to 11—Marjorie Sherry, Kay Sibley; boys, 9 to 11—Larry Wood, John Parry; girls, 11 to 13—Barbara Todd, Barbara Bowler; boys, 11 to 13—David Parry, Bob Merritt; girls, 13 to 15—Barbara Todd, Anne Merritt.

Three-legged race—Mrs. W. Higgins and Barbara Bowler, Mrs. W. Wood and Kay Sibley; three-legged race—Walter and Roy Wood, Vernon Orr and Ted Coulson; mixed wheelbarrow race—Barbara Todd and Don Walker, Mrs. W. Wood and Gerry Hatton; fathers' race—Geo. Beauchamp; mothers' race —Mrs. W. Wood; swimming races, boys, Bob Merritt, girls, Pat Sibley.

Winners of the Cub relay (team) Ted and Brian Higgins, Tom and Larry Wood, Ron Dunford, Don Kinniburgh.

Winning team of the Brownie relay, Kay Sibley, Nona Sanders, Kathryn Barnes, Carol Thibadeau, Donna Stewart, Sylvia Ramsey and Carol Dreury.

Winning team of the Scout relay, Larry Griffin, Doug Patterson, Don Walker, Fred Davey, Michael Hurley and Ted Coulson.

Detroiter In Bewdley Given Last Respects

BEWDLEY, July 10 — (ENS)— Funeral service for the late Charles Thomas Ansell was held Monday afternoon in Port Hope from the residence of his sister, grove Avenue, with Rev. John Galloway conducting the service.

The sudden passing of Mr. Ansell in Detroit, Michigan, on Wednesday evening, came as a great shock to his family and friends in Bewdley. He was the victim of a heart attack and was taken to a Detroit Hospital where he died an hour later.

Mr. Ansell was a native of Port Hope but for many years he and his family lived in Detroit, coming to Bewdley about a year and a half ago where he purchased a grocery store.

Surviving are his widow, formerly Ada Young of Port Hope, a daughter, Marilyn of Bewdley and a son, Robert, of the U. S. army. There are six sisters, Miss Elsie Ansell, Mrs. Harold Trawin, Mrs. Harold Wallace and Mrs. Merwyn Lawson all of Port Hope. Mrs. J. Campbell, Campbellcroft, and Mrs. Frank Stinson, Detroit, Michigan. Another sister, Mrs. Welch of Port Hope died about a month ago.

The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful. Pall bearers were Messrs. Arthur Young, Harold Wallace, Merwyn Lawson-Sidey and Harry Goss. Interment was in St. John's Cemetery, Port Hope.

No More Royal Mail

Bill 322, "An Act respecting the Canada Post Office" finally passed the House of Commons on June 12th, after long and sharp debate on the new postal rates, schedule of delivery and the like. In their very proper anxiety about these matters all but one Member of Parliament missed a point of historic consequence. ... R. Adamson, Conservative, of York-West, noticed the omission which glares through all twenty-three pages of the Act. He said, as reported in Hansard of June 11th:

Mr. Adamson: I do not want to spoil this perfect holiday so far, Mr. Chairman, but I gather that the term "royal mail" is no longer applicable . . .

Mr. Rinfret (Postmaster-General): The hon. member will notice that the name of the act is 'An act respecting the Canada Post Office.'

Mr. Adamson: Yes. But this term 'royal mail' is now an obsolete term in Canada. That is the point I am getting at.

Mr. Rinfret: Yes.

Mr. Adamson: I regret that.

* * *

So do we. This is another and flagrant example of the underhand way government officials are changing the modes and designations in Canada. The word "Dominion" is being lifted out of the national vocabulary by civil servants. These same gentlemen, desk flunkies in back rooms who never show their faces on the floor of Parliament, have removed the word even from our telephone directories. It is under "Government of Canada," not "Dominion of Canada" that Federal offices are listed. In this new Act, the tradition-rich term "Royal Mail" is not mentioned once.

* * *

The defalcation is perpetrated with cunning ease in the first clause: "This Act may be cited as "The Post Office Act." Clause 2 (1) (a) defines: "Canada Post Office means the activities conducted under the direction and control of the Postmaster General." Beside this definition is the explanatory word "new." So it is: Canadian mail has always been called "Royal Mail." Are we ashamed of the term, of our status as a Kingdom? If this matter were put to a free vote in Parliament, or across the country, there would be no mistaking Canadian preference for a word which rightfully belongs to them: "Royal Mail." But it will not be put to the country. Little-souled people who are paid to "serve" Canada civilly have decided that "Royal Mail" is no longer good for us.

* * *

The term "Royal Mail" is made obsolete only by the Post Office department itself. Postmaster-General Rinfret has let his department bury the phrase by the wording of Bill 322. It has made "Royal Mail" obsolete by the very service it now gives. It would be a disgrace to the word to call the postal service which Canadians are getting today "Royal Mail." The only thing that could possibly be called regal about today's mail is the Post Office department's autocratic disregard of the public.

* * *

It is time to bring the service back to a condition where it will warrant the name "Royal Mail," and to put officials into the department who will make it Royal in fact and in name.

A Decline In Morals

When the book which was popularly called "The Kinsey Report" but which was more properly entitled Sexual Behaviour in the Human Male appeared a few years ago in the U.S.A. there was an outcry from some quarters that the evidence presented in the book pointed to a decline in the morality of that country. But it was more widely believed that the book made a statistical report upon conditions which had always existed, but which had been unknown to people of limited experience. A book has just appeared in England called English Life and Leisure which has shocked some readers, and they have rushed into print with gloomy letters about the moral decline which the book reveals; but once again people of more temperate mind have pointed out that the conditions have long existed, but that easily shocked people have not known about them.

The book is the work of Seebohm Rowntree and G. R. Lavers, both high-minded men, and the former a prominent Quaker. They have based their conclusions upon evidence which may seem slight to some people; they have visited a few public houses, three night clubs, one holiday camp, some dance-halls and dog tracks, they went to 125 movies and they paid others to interview a few prostitutes; altogether they were in direct touch with less than 1,000 people. On the basis of their findings they assert that the English people drink too much, gamble too much, and indulge too freely in sexual relations outside marriage. They suggest as remedies for these conditions more churchgoing, Government assistance in the production of good soft drinks, and forbidding the advertisement of liquor and tobacco. They have made some discoveries which alarm them: incest is not uncommon among very poor people; the clergy of the Church of Rome are more respected than Protestant clergy; that there are twice as many people engaged in the gambling industry as in the Royal Navy. They present a gloomy picture.

We do not claim any extensive familiarity with the seamy side of life but we know, as most normally observant people do know, that very poor people do many things which they probably would not do if they had more money. Everyday sexual morality is very different from what moral uplifters would like to think it is. People whose lives present them with problems to which there is no apparent solution often drink to excess. People who cannot attain wealth by their talents often hope to attain it by strokes of luck at the races or in lotteries. These are commonplaces of life, and when Mr. Rowntree and Mr. Laver present them as modern enormities they reveal a strange lack of acquaintance with the history of mankind.

As for the decline in church-going, it must be pointed out that it has always been uncommon among the very poor, even in the Victorian age. Even the best work of the Methodists, the Salvation Army, and other religious bodies which have devoted their utmost efforts to the poor has not been able to reach millions who are intensely suspicious of any attempts to "do them good." The problem of the very poor is an economic, educational and eugenic problem which religious teaching cannot solve unaided. Certainly we cannot believe that it will be solved by soft drinks and restrictive state action.

We are not prepared, either, to believe that the conduct of the very poor is heinously different from that of people in more comfortable circumstances. Not all of their problems are the result of poverty; many of them are simply human failings which are to be found everywhere. If there has been a great falling-off in churchgoing, it must not be blamed on the poor; they were never the main supporters of the churches, for the churches were kept up by people who had at least enough money to live on respectably.

We do not believe that there has been a dreadful slump in England, or on this continent. Indeed, we think that economic improvement has brought a degree of moral betterment with it. For morality is a luxury, and better living conditions and better wages put it within the range of greater numbers of people. But we cannot agree with Rowntree and Lavers that a great extension of state control, and an army of state-employed good-doers, would make the English people better. Indeed, from what we know of the English sense of humour, we fear that it would simply create the biggest joke that England has known in centuries; it might even bring back Merry England.

More Pounds For British Immigrants

The United Kingdom Government has agreed to increase the amount of sterling which heads of families may take to Canada from Britain. The present limit is £1,000 in the first four years of residence in Canada. This will be increased by £250 for every dependent member of the emigrant's family, provided that the total does not exceed £2,000 in the first four years. A further relaxation of restrictions has been made. Consideration will be given to applications by Britons now in Canada to spend their blocked funds in Britain during their first four years, on personal effects and tools of their trade. These concessions apply to immigrants already in Canada and to those who emigrate in the future.

These relaxations will be helpful to Britons already here and attempting to re-establish homes only out of current earnings. They should also be a stimulus to further immigration from Britain.

Labour Discipline In Soviet Union

By EDWARD CRANKSHAW

ONE of the legends now being actively spread by returned travellers from the Soviet Union is that there is little or no labour discipline in Russia today. Such discipline, it is explained, is unnecessary, since the workers themselves own the means of production—i.e. the factories. Further, having settled their wages through their trade unions by collective agreements, it is in the interests of all of them to work as hard as they can. Similarly, it is stated, there are no strikes in the Soviet Union for the simple reason that the workers would be striking against themselves, which would be absurd.

These statements, and others like them, are being put out by the many workers' and trade union delegations which have lately been invited from all countries to tour Russia and see for themselves. Sometimes they are made in all innocence by honest men and women who have been dazzled by Russian hospitality, impressed by the carefully selected wonders they have seen, and too credulous of the things they have been told about that they did not see: the capacity of the Soviet official for telling bare-faced lies is something outside their experience. But more often they are not made innocently at all, but are put out by loyal servants of Moscow Communism, often concealed, as part of the Kremlin's campaign to foment labour unrest in all non-Communist states.

THE fact is that labour discipline in the Soviet Union is not only infinitely harsher and more cruel than anywhere in Europe or North America, but also that it is different in kind. Whereas in the West a worker may be dismissed at the management's discretion and is then free to try his luck elsewhere, in the Soviet Union, where the State is the sole employer of labour, the central government decrees in precise detail a rigorous code of punishment for every conceivable offence against a labour discipline which is based on a high degree of regimentation.

In the words of an eminent Soviet jurist, writing as recently as 1949: "Under conditions of socialism . . .it is impossible to secure the principle of 'from each according to his ability' without pressure by the State and law . . ." In other words, as everybody knows, people will not work unless they have to. In free societies they are compelled to work by economic necessity. In the Soviet Union they are compelled to work by all the apparatus of the State and Party. It is a mighty apparatus.

SOVIET workers are punished by law for lateness, loitering at their work, absenteeism, leaving their job without express permission (which can be withheld for a lifetime), refusing to be transferred to another factory which may be at the other end of Russia, damaging or wasting factory property (including their working clothes, if such are provided), and a variety of other offences. Striking is out of the question: it comes under the general head of counter-revolutionary activity and, as such, may be punishable by death.

Soviet workers are required to work an eight-hour day and a six-day week. They have no guaranteed minimum wage. They are almost invariably paid on a steeply ascending piece-rate scale, and the norms are being constantly increased. Compulsory deductions, including nearly 10 per cent. for the "voluntary" State loan, reduce their pay packets by fifteen to twenty per cent. Wages and norms are fixed by Government decree and the basic rates are subject to no appeal by the trade unions. These have become the equivalent of the old Ministry of Labour, and the vaunted machinery of collective bargaining, when it works at all, is applied only to personal disputes between management and individual employees. The whole attitude of the State towards labour is summed up by the writer quoted above as follows:—

"In the socialist society there is no difference in principle and quality between drafted labour and labour performed by voluntarily entering into labour relations by taking employment."

THE Labour Laws which apply to labour generally have become steadily more rigorous. An example of their evolution may be found in the punishment for arriving late, leaving early, or loitering on the job. By a 1938 decree three such offences in one month earned a dismissal, and, with dismissal, the worker and his family were evicted from their home if it was attached to the factory, which it almost invariably was. But when a new decree was issued in 1940 making it a prison offence to move from one job to another, the Government was faced with the probability that workers would invite dismissal en masse as the only means of changing their jobs. So a further decree was promulgated substituting disciplinary action and court sentences for dismissal, and thus removing the last chance of freedom. For being more than 20 minutes late twice in one month a worker may be sentenced to six months in a mild category of forced labour.

It may be thought that in Soviet Russia with its vast spaces it would be easy for a worker to leave his job and start afresh elsewhere. But this is made virtually impossible by the internal passport system coupled with the institution of the work-book, in which the individual's detailed past is inscribed for all to see. If the work-book is not in order, he will not get another job.

IN addition to the normal labour laws, employees in certain key industries are subject to special codes indistinguishable from military discipline. Railway employees, for example, may be arrested and imprisoned for up to 20 days on a simple order from a superior. All the transport, post and telegraph and public utility services are now subject to these codes, which are increasing in number.

Nor is this harsh discipline confined to adult workers. According to a 1940 decree, 800,000 to 1,000,000 boys from 14 to 17 are called up every year for special training in trade and technical schools, or for apprentice training in the mining, metallurgical and building industries. It is clear from the fact that this training lasts from only two to six months that its level is not high, and that the true object of the decree is to secure large and steady drafts of young labour to be directed where required. The trainees wear uniforms, live in barracks, and are subjected to quasi-military discipline. After training they remain for four years subject to the Ministry of Labour Reserve, which directs them to any government enterprise in need of labour.

In 1947 the decree was supplemented by another, which provided for girls between 15 and 17 to be drafted in addition to boys. The arbitrary nature of this call-up and the fact that it has nothing to do with vocational training but only with supplying a steady stream of labour to those enterprises where it is most required, is indicated by the fact that each city has a set quota of youngsters to be delivered annually; while each collective farm is compelled to send up two youngsters for every 100 persons between the ages of 14 and 55.

This general picture, derived from a study of Soviet Government statutes and decrees, is very different from the picture presented by the returned delegations. It is confined to the normal labour conditions of "free" Soviet citizens, and takes no account of the many millions condemned to forced labour in the notorious camps.

International Relations Hindsight

(OTTAWA CITIZEN)

ONE of the meretricious satisfactions to be gained from the exercise of hindsight is that it appears to show the superiority of a course of action that was not tried out, over another course of action that was. It ostensibly shows that "what was done" was ill-considered and that "what should have been done" was wise.

Yet such conclusions are not always valid. It may be that a proposed but untested action would have had even more disastrous consequences than the course actually followed. It may be that, despite subsequent criticism, decisions taken at the time were correct in the light of existing conditions and foreseeable circumstances.

It is easy to say, as some are now doing, that Russia should have been excluded from the Japanese war theatre. The wisdom of that belief is less easily demonstrated than many persons would imply. By the same token, it is a little too easy to suggest, as has been done, that the Ming Sung ships at Hong Kong should have been denied Canadian registry. Certainly, in view of the need to protect Canadian investments, the action appeared best at the time.

Mr. George Drew, the Opposition leader, is now suggesting that the mere possibility of trade in strategic materials is sufficient ground for cancelling Canadian registry. There are still good reasons for making "proof" rather than "possibility" the criterion of such action. This is especially so as long as trade in non-strategic materials is still permitted. There is also good precedent for that principle in the traditions of British justice.

As the case now stands, the claim is made on the one hand that contraband is getting to China through Hong Kong and Portuguese Macao. On the other hand, Kong Kong authorities deny any leakage there. The Ming Sung company has said it would welcome a Canadian investigation of its activities. Persons familiar with Macao seriously doubt the ability of ships built for passenger travel to trans-ship goods in its shallow harbour. Furthermore, Portugal is an Atlantic Pact member whose sympathies would lie, one would think, with the Western democracies. Surely the merits of the case are not so one-sided that proof rather than possibility cannot be made the basis of action.

Grandmother's Rose Jar

OTTAWA JOURNAL

DO Grandmothers still fill rose jars in June? Jars to keep on their bureaus so the sweet, spicy smell will assail small boys' noses when they visit Grandmother to see if by chance she may have a few hard candies tucked away in a drawer?

Grandmother was famous for her roses—both red ones and white. They grew beneath the south-side farmhouse windows and beside the worn granite steps. She also had a few bushes at the edge of the vegetable garden and Father was always careful to feed them early in Spring, with well-rotted dressing. Grandmother took large rose bouquets to church; she sent them to shut-ins; and still there was always a sufficiency of petals to make a rose jar for herself and two or three to give away at Christmas. "Every new bride must have a rose jar her first married Christmas" was a country axiom.

True, Grandmother bribed small boys and girls to help pick the hundred petals necessary for one jar. It was much easier to pick if one had a piece of lemon rock candy in his mouth. Petals had to be gathered in the middle of the day when they were dry; then they were spread on large sheets of brown paper in the upstairs hall.

For several days the picking went on; each day Grandmother sprinkled a little salt on the petals as she stirred them. It may have been a fortnight before the petals were sufficiently dry to go into the jar. There were matters a young young man did not understand concerned with allspice and cinnamon, possibly a little orris root and lavender.

Probably rose jars are out of fashion now; but just once more a man would like to smell the fragrance that came from Grandmother's rose jar.

Letter To The Editor

LET THE POSTMEN RIDE

Sir: I must admit I am a little bewildered about this matter of the walking or riding mail carriers. Like most of the general public I was under the impression that these cheerful fellows, with their burdens, hopped on a bus any time, and at any place there was one available on their route and when they were on duty. To me it seemed a normal thing to do. Now we find out that they have to be issued with tickets like so many charity cases by a niggardly Government and a not too happy bus company.

Is it not possible to inject a little generosity towards these men—many of whom are veterans of world wars one and two? Some of them are getting on in years and their foot-slogging job is not an easy one. Let's forget about the miserable bus tickets for mail carriers and policemen and try and make the life of these public servants a happier one.

A Gift For Margaret

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

Margaret Truman seems to have made a great hit during her vacation in Europe as an utterly natural and unspoiled American girl, and Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express has gone so far as to describe her as the best ambassador of goodwill the United States has ever had. Before she left Ireland she remarked she would like to take home something that would remind her of "this beautiful country."

The result is that she was presented with a shillelagh, which has been sent on to the White House.

We trust no music critic runs afoul of the president if he gets his hands on that Irish cudgel.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And Hiram king of Tyre sent his servants unto Solomon; for he had heard that they had anointed him king in the room of his father: for Hiram was ever a lover of David. And Solomon sent to Hiram, saying, Thou knowest how that David my father could not build an house unto the name of the Lord his God for the wars which were about him on every side, until the Lord put them under the soles of his feet.

But now the Lord my God hath given me rest on every side, so that there is neither adversary nor evil occurrent. And, behold, I purpose to build an house unto the name of the Lord my God, as the Lord spake unto David my father, saying, Thy son, whom I will set upon thy throne in thy room, he shall build an house unto my name. . . .

And the king commanded, and they brought great stones, costly stones, and hewed stones, to lay the foundation of the house. And Solomon's builders and Hiram's builders did hew them, and the stone-squarers: so they prepared timber and stones to build the house. (I Kings 5: 1-5, 17, 18.)

✧ ✧ ✧

For we labourers together with God: ye are God's husbandry, ye are God's building. According to the grace of God which is given unto me, as a wise master-builder, I have laid the foundation, and another buildeth hereon. But let every man take heed how he buildeth thereupon. (Cor. 3: 9, 10.)

Trek 1,000 Miles To Honor Aussie Welfare Pioneer

By LOUIS L. LECK

SYDNEY, Australia — (CP) — Pedal-wireless sets of the Australian Inland Mission recently summoned people of the country's remote areas to the funeral of the Rev. John Flynn—"Flynn of the Inland."

Some travelled 1,000 miles to pay their last tribute of respect to the man who was their benefactor. The funeral service was held at Cloncurry in Queensland and later Dr. Flynn's ashes were flown to Central Australia for burial at the foot of Mount Gillen, near Alice Springs.

John Flynn was one of the Commonwealth's great pioneers. The Flying Doctor Service was his brain child, born of his passionate desire to relieve the loneliness and isolation of the people who live in Central Australia. It was for those people that radio experts at Dr. Flynn's insistence, devised the pedal-wireless although they told him he was asking for the impossible.

John Flynn was born in Victoria in 1880 and in 1902 he joined the home mission staff of the Presbyterian church. He was ordained in 1911 and in 1912 the general assembly appointed him to inquire into conditions in the inland and the far north.

Boundary Rider

Dr. Flynn studied the inland mile by mile, made his report. He was told to put his own report into effect and was appointed a superintendent of the Australian Inland Mission—becoming, in his own words, "a boundary rider for the church."

He resigned his post last October believing that "you shouldn't hang on to a job after you are 70."

In his 1912 report Dr. Flynn emphasized that the Inland the church must provide medical skill and assistance as well as spiritual comfort and guidance.

Nursing Outposts.

He and his helpers began by establishing nursing outposts and inspiring young city-trained nurses to give up city life for apointments where the bush came to the clinic door but where the people needed their skill desperately.

These bush nursing sisters helped tremendously but Dr. Flynn had heartbreaking experiences of injured men and sick women dying because they could not be brought quickly enough to the places where skilled aid was available.

Then came the aircraft and radio and Flynn of the Inland say at once what they could mean to the outback.

After many trials, a young electrician, A. Treagar, managed to develop a simple pedal radio by which every bushman or his wife could transmit news or appeals for help.

Built Up Network.

This invention was developed and improved and used to build up a radio network which now covers all the outback. Many a life has been saved by simple dos and don'ts the Inland doctors have transmitted for the treatment of country accidents and ills.

Next Flynn and his helpers turned to the airplane for aid.

Beginning at Cloncurry with Dr. K. St. Vincent Welsh (the first flying doctor) they build up an organization, which in its details of risks run, difficulties overcome, and lives saved, outdoes any fiction.

Now the flying doctor services in Australia consist of six non-profit-making public companies—two in Western Australia, one each in South Australia, Victoria, New South Wales and Queensland.

Art Collection Given Showing

TORONTO, July 10 (CP)—An $80,000,000 art collection, one of the world's most fabulous, will arrive here today for its only Canadian showing. It is the collection of the Royal Austrian Hapsburg family, now the property of the state museum in Vienna.

The collection was brought to America last year aboard a United States battleship and travels in four specially constructed railway cars attended by a full complement of armed guards.

Highlights of the collection which includes 133 paintings by such masters as Vermeer, Titian, Rubens and Rembrandt are: A 15-pound solid gold salt cellar by Cellini, an ointment jar made from a 2,680-carat emerald and a silver and gold gilt cradle used by Napoleon's son.

The treasures will be on view from Aug. 5 to Sept. 16.

Car Accidents Jump

TORONTO, July 10 (CP). — Automobiel accidents in Ontario jumped 27.5 per cent in the January-March period of this year over the same period of 1950 the Ontario Highway Department said Monday. Hamilton area had 1,354 accidents compared to 1,049 in 1950, an increase of 29.1 per cent; London district, 1,351 against 950, and Windsor area 1,192 compared to 876.

Wrote 500 Songs Composer Dies

CHICAGO, July 10 (AP). — Egbert Anson Van Alstyne, 73, composer of more than 500 songs, including In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree and Pretty Baby, died Monday at his home following a stroke. He had been ill for some time with arthritis and suffered a bout of pneumonia this spring.

A native of Marengo, Ill., Van Alstyne at the age of seven played the organ for a Methodist Sunday school. He started his professional career as a pianist and director for travelling theatrical companies.

For many years he appeared in vaudeville with a song-writing partner, Harry Williams.

His songs included Memories, Old Pal, Your Eyes Have Told Me So, Navajo, Sunshine and Roses, That Old Girl of Mine, Drifting and Dreaming and The Little Old Church in the Valley.

At the time of his death, he still was employed by Remick Music Corp., which listed more than 500 of his songs in its catalogue. His last song, published in 1938, was This Is My Song, written in collaboration with Gus Kahn.

He also wrote or collaborated on eight musical comedies produced on Broadway, including The Broken Idol, Belle of Avenue A, and Girlies.

Takes Optimistic View Of Marketing Tobacco

SIMCOE, July 10 — (CP) — Optimism regarding the marketing of this year's flue-cured tobacco crop was voiced by Francis R. Gregory, chairman of the board, at the annual meeting of the Ontario Flue-cured Tobacco Marketing Association here Monday.

"I feel that Great Britain will take 30,000,000 or 40,000,000 pounds of our tobacco and that we can sell all we produce this year. It is my prediction that there will be no surplus."

He told the gathering that members of the association received 44.90 cents per pound average for their leaf last year, which was .90 cents above the minimum average price. The Canadian average price for 1950 was 44.49.

Petes Triumph By 6 to 1 Over Belleville

The Petes racked up a 6-1 exhibition baseball win over Belleville here last night before some 400 fans. They bunched blows in two frames for their total and played good ball behind six-hit hurling by Doug Plunkett. The Quinte crew tried out their twirlers, with Cuffer Noakes the best in the final two frames. Willie Fordham started and was charged with the loss, Bill Strachan taking over from his early in the fourth. Each side booted but one.

Joe Lowrey led the locals at bat with two for three, and Plunkett had two doubles in four tries. Andy Milne supplied a triple and George Brabin a two-bagger. Tom Buchanan topped Belleville at bat with two doubles and a single, and Johnny Dean hit a triple and single in four for Pat Wilson's club. Walks and timely hits made for the Petes' runs in a neat number, while a triple and single gave Belleville their lone marker. The box score:

US In Running For Davis Cup

NEW YORK, July 10 (AP). — Just 10 months ago, the Australians carried the Davis Cup—amateur tennis' most coveted prize—down under for what looked like a long time.

But with the selection of Dick Savitt, Herbie Flam, Bill Talbert and Tony Trabert for the 1951 US team, the complexion of things was almost completely changed today.

Now the United States officials are predicting a better-than-ever chance of carrying the ancient mug back to America at the end of the challenge round in December.

Savitt and Flam will play singles in the first round against the Japanese team at Louisville starting July 20. Talbert, a veteran of many a Davis Cup team, will team with the youthful Trabert in doubles.

National champion Art Larsen, Hamilton Richardson, Gardnar Mulloy and Vic Seixas also were named to the squad, but unless the United States wins the first three of the best-of-five series, it's unlikely that they'll get a chance to show what they can do.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Haddy Eakins, one hears, has been signed by Ken Guilfoyle for Revoy's softballers and he may see mound action tonight against Reg. Gordon, who tosses good ball for Howie Dalton's UEW crew. Other Bowl game is between Harold Dormer's Orphans and the Lakefield Merchants, managed by Cam Wasson. Schedule winds up in another week, so the clubs in the men's loop are battling hard for playoff positions now and serving up some good ball. Lakefield, after a slow start, have been dishing up dandy competition in recent weeks. Top three teams get into playoffs, which start after the CGE holidays are o'er.

A recent AP item out of New Orleans told of how Atlanta manager Dixie Walker drew a long suspension and a fine for allowing his players to abuse an umpire. Seems the ump called a Mobile runner safe at home plate because the Atlanta catcher obstructed the base path, and the runner never did touch home. Hah, what kind of a pantywaist umpire is that? Since baseball began, catchers have tried to block the plate and runners have tried to cut the catchers in two. Neither party complained to the umps and the latter never stooped to scold 'em for such rugged tactics. Never until this guy gets into it. We don't blame Walker and his men for raising Highland Hack. Cy Whatley, frequently cut up, would agree with us. So would the late Chuck Kearns and other daring runners.

Too Many Brought In?

A squib from The London Free Press column: "As we've said before, we haven't any gripe against Americans, nor are we jealous of the prowess of athletes from the U.S. However, the ever-growing army of athletes from the country lapping up most of our sport gravy is doing untold harm here. There are at least a dozen Ontario-developed ball players now out of the game here for the season because of this. It is the same in golf and in football. If this trend continues, it won't be long until Canada produces a contingent of second-rate athletes. Promising youngsters fade from the picture when they see there is little chance of reaching the top."

* * * * * *

While Canucks dominate hockey and lacrosse, it is true that football and, in many places — like Oshawa, for instance — baseball is being taken over by the U.S.A. athletes. Fine fellows, mind you, and good sportsmen. But perhaps a limit should be set as to how many American imports may be carried by a club each year. Then, more Canadian boys would get their chance. The claim that the public wants to see packed teams with much U.S.A. talent aboard, doesn't hold water. We've had large crowds here years ago when few if any Americans were brought in. Allow some of these stars in, sure; but not 10 or 12 to a team, while good local players have to sit it out.

Petes Beat Belleville

Not too many at Riverside last eve but those on deck were treated to a neat senior ball exhibition. The Petes earned a 6-1 win o'er Pat Wilson's tribe from the Quinte shores, thumping the apple in timely fashion and cashing in on the odd walk in a couple of frames. Doug Plunkett threw a six-hitter as three flingers took a turn on the slab for Belleville. Just one error aside, with the Petes reeling off one twin killing. Joe Lowrey returned from vacation at his former home in Connecticut to bang out two hits in three tries and steal a couple of bases. Plunkett cuffed out a pair of two-baggers and drove in three runs. Infield clicked well. Buchanan and Dean—one of two colored boys with Bella Villa—led the losers at bat.

Cobourg made it warm for the Woollens in girls' softball at the Bowl last gloaming, taking 'em for a 20-7 ride. And Marines worked overtime to squeeze out a 6-5 verdict o'er Ashby's in 11 heats. A dandy duel it was with each side in turn having a lead in tight going and then knotting it up for the extra innings. Hits by M. Gillen and A. LaPointe turned the tide eventually but 'twas no disgrace for the losers, and it was a nifty one for Marines to tuck away. Girls' schedule is running out. Games tomorrow: Westclox vs. Woollens, and Cobourg vs. Ashby's, while Woollens trek to Cobourg this Friday.

Major League Players Favor Reserve Clause

DETROIT, July 10 (AP).—Major League ball players were formally on record today in favor of the controversial reserve clause.

The 16 player representatives from each team in the majors, meeting here on the eve of the all-star baseball game, voted last night in favor of a resolution giving club owners a vote of confidence in their retention of the reserve clause.

Freddie Hutchinson of the Detroit Tigers and Ralph Kiner of the Pittsburgh Pirates said players felt the clause was "necessary to the solidarity of baseball."

The clause, recently under attack by several players in the courts, binds a player to the club with which he first signs a contract.

Cobourg Takes Girls' Win Over Woollens

Cobourg Pavs trimmed Dominion Woollens 20-7 at the Bowl last evening in a Girls Softball League fixture before a small crowd of fans. They got their hits in bunches and never looked back after a seven-run outburst in the initial inning. Woollens' errors hurt their cause as L. Derry got some wobbly support at times. Cobourg played heads-up ball behind good pitching by B. Slater.

H. Cane and B. Slater went best defensively for the winners, as R. McInroy and L. Derry looked good for the losers in the field. I. Reedy and H. Cane led the Pavs at bat with four safe blows each. Triples were hit by M. McEntee, A. Dufton and I. Reedy. R. McInroy had three safe blows to top Woollens, while J. Walling and D. Smith slapped out three-base bingles. Teams:

Cobourg: J. Davis, lf; G. Hebert, ss; I. Reedy, c; H. Crane, 1b; B. Fisher, 3b; A. Dufton, 2b; B. McEntee, rf; R. Hills, cf; B. Slater, p.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

Tommorow is a big day on our bowling greens. It's the annual open doubles tournament for the Litt Lock Gold Trophy. This trophy was presented in 1945 by Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Graham in memory of Mrs. Graham's father, the late W. Kennedy.

This tournament is now recognized as the leading one of its kind in Ontario. The entry is complete—96 pairs competing. Bowlers will be here from Ottawa on the east, London on the west, Barrie on the north and right down to Lake Ontario on the south.

Robert Gamble and his committee have done a wonderful job. They spent long hours during the spring preparing for this big event. They have attended to all details, and they deserve all the credit.

Charlie Sedgewick, Wilfrid Le Barr. R. Coleman, H. Dearborn, J. Flett and H. Coleman are among those that we recall at the moment who will be back. Let's all do a little better than our best to make them welcome.

As Kipling phrased it:

"It ain't the guns or armament,
nor funds that they can pay,
But the close co-operation that makes them win the day—
It ain't the individual, nor the army as a whole,
But the everlasting teamwork of every blooming soul."

Cobourg Golfer Qualifies In First Round

William Bowen of Cobourg carded a nifty 80 on the par 70 course at Peterborough Golf Club yesterday to take down first prize in Class "A" of the Ontario Golf Association district junior qualifying round. He had a 38 going out on the medium-stiff course on a windy and cloudy day. The competition was run off by Robert Abbott, local OGA memger.

Ross Babcock of Lindsay had 44-45 for an 89 to lead the Class "B" field, with Dick Jeffrey of Cobourg next with 45-53 for 98. Third boy was Ron Tate of Peterobrough with 57-61 for 118 and he was closely followed by Hugh Pollard of Peterborough with 59-61 for a 120 total. In Class "C," George Pollard of Peterborough was first with 57-65 for 122, followed by Peter McCaig of Cobourg with 56-70 for 126.

Classes as to age limits were: "C" 13 and under; "B" 14 and 15; "A" 16, 17 and 18. Prizes given out by the OGA and presented by Robert Abbott were: clock and golf balls to the class winners, with billfolds and balls to the runners- up in each class.

Out At The Kawartha

The various club competitions are moving right along now, which is a real good sign indicating that the Handicap Committee are on the job, also that the boys can get together without getting the needle. Nevertheless we have a reminder that in the Men's 2 ball the deadline for the end of the second round is almost at hand. Moving into the next bracket last weekend were B. Crowley-D. Mortimer, R. Cumming-R. Stuart, G. Myles-R. Pearson. Entering the 3rd round were E. Reynolds-A. Caccavella, T. Mattucci-C. Reynolds, C. Grant-A. Thompson, J. Menzies.

In the Kawartha Cup play, R. Burns and G. Lee moved into the 2nd round, while the following pushed ahead into the 3rd, D. Bath, B. Durant, H. Hammell and G. Myles.

Players in the President's Cup Competition are quite active and a number took advantage of the fine, though windy weather of last weekend to move into the 3rd round. These were: B. Brideman, E. Gregson, H. McLean, M. Vermette, H. Correll, M. Akers, C. McDougall, E. Hanbidge, B. Moulton, T. Mattucci, and E. Reynolds.

The heavy rains have given rise to a hackneying of such terms as propagation, vegetation, consternation, however a couple of lads have been recently added to the staff and we note that those broad-leaf interlopers of the greens are fast disappearing.

We are pleased to note that the Kawartha sign by the 6th tee is in place and it goes without saying that the tourist will know that the first welcome sight of Peterborough is the Kawartha Golf Club.

The names of those qualifying for play in the club championship will be available for our next column.

The Kawartha Tennis Club has 21 of a possible 28 points in the tennis standing at present, recently defeating Bowmanville 7-0 here. Winners were Rose Fletcher over Norah Allin, John Fletcher over Keith Siemon, Don Lamont and Ron Lye over Art Bell and Bob Stevens, Forrest Rankin and Trevor Clarke against Arnold Lobb and Bob Martyn, Maurice Charlton and Willard Elmsley over Vivian Prout and Don Rundel, Agnes Bubik and Rod Stuart over Joan Hutchison and Cliff Trewin, and V. McHugh and Joan Lye against Aura Trewin and Marg Dunstan.

Wins Both Divisions

THORNCLIFFE RACEWAY, Toronto, July 10—(CP)—Royal Princess, queen of Eastern Canadian pacers, added two more victories to her record at Thorncliffe Raceway Monday when she won both divisions of the featured stake race.

Royal Princess is a real "Cinderella horse." She was aged seven one year ago—before she made her debut as a racer. Since that time, she has raced a total of 40 times and has won 38 of those dashes. She was second and third in her two other tries. When she sped to two more thrilling wins Monday she chalked up her 17th and 18th consecutive victories without a defeat this year.

Marlboros Quit Senior Hockey "Feel Not Wanted In Group"

TORONTO, July 10 (CP). — Toronto Marlboros Monday night withdrew from senior hockey competition for at least one season because they felt they were "not wanted in the group."

Announcement of the retirement of the team's famous blue and white colors was made by president Harold Ballard and Clarence (Hap) Day, assistant general manager of the Toronto Maple Leaf hockey empire. Attending a sub-committee meeting of the Ontario Hockey Association they said failure to organize a major hockey series and the fear of inferior senior competition prompted their decision.

Marlboros, 1950 Allan Cup champions, played in the OHA major series in the Alexander Cup race last season. President Ballard said the team's players would be released to other clubs "provided that they be returned should we enter senior or major hockey."

Club officials voiced their fear of senior hockey standards during discussion of a new senior A group in Ontario. They told delegates from Chatham, Sarnia, Brantford, Kitchener, Stratford, Hamilton, Niagara Falls, and Owen Sound, that senior hockey could not be sold in Toronto.

"The other clubs want us in the new league only if we're in a position to be plastered," stated Ballard.

August 2 Target

Delegates set Aug. 2 as a target for drawing up schedule dates, entries and the number of games to be played.

Monday night they reached tentative agreement on abolishing import limits if all the clubs stayed in senior A competition.

Kitchener, also in the major series last year, agreed to reduce its squad to senior calibre by sending its first-string forward line of Billy Flick, Mickey Roth and Dinny Flanagan to Stratford.

Delegates agreed to place a percentage of each game's receipts in a pool to be shared at the end of the season. This would assure that teams would not withdraw in mid-season and forfeit their share.

England Wins Third Match

MANCHESTER, July 10 (Reuters)—England today won the third cricket test match with South Africa by nine wickets to take a 2-1 lead in the best-of-five series.

Rain at one point threatened to rob England of victory. With nine wickets to fall and only four runs needed, a thunderstorm broke over the ground bringing play to halt shortly before lunch.

But the clouds cleared during the lunch break and only a couple of minutes were needed to finish the match.

Len Hutton, England opening batsman, just failed to score his 100th century in first-class cricket, a distinction held by only 12 cricketers. He was 98 out when the game ended.

John Ikin and Reg Simpson, only other England players to bat in England's second innings did their best to help Hutton to his target by refusing to take singles and doing as little scoring as possible.

Stops Short

When play resumed after lunch, Hutton needed to knock up three runs and then make a hit for six. He got the three runs but could only manage a four with his last stroke, the ball just dropping short of the fence.

The batsmen scored quickly this morning with an eye on the threatening weather. The pitch appeared unaffected by the rain and was easier than it had been Monday night.

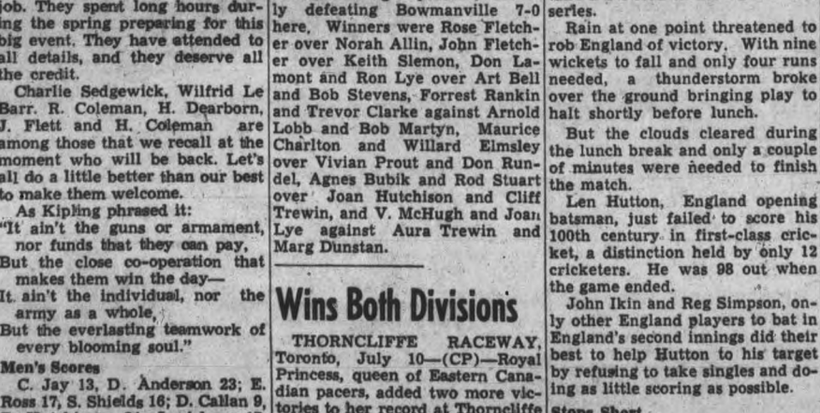
Hutton and Ikin reached the first century-opening partnership of the series in 145 minutes and went smoothly on until Ikin was bowled by Norman Mann with the score at 121.

Hutton and Simpson scored the remaining runs necessary for an England win.

St. Kitts Wallop Excelsiors 16-7

BRAMPTON, July 10 (CP). — Brampton Excelsiors had their 80th anniversary celebrations slightly spoiled Monday night by St. Catharines Athletics.

The Athletics beat the Excelsiors 16-7 in an Ontario Lacrosse Association senior game.



Lionel Conacher, former lacrosse great, threw in the first ball to open the game.

Brampton recovered from a 3-4 first period defeat to rush the score to 10-4 in a fast second quarter. The Excelsiors got their last goal in the second but the hustling Athletics tallied three more in both third and final periods.

St. Catharines' scoring was evenly divided with Nelson, Woolley, McMahon, Croft, D'Amico and Melville getting two apiece. Smith, Frick, Bird and Oneschuk each netted one.

For the trailing Athletics Garbutt was top man with three goals. Len Caruso got two and Joe Caruso and Sibbald earned one each.

BUNT — Phil Rizzuto can do more things with a bat than most ball players. Among many other things, the Yankees' shortstop is considered the best bunter in baseball. Here Little Scooter is off to first base after laying one down. Catcher is Senator's Mickey Grasso, the umpire John Stevens.

Marines Get It In The 11th From Ashby's

Outboard Marines eked out a 6-5 girls' softball win in 11 innings over Ashby's at the Bowl last evening. M. Gillen hit safely to open the bottom half of the 11th and A. LaPointe bingled her home with the winning run in a fine fray. It was a tight, seesaw struggle with Marines counting the tying run in the last of the ninth to send it into overtime after Ashby's ninth-inning run put them in front briefly. The winners got but seven hits, one more than the losers, and both sides booted just two.

E. Whittaker and E. Brown pitched dandy ball and had swell support most of the distance, catches by M. Boyce and L. Jordan featuring for Ashby's, while I. LaPointe and M. Behan shone defensively for Marines as the rival squads played hustling ball. M. Gillen let Outboards at bat with three safeties, none of the Ashby girls getting more than one safe clout. Teams:

Ashby's: D. Thompson, cf; J. Reynolds, c; M. Boyce, lf; L. Jordan, ss; M. Freeman, 1b; R. Boyce, 3b; P. Williams, rf; E. Brown, p; B. Callan, 2b.

Marines: M. Behan, ss; V. Page, 3b; M. Gillen, c; A. LaPointe, cf; E. Whittaker, p; M. Walling, lf; M. Carr, rf; B. McMahon, 1b; R. Leal, 2b.

Stengel Denies Animosity Brewing With DiMaggio

By JOE REICHLER.

DETROIT, July 10 (AP). — Manager Casey Stengel of New York Yankees today denied that any animosity exists between him and Joe DiMaggio, his slipping outfield star. He berated those "who are trying to embarrass Joe through me."

Rumors of strife between Stengel and DiMaggio began last summer when Casey dropped Joe out of the cleanup spot and attempted to convert the great centrefielder into a first-baseman. The rumors were revived over the weekend when Stengel removed DiMag from the lineup during Saturday's game at Boston.

A reporter went to see DiMaggio in the clubhouse and asked why he was taken out of the lineup.

"Go see the manager," Joe replied. "Maybe he'll tell you."

Stengel explained he removed DiMag, along with regulars Phil Rizzuto and Gerry Coleman in order to "rest" them for Sunday's game with the Red Sox.

Denies Charges

Unfortunately, DiMaggio did not know he had been yanked until after he had trotted out to the outfield. Casey had to dispatch one of his players to inform Joe he was through for the day. Some reporters took Casey to task for "trying to embarrass Joe."

"Me embarrass Joe?" he said incredulously. "Why should I do that to one who has done 20 times as much for baseball as I ever had done? It is others who are trying to embarrass Joe through me.

"He was the greatest all-round outfielder the game has ever seen. He still is great, oh, he has slipped some, but they want him to be as great at 37 as he was at 21. That just can't be done.

"The fellow could do everything. He could hit, field, throw, go from first to third and get that base on balls. . . If he had put in 15 years in Boston's Fenway Park, he would have broken every hitting record in the book."

Battling Guards On Money Truck Kill Two Gunmen

CHICAGO, July 10 (AP). — A Brinks Express driver, slugged over the head with a robber's jammed shotgun, Monday shot to death two well-known Chicago hoodlums in an attempted holdup of his truck.

Two oth[illegible] of the hold-up gang fled the scene—the Bowman Dairy Company distributing station—after a gun battle of several minutes with police. They obtained no loot.

Chief of Detectives Andrew Aitkin identified the dead men as Rocco (Nick or Lucky) Balcastro and Frank Piazza. He said he had questioned them recently about a series of battering-ram robberies of currency exchanges. They were about 35 years old.

Aitkin said he believed he knew the robbers who escaped, but declined to name them.

Police and fellow Brinks employees said Brinks driver Julius Blanchard, 25, shot down Balcastro and Piazza when they attempted to rob the Brinks truck laden with Bowman's day's receipts.

Balcastro slugged Blanchard with a shotgun which apparently jammed. The guard was treated at a hospital for a gash between his eyes.

Brinks guards said the robbers, clad in dairy men's smocks, walked up a ramp to the second floor of the near northwest side building where the company collects the day's receipts from its drivers. The robbers apparently donned masks just before attempting to hold up the Brinks truck.

WAR DEAD HONORED—British royalty and top government officials join American army and civilian personnel at St. Paul's Cathedral in London where a special service was held on Independence Day, honoring the 28,000 Americans who lost hteir lives while stationed in England during World War II. In the ront row are the Duchess of Kent, Princess Margaret, Princess Elizabeth, Her Majesty the Queen, and General Dwight D. Eisenhower, who participated in the ceremony.

Nickel Company Elects Two Directors

NEW YORK, July 10 (CP)—I. C. Raymond Atkin, vice-president of J. P. Morgan and Co., Inc., and Lewis W. Douglas, former United States ambassador to Britain, have been elected directors of International Nickel Co. of Canada, Ltd.

Mr. Atkin was born in Springfield, Ont., served in the Canadian army in the First World War, attained the rank of captain and was awarded the Military Cross and Bar; and was with the Royal Bank of Canada in various branches from Vancouver to Montreal until he joined J. P. Morgan Company in 1925.

Mr. Douglas was born in Bisbee, Arizona, of Canadian ancestry, his father having been a native of Megantic township, Que. He was director of the United States budget, 1933-34; principal and vice-chancellor of McGill University, Montreal, 1938-39; chairman of the board of Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, 1940-47; and American ambassador to Britain 1947-50.

One-Year Contract

PARIS, Ont., July 10 (CP).—Signing of a one-year contract between the J. D. Adams Company and local 1032 of the United Automobile Workers (CIO) granting an eight-cent-hourly wage increase was announced Monday. A contract clause provides for a cent an hour increase for each 1.3 point rise in the cost of living index.

Board Sues City

OTTAWA, July 10 (CP).—The Ottawa Public School Board Monday filed suit against the city of Ottawa for $175,000, an amount which the School Board claims is its share of federal grants paid the city in 1949 and 1950. A legal spokesman for the School Board explained that while there has been legislation passed earlier this year which prohibits such a claim against the city, the legislation does not cover the years 1949-50.

Walk Off Jobs

BRANTFORD, July 10 (CP).—Eight Italian immigrants assigned to work on Brant County farms walked off their jobs Monday, asking for $100 a month and board instead of the $45 or $50 a month they have been receiving. National Employment Service officials placed them on other farms a few hours later

GERMAN ENVOY — After a 10-year lapse, diplomatic relations were formally re-established with the arrival in Washington of Heinrich Krekeler, newly-appointed charge d'affairs for the West German Republic. Since Germany is still an occupied country, Krekeler cannot have the title of ambassador or minister.

Bus Races Landslide But 2 People Killed

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, July 10 (AP).—Passengers on a crowded bus screamed Monday when they saw a landslide thundering toward them on a mountain road.

The driver stepped on the gas and raced across the path of the approaching slide, but one rock caught the end of the bus and sliced off the last row of seats, killing two occupants and seriously injuring two others.

Will Accept Car

VANCOUVER, July 10 (CP)—An official of the Dominion income tax ofifce said Monday it is prepared to accept Nick Lucas' new $3,400 sedan as part payment of his 1950 tax—if he turns in his keys and an authorization to sell. Lucas, owner of Lucas Motors, last week parked the car outside the income tax office and said the government could take it as part payment on his tax. He termed his payment method a protest against Federal credit restrictions which he claimed have so injured his business he has not the ready cash to pay his taxes.

Reinstate Four Men Suspended By CSL

FORT WILLIAM, July 10 (CP)—Canada Steamships Line officials Monday reinstated four men suspended last week on charges of counselling fellow employees to disobey orders.

A. Mose of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks AFL said a joint company-union committee returned a decision acquitting the men.

The employees were members of Lodge 408 of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks which was suspended by the international brotherhood for breaking an agreement on working hours with CSL last week.

Mr. Mose said the lodge will be reinstated "within a few days."

Murder Charged In Death Of Bride

AUCKLAND, NZ, July 10 (CP)—George Cecil Horry, 44, Monday was charged with murder in the disappearance of his bride of one day who vanished nine years ago.

The bride, Mary Eileen Turner, disappeared in July, 1942, the day after she married Horry, then using the name of Turner.

Her body has not been found.

In December, 1942, Horry told her parents she had lost her life when their ship was torpedoed on the Atlantic. He said he had been picked up by a warship, police said.

Enlarge Landing Right

OTTAWA, July 10 — (CP).—Trans-Canada Airlines' landing rights at Shannon Airport in Eire were enlarged Monday, the External Affairs Department announced. An exchange of notes at Dublin between the Canadian and Eire governments gives TCA the right to take on and land at Shannon Airport passengers and cargo to and from any countries. Up to now, this right applied to traffic between Canada and Eire only.

Manslaughter Charge

WINDSOR, July 10 (CP).—Mrs. Tillie Klebanoff of Detroit Monday was arraigned on a charge of manslaughter arising out of the traffic death Saturday of Charlene Allard, 9. The Allard girl died shortly after being admitted to hospital. Mrs. Klebanoff was remanded to July 16 on $2,000 bail.

Bevan, Backers Ask Cutdown In Rearmament

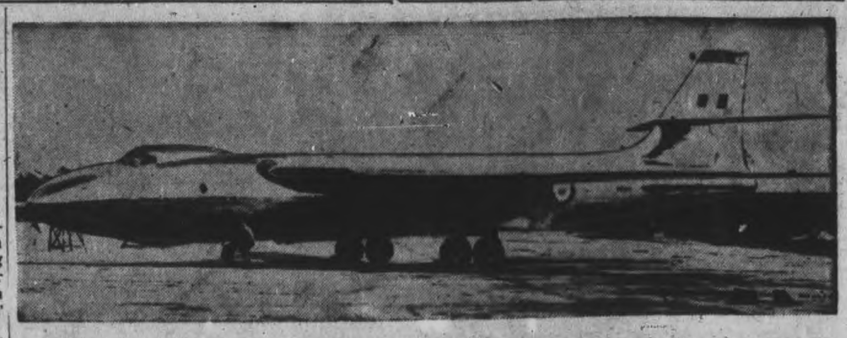
LONDON, July 10 — (CP) — Aneurin Bevan, former Health Minister, and a group of left-wing MPs called on the British Labor movement Monday to work for a cutdown of the Atlantic Allies' rearmament program.

They suggested Britain should urge its allies to switch "a considerable part" of their labor and resources into a vast new mutual-aid plan for fighting poverty — and thus Communism — in the backyards of the world.

Bevan, leader of the left-wing faction, and about 24 supporters put forward these ideas in a pamphlet as part of a campaign to change the Labor government's home and foreign policies.

The pamphlet, "One Way Only," urged Britain to use its bargaining strength "to restrain the Americans" and halt a drift to war.

"In 1953, the Americans will possess . . . a force greater than that which was ever possessed by any other country in peacetime. It is not unknown for a giant to wish to use his strength even though he is not attacked.



"The time for the allies of the United States to exercise their restraining influence on American policy in the cause of peace is now, before it is too late.

"We may have no more than two years in which to save the peace."

"The Little Foxes" Presented At Niagara

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., July 10 — (CP) — The Niagara Falls Summer Theatre Monday night presented Lillian Hellman's "The Little Foxes" as its second play of the season. Starring Mrs. Armin Thine Latimer of Niagara Falls, NY, former Broadway actress, it will be run for a week.

The first production, which opened three weeks ago, was the S. N. Behrman comedy "The Second Man". Franchot Tone, stage and motion picture actor who began his career in amateur plays in this district, appeared in it.

SECRET BOMBER—First four-engined jet bomber is this British Vickers 660, still on the secret list. The giant R.A.F. plane, already successfully test-flown, is powered by Rolls Royce Avan engines.

Woman Faces New Charges In Boy's Death

Motor Manslaughter Drunk Driving Added To Charges

Charges of motor manslaughter and drunk driving were added to previous charges of dangerous driving and failure to remain at the scene of an accident today against Miss Gladys Long, Montreal, formerly of Lindsay.

The charges arise out of an accident on the Chemonge Road on June 9 when David Sanderson, 10, was instantly killed when struck by a northbound car a mile and a half north of Peterborough.

The boy and a friend, Peter Newmaster, 9, were pushing their bicycles up the hill on the east side of the highway. They were in single file. A northbound car passed another on the hill, and swerved back to the east side to avoid an oncoming car, hitting the two boys.

The Sanderson boy was knocked about 70 feet by the impact.

Police set up a roadblock between Peterborough and Lindsay after they were told by a witness that the car had been driven away. About 9 p.m. Miss Long was arrested in Lindsay.

The case was adjourned until July 24 when a preliminary is scheduled.

ALEX SOLLITT

Alex. Sollitt Dies In Hospital At Age Of 50

Formerly very active in the affairs of the community of Peterborough, and in Masonic circles, Charles Alexander Sollitt of 243 London St., died today in hospital. He was 50 years of age.

Mr. Sollitt was born in Peterborough, son of the late Francis Thomas Sollitt and Adlet Kennedy, was educated in city primary and secondary schools, and except for the past five years worked in the city.

He first worked as assistant chemist at the Quaker Oats Company and then in the Canadian General Electric in the cost and estimating department. Following this he was 15 years with the city branch of the Canada Life. Appointed as representative in 1931 he became district manager in 1935 and assistant branch manager in 1942 until his retirement from the company.

For the past five years Mr. Sollitt has been president and general manager of Campbell Lubricating Specialties of Toronto.

He was appointed to the Board of Education and served on it, except for one year, from 1940 until 1946 and was chairman of the board in his last year.

Able Administrator

Present chairman Dr. Ralph Honey said today of his ability that he was a very able administrator and although he was actively engaged in his insurance business, he gave of his time generously. Dr. Honey said that the city had lost a trusted public servant.

Mr. Sollitt held many Masonic offices: Past Master of Corinthian Lodge 101, Past Grand Pursivant of the Grand Lodge of Canada in Ontario, Past First Principal of Corinthian Chapter of Royal Arch Masons. He was also Past District Superintendent of Royal Arch Masons, Ontario district, and was for years on the Grand Council of Royal Arch Masons in Canada. A member of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, he was past Chairman of the Board of Managers.

Well Liked

Other public offices held by Mr. Sollitt were past president of the Ontario Motor League and past president of the Peterborough Automobile Club. In service club work, Mr. Sollitt was one of the charter members of the Peterborough Kinsmen Club and its fourth president in 1933. Alex Elliott, KC, says that he was a very active worker, well-liked, cheerful and pleasant and acted as goodwill ambassador to many Kinsmen clubs in the province.

He leaves his wife, the former Winnifred Young and one son Donald K. Sollitt, both of this city. He also leaves a sister, Mrs. W. A. Hinds (Clara), a niece, Betty Jane Hinds, and an aunt, Miss E. Kennedy, all of this city. Mr. Sollitt was a cousin of Donald Loucks.

Funeral service will be held on Thursday at the Comstock Funeral Home at 2 p.m. The Rev. Ivan C. Morgan of Murray Street Baptist Church will officiate and burial will be at Little Lake Cemetery.

Round Up Top Communists IUE Men Ask

Local Labor Council Include Jackson In Biting Resolution

The immediate roundup of Canadian communist leaders was advocated Monday night by the Peterborough and District Labor Council (CIO-CCL).

It was embodied in a 500-word resolution introduced by Irwin Yeo, Local 524 IUE (CIO-CCL), and seconded by Orville Martin, Local 599, IUE (officeworkers).

Only one delegate voted against the lengthy resolution which condemned communism and all its works, and specifically the United Electrical Workers, C. S. Jackson of the UE, Fred Rose, and Joe Stalin.

The dissenter who found this blanket condemnation a bit too thick was Ed Humphrey, Local 434, United Packinghouse Workers.

In part, the resolution states:

"That the Labor Council condemns communism and all it stands for, whether practised by Joe Stalin or by the phoney UE and its Soviet-trained leader, C. S. Jackson, or by Fred Rose who released information that could have resulted in the slaughter of Canadian soldiers.

"That this resolution be sent to Ottawa demanding of our government the immediate roundup of Canadian leaders of the communist arm; that we protect our boys in Korea from being stabbed in the back while facing the enemy in front; that the government denounce as subversive the LPP movement and other leaders and fellow travellers...."

"Brazen" Affiliation

The resolution tied in the UE with the communist movement.

"The UE has brazenly announced communist affiliation through some of its officers; all of which has been going on while our boys have gone to war in Korea against communist aggression, an aggression that is a threat to our very existence."

Mr. Yeo pointed out that the United States government had rounded up known communist leaders and followed this up with a roundup of second level leaders "so its soldiers fighting in Korea would be better protected."

He advocated a similar course of action in Canada.

Communism Stronger

"It's about time the Canadian government woke up to the fact that the communists are getting stronger every day," said president Alfred Barber. "They should do something now. Round up these people; put them in concentration camps or send them back to Russia."

Lorne Bebee, Local 293, UPWA, said that Fred Rose, who was given six years in penitentiary for espionage, cannot be deported from Canada for his crime because he was a Canadian citizen before the recent amendment to the Citizenship Act.

"The government will just have to put up with him or put him in a concentration camp," said Mr. Bebee.

Awareness To Responsibilities

Mr. Humphrey said the resolution was a "negative approach."

"We're simply dodging the whole issue," he said. "We need to make people aware of their responsibilities in the trade union movement. It's up to ourselves. It's not enough to merely say we're against something; people want to know what we're for.

"A job of education needs to be done," said Mr. Humphrey.

Mr. Martin agreed, though he still supported the resolution.

"We've fallen down in educating union people," he said. "Somehow organized labor has left a loophole for communism to creep in."

Dave Hatherly, Local 599, IUE, said communism could happen here.

He warned that food and crops would be stripped from the owners to feed others. And "IUE people would be sent to Siberia to mine for gold."

The resolution is to be sent to the federal government, the CCL convention in September, and IUE convention in September.

The IUE international at the same time will be requested "to continue their fight against UE in Peterborough and in Canada in general."

Permit For Church Refused Discrimination Says Pastor

COBOURG, July 10. (ENS) — Council was visited by a deputation in connection with prospective church property on King St. east, at its meeting last night, at which the Rev. Roy Vanderlip, pastor of Fellowship Baptist Church, charged that discrimination had been shown in refusing the necessary building permit.

The matter came before council some weeks ago and as that section of the town is known as a residential area, council referred it to the town solicitor.

Last night the solicitor replied in a letter to council, that the residential bylaw was in force and could not be altered in part or repealed without permission from the Municipal Board.

It was true that there were now apartment houses in that area and this changed the status somewhat but the fact still remained that the bylaw was in effect and all council could do was to ask that the bylaw be amended with permission from the Municipal Board and open up the matter by a public hearing. It was a matter for the applicant to request the amendment, after which council would give two readings to the bylaw and refer it to the Municipal Board.

Apartment Built.

John C. Knox formerly of Toronto, owner of the property which the Fellowship Baptist Church wanted as a church site, said that permission had been given for an apartment house next door.

"I want to know, why?" demanded Mr. Knox of the mayor and council.

"The apartment building permit never came before the council for consideration. You will note that the solicitor in his letter says that if the applicants want to go ahead and take a chance it was up to them," Mayor Jack Burnet said.

Town Engineer Claire Saunders said that he didn't start the idea of giving permits to apartment houses in the residental area in question.

"The bylaw only allows private dwellings and one apartment therein, not an apartment house," Mr. Knox pointed out.

Discrimination.

"I went to the town engineer," said Douglas Knox member of the church delegation "and he said that the residential restrictions were in force and told me to see the council about it."

It looks like discrimination to me. If it rests as it now is, the onus is on the council to make it right," said Mr. Vanderlip.

"It is going to be either a permit for the church, or the apartment removed," asserted Mr. Knox.

"I don't want to be discourteous to you, but you have made no official appointment to address council to-night and we are meeting with a union representative this evening who made his appointment two weeks ago and we are obliged to grant him the hearing he has asked for.

You have heard the opinion of the town solicitor and I would suggest that you follow it. Make your application for an amendment to the residential bylaw as the solicitor suggests and allow the necessary legal machinery to function," Mayor Burnet said.

Runaway Car Crashes Pole

A runaway car was involved in one of three minor accidents reported Monday to the police department.

While parking his car on the north side of Simcoe St. opposite the Harrison apartments, Ed Ryan, 374 Grady St., bumped a parked car. It started to roll backward east on Simcoe St., turned south on Queen St. and crashed into a pole guide wire. Damage was estimated at $75.

Mr. Ryan ran after the car to try to stop it ,but the doors were locked and he couldn't get at the brake.

A second accident happened on Elias St., involving cars, owned by Dr. H. G. Carleton, 316 Margaret Ave., and John Fitzgerald, 309 Elias St. PC Harold Andrew investigated.

A third accident occurred at the CGE parking lot on Park St. A southbound car, driven by William H. Walker, 480 Howden Ave., met in collision with a car, driven from the parking lot by A. L. DelaPlante, 516 Romaine St. Slight damage was reported. PC W. A. Scott investigated.

City Employees To Hold Picnic

The first annual outdoor workers' picnic for all city employees with the exception of employees in the city hall will be held Thursday afternoon at Nicholls Oval.

A proclamation by Mayor M. J. Swanston has been issued closing all civic departments except the city hall at 12 p.m. Thursday.

A total of 200 including employees and families are expected to attend the picnic which has races, ball games and lucky draw prizes on its agenda. Mayor Swanston will officially open the afternoon's program, and make the draws for the prizes.

The city hall employees held their picnic at Sturgeon Lake, June 27.

400 Tribesmen, Friends Attend Chief's Funeral

In cars from near and far, outboard boats, canoes and on foot, more than four hundred tribesmen, friends and American tourists converged at Curve Lake United Church on the Indian Reserve on Monday afternoon to attend the funeral service of their highly-respected Chief, George Henry Coppaway.

The church was crowded to overflowing and many sat on chairs outside the building to hear the Rev. Willard B. Day's service that lasted for one and one-half hours. Many American friends, who knew the late Chief through his years as guide on fishing trips, were in attendance as well as other visitors who brought their Indian guides to the Reserve for the occasion.

Chief Coppaway died in a drowning accident on Friday afternoon. He had been fishing for minnows and his overturned boat was discovered about 30 feet from shore by his wife. He was 59 years of age.

Pall-bearers were Merritt, Dow, Clayborne, Johnny and Dick Taylor and Coleman Jacobs. Flower bearers were Stephen and Allen Taylor, Austin and Leslie McCue, Victor Johnson and Allen Beaner. Burial was at Curve Lake Indian cemetery.

City Sells Debentures Below Par First Time In Peterborough's History

Price Still Considered Good At 96.657 Compares Favorably With Other Cities Local Improvements Expected To Suffer

The city sold its first debenture issue at a price below par Monday night. However, the price received on the $413,000 issue is considered a good one, and compares favorably with issues of other cities. Buyers were Dominion Securities, A. E. Ames, and the Canadian Bank of Commerce, who quoted an average price of 96.657. Interest yield will be 4.05 per cent.

A breakdown of the issue, with interest rates, and amounts for various purposes, follows:

For sidewalks, $4,013.16 for 10 years at 3¼ per cent.

For pavement, $62,712.87 for 10 years at 3¼ per cent.

For sewers, $184,760.51 for 15 years at 3¼ per cent.

For the new utilities office, $100,000 for 20 years at 4 per cent.

For the addition to the Grove School, $65,000 for 20 years at 4 per cent.

City treasurer A. S. Couper said today the Utilities Commission and the Board of Education would have to take a loss on the amounts going to them, but the biggest loss would have to be borne by the city on monies for local improvements.

Difference $13,000

The difference between par value and the accepted bid, he said, would amount to roughly $13,000.

Reason for the sale of the issue below par, said Mr. Couper, was the bad situation of the bond market. Because of tight credit restrictions, interest rates have been pushed up.

"It's the only issue I can remember for which the city didn't receive par or better," Mr. Couper remarked.

A representative of Dominion Securities said that Monday night's purchase price indicated the city has a very strong credit rating.

Bids from other groups ranged upward from 94.22 to near the accepted figure of 96.657.

The loss borne by the city on local improvement bonds, said the city treasurer, would be partly offset by debenture premiums the city holds. These amount to between $2,000 and $3,000.

Hard To Sell

Recent stories in the Financial Post indicate cities and towns had a tough time selling their debentures. Most of them sold at less than the high figure accepted by Peterborough.

Winnipeg sold $2.5 million in debentures at a cost of 4.5 per cent; Sudbury could get only between 94 and 95 per cent on $130,000 worth of local improvements, and finally withdrew the issue temporarily.

Charlottetown, PEI, finally sold $250,000 at 4.62 per cent.

Property Made Dump People Charge

Two irate Romaine St. residents drafted a letter to city council recently, and Monday night it was read to the council.

The two men referred to city property at Monaghan and Romaine Sts. as "an eyesore," "nothing but a common dumping ground for contractors," and a number of other nasty things.

The two—John Chambers and H. E. Atkinson—said the present situation of the property caused water to accumulate on their properties. After the recent heavy rainfall, water on their properties was about a foot deep.

Council decided to slap "no dumping" signs on the land and prosecute anyone caught violating the order.

Alderman Douglas Miller suggested turning the land over to the parks committee with an eye to making it into "green" property. But council decided the no dumping issue deserved immediate treatment.

However, Alderman P. J. Anglesey of the parks committee said his department would view the land and estimate the cost of turning it into greenery.

300 Pilgrims From US Visit Ste. Anne

STE. ANNE DE BEAUPRE, Que., July 10 — (CP) — Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York arrived in this 300-year-old shrine town Monday night and, holding aloft a plain black cross led pilgrims from his diocese to Ste. Anne's Basilica.

The Roman Catholic Church leader of New York diocese was greeted by Archbishop Maurice Roy of Quebec, head of the church's oldest diocese in North America.

The pilgrimage of more than 300 persons including priests and nuns, was the first from New York to this small town built in the steep hills that line the St. Lawrence river shore 26 miles east of Quebec City.

The pilgrims are here until Wednesday, when their three-day visit will close with a pontificial high mass celebrated by the United States prelate.

Saved from Storm.

Origins of Ste. Anne De Beaupre as a pilgrimage centre goes back to around 1650 when tradition has it, Breton mariners saint of Britanny, to save them from destruction in a St. Lawence river storm which threatened to smash their vessel.

The boat was blown ashore on the north side of the river, and the sailors erected a log chapel in fulfilment of a vow made at the height of the storm.

Miraculous cures were reported and the fame of Beaupre—meadow"— spread far and wide.

GAS EXPLOSION—This is an airview of one of the series of explosions of huge propane gas tanks at a storage plant in the highly industrialized port area of Newark, N.J. Flames of some of the explosions rose to 2,500 feet in the air and set off a fire which roared completely out of control for hours. Every available piece of fire apparatus from New Jersey's largest city was called to the scene. In the right foreground above are storage tanks. In the background, the skyline of midtown New York can be seen.

Body Identified

TORONTO, July 10 — (CP) — Police said Monday the body of a youth found floating in Toronto harbor's eastern gap during the weekend has been identified as Kenneth Williams, 20, of Kingston. They said they believed the youth fell off a city wharf two weeks ago and was drowned.

Held For Bogus Bills

NEW YORK, July 10 (AP) — A 40-year-old student was accused Monday night of passing six counterfeit $10 bills at a church bazaar in the Bronx. The student, booked as Robert R. Gross, was charged with passing counterfeit money. He was picked up at St. Simon Stock's Roman Catholic Church.

Margaret Has Measles

LONDON, July 10 (Reuters)—Princess Margaret is suffering from German measles and will remain in her room at Buckingham Palace for the time being, it was learned today. The Princess, who will be 21 in August, cancelled an engagement last week and returned to the palace because of a cold.

Royal Ship Needs Few Changes

LONDON, July 10 (CP)—Canadian Pacific Steamships officials indicated today that few alterations will be necessary to the 20,448-ton Empress of France in order to accommodate Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh on their autumn voyage to Canada.

A spokesman for the company said that in any case, little extensive remodelling can be done because the ship spends only two days in port before heading for Canada. He also said there has been no indication yet as to how big the Royal party will be.

British shipping sources said a self-contained Royal apartment probably could be fashioned merely by the addition of a few temporary bulkheads.

Berlin Has Memorial To 51 Allied Fliers

BERLIN, July 10 (AP)—Grateful West Berlin today immortalized 51 American and British fliers who gave their lives to the mighty airlift that broke the back of the Soviet blockade two years ago.

West German and allied officials joined in dedication of a memorial to the men who died in crashes during the 11-month siege in which West Berlin was fed by air transport alone.

The 63-foot-high stone statue, symbolizing the three "air corridors" to Berlin used by the airlift, was erected at the big American base at Tempelhof.

OFFERS INCREASE

Niagara Racing Association, conducting the racing meet at Fort Erie track, Monday night offered to increase purse money during the second seven days' racing here by $5,000. This was in answer to a request by the Horsemen's Benevolent Protective Association for an increase of $8,400.

Charles Hemstead, acting chairman of the HPBA said the offer would be reported to president Vince Sheridan. The HPBA committee will meet today to discuss the increase.

Hold Courtesy Week To Aid Conditions In South Africa

JOHANNESBURG — (CP) — Subscribing to the view that present-day standards of social manners leave much to be desired, the Union of South Africa has just held a "Courtesy Week."

The event, supported by Governor-General Dr. Ernest George Jansen, was an attempt to encourage better manners in all spheres of life. In this dominion it is obviously desirable that the white population should set a high standard of behaviour. The white population of English and Afrikaans totalling 2,500,000 is greatly outnumbered by 9,500,000 non-Europeans.

Courtesy is an obvious means of averting incidents precipitated by a real or imagined insult to natives. Sir Herbert Stanley, a former governor of Ceylon now living in Capetown, told a Rotary meeting here that "people will forgive injury and even injustice, but they never forgive nor forget insult."

He mentioned the "insulting names" which some people give native servants and told his audience of business men they should be as ready to give up their seat in a bus to a colored woman as to a white girl.

In many parts of the Union the African natives either have their own buses or are relegated to the upper deck.

Children Trained

C. M. Booysen, director of education for Natal Province, asked all schools to co-operate in Courtesy Week. He has also introduced new classes covering citizenship, character training and courtesy for all grades up to 12-year-olds. Similar courses will be issued for grades up to 16.

"No one who views the general conduct of youth or society will claim that what has been achieved is sufficient, or that the results obtained are entirely satisfactory," he says.

The Governor-General himself criticized behavior of motorcar drivers and pedestrians alike. He said he doubted whether better manners would help remove Johannesburg's distinction as one of the world's worst cities for traffic deaths, but said it would certainly help.

Dr. Jansen in seeking a reason for a "general lack of courtesy" today blamed it on the hustle and bustle of modern city life.

LAKERS MOVING AGAIN—The Soreldoc is shown above, left, gliding past the Ville Ste. Pierre jack-knife bridge Saturday, shortly after the span was repaired following a 24-hour breakdown. About 20 lake boats which had been stranded in the Lachine Canal for almost 24 hours began moving again Saturday when engineers repaired a bridge at Ville St. Pierre. It was estimated that shipping companies experienced a loss of $20,000 during the tie-up. It was the third breakdown at the Lachine Canal this year. The first one came just 12 hours after the navigation season opened and the second followed a few days later. The series of breakdowns caused a wave of protests from shipping companies which charged that they were losing large amounts of money by having their boats lie about for so long with heavy cargoes.

Orange Lodges Church Service In Millbrook

MILLBROOK, July 10 (ENS)—The annual church service of the East Durham County Loyal Orange Lodges was held in St. Andrew's United church Sunday evening.

The Rev. A. M. Butter, BA, newly inducted minister of St. Andrew's, welcomed the Orde and delivered the address. He took as his subject "Justification by Faith." The scripture lesson from the fifth chapter of Romans, verses one to eight, was read by Alex. Carruthers of Gerdan Hill, the county chaplain. The special music consisted of two numbers, one by the male quartette, "My Guiding Star." Those in the quartette were Gordon Wright, Donald McKnight, Homer Ouellette and Melville McDowell. The other special music was a vocal solo "The Beauiful Land on High," sung by Fraser Carr.

Those in charge of the church parade were Right Worthy, Wilbert Fallis of Millbrook, Past County Master; Kenneth Moncrief, of Fraserville, present County Master, and Tom Staples of Bethany, Deputy County Master.

William Bateman and Harry Sanders, district masters of Cavan and Hope were also present. In all, 15 lodges were represented. Loyal Orange Lodge representatives were present from Bethany, Pontypool, Bailieboro, Fraserville, Carmel, Fallis Line, Millbrook, Port Hope, Garden Hill and Elizabethville. Present also were a Loyal True Blue Lodge from Port Hope, two ladies' lodges, one from Bethany and one from Millbrook, and two juvenile lodges, one from Millbrook and one from the Fallis Line. The Bethany fife band was in attendance.

Two Die In Fall

CLIFTON, NJ, July 10 (AP) — Walter Slotka took his 15-month-old granddaughter for a breath of fresh air Monday. As he stood on a second-storey porch, tiny Gail A. Slotka cuddled in his arms, she wriggled free and toppled over a railing. The 60-year-old Slotka grabbed for her, lost his balance and fell. Both were killed in the 20-foot fall.

Stampede Off To Good Start Despite Cold

By GRAHAM TROTTER

CALGARY, July 10 (CP)—As it has done yearly since 1912, the city of Calgary this week succumbs to the rip-roaring spell of its chief claim to fame, the color-packed exhibition and stampede.

The city of 137,000 persons, located in the heart of Canada's ranching country, has its ranks swelled by thousands of holiday-ers from across the continent. Its modern streets take on the aspect of a wild-west "cow-town" for the week.

In dress, the city is like one monster freshman class going through a week of university initiation. Persons not sporting at least one item of a cowboy's outfit—wide-brimmed hats, close-fitting jeans, gaily-colored shirts, high-heeled boots—are conspicuous.

The conventional "hello" is ditched for the west's friendly "hi pardner" and the air resounds with the shrill "yippee" of modern-day cowboys whose spurs jingle on cement sidewalks instead of board walks or mud roads.

Put On Good Show

Every day the crowds stream to the exhibition grounds to see cowboys lurch through perilous rides astride snorting broncos, Brahma bulls and steers; toss lassoes at dipsy-doodling calves; tack ribbons on the horns of wild steers; saddle and ride wild horses and milk equally-wild cows.

But the feature attraction is the evening chuckwagon races, commanding the largest single slice—$9,000—of the $100,000-plus prize money. They rival the ancient Roman chariot races in hell-for-leather thrills.

Crowds of more than 70,000 take part in the daily shows, with attendance for the week usually around the 400,000 mark.

The stampede opens with a monster parade that takes about two hours to pass. Last year a record 74,000 persons lined the streets to see the spectacle.

The parade was marred Monday by a quarter-inch of rain and a chilly temperature of 41, more than 30 degrees below normal. But thousands shivered through it and loved it.

It features hundreds of horses, drum majorettes; decorated floats; Indians in beaded buckskins and head feathers; ancient, creaking horse-drawn wagons and buggies of the pioneers, and yodelling cowboys strumming guitars.

Flapjacks, bacon and coffee are dished up free at street corners by the chuch wagon outfits and the Indians who pitch a tent camp at the exhibition grounds parade daily.

PEUBLA, Mexico, July 10 (AP) —Firemen have recovered 21 bodies of persons drowned when their crowded bus plunged into the flooded Atoyac river Sunday night. An estimated 40 persons are believed still missing. About 10 passengers riding on top of the bus were saved.

Mrs. J. Downard Buried At Marmora

MARMORA, July 10. (ENS) — The funeral of Mrs. John (Delia) Downard took place on Monday afternoon from the residence of her niece, Mrs. Alex McCoy in Marmora township for service at St. Paul's Anglican Church, Marmora at 2:30 p.m., which was conducted by Canon J. M. Brownlie. Burial followed in Marmora Protestant cemetery.

The pall-bearers were Arthur Sheridan, Peter Quinn, Irwin McCoy, George Brown, George Fox andw Arthur Carman.

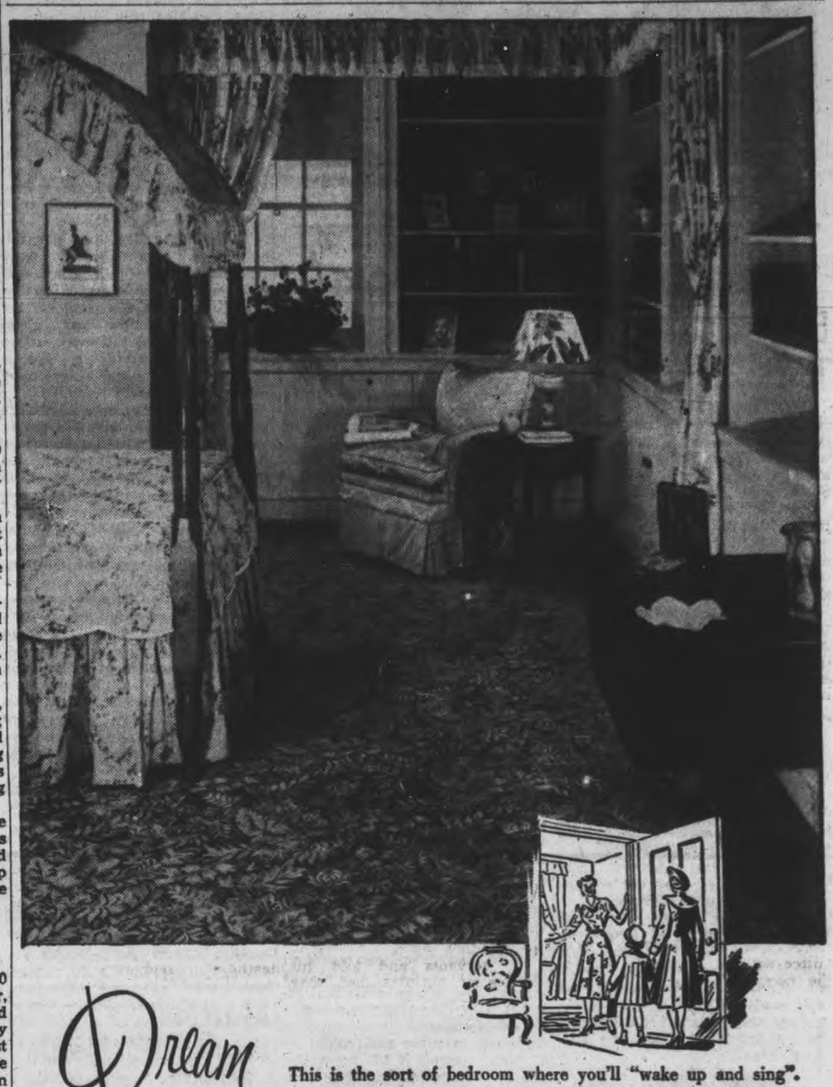
Mrs. Downard, who was in her 89th year, was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Simmons of Marmora township where she was born. She was twice married, her first husband being Wesley Huffman who predeceased her a swell as a son and daughter of that marriage. There were no children of the second marriage. Since the death o fher husband, John Downard, about 12 years ago she made her home with her niece Mrs. Verna McCoy in Marmora township. The latter and her father, William Simmons, Belleville, are her surviving relatives.

Neighbors Honor Bride And Groom

ROSENEATH, July 10 (ENS)—Mr. and Mrs. Eric Seeney, were guests of honor at a large gathering of friends, relatives and neighbors on Monday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Archie McCracken, Roseneath. Mrs. Seeney was the former Eileen McCracken.

Mr. and Mrs. Seeney were married in June and had just returned from a honeymoon spent in Timmins and Northern Ontario.

Rev. H. G. Lester was chairman for the program that included vocal numbers and readings by Francis DeCarroll, Mrs. Percy Honey, the pupils of SS No. 10 (West Dartford), prizewinners of the music festival; John Coggins, Tom Ward, Rosella Campbell, Ida Honey, Marie Campbell, Ruth Hardy and a skit "A Mock Wedding" with a cast of Earl Nelson, Aureen Richardson, Willis McCracken, Mae Nelson, and Raymond Cole was at the piano for community singing.



An address was then read by Mrs. Raymond Richardson and a presentation to the bride and groom on behalf of the gathering. Earl Nelson and Raymond Richardson presented a china cabinet and Mrs. Charles Honey presented a combination end table and magazine rack.

Both the bride and groom thanked their friends.

Dorothy Godfrey Wed At Knox To Live In Toronto

Baskets of mixed summer flowers formed an attractive background Saturday for the double ring wedding of Dorothy Margaret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Godfrey, Peterborough, to Hugh Alexander McLean, son of Mr. and Mrs. William McLean of Meaford, which took place in Knox United Church.

The Rev. H. G. Douglas performed the ceremony. Mr. Potter played the wedding music. Mrs. Norman Hughes sang "O Perfect Love" before the bride entered the church and "Through the Years" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown with skirt of double nylon next over taffeta fashioned to a bodice of white slipper satin. The skirt extended into a long train of white nylon net. Her fingertip veil of fine silk tulle, edged with deep scolloped lace was gathered to a tiara of seed pearls and she carried a cascade of Bettertime roses and Madonna lilies.

Miss Betty Godfrey, as maid of honours for her sister wore a gown of pale lavender taffeta, full gathered skirt trimmed with matching frill, the bodice with net yoke trimmed with a frill which formed the sleeves of the dress. She wore long mittens and a picture hat of the same shade and carried a cascade of yellow mums with white snapdragon and yellow talisman roses.

Bridesmaids, Brs. Max Marshall and Mrs. Ken Godfrey were frocked alike in pale green and pale yellow taffeta styled on the same lines. Mrs. Marshall carried a nosegay of yellow and white baby mums and talisman roses. Mrs. Godfrey carried a similar nosegay of white and mauve baby mums and talisman roses.

Brenda Godfrey, niece of the bride, was flower-girl dressed in yellow taffeta with a matching band of flowers in her hair and she carried a nosegay of white snapdragon, pink roses and mauve delphiniums.

Groomsman was Mr. Douglas McLean, brother of the groom, Max Marshall and Ken Godfrey were ushers.

At a reception held in the basement of the church the bride's mother received wearing a gown of dusty rose with white accessories, her corsage of white baby 'mums was tied with skipper blue ribbon. The groom's mother, who also received, wore a gown of Lady Love with navy accessories. Her corsage of white baby 'mums was tied with silver ribbon.

Later the bride and groom left for a motor trip to Northern Ontario.

Travelling the bride wore a dress of lavender lystav with white accessories and a corsage of gardinias on white ostrich plume.

They will live at 316 Indian Road, Toronto.

2'Ring Ceremony Weds Jacqueline Smtih

At George St. United Church Saturday afternoon Miss Jacqueline Morine Smith became the bride of Mr. Douglas George Shield. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. A. Mathews, in a setting of delphinium, larkspur and roses at the altar. Miss Smith is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Smith of Peterborough. The groom of son of Mr. and Mrs. James Shield of Buckhorn.

Before the bride entered Mr. Jack Telford sang "I Love You Truly" and during the signing of the register "The Lord's Prayer." Music was by organist Mr. Charles Allen.

A gown of slipper satin and chantilly lace was the bride's choice. The dress was designed with Chinese neckline and deep lace yoke, the full skirt falling in a long train edged with chantilly lace. Her fingertip veil of nylon net was caught to a tiara of pearls and she carried a cascade of red carnations.

The bride was attended by Mrs. Jack Alexander and Miss Mae Willshaw. The attendants were dressed alike in yellow and mauve gowns of nylon marquisette and headdresses of forget-me-nots. Each carried a nosegay of roses, carnations and fox glove.

Mr. Jack Alexander was groomsman and ushers were Keith Shield, brother of the groom, and George McKay.

The wedding reception was held in the church parlors. Mrs. Clifford Alexander receiving with the bride, wore a dress of navy marquisette and white accessories, her corsage of white carnations. Assisting Mrs. Alexander was Mrs. James Shield, mother of the groom, wearing a dress of grey crepe with lace bodice and black accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses.

For her going away outfit the bride selected a dress of turquoise nylon. She had white accessories and wore an orchid.

They left on a moneymoon to Wheeling, West Virginia, USA. On return Mr. and Mrs. Shield will live in Peterborough.

Poodle Look Smart Thing For Fall Styles

By DOROTHY ROE.

NEW YORK, July 10 (AP).—Women will try to look like dogs next fall.

Perhaps they won't walk on all fours, but it is not unlikely that they will start barking soon after acquiring that new winter coat.

The smart thing is the "poodle look" for fall. Your new coat or suit should be as shaggy as Fido's if you want to be in on the ground floor of the new fashion trend.

That's what New York designers say, previewing their fall collections this week for the benefit of visiting fashion editors.

Initial showings bear out their predictions. So bulky and shaggy are the new winter coats that often it is hard to find the wearer.

"Poodle cloth," in a score of different textures and called by as many names, is the particular pet of the designers. They present it in greatcoats, jackets, suits and dresses, usually in neutral canine colors and in such realistic textures that in all logic each coat should be provided with a wagging tail.

Some Stiff

Some poodles are stiff, heavy fabrics of the general texture of doormats, and others are light as eiderdown, with a deep-pile, doggy surface.

Garment manufacturers predict the poodle coats will make mink old-fashioned.

Despite little basic silhouette change, fall clothes have a different look because of the new fabrics and textures, the bulky look of coats, the fuzzy look of suits and dresses, the new casual "winter-play" clothes introduced by designers such as Tina Leser and Claire McCardell, both of whom unveiled their fall lines during the first day of this week's showings.

Christella Rowan Marries Bernard E. Neals

BETHANY, July 10 (ENS). — The marriage took place Saturday in St. Paul's Anglican Church Bethany, of Christella Evangeline Rowan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Rowan of Bethany, to Bernard Emerson Neals, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Neals of Pontypool. The Rev. T. S. Gault officiated.

The church was decorated with floral arangements of orange blossoms, daisies, hydrangea, delphinium and sweet peas. Wedding music was played by Mrs. Alice McGrath. As the bridal party entered the church, the entire assembly sang "Praise, My Soul, the King of Heaven." During the signing of the register, Miss Laura Morton sang "O Perfect Love."

The bride was given in marriage by her father and she wore a gown of white baronet satin with inset panels of lace, long lace sleeves, and a long train of lace. Her fingertip veil was edged with lace and caught to a wreath of orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of deep crimson roses.

Miss Lauretta Rowan, sister of the bride, was maid of honor in a floor-length frock of green silk lace and net over taffeta with matching picture hat. She carried pink roses.

Bridesmaids were Miss Coralie Patterson of Tyrone, Pennsylvania, and Miss Betty Umphrey of Fenelon Falls. They wore identical dresses of pink and blue sheer and matching hats of lace and net. They carried nosegays of roses and sweet peas.

The little flower girl was Brenda Rowan, youngest sister of the bride, wearing yellow brocaded satin with matching headdress and tiny satin muff, and carrying a nosegay of sweet peas and roses.

Groomsman was Orval Parks of London, Ontario, cousin of the groom. Ushers were Cameron Rowan, the bride's brother, and Maurice Whiteside.

A reception was held at the Empress Hotel, Peterborough, where the bride's mother received, wearing a gown of lilac mesh with lace panels, black picture hat and black accessories. She wore a corsage of yellow roses. The groom's mother, who also received, wore a gown of navy sheer, with grey hat and accessories and corsage of pink roses.

For their motor trip through the Southern States, the bride travelled in a navy suit and hat, with white accessories, and had a corsage of red roses.

They will live at Pontypool on their return.

Elizabeth Chooses Green Main Color for October Visit

By MARY BURNET

LONDON, July 10 (Reuters)—Princess Elizabeth has chosen green as a main color in her wardrobe for her October visit to Canada.

She has shown a preference for the hue lately, and it will be fashionable in the fall and winter.

But just what will go into the trunks stowed aboard the Empress of France when the Princess and the Duke of Edinburgh sail Sept. 25 is being kept secret — usual procedure on royal trips.

Behind closed doors, royal couturier Norman Martnell is working on the first design sketches for Elizabeth's approval. They have discussed what she will need.

Despite the secrecy, hints of the new outfit have leaked out.

Canada's weather has been considered. There will be lightweight suits and silk dresses for the possible hot Indian summer. Woollens and tweeds—and almost certainly the mink she received from the Canadian government on her 21st birthday—will protect the Princess against late - autumn frosts. She will also have clothes suitable for the damp west coast.

Gorgeous Evening Gowns

The wardrobe is likely to include several of the gorgeous crinoline evening gowns for which Hartnell is famous.

These crinolines, draped with the strikingly-colored sashes of the orders of chivalry and worn with diamond tiaras, are favorites both with the 25-year-old Princess and the Queen on formal occasions.

But for the most part, simplicity will be the keynote with travel coats and matching hats predominant. The Princess dislikes ostentation.

Elizabeth has been hat-conscious since she was a schoolgirl, and there will be a wide range of them for the tour. Sunny days will see her in wide-brimmed straws, with head-hugging felts ready for cold winds.

She is expected to have at least one model based on the design of military tricorn which drew admiring glances at this year's trooping-of-the-color ceremony.

Shirley I. Drope Bride Of Kenneth Munroe

Blue delphiniums and white hydrangea decorated Bethesda United Church, Harwood, for the marriage Saturday of Shirley Ida Drope, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Earle Drope, Harwood, to Kenneth Donald Munroe of St. Catharines, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Munroe, Baltimore. The Rev. A. E. Larke officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of chantilly lace with long pointed sleeves and train. Her tulle illusion veil fell from a coronet of pearls. She carried red roses and stephanotis.

Bridal attendants were frocked in white nylon net over satin with blue satin sashes and halo hats trimmed with blue and white flowerlets. Maid of honor was the bride's sister, Miss Lettice Drope. Bridesmaids were Miss Lindy McIntosh and Mrs. Harold Noble, and junior bridesmaid, Miss Pauline Drope.

Mr. Robert Bell of Brampton was the groomsman, and the ushers were Robert Laing of Oshawa and Ray Cunningham.

The service began with a processional of the Junior Choir singing "Pleasant are Thy Courts Above" followed with "O Perfect Love" by soloist Miss Margaret Alexander of Kingston. Organist was Mrs. Ruby Meggs of Gore's Landing. During the signing of the register the soloist sang "The Wedding Hymn" by Mendelssohn "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden."

The reception was held at Clearstone Lodge. The bride's mother wearing an ecru crepe gown with beige lace inserts, with pink and beige accessories and corsage of pink roses; received, assisted by Mrs. Munroe, who were lilac sheer with black accessories and corsage of Johanna Hill roses.

From the bride's home the couple left on a wedding trip to Georgian Bay, Mrs. Munroe wearing a powder blue suit with navy accessories.

After their honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Munroe will take up residence in St. Catharines.

Winnipeg Dancers In Famous Ballet

WINNIPEG (CP). — A young Canadian ballerina's dreams came true recently in England when Carlu Carter, formerly a principal dancer with the Winnipeg Ballet, stepped into a dancing role with England's famous Sadler's Wells Ballet.

The 17-year-old Miss Carter, one of Canada's most promising young dancers, went to England in January, and has been accepted as a member of the Sadler's Wells Theatre Ballet, the junior company of that organization. The company will tour North America later this year.

Miss Carter was given 24 hours' notice and only one hour's rehearsal before her successful debut.

Now on tour in England with Sadler's Wells, Miss Carter will accompany the ballet on a tour which opens in Quebec City in September. The ballet will travel across the continent with a Christmas Day performance in Los Angeles. It closes in New York City in the New Year.

The recent signing of another former member of the Winnipeg Ballet, John Walks, by an English ballet company has also been announced. Mr. Walks has signed a contract with Markovadilin Festival Company and will tour England and the continent with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ellis of Calumet, Que., are visiting the latter's father, Mr. Robert Phillips.

A miscellaneous shower was tendered Mr. and Mrs. William Hulsmans in the Town Hall on Friday evening. The newly-weds received many presents. Dancing was enjoyed, with refreshments being served.

Keewatin Wedding Of Local Man

Wedding of a native of Peterborough, Mr. John David White, son of Mr. and Mrs. David White, 341 St. Joseph St., took place at Keewatin on Saturday, June 30th. His bride was formerly Mary Gordon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gordon of Keewatin. The couple are presently honeymooning at the parental home here, after a motor trip through the States.

The ceremony in Keewatin United Church, banked with peonies at the chancel, was performed by the Rev. W. I. Brady, the bride being given in marriage by her father.

White satin fashioned the bride's gown and full length train and it was designed with long torso with scalloped edge where it joined the full skirt, a Peter Pan collar and lily point sleeves. Her fingertip veil fell from a crown of braided satin and her bouquet was of red roses.

Attending the bride were her three sisters, Misses Catherine and Agnes Gordon of Keewatin and Mrs. Jean Guthrie of Toronto. Their frocks of pale blue frosted organza had scalloped neck and waistlines and they wore matching mittens and scalloped caps with sprigs of lily of the valley at the sides. Their bouquets of pink roses were tied with blue tulle.

At the reception in the IOOF hall the bride's mother received in a dress of navy sheer with white accessories and wore a corsage of red roses. She was assisted by the groom's sister, Miss Joan White of Peterborough who was wearing pink figured nylon with white accessories and a corsage of red roses. Many of the guests were from a distance, including Saskatoon and Winnipeg.

The bride's going-away outfit was a beige suit and hat of natural straw with trim of cinnabar tulle to match her cinnabar shoes and she carried a nile green shortie coat. Her corsage was yellow roses.

Mr. and Mrs. White will live in Emo, Ontario.

Atkins-Warner

The wedding of Irene Alice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Warner, 226 McGill St., and James Alfred Atkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Atkins, Monaghan Rd., took place Monday morning at ten o'clock at the home of Rev. Ivan C. Morgan.

The bride wore a turquoise dress with grey accessories. Mrs. Fay Crawford was bridesmaid in a pink dress with white accessories.

Mr. Brian Crawford was groomsman.

After a two-week honeymoon in New Orleans, USA, Mr. and Mrs. Atkins will live in Toronto.

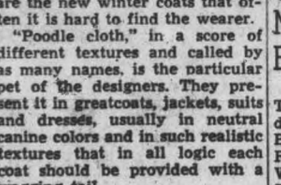
Henry-McGee

Of interest here is the wedding of Miss Frances Vayla McGee, who served on the staff of the Peterborough Business College for a number of years, which took place in Victoria United Church, Powles' Corners. The groom is Mr. Clarence Howard Henry. The Rev. K. P. Jull performed the ceremony.

She is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laurie McGee and the groom is the elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Henry, Glenarm.

The bride was dressed in white nylon marquisette trimmed with lace and wore matching mittens and a bordered silk net fingertip veil fastened to a tiara of seed pearls and crystal beads. She carried Bettertime roses. Matron of honor was her cousin Mrs. Robert Garden of Norwood, gowned in pale blue bengaline and carrying a nosegay of summer flowers.

The groom's attendant was Mr. Allan Graham of Fenelon Falls.



Following the reception at the bride's home the couple left for a trip to Ottawa, Pembroke and North Bay, the bride travelling in a blue grey wool tailored suit with pink accesories. They will live at Powles' Corner.

Queen, Princess Attend Ballet

LONDON, July 10—(Reuters)—The Queen, in pale mauve net with triple-tiered diamond tiara, Monday night attended the first performance of Tiresias, a new ballet by Constant Lambert and Frederick Ashton, at the Royal Opera House, Covent Garden.

She was accompanied by Princess Elizabeth, who wore a pale lemon evening dress glittering with sequins.

The performance was in aid of Sadler's Wells Ballet Benevolent Fund.

BANANA CREAM CAKE

Here you see a "Cinderella" cake. It starts out as two plain chocolate layers, but when you've finished, it's fancy enough to serve at a party! To begin at the beginning, we baked the layers from a package of Shirriff's chocolate cake mix. This is the easy mix made with real imported Dutch chocolate. M-m-m what divine! chocolatey flavour! Another wonderful thing about Shirriff's mixes . . . their texture is so airy-light the cake fairly floats out of the oven. When the layers are cool, whip up ½ pint cream, sweetened a little. Slice 3 bananas, and dip them in lemon juice so they won't discolour. Fill the layers with half the bananas and cream, and arrange the rest on top. That's all you do to make this beautiful cake. It is amazing how little time it takes to make scrumptious treats with Shirriff's dependable cake mixes!

HOW DO YOU SCORE ON THESE HELPFUL WAYS TO SAVE?

To save your wave from bathtub steam, use—
☐ Cold water ☐ Hot water ☐ Both
Why get steamed up? Run cold water in the tub first—before turning on the hot. Prevents steam from forming; protects your wave. And when you use Kleenex for complexion care—remember this tissue is pure; perfectly uniform.

To get better looking should you try—
☐ Binoculars ☐ Kleenex eyeglass tissues
Long time no see? Sparkle your "specs" with new Kleenex eyeglass tissues; big enough—strong enough—lint-free! Each tissue's silicone-treated on both sides; leaves lenses gleaming. And Kleenex eyeglass tissues serve one at a time. So easy to use!

DOROTHY DIX

Mama's Girl No Longer Advice To Young Wife

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I'm 20 years old and have been married for two years to Joan, who is also 20. During these two years my wife has gone back and forth to her mother. I never said anything about it because I love her and want her to be happy. Eight months ago we had a daughter, and we stayed with my mother-in-law for about five months afterwards.

About two months ago, I got a good job in another town, and found an apartment. My wife came to live here but when I came home from work the first day she was crying because she wanted to go back to her mother. She only stayed three days, then left for her mother's. When I called her, she said she wasn't coming back to me, and wasn't sure if she loved me. I've been to see her and asked her to come back but she won't leave her mother, and of course, her mother wants her to stay where she is. It's been three weeks since she left me and I'd do anything to get her back.

M. M.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You're going to have quite a time getting your wife loose from her mother's apron strings, but for her own sake, yours and the baby's, you'll have to accomplish that Herculean task. Joan is now a wife and mother, and even though she is young for the responsibilities, she undertook them knowingly and willingly and must abide by her own decisions. With a devoted husband, a baby and an apartment of her own, she has little to complain of and had better give up the little-girl role she is now living and take on the job of providing her husband and baby with a home.

Her Mother Mistaken

Joan's mother is very wrong to encourage the childish attitude of her daughter. As a conscientious parent, it is her duty to bring to Joan a realization of the obligations of married life and her responsibility to husband and baby.

These points should be brought home to your wife and mother-in-law, and if your attempts to talk to them prove futile, perhaps you could enlist the aid of the pastor of their church.

One of the impenetrable mysteries of matrimony is how a girl who can't walk to the altar without almost literally hanging onto mama's hand, can listen to the words of the marriage ceremony and expect to live up to them. I have been to many, many weddings and have yet to hear as part of one the admonition that the wife must cling to her mother's side, or refuse to make one decision without mama's counsel. Yet that is the attitude that many spoiled damsels expect to use as a basis for happy marriage. It can't be done! And the mother most worthy of a daughter's love and devotion is the one who steps aside and gives her child a chance to prove she is a woman grown, capable of assuming her honored place as wife and mother.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 19 years old and have been married three years to a wonderful man. We love each other dearly and have two lovely children. However, he has a child 5 years old by his former wife who was granted custody of the child. Now she has gone away and left the child for me to care for, but she still receives support for the youngster. I don't want my husband to stop seeing his child, or to stop supporting him, but I don't think it is fair to expect me to carry the burden of his care while she is having fun.

G. B.

ANSWER: Whenever a girl marries a man who has a child by a former marriage, she assumes definite responsibilities or at least the possibility of having to assume them. That is one reason why I am so loath to recommending such marriages. Even though the girl is sure she will make a perfect stepmother, it is very difficult to give love and care to another woman's child—especially if the other woman is living.

In the case of a girl as young as you are, the responsibility is doubly irksome, but it cannot be shirked. The child belongs to your husband, and if the mother refuses to care for him, the job is yours whether you ask for it or not. However, if the mother does not have the boy in her charge, she should not be receiving support for him. This point, of course, is a legal one and should be in the hands of a lawyer.

The little boy is having his share of trouble, too. Being shunted from one parent to another is not conducive to the security which is every baby's birthright. It is up to you to give him love and attention and to make him feel wanted. Don't fail him!

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a boy nearly 18, just graduated from high school. I have never been away from home for more than a night at a time and then only with my parents. Now I feel that it is about time to have a vacation. I have the offer of a job, but my parents object because it will take my away from home. I wouldn't find it so monotonous at home if Father would let me use the car once or twice a week, but he won't do it. I receive a liberal allowance, but the things I want seem so far away and I want to start out and make my own place in the world.

SIX FOOT ONE

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Evidently you need to get away from home for a little while in order to realize how much the comforts and love with which you are surrounded mean. Every boy and girl of your age needs to cut the apron strings and see a bit of the world and learn to stand on his own feet. I think it would be a nice thing for you to take the job that is offered you. It would help you find yourself and appreciate your parents more.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Help Make Canada Healthy By Using Of More Salads

I have so much to be thankful for. One thing, for instance is my gratefulness to readers who lift the burden of sermonizing from my shoulders by asking for salad recipes. They even urge "keep on with salads please Mary—all through the year."

Wouldn't it be wonderful if this salad craze grew and Canada became the healthiest nation in the world, in spite of the fact that we import, through necessity, millions of dollars worth of fruit—all year round—and vegetables eight months of the year?

I tend to toss in a tossed salad on every menu I give you so today I am going to stress individual salads that are beautifully arranged and coax the beholder to eat them.

Before me I have a picture, in full color, of a salad called Bernarr Salad, after the famous old physical culturist.

Bernarr Salad

On a dark green glass plate about 7 inches in diameter place a thick bed of head lettuce that is firm enough to cut and eat. Place one half of a very large peeled tomato in the centre and cover it with about 3 tablespoons cottage cheese which is moistened with a little mayonnaise or cream and flavored with chopped chives. The next step is pretty and delicious but not essential—and I wouldn't bother with it unless I had at least six of these salads to make. Pipe creamed white cheese through the icing tube to make little flowers or mounds around the edge of the cottage cheese—about five of them. Garnish the salad with 2 little sprigs of watercress.

Hawaiian Fruit Salad

Naturally this uses pineapple. On a bed of delicate green shredded lettuce place two crescents of pineapple with the rounded sides touching. On the centre of each place a section of grapefruit, cut free from the membrane. At each end of it place a section of orange. At both sides where the curves of the pineapple form "Y's" place a creamy mound of white cheese and top this with a ripe olive. Tuck a sprig of watercress in the inside of each pineapple crescent. If you want a dressing with this pass Fruit Cream Dressing, see below.

✧ ✧ ✧

Elizabeth Salad

This takes its name from the collar effect described.

Put large peeled half of tomato on bed of greens. In centre place a cauliflower floweret about 2 or 2½ inches in diameter. This should be slightly undercooked and chilled. Around it place ring of green cooked peas. Fit over these a very large ring from a green pepper. Around the base of the tomato make a collar of cooked yellow beans cut in 1-inch lengths—having the cut edges at the outside, so that the border looks like a frill. Pass Russian Dressing.

Fruit Cream Dressing

Mix together in top of double boiler 3 tablespoons sugar and 2 tablespoons flour, then beat in 2 eggs; add 2 tablespoons vinegar, the juice and grated rind 1 large lemon and 1 cup juice from canned pineapple. Stir over gently boiling water until thick and cook 5 minutes longer. Chill. Just before serving fold in 1 cup cream which has been beaten stiff—and if desired, ⅓ cup chopped nuts—preferably almonds. Write to me for other dressings.

MOVIE COLUMN

Average Girls Get Smart Bathing Suits

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, July 10 (AP)—Don't despair, girls; you can look like a movie queen on the beach this summer.

Well, almost like one, anyway. Or so claims Edith Head, the ace fashion designer of Paramount Studios. Now that the swim season is here, I went to her for some words of wisdom. First of all, I got her to climb 'way out on a limb and select the 10 best bathing suit figures in Hollywood. Her choices:

Corine Calvet, Jane Russell, Joan Crawford, Jan Sterling, Mona Freeman, Elizabeth Taylor, Betty Hutton, Esther Williams, Ginger Rogers, Jane Wyman.

Miss Head remarked that she would like to design swim suits for any of these actresses. In fact, she created one for Liz Taylor to wear in "A Place In The Sun." Miss Head claimed that Liz would look good in any kind of suit, and who is there to argue?

The Problem

However, most women aren't as well endowed as Liz. How should they go about buying a suit?

"If they shop correctly, there is no reason why they can't look good in a bathing suit," the designer remarked. "Manufacturers have created outfits which will compliment all but the most impossible figures."

Miss Head classified the various types of suits and offered some comment on each:

1. The plain vanilla type. This is the ordinary one or two-piece suit with straps (she says you can't swim safely without straps, no matter what science has devised). Like vanilla ice cream, this is the most popular variety—and the safest for most figures.

2. The "beach" bathing suit. These are attention-getters and should be worn only by girls who warrant attention. Types include suits of black net, gold lace, pearls, etc. Don't try swimming in them or disaster may result.

3. The rotogravure section suit. These are generally worn by models and consist of such things as whipped cream, rose petals, avocados, etc. Not recommended for ordinary use.

4. The cute suit. This is epitomized by the matching rompers and sunbonnets worn by mother and daughter. Miss Head said such outfits look good on daughter but generally not on mother.

5. The accessorized suit. This is a strip-tease costume that can be worn on the beach or, with some additions, to stores or cocktails. It is a delight of designers but, said Miss Head, who wants to eat sitting on seaweed?

6. The French bathing suit. It consists of two handkerchiefs. Miss Head believes it should be worn only by French models on French beaches.

Queen Mother Sells Doll House

LONDON (CP)— A Jacobean doll's-house with a television aerial mounted on the thatched roof was presented by Queen Mother Mary for auction at a ball in London's Dorchester Hotel.

The house was furnished to the smallest detail, in period style, except for the television aerial. It included a miniature dinner service, a workbasket with scissors and thimble and tiny, sturdy oak tables and chairs.

"Queen Mary chose the furniture and decorations herself," said Miss G. M. Sandes, chairman of the National Baby Welfare Council. Winning bid for the house was £126.

"SALADA" TEA

FRAGILE, FLOATING AND WISPY—That's the way any girl wants to look on a moonlit summer evening. And there's no reason why she shouldn't. Beautiful evening gowns, designed to make her look as if she's all dressed up to go dreaming, bloom brightly this summer.

This year they may be made of nylon, which looks insubstantial and drifting and is actually very strong. Or, they may also be made of wool, that contradictory fabric that can, on a summer night, be feather-weight and delicate. They might be made of imported Swiss organdy, long a favorite for this kind of sorcery.

Lightweight wool challis in shell pink (left) becomes a lovely gown with knife-pleated skirt worn over a stiffened petticoat. A cluster of velvet flowers in deep pink forms detachable lei collar worn high at the throatline. These flowers appear again to create hip-detail. Rhinestones, in a leaf pattern, are scattered over the waist and into the skirt area, front and back.

Pink imported Swiss organdy (right) is cut into a gown with dipping, swirling hemline. Pink englandine roses are embroidered over bodice, neckline and brief sleeves, are cascaded onto the skirt. Sash is rose velvet.

PEARSON—In loving memory of my dear father, Nethaniel Pearson, who passed away July 10, 1949.
The depth of sorrow we cannot tell,
Of the loss of one we loved so well.
And while he sleeps a peaceful sleep
His memory we shall always keep.
—Ever remembered by daughter Minnie and family.

PEARSON—In loving memory of my dear father, Nathaniel Pearson, who passed away July 10, 1949 and a loving mother, Jane (Mooney) Pearson, who went to eternal rest Nov. 18, 1916.
What would I give their hands to clasp,
Their patient face to see,
To hear their voice and see their smile
As in the days that used to be.
But some sweet day we'll meet again
Beyond the toil and strife
And clasp each other's hand once more
In heaven, that happy life.
—Fondly remembered by their daughter Gladys and family.

Deaf Folk Prove Expert Weavers

CALGARY (CP).—Mrs. C. S. Bang of Montreal decided in the depression year of 1932 to aid deaf people.

She set up a training school to teach the deaf to weave.

Now she has a thriving school and a weaving business under her managership.

Mrs. Bang began teaching her students the craft of weaving, but in 1940 when the demand for woven materials had increased so much, she opened a studio to sell woven articles to the public.

With a total staff of more than 100, the studio now employs as many deaf students as the school can train. Operated on a non-profit basis, the studio turns over its net profits to the school.

After 19 years of teaching deaf pupils by written instructions and demonstration, Mrs. Bang speaks highly of their ability.

"They learn more quickly than normal people because they can't hear distracting noises and are interested in using their hands," she said.

Of the 89 pupils at the school, more than half are Albertans. The high percentage is due to the fact that Alberta has no deaf school, Mrs. Bang said.

All looms used in the school are made by deaf boys in the school.

4,500 Crates Cheese Shipped To Canada

AUCKLAND, July 10 (CP) — About 4,500 crates of New Zealand cheese for Canada were loaded into the Australian liner Aorangi before she left for Vancouver today.

New Zealand has been developing a cheese market in Canada as a result of recent trade negotiations allowing diversion of more dairy products from the British market.

The long waterfront strike, now settled, had interrupted shipments.

Huron Patrol Lively Affair

ABOARD HMCS HURON, July 10 (CP)—This Canadian destroyer has returned to the United Nations naval base in South Japan after her liveliest patrol in four months of Korean service.

Bombarding rail and road facilities behind enemy lines on the east coast of Korea, the Huron fired 1,983 rounds of four-inch shells and 8,984 rounds from close-range weapons—outshooting HMCS Nootka, which previously held the record for one patrol with 1,623 four-inch and 312 short range rounds.

The Huron destroyed an enemy train at Chongjin, a major east coast port.

The ship came under enemy fire for the first time from a short battery of light artillery. The destroyer was not hit and her fire silenced the enemy's battery.

For three days during this patrol, Commander Edward T. G. Madgwick, of Halifax and Ottawa, was commander of a task element which included United States and Colombian naval vessels.

Village Clamps Down On Firecrackers

A bylaw to regulate the setting off of firecrackers in Millbrook was passed by the municipal council at its July meeting.

This motion followed several fire scares resulting from boys setting off firecrackers near inflammable materials. The bylaw makes it illegal to set off firecrackers at anytime except dates and places included in the new regulations.

The annual municipal grant to the village library was raised by a motion at the meeting. The new grant which is to be in effect as of January 1, 1951, will be established on the basis of 50 cents per capita population. On this basis the grant for this year will be $368.

During the past few years the council has been giving the library a set grant of $325.

Accounts totalling $566.03 were ordered paid.

Infant Buried

The funeral for Jerry Paul Browne, infant son of Melvyn Browne and the former Simone Paquette, 625 Simmons Street, who died Saturday, was held on Monday from the Duffus Funeral Home.

The Rev. Walter Gilling of St. Luke's Anglican Church conducted the service.

Surviving are his mother and father and one brother David Stewart Brown. Burial was in Little Lake Cemetery.

No Possibility Of Taking Post

LONDON, July 10 —(CP)—A Buckingham Palace spokesman said today he considers it extremeley unlikely that circumstances would ever make it feasible for Princess Elizabeth to become governor-general of Canada.

Commenting on what he called a rash of "hope" stories in Canadian newspapers about the possibility of the Princess succeeding to the post now held by Field Marshall Viscount Alexander, the spokesman said two obvious obstacles are that Elizabeth is the heir to the British throne and that she is married.

"For the sake of argument, suppose Elizabeth became governor-general," this informant said "Suppose after three years the King died. That would mean Elizabeth on her return would be out of touch with the state documents and foreign office telegrams of which she ordinarily has a day-to-day knowledge.

"Obviously one can't send everything over to Canada."

The spokesman said also that the Duke of Edinburgh would be in a "rather awkward" position if his wife took what is normally a man's job.

60-Cycle Station Ready During August

HAMILTON, July 10 (CP). — Ontario Hydro's new 60-cycle Hamilton-Kenilworth transformer station is to be in operation next month. It will be fed through an underground oil-filled cable, the first construction of its kind in this area and perhaps in Ontario.

Robert H. Saunders, Hydro chairman, said today the $2,000,000 project, including the 100,000 kilowatt 115,000-volt station, will serve industrial customers in the east Hamilton district.

Release $400 To Clerk Following Trial

LONDON, Ont., July 10. (CP)—More than $400 which figured in last month's trial of Clarence McKenney, 21-year-old former London bank clerk, has been released by Crown Attorney C. C. Savage. Most of it will go to cover legal expenses.

McKenney was acquitted by a Middlesex County court jury June 11 of theft and retaining stolen money. It was his second trial on charges arising from a $10,000 street robbery here last October.

An employee of the Huron and Erie Mortgage Corporation at the time, McKenney was carrying the money to its east end branch from the nearby east branch of the Bank of Montreal when it was grabbed from him by a still-unidentified person.

On Ontario Supreme Court jury in January convicted him of theft and retaining, but the Ontario Court of Appeal later quashed the conviction and ordered a new trial.

Submitted as exhibits in the June trial was $350 found in a clock at the McKenney home and $74.10 found in the young man's wallet the night before his arrest. The crown alleged this was part of the stolen money.

Following the ecquittal, the money was handed over to Crown Attorney Savage pending a possible appeal by the crown. When none was forthcoming, Mr. Savage obtained a release from the attorney general and handed the money over to Harry L. Hennick, McKenney's lawyer.

Royals Spoil Nice Evening Edge Leafs 8-6

By The Canadian Press.

New owner Jack Cooke treated his Toronto fans to a right pleasant evening Monday night, but the league-leading Montreal Royals had to go and spoil the fun.

Lead rooters turned out 7,750 strong for the club's first home game under new management. They were entertained before the game by a singing quartette and then came the best part of owner Cooke's "new deal"—free hot dogs and soft drinks for all.

The Royals played the role of spoil sports by coming up with four runs in the ninth inning to win 8-6. The victory preserved Montreal's nine-game lead over Buffalo, who beat Baltimore 6-5.

Bob Morgan hit a pair of home runs for Montreal and Jim Russell also clouted a round-tripper. Frank Colman homered for the Leafs.

The last-place Springfield Cubs continued to show new fire.

Cubs Edge Syracuse

The Cubs won two extra-inning games from the first-place Montreal Royals during the weekend, then, as if to show it was not a fluke, came back to whip Syracuse Chiefs before 3,470 home-town onlookers Monday night.

The Cubs pasted Bob Keegan and his successor, Bill Tanner, for 13 hits to win the game 11-3. Bill Padget, ace Springfield hurler, gave up only eight hits in scoring his 10th triumph against nine setbacks.

The second-place Buffalo Bisons squeaked past Baltimore Orioles 6-5. The Bisons had the game sewed up with a 5-3 margin, but the Orioles came back and tied it in the last of the ninth to send the game into extra innings. In the top of the 11th Hank Biasatti put an end to things with a home run. Jack Mayo and Marvin Rickert hit home runs to tie it in the ninth for the Orioles.

Promoter Albert Schelstraete of the Canadian Cycling Association suffered a brain concussion and possible skull fracture in a bicycle accident at the Delhi Arena Monday. The Arena is the scene of a nine-day bicycle derby, now in its third day, between teams from the United States and Ontario.

The accident occurred as Schaelstraete was training two young riders who are appearing in the derby. He collided with John Gath, Australian rider who acts as a spare with the Toronto team, when the Australian lost control of his bicycle. Gath suffered severe facial injuries.

In the derby the Chicago team is holding its lead against the pressing Toronto group who are four laps behind and have 84 points to Chicago's 96.

Ottawa Giants of the International League defeated their parent club New York Giants 4-1 at Ottawa Monday night before 10,077 surprised fans.

Ottawa starter, Roger Bowman got credit for the win. He pitched a two-hitter and struck out three in five innings on the mound. Raul Lopez and Chuck Eisenmann finished for the home team.

The National League starter Monte Kennedy was tagged with the loss.

Outgoing baseball commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler received a pat on the back and major league club owners received a vote of support for organized baseball's fight to retain the "reserve" clause, at the annual player representative-club owner meeting Monday at Detroit.

Chandler was unanimously voted a plaque for his services to players in both leagues.

The player representatives adopted a resolution giving owners a vote of confidence for retention of the reserve clause.

A four-man team, headed by Wimbledon Dick Savitt of Orange, NJ, Monday was named to represent the United States against Japan in the first round of the North American zone Davis Cup competition July 20 at Louisville, Ky.

Named with Savitt were Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., 1950 runner-up for the United States title; Bill Talbert of New York and Tony Trabert of Cincinnati.

The longest daily double payoff of the current New England racing season, $2,498.80, was paid at Narragansett Park Monday with a 68-to-1 shot, Ralph Haloway's Wardril, won the first race and was followed into the winner's circle by the low-priced Miss Ellaneous in the second race.

STEP LIGHTLY—Dodger shortstop Pee Wee Reese raises his arm to protect himself from the flying feet of Alvin Dark of the Giants who gets the the ball off to first base after forcing Reese at second. Action came in the heated series at Ebbets Field when Duke Snider hit a grounder to Eddie Stanky, who flipped to Dark. The New York short stop's throw to Whitey Lockman doubled Snider.

Douthville Gets Decision Over Janiro

MONTREAL, July 10 (CP). — Husky Laurent Dauthuille of France Monday night gained a unanimous devision over Tony Janiro of Youngstown, O., in an open air bout at Montreal baseball stadium.

A crowd of 10,126 braved hot, sticky weather and the threat of rain to see Dauthuille outclass Janiro in nine of the 10 rounds of their feature bout.

Although he came out on the wrong end of the decision, Janiro collected the larger sum—a $10,000 guarantee. Dauthuille received about $8,000 as his share of the $35,159 gross gate.

Janiro showed signs of fight only in the third round when he kept his heavier opponent at bay with a sizzling right. He weighed 151½ and Dauthuille 157¼.

Janiro Confused

But Dauthuille's free use of both hands soon had Janiro confused. Rights to the body and a tricky left jab to the head took the sting out of Janiro's blows.

The Frenchman was obviously in top condition. Janiro was slow and, when he did get his right working, usually was wild. For every blow Janiro landed, Dauthuille drove home five.

Dauthuille gave his best showing in the final round. Although it must have been apparent the fight was his, he lived up to the 9 to 5 odds by giving Janiro everything he had. It wasn't enough to spoil Janiro's record of never having been knocked out.

Blind Indian Youth Enjoys Cycling, Guided By Sound

GORE BAY—(CP)—A 20-year-old Indian youth, blind since the age of three, frequently amazes visitors to this Manitoulin Island resort town by buzzing along on a bicycle at speeds up to 15 miles an hour.

Danny Megwan has been totally blind since he had double pneumonia and measles. But in his mind he carries a phenomenally accurate map of this area on which is charted every road, path, house, fence, bridge, and almost every stick and stone.

His performance as a bicycle rider is a contradiction of the general belief that eyesight and corelation with adjacent objects are essential to a sense of balance.

His senses are so acute and his memory and gauging of distance so accurate that he can travel anywhere within a four-mile radius of town.

Danny's ears stand at attention when he is cycling in case an automobile comes along. If he hears one he gets off the bike and waits at the side of the road for the car to pass. He never rides on the town streets during the summer months. There are too many tourists' cars.

A Horseman Too

Danny rides a horse almost as well as a bicycle. He's expert with an ax and saw and worked all last summer peeling pulp logs. Sometimes he even takes a rowboat alone into the north channel.

White residents of the area believe his uncanny ability to get around is based on a hereditary sixth sense, but Danny says it's all due to an ability to follow a straight line without diversion. That, and knowing which direction to take from any given starting point.

He attributes his expertness on the bicycle to his sense of hearing and his touch on the handlebars. The tires of the bike make one sound on the travelled section of a gravel road and another among the stones and pebbles on the edge. Danny avoids paved roads if possible because the sound is the same at all sections of the road.

At Brantford School

Danny attended the Brantford School for the Blind for eight years. He reads Braille proficiently and is a good musician, playing the piano, violin and guitar. He's an expert dancer and attends all the local get-togethers.

"He just comes and goes like an ordinary person," says his mother. "I don't worry about him. Why, when he was a little boy, I spent half my time looking for him. He was always running away from home.

Bradshaw Takes Rotary Club To Police Court

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, KC, was the guest speaker for the first meeting of the new Rotary year at the Empress Hotel Monday.

The crown attorney spoke briefly on the court side of law which he termed, "sheer drama in its highest form." He said that it had been boasted that there are more able actors on the floor of a court than on the legitimate stage.

Demonstrating by a few humorous anecdotes that court is not always the dry and stuffy place it is often thought to be, Mr. Brawshaw then went on to say that the drama in court was not always comedy, but quite often dire tragedy.

Legal Tradition

From there he went on to explain that legal tradition has carefully built up safeguards for the individual against any infringement by "the terrific army of crown power."

One of the main safeguards is the stipulation that a man is innocent until he is proved guilty. Anther is the system of rules of evidence. The essential part of our system in this country is to insure that justice be done, he concluded.

The speaker was introduced by T. J. Carley and thanked by Dr. Dr. R. A. Kelly.

New Executive

This was the first meeting under the 1951-52 board of directors — President, Syd Black; vice-president, Jack Dewart; past president, Hugh Waddell; treasurer, John McColl; secretary, Pete LaBranche; sergeant-at-arms, Tom Taylor. Directors: Clare Collins, Bob Maybee, Max Comstock, Gord Monkman and Budditt Smitheram.

The following Rotarians were guests: Fred Long, Park Rapids, Minnesota; A. D. Lampson, Jefferson, Ohio; Samuel Mills, Powhatan Point, Ohio; Stewart M. Case, Jefferson, Ohio, William S. Parry, Okron, O.; Paul Day, Powhatan Point, Ohio; the Rev. M. Dowell, Cleveland, Ohio; D. Barmon, Buffalo, New York; W. H. Rogers, Geneva, New York; Harold Jobbitt, Bradford, Pennsylvania; Ronald C. Won't Close Saturdays

NEW YORK, July 10 (AP).—The New York Stock Exchange membership Monday voted against closing the exchange Saturdays throughout the entire year. Monday's vote is the climax of several years of debate over Saturday closings. Customarily the Stock Exchange remains open for business for two hours each Saturday from 10 a.m. to noon except during the summer months of June, July, August and September.

Windsor Ready For Housing Plan

WINDSOR, July 10—(CP)—Only the formality of replying to Planning Minister Greisinger specifying the type of houses needed in this area stands between Windsor and the provincial offer of 300 low rental houses.

Previous correspondence with Toronto indicated that Premier Frost is anxious to cooperate with the city and dominion in the Windsor building program but that nothing can be done until all requirements have been fulfilled.

The Griesinger letter asked that the city specify the type of houses, their locations, an estimate of what payments in lieu of taxes should be and the availability of existing school facilities.

Cattle Breeders Meet

HEREFORD, England, July 10 (Reuters).—Cattle breeders from many parts of the world, including Canada, converge today on Hereford, home of the great beef breed, for a four-day conference opening today. Canadians attending are led by W. J .Edgar of Innisfail, Alta., and D. A. Andrew of Calgary, secretary of the Canadian Hereford Breeders' Association.

Struck By Train

STOUFFVILLE, Ont., July 10 (CP).—Jack Hanna, 55 of Toronto, suffered face cuts and a broken knee cap Monday night when his automobile was struck by a Canadian National Railways freight train two miles north of here. Hanna said his car skidded 100 feet and stalled on the tracks when he put on his brakes. He said he didn't hear the train whistle.

Patient Drowns

PORT STANLEY, July 10 (CP).—Esther Marie Himmelstach, 55, a patient on probation from the Ontario Hospital, south of here, was drowned off Erie Beach Monday. She was the second victim since Sunday claimed by the heavy undertow, Sunday afternoon Adalgiso Reginato, 29, an Italian immigrant, was drowned nearby.

Cars Begin Using Ford Super-Highway

DETROIT, July 10 — (CP) — City traffic began moving Monday over the first section of the multi-million dollar Edsel Ford super-highway after Mrs. Edsel B. Ford, widow of the late Ford president, cut a symbolic ribbon to open it.

The section is about two miles long and has cost in the neighborhood of $12,000,000. It consists of three lanes in each direction, each lane 12 feet wide and capable of carrying 1,500 vehicles an hour.

Announce Milk Board Decision Wednesday

TORONTO, July 10 — (CP) — The Ontario Milk Control Board's decision on the retail milk price for the Toronto area will probably be made known Wednesday.

At the end of 6½-hour meeting Monday, the chairman, Judge A. B. Currey, said also everything was settled and that an announcement will be made this week. Present tentative prices are 20½ cents a quart delivered and 20 cents in stores.

Jail Gambler 5 Years

LOS ANGELES, July 10 (AP) —A last-ditch effort to delay the sentencing of Mickey Cohen failed Monday, and the swarthy gambler was ordered to spend five years in Federal prison and pay a $10,000 fine. Cohen was convicted of cheating the government out of $156,123 in income taxes for the years 1946, 1947 and 1948. With addition of penalties, the tatal is nearly $250,000.

Council Backs Miners Strike

TIMMINS, July 11. (CP)—Forty-five men, mostly maintenance workers; today were allowed through picket lines at the Hollinger Gold Mine where 1,600 miners and surface workers have been on strike for two days. Meanwhile J. V. Bonhomme, president of the Liberal Association of Cochrane South, joined Timmins town council in support of the strike. He said in an interview that the Federal Government had caused the strike by maintaining a fixed price for gold. Timmins town council Thursday night dispatched a telegram to Prime Minister St. Laurent asking the government to:

1. Increase the price of gold "to alleviate the unsatisfactory conditions caused by the fixed price;"
2. Intervene in the dispute.

The strike at the continent's largest gold mine, first in 30 years, started when the miners, members of Local 4305, United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) rejected a company offer of a two-cent-an-hour wage increase plus an eight-cent average increase based on a job evaluation scheme.

Miners are demanding a 17-cent-an-hour boost and check-off of union dues as recommended in a conciliation board report.

Eleven hundred workers at the nearby McIntyre mine considered strike action at a meeting Tuesday night. It was reported a walkout might be called today.

But in Ottawa, informed quarters said federal intervention is highly unlikely.

Finance Minister Abbott, who directs gold-buying policy, was out of the capital, but autthoritative sources said there are no prospects now of any increase in the price of Canadian gold.

It was recalled that this price is regulated by the International Monetary Fund and that the government, rather than break away from the fund set-up to get greater returns for producers, had decided a few months ago to increase its emergency financial assistance to marginal mines.

Secret Session Being Held To Decide Seaway Action

WASHINGTON, July 11. (AP)—The House of Representatives public works committe today failed to reach a vote on legislation to authorize the St. Lawrence Seaway and Power Project. The group scheduled another closed session on Thursday. Chairman Charles Buckley (Dem.-NY) said the committee, in a two-hour session, discussed only two of eight Seaway bills before it.

The group decided by unanimous voice vote, Buckley said, to table the six other bills. The measures discussed, he said, differ only in the amount of tolls that might be charged shippers.

Buckley declined to predict whether the committee would reach a vote Thursday. "Who can say?" was his reply to reporters.

Every member of the 27-man committee was present for today's session.

The committee, in addition to holding extensive hearings early this spring, inspected the seaway site last month. The tour, in which a majority of the members participated, extended from Duluth, Minn., to Montreal.

Under several virtually-identical bills before the committee the legislation, in the main, calls for:

Deepening the St. Lawrence River to an average depth of 27 feet—to permit navigation of ocean-going ships, and:

Construction of a 2,200,000 horsepower hydro-electric generating plant in the international rapids section of the river—near Massena, NY, for the annual production of about 13,000,000,000 kilowatt hours of energy.

The power yield would be shared equally between the United States and Canada. Each would contribute equally towards the construction costs.

UK Population Tops 50 Million

LONDON, July 11 (AP).—The population of the United Kingdom —Great Britain and Northern Ireland—now is 50,210,472.

The figure was made public today in a preliminary report on the 1951 census issued by the Registrar General.

The report showed that Greater London has a population of 8,346,137. New York City claims a population of 8,573.403. It lists its metropolitan area as 12,831,914. But because of differing opinion as to what constitutes metropolitan area, the argument persists as to which city is larger, London or New York.

The registrar noted that the rate of population increase—9.1 per cent in the 20 years since the last census—is the lowest on record since Britain began counting its people in 1801.

In England and Wales, women outnumber men 22,720,737 to 21,024,187. That is a surplus of 1,696,550 females.

Population density in England and Wales is 750 persons per square mile—one of the highest in the world.

Stage Short Walkout Protest Bombardment

CAIRO, Egypt, July 11 (Reuters)—All public transort in Cairo came to a standstill for 15 minutes today as a protest on the anniversary of the British bombardment of Alexandria in 1882.

The stoppage followed a government ban on all public demonstrations.

Truckloads of steel - helmeted police stood by in the main squares of the capital, but there were no incidents.

The Joint Transport Workers' Union ordered all public transport to stop running to "express their feelings on this ominous day."

May Ask Princess To Open Legislature

TORONTO, July 11 (CP) — Princess Elizabeth may be asked to open the fall session of the Ontario legislature when she visits Canada in October.

E. B. Joliffe, Ontario leader of the CCF, in a letter to Premier Frost has asked that the session be made doubly historic by having it opened by the heiress to the throne, The fall session will also implement new federal old age pension laws.

Whether such powers could be granted to the Princess is believed to be under discussion by Premier Frost. Princess Elizabeth, while the daughter of King George, is not his representative in Ontario.

Resort Gets Fire Dept. Back

CRYSTAL BEACH, July 11 — (CP)—This Lake Erie resort village got back its fire department Tuesday night when village councillors voted 3-2 to reinstate George Pietz, former chief of the volunteer fire brigade.

Both Pietz and Police Chief Gilbert Robertson were dismissed by the council early last week. Robertson was charged with laxity in carrying out his duties. Pietz was dismissed on charges that he had threatened to run the former police chief out of town with a shotgun and assume control of police duties himself.

Following Pietz's dismissal half the brigade resigned in protest and refused to return until their chief was reinstated.

Crystal Beach still lacks a police chief. Protection is being given by four officers of the Ontario Provincial Police.

RCN Squadron Pays Week's Visit To Britain

PORTSMOUTH, England, July 11 (CP).—A Canadian training squadron, comprising the destroyer Crescent and the frigates Swansea and La Hulloise, arrived today on a one-week visit.

The cadets will be shown over Nelson's flagship, HMS Victory, and will visit various naval training schools.

They will go to London briefly to visit the Festival of Britain.

Fear Guerrillas

Chinese Guards Hold Up UN Convoy For Protection

By SAM SUMMERLIN

MUNSAN, Korea, July 11 (AP) —Armed Chinese guards delayed an Allied convoy to Kaesong for more than an hour today to "protect us from guerrillas," an American jeep driver reported.

Pte. Lewis Mizner of Cleveland said the Chinese check point was about five miles south of Kaesong, where cease-fire talks started Tuesday.

"They wouldn't let us go through until they found someone to protect us, as they phrased it, from guerrillas," he said.

A Chinese interpreter finally arrived and accompanied the convoy into the city.

"That interpreter spoke only two words of English—hello and wait," Mizner added.

Chinese armed with rifles, burp guns and other weapons were spotted all along the route past the check point. All United Nations personnel were required to surrender their weapons (presumably to American military police) at the Imjin River bridge and proceed into Kaesong unarmed.

"That gives you a funny feeling," Mizner said. "You sure keep an eye on them."

He said Chinese infantry patrols were moving all along the route.

"Everytime we went by, all the Chinese turned their backs to us and faced the rice paddies and fields until we had passed. Probably they were ordered to do this."

Mizner said he saw only Koreans in Kaesong, but . . .

"Everywhere outside the town, we saw Chinese."

Mizner said armed Chinese in jeeps escorted the UN convoy from the city to the check point on the return journey to the peace camp.

NZ Election Called Over Crisis

Government Seeks Vindication On Dockers Strike

WELLINGTON, NZ, July 11. (CP)—Prime Minister Sydney Holland announced tonight that his nationalist government will go to the country soon to seek vindication of its handling of New Zealand's Labor crisis.

The National government, elected in December, 1949, in a strong swing to the right, would not ordinarily need to appeal to the voters again until late next year.

In the last election the National party won 46 seats in the 80-seat House of Representatives against 34 for Labor.

Political observers consider the government decided to strike while its victory in the country's greatest industrial crisis of the past generation was still fresh in the minds of voters.

The crisis began five months ago when dockers went on strike. Miners and seamen went with them. The government deregistered the 7,000-member dockers' union and formed new unions.

Strike Crumbles

Now the strike appears to be crumbling as union leaders advised workers to end the walkout and return to work.

Holland told the House of Representatives that he would ask the governor-general to dissolve parliament and call a general election to vindicate the government's handling of the dispute.

He gave no date for the general election.

Meanwhile, the deregistered waterside workers' union will consider Thursday its national council's recommendation that it return to work.

Seamen, cooks and stewards, who had been on strike in sympathy with the dock workers' demands for a 40-per-cent wage raise, returned to work today.

The strike, which exploded into violence on several occasions, started in February when the stevedores' demands for an increase from 60 cents to 84 cents an hour were turned down.

The dispute held up food shipments to Britain.

The government's decision to call for a general election came as a surprise to the opposition, who claim that Holland's handling of the dispute was inept.

Lord Mayor To Visit Ontario

LONDON, July 11 (CP).—Lord Mayor of London Sir Denys Lowson and the Lady Mayoress will visit Ontario in September, it was learned today. They will go there on their way back to Britain from an official visit to British Columbia.

The Lord Mayor's party is expected in Toronto Sept. 7 and will visit London, Ont., and Hamilton.

The party will include the two sheriffs and the sword-bearer of the city of London—the latter carrying the golden sword that must be proferred the King before he can enter the city.

Two footmen with powdered wigs will be in the party and the Lord Mayor will wear his ceremonial robes of office.

The tall, 45-year-old mayor — the youngest to hold that office for a century—was appointed a year ago.

Hunt Tire Rustlers In Cornwall Area

CORNWALL, July 11—(CP)—Police here are on the alert for tire rustlers who made off with 44 tires and wheels from 10 new model cars at a car lot two miles west of the city.

The theft took place Monday night and six men seen near the vicinity in a strange car are believed responsible. Police believe a large semi-trailer was used to transport the haul from the parking lot. A similar vehicle headed west on the highway loaded with brush is believed to have contained the stolen tires and wheels.

Stabbed On Street

WASHINGTON, July 11.—(AP) — Donald C. Beatty, who pleaded in vain for help from scores on onlookers, was stabbed to death today on a crowded downtown street. Hundreds of persons en route to work were moving along the street but none intervened. Asked why, one man replied: "Would you have stopped him (the killer) with a knife in his hand?" After stabbing Beatty repeatedly, the assailant stepped back to the sidewalk, calmly asked a bystander for a cigarette and stood there holding the knife until police arrived.

Toronto Rector May Accept US Church Job

TORONTO, July 11 (CP)—The Rev. Harry W. Garbutt, Anglican minister ousted during a stormy parish dispute, may be seeking a post with a United States Episcopal church.

Possibility that the 49-year-old clergyman would leave Canada was disclosed Tuesday night by R. H. Soward, chancellor of the Toronto diocese.

Mr. Garbutt was to have met with Bishop A. R. Beverley of Toronto—the man who dismissed him. The purpose was to discuss Mr. Garbutt's objection to the manner of his removal.

Mr. Garbutt did not attend the meeting. He was reported to have been in Niagara Falls, Ont., meeting with a bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

Somewhat Similar

The Episcopal Church in the US is similar to the Church of England in form and practice.

Mr. Garbutt's counsel, R. J. Wilson of Toronto, represented him at the hearing. He told the bishop and diocese officials that Mr. Garbutt had decided to drop his fight against dismissal.

Earlier, Mr. Garbutt said he was going to protest, contending his removal was not in accordance with church canon law. Mr. Wilson told the meeting Mr. Garbutt had later found his objection was based on the wrong canons.

The rector's dismissal climaxed a six-month inquiry into complaints from the strife-ridden parish.

Yacht Runs Aground Pearson Shaken Up

STOCKHOLM, July 11 (CP).—L. B. Pearson, Canadian External Affairs Minister, and 19 other persons were shaken up when the 200-ton motor yacht Romany ran aground in dense fog in the Stockholm Archipelago Monday, the newspaper Expressen reported no one was injured. Two vacationers called some fishermen who pulled the yacht off. It returned safely to port.

40,000 Gallons Of Gas Upset

VANCOUVER, July 11 (CP).—Forty thousand gallons of gasoline spread across Vancouver harbor today when a barge tilted over at her pier. No one was aboard at the time.

The harbormaster immediately broadcast a warning to the waterfront against throwing matches or cigarette butts in the water.

Police patrols were immediately set up around the harbor. All ships were warned of the hazard.

Home Oil Company, owners of the barge, said $25,000 worth of gasoline had poured out of the vessel.

Managers of all industrial plants along the harbor front were also warned of the danger.

Arrested Doing Hula

HONOLULU, July 11—(AP)—Film star Zachary Scott was arrested this morning while dancing the hula barefoot on the sidewalk outside a bar in downtown Honolulu. Police said Scott was charged with being drunk in public and was locked up for a few hours. Scott was belligerent and "it took two men to arrest him," police said. Scott is on vacation.

Iran Accepts US Offer Of Harriman

Commission Advised Premier Accept Truman Proposal

TEHRAN, Iran, July 11. — (CP) — Iran tonight accepted President Truman's offer to send his adviser Averell Harriman to Tehran to "talk over" the oil dispute.

US Ambassador Henry F. Grady was called to Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's residence to receive the Iranian reply to Truman's offer to send Harriman to Iran in the hope he could help solve the current bitter dispute between Britain and Iran.

Grady told newspapermen he was "very pleased" with Mossadegh's reply.

Earlier it was reported that Iran's oil nationalization commission had advised Mossadegh to accept the Truman offer.

The Premier appeared to have been stalling on an answer to President Truman's offer to send his personal representative. The commission, however, said it approved the idea "on the ground that Harriman's visit could not conflict with the oil nationalization law," the spokesman said.

Not Too Hopeful

Informed circles here say, however, that Harriman's mission will have little effect unless the Iranians show a disposition to molify — at least slightly — their determination to seize full control of the British-operated oil industry.

There was not the slightest indication that Mossadegh was ready to make any compromise.

If Mossadegh accepts Truman's offer to send Harriman to "talk over" the dispute, it will represent a softening of the Iranian attitude. The first reaction here to Truman's proposal was that it came "too late."

However, a special cabinet meeting Tuesday night was said to have been "favorably inclined" to accept. Moderate elements represented to Mossadegh that refusal might be construed as a rebuff to Truman.

Floods Ravage Missouri Area

KANSAS CITY, July 11 (AP)—Continuing rains swept Missouri and Kansas today, heaping additional misery on flood-ravaged areas.

Kansas was hardest hit by the fresh rains.

National guard units were ordered to flood duty. Volunteers patrolled dikes already weakened by weeks of heavy rains.

Floods during June inundated thousands of acres of rich farmland and made hundreds homeless. New rains no ware threatening some areas with even greater disaster.

Manhattan, Kas., where homes and business buildings suffered heavy damage from the flooded Smoky Hill and Big Blue rivers 10 days ago, was under again.

Water filled the streets in front of city hall and poured into a fire station. More than 300 homes were flooded and 200 others were in the path of rising waters.

Stir Up Excitement

Flares of US Coastguard Touch Off RCAF Search

LONDON, Ont., July 11 (CP)—Flares fired by US Coastguard vessels searching for survivors from a capsized rowboat off Lexington, Mich., touched off an alarm in the Kettle Point area of Lake Huron near Sarnia which led to a four-hour search by the RCAF and a private plane.

An RCAF expediter spotted an object on the dark waters which was first believed to be a vessel in distress. At 5:40 a.m. it was found to be a red-lighted navigational-aid buoy which was torn adrift in a recent storm.

Reports from Lexington, Mich., indicated one woman drowned and her two male companions are missing after their rowboat capsized during a windstorm. She was identified as Mrs. Muriel Koerber, of Detroit. The two men were said to be brothers of Mrs. Koerber.

Provincial Police were called when both flares and a faint red light were seen shortly after midnight by people on the Canadian beaches. Rumors spread that two small craft had collided.

A private plane from Grand Bend and an RCAF plane from Centralia began winging over the dark waters of the lake. Squadron Leader J. E. Grindlay directed the search from Centralia's control tower.

Provincial Constable Charles G. Wilkinson was in charge of the search from Kettle Point.

A US Army plane from Selfridge Field, Mich., was reported ready to join the search at one stage.

Allied Delegates Refuse To Discuss UN Troop Removal

MUNSAN, Korea, July 11. (AP)—Cease-fire talks are progressing in "cold military formality" with every reason to be optimistic, a United Nations briefing officer said tonight. "The talks now are on the tracks," said the spokesman, Col. George Ruhlen. "An armistice is much nearer tonight than it was 24 hours ago." An official communique was less enthusiastic but hopeful. It said "A better understanding between negotiating parties" developed Wednesday. It credited a change of attitude by the five Communist generals.

The communique said the Red negotiators showed "less stiffness and less formality."

Neither the communique nor the briefing officer mentioned three Communist demands reported by Red radios.

But allied delegates, returning Wednesday afternoon from second day of talks at Kaesong, made it clear they wouldn't talk about one of the three points—a demand that foreign troops get out of Korea immediately.

Won't Touch It

Rear-Admiral Arleigh A. Burke, a member of the five man UN team, said it was a political question. Allied negotiators won't discuss political issues.

The briefing officer said negotiators "may not get down to brass tacks" in Thursday sessions. They still are discussing what items are to go on the agenda and in what order they will be taken up.

Ruhlen said there was much less tension at Wednesday's meeting. Things werent forward in a "business like manner."

He said he could not disclose just what has been accomplished.

Conferees are operating without a chairman. Vice-Admiral C. Turner Joy leads allied discussions as UN spokesman. North Korean Gen. Nam Il, chief Communist delegate, is the "dominant force on their side." Ruhlen described him as "dynamic and a man with a strong character."

He said neither dominates the sessions—held around a long table in a room decorated only by the UN banner and a North Korean flag.

Allow Reporters Go

Improvement in the atmsophere of negotiations was reflected in a communique announcement that 20 Allied news representatives would be authorized to go to Kaesong for Thursday's negotiations.

Previously they had been banned on Communist insistence. Five Allied photographers went to the Red-guarded city Wednesday after the UN delegation had left.

The UN communique reported "there is a general feeling among United Nations delegates to the

Put Out Small Fire Burning Under Senate

OTTAWA, July 11 (CP). — A small fire in an inner wall of the parliament buildings was quickly put out Tuesday with chemical extinguishers.

The fire started in the wall of a men's washroom where plumbers were replacing old pipes. Flames from a blow torch set fire to cork insulation and spread over an area of several square feet. Damage was slight.

The Senate chamber is a floor above the spot where the fire started.

Pension Parley In Ottawa, Starts Monday

OTTAWA, July 11 — (CP) — Representatives of the federal and provincial governments will meet here Monday to discuss plans for the payment of $40-a-month pension to needy persons between 65 and 69.

The meeting, to be in private, will attempt to reach agreement on regulations covering such things as the eligibility test, proof of age and allowable outside income.

Health Minister Martin will head the federal delegation. The provinces are expected to send their deputy welfare ministers or their directors of old-age pensions.

Start In January

Starting next Jan. 1, the federal government plans to pay pensions of $40 a month to all 70 and over regardless of means, who have lived in Canada for at least 10 years. It has offered to share on a 50-50 basis with the provinces the cost of pensions to the needy between 65 and 69. It is not yet known whether all provinces will accept the federal offer.

Some have indicated that the plan would be too costly and that they would be able only to start the pension at a higher age, possibly 67.

At present pensions of $40 a month—some provinces pay a bit more—are paid to needy persons 70 and over. The federal government pays 75 per cent of the cost and the provinces the remainder.

Fail To Get 16 Detained

NEW YORK, July 11 (AP). — The government sought unsuccessfully today to have 16 Communist leaders placed in the custody of United States marshals pending decision on a move to revoke their bail and increase their bonds.

Judge Vincent L. Leibell referred the entire bail question to Judge Sylvester J. Ryan for a hearing and denied the government request for temporary detention. Leibell held the government's present motions were related to Ryan's inquiry into the source of funds used as bail in Communist cases, and the same judge should hear them.

All 17 arrested defendants in the current conspiracy case were in court. In the case of Israel Amter, the 17th defendant, the government has asked only that new surety be provided for his $1,000 bond.

Costs Too High Bus Line Quits

KINGSTON, July 11 (CP). — City Coach Lines has advised city council it intends to cease bus operations because of increased costs and the prospects of a further extension of services to cover the area to be annexed by the city Jan. 1.

D. G. Cunningham, solicitor for the bus company, and T. G. Burke, the local manager, advised members of the committee on administration and legislation of the company's intentions.

Mr. Cunningham told committee members that in view of the increased costs of operation, the coach lines had no alternative but to withdraw from the Kingston transportation field.

The company is now operating on a 10-year franchise that expires on Jan. 1, 1956.

Under tte terms of the contract, the company can pay the city $10,000 as liquidation damages and withdraw from the field at once. It could pay $5,000 damages and give six months' notice.

Armored Car Blows Up, 5 Casualties

Second In Command Of Van Doos One of Three Killed

By WILLIAM BOSS

WEST SECTOR, Korea, July 11. (CP)—Major J. P. L. Gosselin of Verdun, Que., second in command of the Royal 22nd Regiment, was killed July 9 when an armored car from which he was directing a patrol blew up.

Two others were killed and two injured in the blast on the embankment of a road which patrolling troops and their vehicles had been using for weeks.

Major Gosselin's military career was primarily administrative and he left a staff appointment at Brig. J. M. Rockingham's headquarters at Fort Lewis to gain regimental experience with the Van Doos. The operation in which he was killed was one of several he conducted recently.

Other Casualties

Also killed were Ptes. Paul Burneau and L. J. M. Collins, both of Noranda, Que. Severely injured was Pte. Cliff Collins of Montreal. Pte. J. E. Tremblay of Arvida, Que., was injured superficially.

Ptes. Bruneau and Collins were personal car driver and signaller respectively to Lt.-Col. J. A. Dextraze, commander of the regiment, and Ptes. Cliff Collins and Tremblay are personal signallers.

Ironically, no enemy were met on the patrol.

SPELLMAN HEADS PILGRIMAGE—Francis Cardinal Spellman, Roman Catholic Archbishop of New York, stopped off in Montreal on his way to the shrine of Ste. Anne de Beaupre, near Quebec City. The Cardinal, right, is welcomed by Msgr. Paul Emile Leger, Archbishop of Montreal.

Hold Roach Funeral Thursday Morning

The funeral service for Eddie Roach, 34, 581 Elm St., will be from the Anglesey funeral home to St. Peter's Cathedral for requiem mass at 9 a.m. Thursday. Burial will be in St. Peter's cemetery.

Mr. Roach died early Monday night from injuries received when he dived from the McFarlane St. bridge, Ashburnham.

He was a lifetime resident of Peterborough, son of the former Mary Hickey and the late John Roach. He was a member of St. Peter's Cathedral.

Besides his mother he leaves two brothers, Jack of Vancouver and James of Peterborough; three sisters, Mrs. Lorne Helson (Dorothy), Milton, Ont.; Mrs. John McIntyre (Helen), and Mrs. Clifford Darling (Kathleen), both of Peterborough.

armistice negotiations that progress is being made."

Opposing delegations have not yet agreed on "priority of items for the agenda," it said. But "a better understanding of the intended scope" of cease-fire talks has been reached "by all concerned.'

Language Barrier

The language barrier has slowed negotiations considerably.

In the more informal words of Admiral Burke, progess has been "fair — but you never can tell about these things."

Communist radios in Pyongyang and Peiping said North Korean and Communist negotiations have laid down a three-point demand for a cease-fire agreement:

1.Establish a 12½-mile zone at the 38th Parallel.

2. Re-establish the status quo as of June 25, 1950, when the Korean war started, with the 38th Parallel dividing North and South Korea.

3. Withdraw all "foreign troops" from Korea and start talks immediately for exchange of prioners.

When Burke alighted from his helicopter at this "peace camp," he was asked if he had any comment on Moscow radio reports that the UN delegation refused to discuss withdrawal of troops from Korea on the grounds it was a political problem. The UN delegation announced at the outset it would not discuss political or economic questions.

"The withdrawal of troops probably would be political," Burke said.

Then he smiled wryly and added, "I talk too damn much."

Information was scarce as to just what is happening in the Communist-guarded private home in Kaesong where the meetings are held.

Basic Red Terms

But the North Korean Pyongyang radio and the Chinese Peiping radio broadcast a detailed report on what they said was the basic Red demand for armistice terms.

The broadcast said the terms were laid down by North Korean Gen. Nam Il and endorsed by the chief Chinese delegate, Gen. Tung Hua.

There was nothing startling about the demands. They have been voiced frequently by the Communists. They are sharply divergent from expected UN demands.

Most observers here said Red proposals appeared to be made in good faith. With the UN demands they will form a solid foundation on which the two delegations can base their negotiations.

However, political issues raised by Red demands will be ruled out under the basic Allied statement. Moscow radio said Allied delegates object to some of the proposals because they were not "purely military questions, but also political ones."

The Russian report said Americans "refrained from a direct reply" when asked which were political.

Burke's remark in Munsan identified the withdrawal of troops from Korea as a political question. A gradual withdrawal of troops from Korea—both UN and Chinese volunteers—probably would be acceptable to the Allies. But Burke's comment indicated negotiators feel this question should be taken up at subsequent negotiations at a higher level after an armistice is in effect.

Previous Allied comments would place re-establishment of the old status quo at the 38th Parallel also in the political category.

Demand Commission

It is generally understood in this peace camp that UN delegates will insist on an armistice commission, including neutral observers on both sides of the demarcation line. The UN also may demand a cease-fire line more nearly along the present front.

UN forces are 30 miles north of the parallel in the east, roughly 20 miles north in the centre, and south of the line only in the west. Kaesong, where meetings are being held 12 miles beyond the UN lines, is three miles south of the parallel.

The Red demands would ask the UN forces to do most of the withdrawing. Naval blockades, which the Red demand would halt, are maintained only by the Allies. And almost all air reconnaissance is done by UN planes. The Reds would stop this.

Most important omission from the United Nations view was the lack of any provision for policing North Korea, and a similar plan for South Korea. Allied spokesmen have said such policing is necessary to prevent any build-up of forces during final negotiations or after a settlement.

The United Nations want the right of aerial surveillance over Communist Korea and are willing to grant the same privilege to the Reds in the south.

Believe Girls Aided Bandits

WOODBRIDGE, July 11 (CP)—Three masked bandits, who may have been working with the help of two girls, Tuesday robbed the Royal Bank of Canada branch here of $10,600.

Bank officials believe the men are the same ones who held up the branch two months ago to the day, escaping with $9,600.

The gunmen were still at large Tuesday night. Their first getaway car was found abandoned three miles east of this village a few miles northwest of Toronto.

They may have continued their escape in a car seen at the spot with two girls parked while the robbery was taking place.

Herschel J. Clark, staff manager of the Royal Bank of Canada, who said the loss was $10,600 Tuesday, commented that the same pattern was used in both holdups.

No Decisive Trend On Stock Exchange

TORONTO, July 11 (CP) — Prices drifted in a mixed, narrow path as the session progressed on the stock market today. It was the third straight day that no decisive trend was established.

Industrials were about evenly mixed with little feature. Steels, agricultures, retail stores and constructions showed a majority of gains in the groupings. Liquors, textiles and manufacturing companies were lower and the rest of the board was mixed. Maple Leaf Milling was the only issues to attract much attention as it climbed $1.50 to a new high at $17.

Base metals were fairly mixed but the tendency was to advance. United Asbestos was the most active stock in the market as it jumped 25 cents to a new peak.

Western oils were irregular with little change.

Senior golds firmed with Giant Yellowknife higher. Secondary golds were mixed and quiet.

Budget Errors Cost Million Daily Fleming Charges

OTTAWA, July 11. (CP)—Donald Fleming (PC, Toronto-Eglinton) said Tuesday night Finance Minister Abbott has "won for himself the all-time Canadian record as the most inaccurate budgeter in our history. His actual errors in budgeting in the last five years amounted to $1,250,000,000 in round figures, an average of $250,000,000 a year," said Mr. Fleming. "In other words, his inaccuracy has amounted to nearly $1,000,000 a day over the last five years."

Mr. Fleming's statements were contained in a speech over the Trans-Canada network of the CBC in the weekly series, The Nation's Business. Later he spoke in French over the CBC's French network.

Reviewing the government's financial operations, Mr. Fleming said that in the fiscal year ended March 31, 1947, Mr. Abbott budgeted for a deficit of $260,000,000 and finished with a surplus of $374,000,000. He was out just $634,000,000 in his calculations that year.

No Improvement

"In 1948 he budgeted for a surplus of $350,000,000 and turned up at the end of the year with a surplus of $676,000,000," said Mr. Fleming. "In that year he was out $326,000,000 in his calculations. In 1949 he was out $46,000,000. In the fiscal year ended March 31, 1950, he was out $71,000,000 in his calculations.

"In the fiscal year ended March 31, 1951, he estimated a surplus of $20,000,000. At the end of the year a surplus of $203,000,000 turned up, and that was after frantic efforts on the part of the government to spend huge sums in the dying days of the fiscal year in order to reduce this surplus by $140,000,000."

For 1951-52, Mr. Abbott budgeted for a surplus of $30,000,000, but in the first two months of the fiscal year the surplus totalled $275,000,000.

Don't Need Heavy Taxes

"If he runs true to form we must allow for an error of roughly $250,000,000 in his estimates of income this year," said Mr. Fleming. "On that basis there was no necessity for the heavy increases in taxation.

He referred to the 20 per cent increase in personal income tax, effective July 1, and to increases in hidden taxes, effective from last April 11.

The Progressive Conservative Party believed the increases were largely unnecessary—unnecessary both because of "inaccurable budgeting, and also because of the government's unwillingness to curb its own extravagance."

Mr. Fleming said the Progressive Conservative Party had demanded action in the Commons to curb inflation and the high cost of living. But "the government's contribution to the problem of inflation was to increase the cost of living."

Orange Walk Rain Or Shine On July 12th

Peterborough LOL members have their fingers crossed today.

Weather forecasters have predicted rain for Thursday—July 12—which is expected to be the largest Orange celebration ever held in the district. Lodges from seven counties have been invited to attend this celebration in Peterborough.

"Rain or no rain, the parade will go on," Ernie Reid, past grand master of Ontario East, said this morning. "We have walked in the rain before and if necessary we can do it tomorrow."

Should rain fall, Mr. Reid explained that the addresses probably will be given in the armouries and the dance will be in the Brock Arena.

If the weatherman is wrong the addresses will be given in Riverside Park and the dance held on Aylmer St. between King and Charlotte Sts.

The parade ground in front of the armouries and the collegiate will be used to form the parade which will start at 1.30 p.m., led by the Peterborough Citizens Band.

The parade will follow the following route: down McDonnel to Aylmer, up Aylmer to London, across London to George, down George to Hunter, across Hunter to Aylmer, down Aylmer to Charlotte, across Charlotte to George, up George to Hunter, across Hunter to Burnham and by way of Dale Ave. into Riverside Park where addresses will be given.

Speakers for the day include Major J. W. Foote, VC, Minister of Defence Institutions for Ontario; the Hon. H. H. Scott, MPP; Gordon K. Fraser, MP; His Worship Mayor M. J. Swanston, Major C. G. Everitt, and the Rev. F. C. Beager, grand chaplain.

The Weather

Peterborough Temperatures:

Today:
Night low..62 Noon...72
Noon barometer.....29.45
Yesterday:
Highest....82 Lowest..63
One Year Ago:
Highest....76 Lowest..67

Official forecast issued by the Dominion public weather office at 9:30 a.m. EDT today:

Synopsis:

Cool air with afternoon temperatures in the 70s has penetrated all of Ontario and at the time of this morning's weather map its borderline lay just south of Lake Ontario and Lake Erie.

Deep in this cool air mass in north-central Ontario skies are mainly sunny, but to the south considerable cloudiness is caused by the proximity of the warm air. This also makes likely the development of a storm centre the beginnings of which were evident in northern Illinois. Ahead of this centre rain and thundershowers may be expected to spread through Southern Ontario during today.

Regional forecasts valid until midnight Thursday.

Eastern Lake Ontario and Haliburton regions:

Cloudy, clearing this afternoon. Overcast tonight and Thursday. Rain beginning tonight. Cooler. Winds east 15. Low tonight and high Thursday at Trenton 65 and 70, Killaloe 50 and 70.

Summary for Thursday—Rain.

CCF Candidate Wins By-Election By Small Lead

GRAVELBOURG, Sask., July 11 (CP).—Saskatchewan's CCF government Tuesday added to its majority in the legislature when its candidate won a by-election in Gravelbourg. The defeated Liberal candidate immediately announced he will ask for a recount.

Edward Walker, 28-year-old university-trained farmer, received 2,591 votes compared to 2,510 for Ron MacLean, his Liberal opponent. Mr. MacLean is a former law partner of E. M. Culliton, who won the seat for the Liberals in the 1948 general election and now is on the Saskatchewan appeals court bench.

Mr. MacLean, announcing he will request a recount, urged Liberals to start work now for the next provincial election which he said may be called for this fall.

If the election of Mr. Walker is confirmed, it will give the CCF 31 seats in the 52-seat legislature. The Liberals have 19 and there is one Independent member and one Liberal-Progressive Conservative MLA.

Vigorous Campaigning

About 6,000 of the approximately 7,000 voters in the farming constituency of Southwestern Saskatchewan, cast ballots in the by-election which saw vigorous compaigning on both sides.

The CCF criticized the federal government's handling of the Anglo-Canadian wheat agreement Liberal speakers contended the record of the province's CCF government was the real issue.

Mr. MacLean, a native of Antigonish, NS, took an early lead and held it until well past the halfway mark in the counting when Mr. Walker edged ahead.

Warkworth News

Mrs. Lewis Denike has returned home from Picton where she has been spending the winter with her daughter Mrs. Eric Foster.

Mr. and Mrs. William Potter and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kelly and family spent the week-end in Kingston with Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Hardy and family.

The Rev. J. M. Ritchie, pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church is in charge of the combined services of Warkworth, St. Paul's United, and St. Andrew's Presbyterian Churches during the month of July, as well as the other appointments of Hastings Presbyterian Church and the Dartford and Oak Heights United Churches.

The Orange parade for Northumberland County will be held in Warkworth on July 12, Warkworth Community Band in attendance. The Women's Institute will cater for the dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Birney visited their former pastor, the Rev. Alfred and Mrs. Bishop at Lindsay last week and report Mr. Bishop's health is not good.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Wilson of Toronto celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary Saturday at the home of her mother Mrs. William T. Runnels. Guests included: Mr. and Mrs. Don Harnden, Brantford, Mrs. M. Wilson, Warkworth, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Gummer and Miss Betty Gummer, Mr. and Mrs. John Bull and Brian and Benson Runnels, Campbellford, Mr. and Mrs. O. Gummer of Peterborough, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. McKague, Castleton, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Gummer, Dianne, Joanne, and Bobbie of Dartford. J. C. McKague proposed a toast to the bride and groom. Little Dianne Gummer presented Mr. and Mrs. Wilson with a purse of money on behalf of the friends and their only daughter, Mrs. Don Harnden and her husband presented them with 25 red roses. Lunch was served on the lawn and a social time enjoyed.

Miss L. J. Davidson

The funeral for Miss Laura Jane Davidson, 563 Park St. N., who died Sunday was held Tuesday from the Comstock funeral home. The Rev. Dr. Bruce Gordon of Trinity United Church conducted the service.

Pall-bearers were Gordon K. Fraser, Charles J. Ray, Donald Crawford, Gerald Wood, Rowland Bradfield, Charles E. Moore. Burial was in Little Lake cemetery.

Dollar Down

MONTREAL, July 11 (CP). — The American dollar today opened at 5 27-32 per cent premium to the Canadian dollar, down 3-32 from Tuesday's close. That is, it took $1.05 27-32 Canadian to buy $1 American.

The pound sterling was $2.96⅜, lown ¼ from Tuesday.

Town To Check Fires In Dump

CAMPBELLFORD, July 11 — (ENS). — The Campbellford Town Council held its regular meeting on Monday night, with all members present except Mayor Ayrhart. Reeve Locke occupied the chair.

The matter of lighting fires at the dump was discussed quite thoroughly, as a result of a request of the Fair Company requesting action on the part of the town to forestall any fire or sparks spreading to their property.

It was pointed out that signs and other warnings have been issued against the lighting of fires at the dump without avail. The chairman of the Property Committee was empowered, if it is considered necessary, to put a watchman at the premises to prevent the lighting of fires, and to prosecute anyone apprehended in the act. The Fire Brigade will be asked to extinguish the fires when it is deemed necessary.

The by-law respecting connection links and their upkeep cost was passed in accordance with the agreement signed by Council and Counties' Conucil.

Routine business took up the rest of the meeting, and after the auditors' report was received Council adjourned until Monday, August 13.

Medical Pioneer Gets Recognition

CHICAGO, July 11 (AP) — Recognition is coming after half a century for Dr. Emil Grubbe, the man whose pioneer work led to saving or prolonging millions of lives.

Dr. Grubbe now is generally credited by medical science as the father of X-ray treatments. This research venture cost the 76-year-old Chicago physician his left hand, the full use of his right hand and strip of skin from his upper lip.

As a 20-year-old physicist, he used a beam of X-rays to treat a woman cancer patient in Chicago in January, 1896. This was only a few months after Wilhelm Roentgen, a German physicist, discovered that invisible, penetrating X-rays could be produced by sending an electrical charge through a vacuum tube.

An account of Grubbe's early work and belated recognition was published Tuesday in Pageant Magazine.

Dr. Grubbe, still active in medicine, will be cited as one of "our greatest medical pioneers."

Order 500 Employees Return To Work

HAMILTON, July 11 — (CP) — Between 500 and 600 employees of the Studebaker Corporation of Canada, Limited, will return to work Monday, D. C. Gaskin, vice-president and general manager, said today. A shortage of component parts has resulted in a two-week layoff.

Mr. Gaskin said employees would work two weeks, and that the plant would close down for the annual holiday July 27. It will re-open Aug. 7.

17 Cases Reported

COBOURG, July 11 —(ENS)— Only 17 cases of communicable disease were recorded for the week ending July 17 at the Northumberland and Durham Counties Health Unit. Six cases of chickenpox, one of German measles, two of red measles and eight of mumps comprised the list. None of them were in Cobourg.

Cobourg Tourist Booth Popular

COBOURG, July 11 —(ENS)— Opened for July 1, the downtown tourist information booth of the Chamber of Commerce is proving popular with tourists. The two parking meters in front of the tourist booth, located at the town hall, have been leased for the rest of the season by the Chamber of Commerce in order that tourists stopping to enquire at the booth, can have a place to park.

The regular Chamber of Commerce office is on Division St., off No. 2 Highway. The booth opened at the town hall is more convenient for the travelling public and its popularity is shown by figures compiled by the Chamber of Commerce. Last year during the week of July 1 to July 8, there were 19 guests placed and 65 inquiries. This year for the same period there were 100 guests placed and 959 enquiries.

Peace In Pieces

Yesterday Canada made peace with Germany.

So unimportant did this seem, except as a bit of tidying-up, that few Canadians bothered their heads about it. They were considerably bothered when Canada made war on Germany: September 10th, 1939. Yesterday was July 10th, 1951, twelve years less two months later. Really, however, Canadians pitched themselves into the conflict on September 3rd, 1939, when Britain and France declared war. Perhaps in modern war its formal declaration and conclusion are no longer meaningful. The reality is the clash of arms at the beginning, their silence at the end. Thus an armistice in Korea can be more important than treaties following it. There is an uneasy armistice of two-year duration in Kashmir, between India and Pakistan. That accomplishment has brought some quiet to Kashmir, though no peace. The concept of peace is becoming too idealistic to be attainable. Is the best we can hope for anywhere in the world in this generation a suspension of warfare? Peace passeth all understanding.

* * *

One difficulty about concluding peace with Germany was that there was no Germany left to deal with. "Unconditional surrender" was demanded by the Allies, and secured. This may have been a mistaken demand; history has yet to give its verdict. Another reason for the difficuty was that when Germany began to respire again, it did so in a dismembered body. The Allies had fallen out. Russia had other plans for Germany and Europe than Britain and the United States had. Two Germanies emerged: East and West. Canada did not say yesterday that she was at peace with these two Germanies. She said that a state of war no longer exists and that German nationals will no longer be regarded as enemy aliens.

* * *

The peace is piecemeal. Each country is unilaterally making its own declarations. Britain, Australia and New Zealand ended their war with Germany on Monday, Canada and France yesterday. Forty-three other western nations are proclaiming an end to the war, according to their own schedules. There is no peace treaty.

* * *

How different the situation was after November 11th, 1918. Then there was an armistice between victor and vanquished, not an unconditional surrender. A German body politic still existed. Its representatives were called to conference tables at Versailles on May 7, 1919 to accept the Treaty. On June 28th the bulky document—as big as an ordinary book, was signed. Separate treaties of peace were made with the allies of Germany within the next ten months.

* * *

The Treaty of Versailles proclaimed peace, and the world for a while breathed an air of eternal peace. The Allies were united, and there was none to challenge British-American supremacy—until Germany rearmed after 1933. If the Treaty of Versailles was a delusion of peace, the world cannot delude itself this time. There is too much noise abroad to permit of any peaceful complacency.

"Alouette" Wins In Wales

In Llangollen, Wales, last Wednesday, a New Brunswick choir of twenty-nine male voices won first place at an International Eisteddfod. This is a signal honour for the choir and proof that Canadian voices and Canadian choirs can rank with the best in the world, under proper training, discipline and direction. The choir is from the small Roman Catholic St. Joseph's in St. Joseph, New Brunswick, a bilingual college. Its director is the Reverend Leandres Brault.

The college choir competed against twenty-four other choirs from sixteen countries. The purpose of the competition was to exhibit national folk music. The St. Joseph's choir chose as their numbers an arrangement of the rollicking Alouette, and the distinctive, though less well-known to English-Canadians, Va Le Bon Vent. Alouette was awarded 96 points, Va Le Bon Vent 95, by the adjudicators, who praised the choir's singing as "a performance of excellence, with tradition and art beautifully blended." Tied for second place in the main competition of the day's program were a choir from the Ukraine and another from Valois, Switzerland. Following their triumph of Wednesday, the choir competed again last Saturday in a set-piece event in which eleven male voice choirs took part. It won second place. A Birkenhead (England) choir was first, a Norwegian third.

The Eisteddfod competitions last week was not the Royal National Eisteddfod of ancient renown—that takes place in August and its choral events are almost entirely confined to Welsh choirs, singing prescribed pieces. It was a special international competition, authorized by the National Eisteddfod Council.

The New Brunswick choir's achievement casts lustre on the quality of choral singing in Canada. The truth is, although Canadians may be slow to admit it, that choral singing by amateur groups in Canada reaches high standards. Much excellent choir work has been done in the past and is being done today. One remembers the Schubert Choir of Brantford, which more than a generation ago won praise abroad, and also Healey Willan's Tudor Singers of Toronto, and Dorothy Allen Park's Madrigal Singers of Peterborough. There is the Mendelssohn Choir of Toronto and the Elgar Choir of Montreal. The Philharmonic Ladies Choir of New Liskeard this year was awarded the Lincoln Trophy as Canada's outstanding adult choir competing in regional festivals. From one coast to the other are large and small groups of singers giving their communities and provinces, and sometimes through the C.B.C. the whole country, choral music of the highest order.

Last Sunday afternoon during the broadcast of a vespers service from Victoria, B.C., the Anglican Cathedral choir's chanting had a beauty, articulation and cadence which would elevate any church's service in any country. Of all forms of musical expression in Canada, choral singing has the longest and most notable record, and is most widespread. There are fine symphony orchestras but these are few and far between. A good choir can be formed where ten or twelve people devoted to singing gather together. It is to the credit of Canada from one generation to another, in one community or another, enough people do group themselves around a sensitive capable leader to continue the fine musical tradition.

Yet The Chief Lived By A Lake

Chief George Coppaway of the Mud Lake Band, Mississauga Indians, was drowned last Friday afternoon when his boat overturned in Buckhorn Lake. His death is a loss to the tribe. It is regrettable that he could not swim.

Chief Coppaway, whose age was 59, lived beside a lake all his life, at the Curve Lake reserve north of Peterborough. He was an expert canoeist and travelled as much by water as he did by land. Yet in all his years he never learned to swim. The presence of water is no guarantee that a person will take to it like a fish. In fact, the art of swimming is not natural to man. If it were, he would have webbed feet or scales instead of skin. Man has to learn to swim. It is one of the desirable human skills, rather necessary to people who live beside water and are constantly on it.

Peterborough city and county now offer many opportunities to acquire the art of swimming. There are camps and tourist resorts with swimming instructors in attendance. In the city there are Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. pools where coaching is given free to school-children during the winter months. At Riverside Park the Lions Club have built, and are maintaining, a splendid outdoor swimming pool. Swimming lessons are available at very little cost, to adults as well as children. It is an excellent opportunity to cultivate a safety skill as well as learn the pleasures of splashing around in water with ease and confidence.

Matisse's Chapel On The Riviera

By NORA BELOFF

"AND how is Monsieur Matisse these days?" I asked the bespectacled little nun in white robes and black hood, who had seen the famous painter that morning. She had told me he had visited Vence that day to see the Chapel for the first time since its consecration (in his absence) last week. The nuns of the Dominican convent had nursed Matisse through crippling illness a few years ago, and she spoke tenderly of the old man:

"Well of course, he is in his eighty-second year and has suffered a great deal. But, do you know, I think our Chapel did him good."

✧ ✧ ✧

"OUR chapel", conceived, planned, designed and decorated by Henri Matisse, was the old painter's gift to the Dominican Order: it is also, in his own opinion, which is shared by many who have seen it, the greatest achievement of his richly productive life.

VENCE is a mountain village a few miles north of the well-known Riviera resorts of Nice and Cannes. Perched on the crest of one of the wine-growing hills, cool, colourful and sunny, it was, for many years of his life, Matisse's chosen home. Now the little white building on the road newly named "Avenue Henri Matisse" has turned it into what looks like becoming a permanent place of pilgrimage.

The chapel is unostentatiously tucked between two other houses belonging to the Convent. As you approach it from the road you see a small, squat white stone building, with only a tiny slit of window in one corner, and topped by a gently-sloping roof of brilliant blue tiles. On top, also designed by Matisse, is a wrought iron cross taller than the building itself, posed on four curved legs, between which an iron bell hangs from the cross.

ABOVE the small entrance door is the first of Matisse's four black-on-white murals. It represents in barest outline the head of a monk on one side and a Madonna and child on the other: between them a cross radiating light. The little nun was delighted to explain it to me: it represents, she said, their patron Saint Dominic being inspired by Mary and Jesus to preach the gospel.

On entering the Chapel you go straight down stairs: the building is on a slope and the front, facing away from the street, therefore is far higher than the back. Its fifteen very narrow windows, stretching almost all the way from the ground to the roof, make it look even taller than it is.

INSIDE the Chapel itself everything but the stained glass windows and the green carpet on the altar-steps is white. The floor is in slabs of white marble, selected by Matisse himself, the walls and ceilings are white-washed, and three of the walls are decorated with black-painted murals.

✧ ✧ ✧

Next to the altar there is a drawing, many times life-size, of Saint Dominic: the head only in outline, no features at all, one hand clasping the Gospel. The largest mural, covering most of one wall of the Chapel, is of the Virgin and Child, also only in barest outline, with the single word "AVE" painted in capital letters in the corner. The background is filled with those curiously shaped multi-petalled flowers which are familiar in so many of Matisse's paintings, and which seem to symbolize creation.

At the back facing the altar is the last mural: a serial: illustrating the story of the martyrdom of Christ.

SOME of the original sketches are exhibited in an ante-room, where reproductions are being sold to pay for the materials used in the chapel. In these there is far more detail than in the final murals. There you can see the features of some of the mysteriously blank faces. In translating the work into its final form Matisse has ruthlessly eliminated everything but the barest essentials.

Opposite the murals the light comes through stained glass windows in which only three colours are used: yellow, green and Botticelli blue. In an explanatory pamphlet Matisse explains that colours, apart from representing objects and phenomena, have an independent power of their own over human feelings. Matisse has always used colour in this way, but what makes his Chapel so exciting is the skill with which he introduces the new and mobile element of sunlight through coloured glass, sharply reflected on the ceramic panels and exquisitely merging on the stone.

THE Cross on the altar, the white vestments, the golden candle sticks, are all personally designed by Matisse, yet his absence from the religious consecreation last week has confirmed the general belief that he is not himself a practising Catholic. He is reported to have told his friends that he drew these pictures as he would have illustrated a mythology.

✧ ✧ ✧

YET to the old artist himself, the Chapel of Vence is plainly not just another of his collected works, but an affirmation of a living faith. This comes out very clearly in his own explanatory note;

"This was not a work I chose to do, but indeed a work for which I was chosen by Destiny at the end of my days, that I have fulfilled in accordance with my studies and research: this Chapel giving me the chance to define and reunite them all."

It may seem strange that this introductory note, sold in the ante-room by the nuns themselves as a kind of catalogue to the Chapel, mentions "destiny" but does not mention God. Yet is it quite certain that as much for M. Matisse as for the Dominican nuns or the laymen outside, this little building—so simple that, were it not for the softness and mystery of the moving light, it could be called austere—is a supreme expression of religious faith.

In A Nutshell

(Brandon Sun)

During the five years 1946-1950 inclusive, Canadian industries invested 10,000 million dollars in new plant and equipment, and increased the number of their employees by 25.9 per cent, says the Rural Scene. But during the same five years the volume of goods produced increased by only 21.8 per cent.

"This means that the average indstrial worker today is producing only 5/6 as much as he did five years ago. The shorter work week and the longer holidays are having their effect on production; and are one reason for the scarcity of goods and the rising cost of living."

BOTH COCKED

Insect Plagues

(NORTH BAY NUGGET)

PEOPLE joke about caterpillars, shadflies, and mosquitoes—but the situation is getting beyond the joking stage.

In all seriousness, it is going to be necessary for the Government of this country to do something about the insect pests which are making Summer a season to be dreaded, rather than enjoyed.

One plague follows another with monotonous regularity. We have had the caterpillars, which stripped hundreds of thousands of poplar trees.

The blackflies and mosquitoes have been with us, as usual, since May.

The sawyer beetles are here, and now, the shads have arrived.

In July, we are told, the caterpillars, which are busy right now changing into moths, will emerge in their new stage, and create a further nuisance.

All insects, we are told, are a necessary part of the world's population. They serve some useful purpose. But we submit that the insects are getting the upper hand.

We brag about our tourist attractions. Tourists don't enjoy coming to a bug-infested country. And there is scarcely a period during the Summer when this district is entirely free of pests.

This matter is past a joke. We think Chambers of Commerce should start needling the government—both provincial and federal—to start action to curb these crawling, flying, smelling insects. People can take so much and they have been taking it for a long time in this matter of insect pests.

When A Trade Deficit Is Favourable

(OTTAWA CITIZEN)

A COMMON tendency is to deplore foreign trade deficits. But the fact that for the first five months of 1951 Canada's imports exceeded its exports by $300,000,000 need cause no alarm. Under certain circumstances deficits can enrich, rather than impoverish a nation.

Take, for example, Canada's position at the present time. Canada is a creditor country. After the war, it loaned about $2,000,000,000 to nations abroad. Ultimately, this money can be paid back only in goods, and this, partly, is the reason for Canada's trade deficit today. This year, Britain is paying back to Canada $37,000,000, France $14,000,000, and other countries $7,000,000. In order to receive the value of this money in goods, Canada has to sell a smaller value in goods. This shows up as a trade deficit, but in fact Canada is being enriched because it is collecting on old debts.

A second factor in Canada's deficit is the country's capital expansion program. Some $500,000,000 is being spent on an aluminum development in British Columbia; another $200,000,000 on the Labrador iron ore development; $200,000,000 on an expanded steel production; and $90,000,000 has been spent on an oil pipeline from Alberta to the Great Lakes. In addition, smaller investments are taking place. Much of this capital must be borrowed, and again it shows up in Canada's trading accounts as a deficit. But this situation is only temporary, for these are enterprises which will increase Canada's productivity and wealth. The oil pipeline alone will make it possible for Canada to save more than $100,000,000 a year in United States funds through not having to import so much oil.

In considering trade deficits, these facts must be taken into account. A deficit can impoverish the country, if the goods being brought in do not add to productivity, and if the country is already a debtor. Fortunately, in Canada's case the opposite is true.

Deplorable Trend

(St. Catharines Standard)

Party patronage in Canada has been exhibited in its most vicious trend by the Wentworth Liberal Association. That party organization is sending a letter of protest against the appointment as junior Judge of Wentworth County of John S. Latchford of Cornwall. The organization stands for the appointment of a Hamilton Liberal lawyer, and would, no doubt if it had the chance, make the recommendation to the Minister of Justice. Thus, appointment of the judiciary of Canada would descend to the ward level of politics. It couldn't be worse if we elected men on the party tickets as judges, as they do in so many instances in the United States.

The appointment of an outside man to be judge in a county is a sound principle. He enters his duties free from all local entanglements or association. It will be a sorry day if the Wentworth Liberal Association example is followed elsewhere in Canada, and appointments to the judiciary become a patronage plum, which can only be handed out on the recommendation of party organizations within a county or city.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And the Lord said unto Moses, Hew thee two tables of stone like unto the first: and I will write upon these tables the words that were in the first tables, which thou brakest. And be ready in the morning, and come up in the morning unto mount Sinai, and present thy self there to me in the top of the mount... And he was there with the Lord forty days and forty nights; he did neither eat bread, nor drink water. And he wrote upon the tables the words of the covenant, the ten commandments.

And it came to pass, when Moses came down from mount Sinai with the two tables of testimony in Moses' hand, when he came down from the mount, that Moses wist not that the skin of his face shone while he talked with him. And when Aaron and all the children of Israel saw Moses, behold, the skin of his face shone; and they were afraid to come nigh him....

And till Moses had done speaking with them, he put a veil on his face. (Ex. 34: 1, 2, 28-30, 33.)

If the ministration of death written and engraven in stones, was glorious, so that the children of Israel could not stedfastly behold the face of Moses for the glory of his countenance; which glory was to be done away: how shall not the ministration of the spirit be rather glorious?....But their minds were blinded: for until this day remaineth the same veil untaken away in the reading of the old testament; which veil is done away in Christ.

But we all, with open face beholding as in a glass the glory of the Lord, are changed into the same image from glory to glory even as by the Spirit of the Lord. (II Cor. 3: 7, 8, 14, 18.)

Ever Hear Of Satchmo?

(Vancouver Sun)

A gentleman who rejoices in the name of Satchmo Armstrong has been named by the city of Chicago as "the greatest musical genius the U.S. has ever produced".

Let no one run away with the idea that Satchmo is a famous composer of symphonies or inspired conductor of great orchestras or a gifted instrumentalist who brings the classics to vibrant life.

No indeed. Satchmo is a tooter on a jazz trumpet. But he toots with such consummate charm that entranced Chicago proclaimed a holiday last week in his honour, gave him a civic reception and presented him with a magnificent scroll signed by 24 newsmen and entertainers and presumably a few Clark Street bartenders.

'Tri-Wound' Policy

(Kitchener-Waterloo Record)

Canadian soldiers fighting in Korea may be returned to Canada for duty here if they have been wounded three times. Their return is not mandatory and will be carried out only at their own request.

A similar ruling was in effect during the Second World War.

In reviewing the "tri-wound" policy, army headquarters said that it is not intended that trivial wounds be considered. However, each injury resulting from enemy or Allied action and caused by or resulting from the use of a weapon will bring the wounded man that much closer to home.

SENSATION IN THE CENTRE COURT

Robinson Takes Bad Beating Loses Crown To Turpin

By BEN PHLEGAR

LONDON, July 11 (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson, once considered boxing's invincible fighting machine, was stripped of his world middleweight crown Tuesday after absorbing a terrific beating by Randolph Turpin, a comparative newcomer to fist-fighting's big time.

Turpin, 23-year-old negro almost unknown outside his British homeland, astounded the boxing world by soundly whipping the New York titleholder in 15 rounds as a capacity crowd of 18,000 in Earl's Court Arena cheered in disbelief.

The 31year-old Robinson's fistic world collapsed around his battered features, but he'll get a chance next September on his home grounds to get his title back.

Immediately after the fight, Robinson's manager, George Gainford, said a return bout would be held Sept. 26 in New York.

"He was better than I was," Robson said without offering any alibi. "I lost," he said simply.

Unawed by the champion's dazzling reputation, young Turpin bored in from the start to outpunch, outbox and outsmart the overwhelming favorite who has been hailed in recent years as the greatest fighter—pound for pound —anywhere in the world.

"I thought I was winning all the way," Turpin declared as he ran into his dressing room. "He never hurt me once." Randy was quite right.

Not A Scratch

Turpin finished without a scratch, while Robinson just barely escaped in the 14th round and ended up with a deep cut on his left eyebrow and another gash high on his left cheekbone. The eyebrow cut apparently came from a crash of heads in the ninth round.

The Associated Press scoreboard gave Robinson, who had lost only one other fight in 133 bouts covering 11 years, just four rounds. Turpin got nine, with two even.

Men who watched Sugar Ray storm through Europe recently, toppling nine foes in two months, tried to tell him he looked the shadow of his usual self..

"I felt good," Robinson insisted. "Turpin is a real good boy."

Robinson, the world welterweight champion when he took the middleweight title from Jake La Motta in Chicago, held the 160 pound crown only five months. He beat La Motto last Feb. 14, and the National Boxing Association and the New York Athletic Commission relieved him of his welterweight title.

It was the greatest moment in the career of Turpin, whose father was a negro rifleman from British Guiana.

Biggest Money

Randy was paid $38,000, more money than a British middleweight ever has received. He brought the 160-pound title back to the British Isles for the first time since Bob Fitzsimmons' reign 60 years ago.

"It went the way we had expected," said Randy's oldest brother, Dick, former British middleweight champ, and now his trainer.

"We had taken Sugar Ray to pieces watching films of him in action. We knew he was good when he was coming forward, but not so hot when he was going back—so we worked on that."

Turpin forced the action for the first eight rounds. He slowed down during the next three—partially explained by the fact he never before had fought more than eight—and then found a tremendous finishing surge that left Robinson completely whipped.

Robinson, who got $84,000 — largest purse ever paid a fighter here—was a 1 to 4 favorite. Odds against Turpin winning on points were as high as 20 to 1.

To Expand Operations

NEW YORK, July 11 (CP) — The Swiss Bank Corporation, largest commercial bank in Switzerland, Tuesday announced it is expanding its operations to Canada. The Swiss bank said it will open Aug. 1 a Canadian branch to be known as the Swiss Corporation for Canadian Investments Limited. It will have an authorized share capital of $2,000,000. Headquarters will be in Montreal.

Soldier Remanded

EDMONTON, July 11 (CP) — Pte. Frederick Sabattis of Kingsclear, N.B., Tuesday was remanded to July 17 on a charge of murder. Sabattis, 20, is charged in the June 30 service-rifle slaying at Wainwright camp of Private H. B. MacEacheran of Woodstock, N.B., and Truro, N.S. The hearing took one minute.

Drive On Drinking

FOREST, Ont., July 11 (CP)—Provincial police Tuesday announced an all-out campaign to crack beach and dance hall drinking and bootlegging in Grand Bend, Ipperwash and surrounding district. Twenty summonses have been served at Ipperwash in less than two weeks and a raid at Grand Bend June 16 netted 31 found-ins and one bootlegger, police said.

Maple Leafs Knock Off Montreal 5-4

By The Associated Press

Lefty Hal Hudson of the fifth-place Toronto Maple Leafs has no disdain for work, especially if he can continue to chalk up victories at the rate of three a week.

The 24-year-old southpaw, appearing in his fifth game in seven days, gained credit for his eighth victory against three losses as the Maple Leafs knocked off the International league-leading Montreal Royals 5-4 Tuesday night.

Hudson came to the rescue Tuesday night of starting pitcher Johnny Hetki, who had to retire in the sixth inning because of illness. Hudson took over with the score tied 2-2 and gave up only three hits in four innings to rack up his third victory within a week.

Hudson was aided considerably by his battery mate, Ferrell Anderson ,who tied the game in the sixth inning with a two-run double and later scored the winning marker after another two-base hit in the eighth frame.

The second-place Buffalo Bisons lost an opportunity to cut the gap between them and the Royals by dropping an 8-3 verdict to Baltimore. Jack Brittin scattered 11 safeties in going the route for Baltimore. Anse Moore and Dee Phillips homered for the victors.

Bill Miller of Syracuse Chiefs turned in a glittering mound performance as he blanked the last-place Springfield Cubs 1-0 on three hits. The only run of the game was scored in the eighth inning by Claude Corbitt, who doubled and rode home on Pete Riggan's single.

Rochester Red Wings and Ottawa Giants divided a twin bill. Rochester captured the opener 5-2 behind Kurt Krieger, as Steve Bilko poled a three-run homer in the seventh inning to win the game. George Bamberger of the Giants yielded only three hits in the nightcap to shut out the Red Wings 2-0.

WANT MORE MONEY

Members of the Horsemen's Benevolent Protective Association voted unanimously Tuesday night to refuse to race Thursday unless the track grants their request for increased purse money for the second meeting at Fort Erie.

Four weeks of racing have been scheduled for the track. The first meeting is from July 4 to July 19, under the auspices of the Niagara Racing Association. The second, from July 20 to Aug. 3, is to be run by the Ascot Turf Club.

A committee of the HPBA met John Cella, president of the Fort Erie track, Monday, asking an increase of $8,000 in purses — about $1,200 a day. Cella offered $5,500 to be graded for races for better-class horses.

Norwood Church Holds Sunday School Picnic

NORWOOD, July 11 (ENS)—A picnic for the Sunday school of Christ Church was held Saturday at Glen Allan park, north of Marmora. There was a good attendance of children, parents and members of the congregation.

The afternoon was spent in races for all, swimming and games. David Sparling was official starter. Tea was prepared and served by Mrs. Mainland.

The following were winners in the various races: Girls, 9 to 10 years—1 Barbara Rae, 2 and 3 (tied) Juliet Barrett, Doris Clements; girls 5-6—1 Carol Spring, 2 Loraine Clements, 3 Linda Lou Golloher; boys 6-8—1 Bobby Beynon, 2 Sydney Dickison, 3 John Goodswan; girls and boys 12 to 14—1 Margaret Allman, 2 George Allman, 3 David Peasgood; girls and boys 4 to 5—1 Peter Allman. 2 Maureen Neadow, 3 David Tredree; girls and boys 2 to 3—1 Brenda Neadow, 2 Karen Spring, 3 Dolores Clements; (all non-winners received consolation prizes); ladies three-legged race—1 Mrs. Peasgood and Mrs. Neadow, 2 Mrs. Rae and Mrs. Rudd; men's lark race—1 Bob Beynon, 2 Bob Barrett.

The prize for the longest married couple on the grounds was won by Mr. and Mrs. H. Rogers. Prizes were presented by the Rev. D. Peasgood who paid tribute to the superintendent, W. Goodswan, and all who helped to make the picnic a success.

A bus was provided to transport the children to and from the picnic under the supervision of the Misses Jean and Ruth Baskin.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Representatives of the Border League's last two teams, Ogdensburg and Kingston will meet at Ogdensburg Thursday, probably to close out the six-year-old circuit.

John G. Ward, president of the league, called the meeting after Watertown and Auburn withdrew Monday from the league. Geneva and Cornwall had withdrawn previously because of financial difficulties.

The Watertown Daily Times said the surviving two teams would vote to suspend the league, at least for 1951.

Further indication that the league would probably fold came from the Ogdensburg team which announced it had scheduled games with a Malone (NY) semi-professional team for tonight at Ogdensburg and at Malone Sunday.

Ogdensburg also released manager Johnny Sosh and appointed first-baseman Irv Schupp to replace him. It said the move was taken for financial reasons.

Mrs. N. J. Carlson, veteran shotmaker of the Toronto Rosedale club, toured the Sarnia golf course in a neat 82 Tuesday to walk away with top honors in the annual ladies' invitation tournament.

Almost 60 golfers from Chatham, Petrolia, Ridgetown, Strathroy and Windsor played in the annual 18-hole tourney.

The successor to retiring baseball commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler may be picked by Aug. 1, major league spokesmen said Tuesday at Detroit.

Owners of the 16 major league clubs agreed Tuesday to submit their recommendations for the post in writing by July 20.

Meanwhile, Chandler, who steps down July 15, said he was "leaving the door open for a return to baseball."

A dispute over purses may result in cancellation of racing at Fort Erie after today.

At Chicago, Art Larsen, United States champion, Tuesday defeated Ronald Fontana, of Toronto, 6-0, 6-3 in the first round of the men's singles of the National Clay Courts tennis championships.

Orphans Gather Easy Win Over Lakefield

Harold Dormer's snappy Orphans smote Lakefield Merchants 23-10 in the second game of Tuesday's double softball set, at the Bowl, to creep one game closer to second place in the standing in the men's race.

Led by "Speed" Curry, smart second-sacker, who poled two clean homers and drove in four runs, Fraser Wade who doubled and sent over the same, Red Sullivan who doubled, homered and smacked in a pair, the Dormer crew treated the gold and black boys roughly after the homesters had taken an early lead.

Terry Woods weathered the storm against Garbutt and McCracken, though nicked for 11 hits, one a long homer by Archie Stewart with Loyst on the pond in the second, but the Orf. meal-ticket struck out seven and walked only four in a fair display, particularly in the last six innings. Hitting held sway with eight extra-base clouts in all but there were some fine fielding features, enjoyed by the spectators, such as those supplied by Larkman of the Merchants and Withers of Orphans, both in left field for their respective teams. Each had four put-outs. Merchants as a team had a poor fielding night.

Lakefield Merchants: Henry, 2b; Stewart, ss; D. Wasc; Twist, cf; Hockaday, rf; Loyst, 1b; Garbutt, p; McCracken, p; D. Wasson (pinch hitter).

Big Racing Upsets At Thorncliffe Track

TORONTO, July 11 (CP). — Form-players, after experiencing a pleasant afternoon for the first five races, were knocked for a loop at Thorncliffe Raceway on Tuesday when Carroll Hanover, owned by W. Mountain of Hamilton and driven by Bill Habkirk, won the sixth dash and paid $63.65 for a $2 ticket. It was the largest price of the current harness race meeting.

The feature pacing stake of the day was won by Astra Colby in straight heats. Owned by C. E. Armstrong, of Toronto, and driven by Jack Bannerman, Astra Colby was a handy winner of both dashes.

Two short priced winners in the first two dashes accounted for the first small daily double of the Thorncliffe meeting. Peggy May Peters, owned by J. L. Waples, of Phelpstown, won the first and Jimmy Brewer, owned by Frank Conlin, of Oshawa, won the second.

Huff Motors Lash Baltimore Millers

COBOURG, July 11 — Huff Motors slammed the slumping Baltimore Millers, 7-3, here Tuesday night to win their first game of the season in the Cobourg and District Softball League.

The collapsing Baltimore crew, who threatened to run away with the league in early June, could not beat Jim Hoy's seven hit pitching coupled with great fielding by Manager Hank Haynes and Pollock of the Port Hope Huffs.

McGinness Victors

McGinness yanked out a 2-1 fastball win over Quakers on a timely double by Metcalfe, which scored two runs. The game was a pitchers' battle and one of the finest frays seen this season. The feature was a swell running catch by Fowler in centre to rob Shine of a homer. Quakers had the bases loaded in the top of the seventh with none out, but could get only one run as Sabourin did some nifty flinging to get out of the hole. He and Horton both hurled dandy ball. Teams:

Quakers: Lomax, 3b, c, Issac, c, Gunn, 1b; Shine, 2b; Prescott, ss; Horton, p; Nolan, rf; McClellan, cf; Simmons, lf.

McGinness: Metcalfe, c; Fowler, cf; Ferguson, 3b; Killingbeck, 2b; Hill, lf; Gordiniere, 1b; Sabourin, p; Foley, ss; Caccavella, ss; Broadhurst, rf; Spooner, rf.

Woollens Victors

NORWOOD, July 11 (ENS). — Dominion Woollens beat Norwood 8-3 here on Monday in a fastball fixture. It was tied 2-2 in the eighth when Woollens scored six, after getting one each in the first and fifth. Norwood got tallies in the second, fourth and eighth frames. Brooks went the route for Woollens, but Evans spelled Payne off in the eighth. Teams:

Woollens: Weichorek, 3b, Nokes c, E. Leonard 2b, Anderson ss, G. Leonard 1b, Hillier lf, Manbeck cf, Schell lf, Brooks p.

Norwood: Spencer, R. Garden, Martin, W. Garden, Payne, Evans, Rusaw, Pakenham, Hamblin.

Junior Petes Roar Back To Earn A Tie

NIAGARA FALLS, July 11.—Enlivened by a fourth quarter brawl in which no fewer than four separate slugfests were going on at one and the same time, the visiting Peterborough Petes overcame a 12-8 deficit in the late going here last night to gain a 14-all overtime tie with the home Cataracts in an OLA Junior lacrosse fixture.

With less than eight minutes to go, Catties seemed to have the game tucked away, but the fighting Petes rallied to gain the standoff, sparked by Robinson. The opening frame was all Cataracts as Petes' netminder Nicholls came up with a sterling performance to hold the Falsers to a 4-2 lead. Conradi twice, Dewar and Hershey, puck star, and Norm Corcoran each dented the twine for the homesters while Batley and Nickel got the two visiting markers.

Evened It Up

The invaders reversed the procedure in the next stanza as they took over control to even the count six-all at half-time. O'Reilly, Batley, Morrissey and Burns rattled the netting back of a busy Howe while Davies and Frick bested Nicholls. Batley for Petes and Davies for the Fallsers were the outstanding players for their respective sides during the heated first half.

Rough and ready gutted-stick warfare broke out in the third quarter as Derry Davies sparked Catties to a 12-8 edge in the first seven minutes. Corcoran of the Fallsers and Powell of Petes were given five-minute penalties for a fiery display of fisticuffs and Conradi of the locals later left the game with an injured hand when crashed heavily into the boards. Petes got two goals back by Morrissey and Farley to make at 12-8 before the quarter ended.

Peterborough: Goal, Nicholls; defence, Nickel, Fitzgerald; rover, Robinson; centre, O'eilly; forwards, Burns, Morrissey. alternates, Powell, Brioux, Shearer, Heffernan, Batley, Farley.

Niagara Falls: Goal, Howe; defence, Dewar, Corcoran; rover, Davies; centre, Allen; forwards, Conradi, Cox; alternates, Crothers, Howard, Labatte, Baldwin, Frick, Moore, Teal, Daniels.

Referees: Teather and Fitzgerald, St. Catharines.

Mt. Pleasant Wins

Mount Pleasant edged Mutuals 8-7 in a nifty Industrial Fastball league fixture last evening. They got two runs in the first inning, one in the third and five in the seventh. Mutuals had but one in the fifth but broke through for three in the eighth and three more in the ninth to almost sew it up. Guerin threw six heats for the losers, with O'Toole finishing up, as Parker relieved Mitchell in the ninth on the other slab. J. Bryans hit a homer and double for the winners, with O'Toole tripling and Simpson doubling for Mutuals.

Mutuals: T. White c, J. White rf, Plumpton cf, Huard 2b, O'Toole 1b, Byers ss, Simpson 3b, Guerin p, Plunkett lf.

Mount Pleasant: Dracup 1b, Crary c, K. Bryan 3b, Jamieson 2b, Mitchell p, Crawford cf, J. Bryans ss, C. Bryans rf, Pagett lf.

Umpires: Quemby and Carrol.

Bell Victorious

Bell Telephone wrapped up another Civic Softball League victory last night, taking Grant & Loucks by a 13-3 count. The losers got their runs in the first frame and were blanked then by Brown, who received good support. The winners scored one in the second, three each in the fourth and sixth and six in a big seventh stanza. Some good ball was served up in this contest. Teams:

Bell: Greatrix cf, James c, Tushingham lf, Ackford 2b, Harrison 3b, Jamieson ss, Gillespie 1b, Scott rf, Brown p.

Grant & Loucks: Chenier 3b, Harris cf, Smith c, Carpenter rf, Conroy p, Goodfellow 1b, Treen ss, Harrison 2b, Robertson lf.

Bethany Triumphs

BETHANY, July 11 (ENS). — Bethany beat Janetville 6-1 here Monday in the North Durham League. Edmunds hurled good ball for the victors. They scored two in the third and four in the fifth, getting 10 hits altogether. Janetville got but three hits, and scored one in the sixth. These teams play a postponement here Wednesday. Teams:

Janetville: Burns p, McNeil c, Pugh 1b, Carron 2b, Stacey 3b, McGill ss, J. Malcolm lf, Shea rf, H. Malcolm cf.

Bethany: Edmunds p, Reynolds c, Sisson 1b, McGill 2b, Ryley 3b, Ginn ss, Rown lf, Smith cf, Johnson rf.

Umpires: Borland and McNeil.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

The first triple dead heat in New York racing history marked the running of the $10,000 seven-furlong Carter Handicap at Aqueduct seven years ago today. Bosanquet, Brownie and Wait a Bit all closed fast in the last few furlongs and couldn't be separated at the wire.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

Surprisingly enough, the Petes aren't packing Riverside Park for league games this semester. They should be drawing much larger crowds as they're playing winning ball and under the floodlights — so it's nice and cool by the river these evenings. Since early in the schedule, Ed Whitehill's crew have been leading the Viaduct Major League and serving up swell senior "A" baseball. Getting the best pitching, fielding and hitting in the loop in recent weeks, and a number of fine frays have been seen on the local diamond lately. We'd like to see packed stands greet 'em on the 12th (tomorrow) at 8.30 p.m. when they tangle with Toronto Croftons.

* * * * * *

As we said once time before, two ball fans were discussing the visitors' lineup. "Who is playing first?" Joe asks. "Yeah, he is," Jim replies. "Who is?" "Yeah, I told you he was. Hoose on first." "Look, Jim, I asked you that." Jim growls: "Now you look, I told you the guy's name." "What?" "No, Watts on second." "Okay, then, who's on third?" "Nope, Hoose on first, Watt's on second, got it?" "Right.' No. you chump, Wright plays short." "For the luvva Mike, who's on third, or what's on third, if you prefer it that way?" Jim says patiently: "Look, Hoose on first and Watt's on second, so how could either of them be on third." "That's right, I suppose," Joe sighs. "Nope, Wright's on short."

* * * * * *

And Now The Guy Knows

Well, sir (and also you, madame), Joe decides he'll try a new tack. Something's screwy about the whole thing, or he's being taken for a ride. This business of Hoose on first, Watt's on second and Wright at shortstop. It still doesn't let a guy know which player is holding down third base. He says: "Now, Jim, don't you know English?" Jim snorts: "Of course I do; that's Tommy English catching for them. A .365 hitter, too." Before mayhem sets in, Joe tries once more very deliberately. "Jim, can you tell the name of the ball player on third base for them?" And Jim replies readily: "Oh, sure, that's Schwartz."

* * * * * *

Mabe it's time to change the subject. And why not to a bit on senior "A" lacrosse? The Petes, presently tied atop with St. Kitts, have two toughies this week. They're in the Mounties' lair at Mimico tonight, and they have Hamilton Tigers here on Friday p.m. in the Bowl of Miller. The Mountaineers are climbing — knocking off the A's a few nights ago — and the Tigers are clawing their way up the ladder, so the Petes will have to hustle all the way in both these struggles. You definitely can't write off Hamilton yet, as they'll likely be plenty tough from here in and during the group sawoffs. The Friday fixture should attract nigh onto 3,000 fans.

Even Keel In The Falls

The local junior lacrossers came from behind in the Falls last night to earn a 14-all draw with the Cataracts, made up mostly of St. Kitts' Dominion champs of last fall. Play became heated in the third and erupted into four fights in the fourth as the Vitarelli pack surged up from a 12-8 deficit to send it into overtime. All the visiting players labored lustily, with Gary Robinson again being the iron man. He plays about three-quarters of every game and hustles all the way. The Falls come here Saturday and that should be a swell OLA junior clash. Then Mimico is on deck Monday, so the top-place Peterborough boys have a rather rugged weekend, too.

A goodly gallery at the East City Bowl last p.m. saw UEW pull out a 4-2 men's softball win over Revoy's to take a one-game lead in the race as they pound down the stretch. Reg Gordon and Haddy Eakins (just acquired from Lindsay) pitched okay ball and the game was a crowd-pleaser. Other tilt saw Orphans down Lakefield 23-10 with Terry Woods toiling the route against Garbutt and McCracken, who didn't get the best of backing. Some hard hitting as the Orfs crept closer to second place. Games tomorrow: UEW vs. Orphans, and Lakefield vs. Revoy's. Schedule winds up next Tuesday night.

Leonard Wins CPGA Tourney Despite Illness

By W. R. WHEATLEY

ANCASTER, Ont., July 11 (CP) —Stan Leonard's putting touch was at its best Tuesday and the Vancouver Marine Drive star had everything his own way in winning the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association championship.

Leonard shot a 206, four under par over the Hamilton Golf Club's course here, and was the only man in the finishing field of 60 odd to give par a licking for the full distance of 54 holes.

He wound up with a blazing 65 that was only one stroke off the competitive record for the course set by Tommy Armour in winning the Canadian open title in 1930.

Leonard played under great difficulties under a hot sun. He was ill from a touch of influenza that sapped his strength and had him generally upset. physically

He finished the first of Tuesday's two 18-hole rounds exhausted. "I did it in even par 70," he said wearily, "but I don't know how."

Calls On Courage

At tha stage he was two strokes behind Lloyd Tucker, of Kitchener Rockway. Then he went out for the final round and on sheer determination and courage played what he called one of the best rounds of his career.

It was the second CPGA win in a row for Leonard and the fourth since he has competed in the tournament. He won in 1940 and 1941.

Tucker faltered after a fine 67 middle round and finished with 72 for a total of 211 in second place.

Stan Horne, of Montreal Islemere, who won the title three times in a row starting in 1936, finished in a third place tie at 212 with the home club pro, Dick Borthwick, winner in 1949.

Triple Tie

There was a triple tie at 213, scored by Big Bob Gray of Toronto Scarboro, Bobby Reith of Winnipeg Assiniboine, and Fred Wood of Vancouver Shaughnessy Heights.

Pat Fletcher, of Saskatoon, finished with two fine rounds of 69 and 70 for a 214 total and was lone occupant of eighth place.

Leonard's win was worth $2,000 to him. Top prize this year, through a donation of $1,000 to the kitty by E. B. Eastbourn, Ancaster club president, was $1,000. In previous years it was $350. Runner-up prizes were stepped up accordingly.

Leonard gets another $1,000 from George S. May, of Chicago, as expense money to compete in the $73,000 Tam O'Shanter tournament. May offered the money to the CPGA winner who automatically enters the big money tournament.

Leonard said he will enter and expects also to play next year in the Professional Golfers' Association of America tournament and possibly the Masters tournament.

For finishing second Lloyd Tucker drew down $350, and Horne and Borthwick, tied for the next spot, collected $200 each.

Chandler Hopes Stay In Baseball

DETROIT, July 11 (AP)—Outgoing baseball commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler said today he would welcome an opportunity to get back into baseball but denied a report he would replace Billy Evans as general manager of the Detroit Tigers.

Chandler, whose resignation becomes efective Sunday, performed his last major official act Tuesday when he presided over the 18th annual all-star game.

The former Kentucky Senator outwardly appeared his old smiling jovial self as he visited each dugout bidding goodbye to the all-star players, managers and coaches of the National and American Leagues. But to close friends he made no effort to hide his true feelings.

"I don't remember when I've felt as I do now," he confided. "Why should they have done this to me? What reasons did they have? They still haven't told me."

Deep in the dugout, hidden from the players and the vast crowd that jam-packed Briggs Stadium, the spurned commissioner, for the first time since his repudiation, wept unashamedly.

UEW Gets Lead By 4 to 2 From Revoy's

Senior men's softball fans saw the game of the season last night at the Bowl, as UEW and Revoys hooked up in a duel for first place in the league standing, with Reg Gordon opposing Haddy Eakins. When the smoke had cleared away, the Dalton crew of hustlers emerged with a 4-2 win over Ken Guilfoyle's stars.

UE, with a record of 10 wins and three setbacks, have a one-game lead now against nine and four for Revoys.

UEW scored in the first on Homer Pagett's single, an out and a hit by Dalton, then added a pair in the third to take an early lead. But Revoys came back to nick Gordon in the sixth as Giardino got a life with two away, and Spencer and Legrow hit safely to score; then the shop crew added one in the seventh but Revoys rallied in the eighth to score one.

A close decision at first nipped any further danger. Both twirlers worked hard and effectively with little to choose and fielding honors were fairly evenly divided. Gordon fanned one man but had fine control with a single free ticket. Eakins, on the other hand, put the third one past five enemy sluggers and walked a pair. He was nicked for seven bingles, one a double by Castle. Gordon allowed six singles, as a good crowd appreciated a thriller.

Revoys: Giardino, rf; Spencer, lf; Legrow, cf; Crowe, 2b; Hawkes, 3b; Wyatt, 3b; Thomson, c; Taylor, ss; Coulin, 1b; Eakins, p; Shortt (pinch hitter).

UEW: Pagett, 2b; Thompson, 3b; Dalton, ss; White, lf; Robson, cf; Castle, 1b; Grafstein, rf; Walton, c; Gordon, p.

Umpires—Smith and Borland.

O'Keefe's CANADIAN SPORTS PARADE

SURVEYING Canadian track and field sports in general and the recent Dominion Track and Field meet in particular is enough to bring us to cheers and tears simultaneously. Cheers for the brilliant athletic performances and tears for the fact that our champions will not long be with us. Canadians have a long and honoured record in the history of track and field and it seems a shame that in eighty odd years of competition we, as a nation, have little future to offer our athletes.

Flying Youth

Although the 1951 Dominion junior track meet suffered severely from inclement weather, the general caliber of the competing youngsters was very high indeed. However, the success story remained much the same as in the last five years with Lloyd Percival's Toronto Track and Field Club collecting most of the honours. Percival's Pinwheels piled up a commanding 301½ points with the Montreal Club running second with 61½, followed by the Hamilton Olympic Club, the Queen's City Spikes and the Montreal Olympic Trumps.

Displaying the advantages of careful, sustained training methods, the TTFC dominated in nearly all sections with its star performer Rich Ferguson finishing his junior reign by setting new records in the two miles and single mile respectively.

With flying youngsters such as Ferguson, Pete Sutton, McEwan and Johnny Ross Canada should excel at Helsinki in 1952 at all distances from one to six miles, if the Canadian Olympic Association committee is sufficiently impressed in the next few weeks.

Empty Stands

With so much for the cheer department, we graduate to a sad report. Attendance at our track and field meets is very, very poor.

It's simple to blame the weather, heat, rain or cloud burst for the general, disgraceful attendance at Canadian track and field events. Some of us offer a national holiday or some limping excuse but, even a combination of alibis fails to cover us from deserting our game youngsters on their biggest days.

For instance, turning our head, for a moment, from the speeding relay-race at Varsity Stadium (where the teams whipped round like grey-hounds) we were shocked at the endless sweep of empty seats. The boys were giving their all in record-breaking style but few spectators had even bothered to come and see them run. We're sure that many a kid looked up, too, and saw those empty seats and wondered. He likely thought: "What's the matter with us? I guess we're not worth anyone's time or effort!"

Whatever the youngsters thought (after weeks and months of preparation) the answer was very plain: few sport fans thought enough of polished Canadian sporting talent to come out and cheer it along.

We'll leave the reasons to you.

The Result

To sum up our national track and field situation, unfortunately, is a very simple matter. With only two or three meets a year, the better-than average Canadian athlete finds himself listening to attractive offers from American colleges because, apparently, we have no real use for [illegible].

At the moment, Rich Ferguson, Pete Sutton and other bright Canadian track stars are considering sport scholarships from Michigan University, Ohio State and Nebraska. Soon they'll be lost to us for always.

What can we do (you ask) to keep them here at home?

Well, we think that Canadian schools and colleges should develop sport scholarships (or an equivalent) and put an end to the continual, damaging drainage of our athletes forced to seek greener fields.

Let's hope increased attendance will justify the fine efforts being displayed at the Ontario Senior Championships (July 8th) at Hamilton's Civic Stadium and the Eastern Canadian Championships at East York (July 14th).

It should never be said we've forgotten our college cheer!

Graziano Records Another Conquest

KANSAS CITY, July 11 (AP).—Rocky Graziano, former king of the middleweight boxing ranks had another conquest on his comeback ledger today, but there was no particular credit attached to it.

Graziano, 28-year-old swinger from Brooklyn, scored a knockout over 30-year-old Cecil Hudson, San Jose, Calif., in 1:12 minutes of the third round of their scheduled 10-rounder Tuesday night.

State Athletic Commissioner Randall Jessee announced that he was holding up $500 of Hudson's purse. He also is recommending that the veteran fighter be suspended indefinitely.

Jessee made his decision after a hearing in which most of the 26 witnesses testified that they felt Hudson had not given his best.

CARTER WINS

At Los Angeles, world lightweight champion Jimmy Carter, 135½, NY, scored a technical knockout over Enrique Bolands, 136½, Los Angeles, in the seventh round of their scheduled 10-round non-title fight before nearly 9,000 fans at the Olympic Auditorium Tuesday night.

Times Change As Nationals Crush Americans By 8-3

Radio Programs On Page 8

By JOE REICHLER.

DETROIT, July 11 (AP).—The National League inner circle today saw an end to the American League's "reign of terror" and predicted a new cycle shifting the batting power to the senior circuit.

Gil Hodges, strapping Brooklyn first baseman and the National League's home-run leader, said after Tuesday's 8-3 triumph over the Americans:

"It is the National that has the home run hitters now, not the American. Yes, sir, times have changed."

Ralph Kiner, the National's home run king for the last five years, echoed this sentiment.

"We're the big guys now and they are the little boys," he said. "I could see that before the game when we lined up for the National Anthem. I looked over at the American League bunch and thought 'Gee, what a bunch of little guys compared to a few years ago.'

Kiner and Hodges each walloped a home run as the "big boys" bombarded five pitchers for a dozen hits and ran up the biggest run total ever made by a National League all-star team.

More Homers

Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cards and Bob Elliott of the Boston Braves also smashed homers for the winners. Those of Hodges and Elliott came with a man on base. George Kell and Vic Wertz of Detroit hit solo four-baggers for the Americans.

The Nationals had won only five of the 17 previous all-star tilts and had dropped 30 of 47 world series. They haven't won a world series since 1946. Last year they had to go 14 innings to win the all-star game 4-3.

The Nationals entered the game with the more robust batting averages and better pitching that belied the 7-5 odds favoring the Americans. The results bore them out. Not only did they outslug the Americans but they outpitched and outfielded them.

Emphasis On Homers

The emphasis was strictly on the home run, but little Richie Ashburn, fleet-footed Philadelphia Phillies outfielder, brought the huge Briggs Stadium crowd of 52,075 to its feet with a brilliant leaping catch in the sixth inning to rob Wertz of a near-homer.

National League pitching wasn't bad, either. Except for an unsteady two-inning stint by Robin Roberts, youthful Phillies' righthander, and a couple of home run tosses by Sal Maglie of the New York Giants, the National's four-man hurling corps was excellent.

Don Newcombe, Brooklyn's big righthander, was super as he mowed the American Leaguers down with two hits and no runs in his three-inning venture.

He was especially brilliant in the eighth when, after yielding a three-base hit to Ted Williams, he retired the next three batters without allowing the Boston Red Sox slugger to budge off third. Newcombe, flashing a burning fast ball, fanned three.

Holds Losers at Bay

Ewell Blackwell, the "whip" from Cincinnati, held the losers at bay in the ninth. The victory was credited to Maglie who worked the third, fourth and fifth innings.

Five hurlers went to the hill for the Americans. Except for Ned Garver of St. Louis, all were pasted freely.

Eddie Lopat, pride of the Yankees, was charged with the loss. The veteran southpaw replaced Garver in the fourth and was shellacked for three tallies in the one inning he worked. He got a fine welcome from Musial, who whammed his first pitch into the right field seats. Elliott followed a single by Hodges with another circuit clout into the left field stands.

Hodges got his round-tripper of Detroit's Fred Hutchinson who hurled the fifth, sixth and seventh innings. Kiner's long range blow was hit off Mel Parnell, Red Sox lefthander.

Sawyer Happy

Manager Eddie Sawyer, whose Phillies dropped four straight to the Yankees in the 1950 world series, was as happy as a lark over the fine showing of his Nationals.

"Boy, what a club I had out there today," he chortled. "I'd like to run a team like that all the time."

Casey Stengel, pilot of the Americans, took the loss in good grace.

"We were just plain lousy out there today," he said. "Our hitting was bad and our pitching was worse. They simply outplayed us in every department."

The gate receipts of $124,294.07 after taxes went to the player pension fund. So did the $110,000 television and radio fee.

Off-Duty Officers Start Boys' Club In Halifax

By IRVING G. WHYNOT

HALIFAX (CP).—The youngsters on Halifax's lower streets aren't running away from the cop on the beat anymore.

Instead, they've done an about-face and are looking up to the policemen as men to be admired and respected.

It's all a result of the Police Boys' Club, a voluntary outfit organized two months ago by the officers in an effort to provide supervised recreation for the kids of the back alleys.

Constable John Wrin, driving force behind the idea, says that the long-range plan is to reduce juvenile delinquency and turn out better citizens.

"And it's helping us too," he said of the many policemen who turn out on their off-duty hours to help in the project. "We're not only making our jobs of the future easier, but we can use the exercise too."

The club started with officers on the downtown beats—where playground facilities are lacking—being asked to round up 60 children they believed could be helped.

Children Wary

At first the children were wary. "How much will it cost?" And "What's the catch?" were their first questions.

But soon they caught the idea. Within two month, 200 boys had made application and the police station was crowded as they waited to see if they were accepted.

They had something to look forward to. The club, started on a shoestring of $100, has taken the kids on bus drives, to wrestling matches and the circus.

Public co-operation has made it possible. Merchants and entertainment promoters charge the club nothing. Even though the club has not appealed for funds it has something like $1,200 in the bank already.

Need Building

"The perfect situation," says Wrin, "would be to have a large building or buildings in the downtown area where this recreation could be organized."

In the meantime the club organizes baseball, softball and other sports.

"We're not trying to compete with the YMCA," says Wrin, "but these kids are different."

"When we took 60 of them to a swimming pool only three turned up with bathing suits, and two of them were borrowed."

"It's the same with all sport, they haven't got the equipment or money to play. One fellow wrote on his application that his favorite sports included hide-and-seek and stupid tag."

At present the club is confined to boys between the ages of nine and 15 but there may be changes as the scheme is ironed out.

"It's big," says Wrin, "and we're not sure how its going to work out . . . but we're hoping."

Plan New Formula For Cost Of Living

OTTAWA, July 11 (CP)—The Bureau of Statistics hopes to have a new formula for estimating monthly changes in the cost of living ready early next year.

It reported Tuesday that "considerable progress" has been made toward revision of its cost-of-living index. The name of the index will be changed to "consumer price index" and the base on which it is calculated brought up to date.

Gordon Makes Silence Golden

By JACK QUIGG

HOLLYWOOD, July 11 (AP)—Silence is golden, especially if you can keep mum as artfully as Gale Gordon.

A handsome, fortyish, gentleman with a Clark Gable mustache and the trace of a British accent, he is known in the radio trade as "The Master of the Eloquent Pause".

You undoubtedly know him by voice if you're any kind of a radio fan—he appears regularly on seven big United States network programs. Gordon Is:

Mayor Latrivia on the "Fibber McGee and Molly" show; Bank President Rudulph Atterbury on "My Favorite Husband;" School Principal Osgood Conklin on "Our Miss Brooks;" Mr. Scott, head of R.C.A., on the Phil Harris—Alice Faye show; Mr. Merryweather, Ronald Colman's rich friend on "Halls of Ivy;" Mr. Bullard, the next door neighbor, on "The Great Gildersleeve," and the girl friend's father on the Dennis Day show.

Stuffy Characters

"These characters are all of a type, pompous, stuffy, opinionated and loud," says Gordon. "Therefore, it is easy to make them humorous if the script writer is skillful."

What is the eloquent pause? Here is an example from, say, the Fibber McGee show:

McGee says something insulting or aggravating. Gordon, as Latrivia, should properly reply with anger or frustration—something quick and sarcastic. But he doesn't.

"I wait. There is a long pause. I am trying to control my temper. The audience knows this and in its mind it is going over all the possible answers I may give."

"Then, at last, I come out with a very flat remark. Maybe something as simple as the one word, 'yes'. It is doubly funny because everyone listening knows that you fought off a temptation to explode into something more violent."

Schooled in England he broke into show business on Broadway and was leading man in stock companies before settling in Hollywood in 1926.

OSHAWA, July 11 (CP)—The Oshawa district labor council will protest to the federal government against what it describes as use of the National Employment Service office here as an army recruiting centre. William Rutherford, United Auto Workers delegate, said he knew of at least three young men who were asked by the office why they did not join the army if there was no work available.

9,000 Charges

NEWARK, N.J., July 11 (AP)—An Ohio munitions firm Tuesday was indicted on 9,000 counts—possibly the highest number of counts in United States court history—in connection with the May 19, 1950 South Amboy, NJ, explosion which took 31 lives and caused property damage of more than $10,000,000. Conviction on all the counts could result in a possible maximum fine of $90,000,000 against the Kilgore Manufacturing Co., of Newark, Ohio.

Child Strangled

WINDSOR, England, July 11 (AP)—Seven-year-old Christine Butcher, who vanished Sunday from a crowd outside Sugar Ray Robinson's training camp here, was found Tuesday night—strangled to death. Police said the child had been assaulted. Christine had told her mother she was going to show Sugar Ray her black-faced china doll. She was last seen on the outskirts of the crowd of sightseers.

New RCAF Base Being Opened

OTTAWA, July 11—(CP)—A new RCAF fighter base, one of a chain guarding vital targets in Canada and the United States, is being opened at Bagotville, Que., about 100 miles north of Quebec City, the RCAF announced Tuesday.

This means Bagotville will join with such bases as St. Hubert and Dorval at Montreal, Uplands at Ottawa, North Bay, and others in a network of fighter stations prepared to take on any attackers heading for targests in either country.

The new station, commanded by a Battle of Britain veteran, Wing Cmdr. Beverley E. Christmas, 32, a ntaive of St. Hilaire, Que., is being vistied this week by Defence Minister Claxton during a tour of defence projects in Quebec.

Bagotville served as an operational fighter base and advanced flying training centre during the war.

Wing Cmdr. Christmas joined the RCAF in January, 1939, after attending Westmount High School in Montreal, and went overseas in 1940 as a fighter pilot with No. 1 RCAF Fighter Squadron. Flying a Hurricane in the Battle of Britain, he shot down two enemy aircraft and damaged two more.

He later flew in the Middle East and in 1942 was shot down south of Benghazi, being picked up by British troops. He also served as an instructor in the Suez Canal zone and returned to Canada in the autumn of 1942.

He later commanded a fighter wing on Vancouver Island and in 1944 was selected to attend the RCAF Staff College. In 1950 he was posted to staff duties at Air Force headquarters.

Timber Blocks BobcaygeonLock For Two Days

After being out of order for two days the Bobcaygeon lock on the Trent canal resumed normal operation Tuesday afternoon. A four-foot piece of timber, caught in the lower valve of the lock, prevented a build up of water.

A cruiser from Rochester, on the way to Georgian Bay, was temporarily held up and so was another cruiser coming south. As neither party was in any particular hurry there was little inconvenience.

US tourists and Bobcaygeon residents crowded around the lock to get a view and snap photos of a Trent canal diver who was sent down to clear the stoppage.

The piece of driftwood apparently became lodged in the lower valve Sunday night. When the lockmaster tried to flood the lock he was unable to do so as the open valve relieved the pressure.

Normal boat traffic was resumed 3.30 p.m. Tuesday after a halt lasting two days.

Harold Cathcart

Harold Cathcart, of Springville, has been appointed to the recently formed Conservation Authority for the supervision of watershed developments throughout Ontario. H. R. S. Ryan, of Port Hope, said Saturday that the Ganaraska development is proceeding faster than other such projects in the province. He said that the final success will be measured by the farmers' use of the development's findings.

Wet Weather Damages Half Hay Crop

Wet weather in the past two weeks has given the county's hay crop a bad beating. Frank Paterson, Dept. of Agriculture representative, estimated that as much as 50 per cent of the hay crop was heavily damaged.

Mr. Paterson said that the hay crop, the county's best in ten years, is still good and much had been saved before the wet weather started.

Hay being the county's most valuable crop, the loss is expected to be considerable.

Other crops, said Mr. Paterson, are in good shape, provided the weather stays fine. "Just pray it doesn't rain for a few days," he said.

Biggest Fish Not Biting

The subject of fishing in the Kawarthas at the present time is difficult to write about. There are fish and rumours of fish. In some districts, Pigeon and Rice Lakes, the sport is not too bad; it is also reported to be of general good average around Campbellford, down the Trent River.

Unsettled weather last week that cleared over the weekend was supposed to portend favourable fishing conditions. Although some improvement has been shown since then, there are not many big ones being taken.

An unconfirmed report that an American tourist took a 31 pounder, and half hour later, a 19 pounder, from Rice Lake off Hiawatha on Friday, has come to nothing after extensive questioning.

Under-Sized Lunge

All fishermen and biologists of the department of lands and forests are at loss to understand the presence of so many under-sized 'lunge this year. The same condition existed in Kwartha waters in 1950 and it was reasonable to assume they should have grown into "keepers" over the winter. They may have but they are not biting; instead there is still another quantity of non-keepers being boated, and released. It is a puzzling situation, experts admit.

Many Americans who have been questioned and who have been coming to this area for years with excellent results, say they are not happy. That we have all kinds of fish, there is no doubt, but, why they are not biting is a situation no one has been able to account for.

Norwood Man Sent to Trial On Two Driving Charges

Charges of reckless driving and leaving the scene of an accident against Morley Simmons, 40, of Norwood, will be heard at the fall assizes. He was committed for trial at a preliminary hearing in magistrate's court Tuesday afternoon. A third charge, careless driving, was adjourned until December 17.

All charges arise out of an accident March 10 in Norwood when an 18-year-old soldier, Private Myrrl Drinkwalter was struck by a car on Highway 7 in Norwood. The soldier was taken to Civic Hospital with severe head injuries and scalp lacerations.

W. J. Arthur Fair, KC, counsel for Simmons, asked that the charges be dismissed, pointing out that throughout the hearing there was "no evidence that he drove the car."

Magistrate W. R. Philp said, "I think there is sufficient evidence to go to the jury."

First called by the Crown, Dr. Joselyn Rogers, Toronto, provincial pathologist, presented exhibits: a knapsack, a car headlight, a beret, a glass slide with hair of the car, a glass slide with hair from Drinkwater's head.

He explained that he compared both samples of hair and found that they had a "close resemblance" and "could not be differentiated unless tagged."

Identical Hair

"They're as identical as hairs can be."

Parallel markings were shown on the headlight's glass and metal rim. Dr. Rogers said that these compared with the markings on the knapsack, the material being coarse enough to leave an imprint.

Dr. Anson Atkinson, Norwood, testified he found Drinkwater lying on the south shoulder of the road with his body at right angles to the pavement. He found two cuts on the right side of the soldier's head, three inches in length and forming a V.

Pte. Drinkwater, Royal Canadian Regiment, identified the knapsack by his regimental number and its contents, and the beret.

He said he was returning to Camp Petawawa after a leave and was hitch-hiking his way. He stopped at the garage after rides from Cannington to Peterborough and Peterborough to Norwood.

Lit Cigarette

While there he came out of the station and stood between the gas pumps and the doorway, lighting a cigarette. At the time he was facing the highway.

The next thing he remembered was lying on the road with someone wrapping blankets around him.

"I saw the car come in contact with the pedestrian, the pedestrian fly through the air and the car go on," said Albert Holland, Havelock. When the accident occurred Holland was driving west on the highway, immediately east of the impact.

He testified that Drinkwalter was walking along the gutter, and "not in the middle of the highway." The car proceeded east.

Holland added that by a look at the front and a glimpse at the rear, the licence plate number was F9876. The third number he could not give.

Marks On Shoulder

"I saw marks on the shoulder made by the car after the soldier was hit." He added that the marks were nearly parallel to the highway and then moved back on.

When at the railroad bridge, Arthur Hannon, Norwood, saw the car approaching, then at the creamery. The soldier, he said, was on the south side going east walking "on the ground off the pavement."

He estimated that the car "went a couple of hundred feet before moving back on to the highway."

Roland Buck, Norwood, said that he saw Simmons at 2 p.m. in Hastings in a beverage room. Later he saw Simmons and Gordon Murphy get out of the car at Alex Davis' blackshop at 4.30 p.m.

About 15 minutes later, he said, for a third time he saw Simmons, this time in his yard. Simmons' father was with him. Simmons was lying on the ice and his father was trying to pick him up. Buck helped get Simmons into the house.

"I thought he was hurt."

Harvey Lobb, Norwood, said that on Saturday, March 10, he went to a Hastings beverage room with Simmons for 10 to 15 minutes. He told the the court that he returned to Norwood with his brother.

Little Wobbly

Asked about Simmons' sobriety, Lobb answered, "A little wobbly" and "I thought I'd come back another way—a little safer maybe."

William Parcels, Norwood policeman, presented the first parts of the police investigation followed on the stand by OPP Constable Jack McKendry.

McKendry said he and Constable Parcels went to Simmons' home where in the back yard they saw the car. Dust was disturbed on the right front fender and he removed particles of hair from a dint near the right side of the windshield. These were sealed in an envelope and sent to Toronto.

On the headlight was a definite impression, McKendry added, probably made by a coarse woven material. The headlight was later removed and sent to Toronto also.

Photos of the Simmons car, taken by Sergeant William Aggas, Peterborough police identification officer were submitted.

Same Type Tread

Constable McKendry stated that the tire marks on the shoulder of the highway extended along for 100 feet and the "tread was very evident". He explained that it was established that it was the same type of tread as on the Simmons' car tires.

Saturday evening after examination of the car, the police went into the Simmons house with the mother's permission.

Simmons, said McKendry, was in a "very drunken condition".

McKendry explained that he tried to ask Simmons questions but he would not give any answers. Previous to the arrest he asked Simmons about the dust marks and he "would give no reasonable explanation".

The last witness called was Gordon Murphy who testified that he drove Simmons' car home from Hastings, getting out at the blacksmith shop.

Simmons slept all the way from Hastings to Norwood, Murphy said.

Two Boys Hit By Car That Failed To Stop

Minor injuries were received by Ross Walker, 9, 650 Lillian St., and Brent Wilson, 9, 273 King George St., when hit by a car at George and Hunter Sts. Witnesses said the car didn't stop after hitting the boys.

The car, driven north on George St. and then west on Hunter St., hit the boys as they were walking south on George St.

John Jenkins, Toronto, saw the car drive off but did not get the licence plate number. He did identify the car's make.

A second witness, Ivan Ellicott, saw the car's licence plate and reported a number to PC G. J. Gillespie who was investigating.

Later Constable Gilespie went to 555 King St. to question a 16-year-old boy, Robert Boyce.

The boys were not seriously hurt. They were both x-rayed and no bones were reported broken, but they were bruised and skinned.

Canada Theatre At Its Best; Needles Excels

By ROBERTSON DAVIES

During the past two seasons the acting at the Summer Theatre has never been less than adequate, and sometimes it has risen to a level of distinction, particularly in plays which demanded a strong ensemble. But upon no occasion has a single performance approached Bill Needles' depiction of Andrew Crocker-Harris in "The Browning Version" in depth of insight, technical command and emotional power.

The Peterborough experience of the present critic extends over nine years only; this is unquestionably the finest acting that has been seen here during that time; it is a performance which would be outstanding anywhere in Canada, and it reminds us once again that Mr. Needles is one of Canada's two or three best actors. If you have any interest in the theatre, this is a performance which you cannot afford to miss; it is deeply rewarding in itself, and it makes clear how good Canadian theatre can be at its best.

The play, by Terence Rattigan, concerns Crocker-Harris, a classical scholar and school master who is about to retire because of illness. His life has been made wretched, and failure has engulfed him, not only because of faults in his own nature but because his wife is a snob, a shrew and a strumpet. But Crocker-Harris is too fine a classicist to whine; he endures. Is his plight tragic? "Tragedy concerneth a high fellow," says Sir Philip Sidney; Crocker-Harris is, in his subdued way, a high fellow.

Audience Deeply Moved

Mr. Needles does not put on this character with his paint and his shiny blue suit; he creates it from within, and the ring of truth is in every intonation and every gesture. The Tuesday night audience was deeply moved and the applause at the end of the short play was warmly appreciative. The Summer Theatre does Peterborough incalculable service by bringing work of this quality within our reach.

Mr. Needles was the leader among a good cast. Miss Betty Leighton, as the shrewish wife, played strongly and unselfishly in a hateful role. Gerry Sarracini was miscast as a young schoolmaster, but he played the part so well that we almost forgot that fact; it is the fate of good and versatile actors to be miscast often, and we still hope to see Mr. Sarracini in a part fully suited to his vigorous, charming, expansive personality. Frank Perry, another versatile actor, gave a remarkably successful performance as a schoolboy, whose kindness brings a crisis in the master's life.

Michael Sadlier and Kate Reid had the qualities needed for the minor parts of a young schoolmaster and his newly-wedded wife. Alone of the cast Mr. Peter Mews was not quite up to his part as the headmaster; a greater weight and sobriety was wanted there, but in a stock company it is perhaps pernickety to cavil at a performance which was not quite up to a very high general level. The speech of the whole cast, by the way, was a pleasure to hear.

Vigorous "Red Peppers"

The second part of the evening was given to "Red Peppers" by Noel Coward. This is as difficult a one-act play as any known to the reviewer, for its curious shape—a slice of backstage life sandwiched between two songs—makes it hard to sustain and the ending always seems a little flat. But as George and Lilly Pepper Peter Mews and Betty Leighton gave splendidly vigorous and funny performances; Canadian comedians have a tendency to be thin and insufficient—the result, perhaps, of too much radio work, where unseen audiences are moved to hypothetical laughter. But these two were meaty and earthy, and it was a pleasure to watch them. The supporting cast was good, although Miss Ann Murray is too young to give a successful impression of a shopworn tragedienne.

The Summer Theatre's offering this week is exceptional, and we recommend it without hesitation.

Fish Story

Some fish stories come a dime a dozen. Last week it rained fish. When the skies opened up and rain pelted down amazed citizens of one or two outlying districts suddenly saw small minnows jumping around on the ground. They looked more closely and saw that, sure enough, the minnows were falling with the rain. They didn't doubt what they saw. They just tried to explain it. What's your guess?

City Invites Royal Couple To Visit Here

The city put in its bid today for a visit from Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh on their forthcoming visit to Canada.

In a letter to Lester B. Pearson, secretary of state for external affairs, Mayor Max Swanston extended a "warm invitation" to the Royal couple to include Peterborough in their itinerary.

Text of the letter follows:

"On behalf of the City Council and the citizens of Peterborough, I wish to extend through your department a warm invitation to Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh to visit our fair city.

"We have never before had the honor of receiving a visit from any member or members of the Royal Family and would be deeply gratified if the Royal couple could possibly include Peterborough in their itinerary when visiting Canada."

Mayor's Fund Totals $59,608

Donations from firemen's associations and fire departments Monday and Tuesday brought the total of the Mayor's Fire Fund to $59,608.

The largest donation was from the St. Catharines Fire Fighters' Association, $65. Others contributing were: Geco Fire Department, Scarboro, $10; Maple Firemen, Maple, Ontario, $30; Eastern Ontario Firefighters Association, Gananoque, $25.

The Peterborough Electrical Contractors Association brought the two-day total to $155 with a donation of $25.

Stores Pay Up To 10% On US Dollar

Official Exchange Varies Between 5 and 6 Per Cent

A survey of Peterborough and district retailers and tourist resort operators has revealed various plans are being followed in the premiums given for American funds.

The premiums paid in the establishments contacted range from a low of 3 per cent to a high of 10 per cent.

Bank figures show that daily premiums since June 21 have ranged from five per cent to a high of six and seven-eighths per cent.

Recommended

Early in the season, the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce recommended that all its retail and tourist operator members pay the premiums based on the daily premium quoted by the establishment's bank. To assure potential American tourist shoppers that these premiums would be paid, the Chamber issued display cards to this effect to be put in store windows. To date 125 cards have been distributed.

The most popular procedure in this question seems to be to give a set premium of five per cent. Two of the tourist operators and several retailers contacted have given this amount up to date and say they will continue to do so until the end of the season unless there is a greater change in the daily quotations.

One Pays 10 Per Cent

A high of 10 per cent is being given to American tourists by at least one retail establishment in the city. When contacted one of the store's officials said he believes this high premium has definitely helped to draw tourist trade. He explained that at least five per cent of the premium is regained at the bank and the remaining loss is absorbed by the store with the extra sales making up for it.

Find Old Rhymes Of Pioneer North By Unknown Poet

TIMMINS—(CP)—The census-takers will not record the name David Henry Herron and he is not listed in any Canadian city directory or Who's Who.

As a matter of fact, the only reason to believe that there ever was a David Henry Herron is a slim, coverless volume of verse bearing his name uncovered by Frank Lendrum of the Timmins Daily Press.

A slip of paper in the book states: "Copyright, Canada, 1909, by James McGie Young, administrator of the estate of David Henry Herron."

Most of the poems are written in the broken-English "habitant" style made famous by Dr. William Henry Drummond to whom were dedicated six lines in the book:

"Drummond, the friend of truth, of soul sincere,
In fiction faithful and in honor clear."

It is believed Herron may have been a prospector-poet as the poems are chiefly about the north country and mention pioneer places like Elk Lake, Larder Lake and Beaver Lake. His lines suggest familiarity with forest paths and water routes.

Photographs Too

The volume contains many photographs of unidentified persons as well as one of the poet in a heavy turtle-neck sweater.

The first poem is entitled "Larder Lake" and tells of Gaspard who left his home in Montreal to find gold and silver in the Ontario mining region and who wound up "on big, fir' class hotel" in Englehart washing pots and pans for 30 cents a day.

And there is one telling of a trip to Silver Lake in the Elk Lake country on "de big fast boat, she's call'd him Isabel." Where "a big bad tree" caught the boat "an' clean de decks....of de men, de pipes, de mast." Most of the unfortunate men "go kerflop."

This little volume was published by the Cobalt Daily Nugget printers and while there is no date given there, it would appear that the time was 1909.

Efforts by the daily press to trace the author have been futile.

Hollywood Actor Gained Education In Theatre Work

By JACK QUIGG

HOLLYWOOD (AP)— Schoolmarms and books are fine, says actor Wallace Ford, but for a solid education there's nothing like learning from people. Especially people in show business.

That's how Ford, 52, one of the screen's busiest performers, got his education. He says he's never regretted missing out on reading, writting and arithmetic.

Born in England and raised as an orphan in Winnipeg, Ford says he didn't get a chance to go to school. After a series of adoptions, he "hit the vagabond trail."

"I was still a kid," he says, "and I wanted to try my luck in the theatre. I worked in small repertory companies and with shoestring stock outfits. I doubt if I ever missed a Hamlet in the country. I picked up writing hit or miss as I went along, how I'll never quite know."

Taught to Read

He was taught to read by actors and actresses in the various troupes he travelled with.

"The trick was to ge tacquainted with the character actor of the company. Then, when I'd run into words in the script I didn't understand or couldn't pronounce, I'd get the nice old fellow off in a corner and ask for help. Most of them thought I was kidding when I'd sidle up and ask for help.

"That's how I learned to use the dictionary. An actor gave me one as a present and taught me how to look up words when I fell over them. I used to make the darndest mistakes. I'd say 'imperial' for 'immaterial,' and the like.

"I remember the man who played my uncle often helped me with two-bit words and I'd pay him back by shining his shoes or cleaning up his dressing room."

Ford says his fondest memory is of the kindness of the oldtime show folk. He credits them with teaching him far more than just how to read books.

"They were good people, and people are the best teachers — far better than the printed word. Character is formed from character. It's what the other fellow gives. No book is as informative or as revealing as the man or woman standing next to you."

Upset Train Lifted To Rails

Dozens of cars and an estimated 400 spectators jammed the manlece Ave.—Armour Rd. intersection late Monday afternoon and early evening to see the wreckage of the Havelock-Bobcaygeon CPR train cleared away.

Through rail traffic was restored at 4.25 p.m. (EST), nearly seven hours after a westbound locomotive, tender, and three railway cars were derailed 200 yards east of the swinging bridge.

The train was thrown off the tracks when it ran into an automatic derail—a safety precaution to prevent an engine from plunging into the canal while the railway bridge was being opened for boat traffic.

Somehow the derail switch was on unknown to the train crew.

Wrecking trains, equipped with heavy cranes, came from Toronto and Havelock to hoist the locomotive which had fallen on its side.

At 8 p.m. a large crowd was still standing about the tracks watching repair crews right the twisted tracks and restore the torn-up roadbed.

Engineer Frank McKay, 56, Havelock, and Fireman Bruce Nicholls, 24 Campbellford, received minor cuts as a result of the engine toppling over after hitting the derail switch.

The first train through after the accident was the eastbound Toronto to Montreal. It had been held up since noon and met a westbound Montreal — Toronto train in Peterborough. The westbound was on time.

Veteran Announcer Recalls Events In Radio Studio

LONDON —(CP)— After 24 years as chief announcer of the British Broadcasting Corporation, Stuart Hibberd has retired with the statement that if he had to start all over again he would choose exactly the same job.

The modest Hibberd is 57 years of age. He had 27 years altogether as a radio announcer, and worked with many famous personalities at the microphone. He learned that great artists are always nervous before a broadcast, and always self-critical after it.

His own formula for good announcing is to imagine a small group to which the broadcast may be directed.

Thinks of Small Group

"Announcing would be an ordeal if you stopped to think of numbers," Hibberd said in an article for the Daily Mail. "You are speaking to a potential audience of 25,000,000. I should have become quite inarticulate had I ever paused in a broadcast to think of that. Instead I always pictured myself in a little room with one or two people in it with myself, speaking to them."

This device was used by Winston Churchill in his great broadcasts. Even in his early broadcasts Mr. Churchill was never afraid of the microphone "but he liked to imagine he was talking to an audience of one or two," said Hibberd.

Powerful Whistle

He recalled numerous incidents. There was the night mail train worker from the post office, engaged to describe the departure of the Irish mail train from Euston. His family had suggested it would be a nice touch if he blew his train whistle.

"Before I could stop him," Hibbert said, "he had pulled out his hidden whistle and blown a shrill blast right into the microphone."

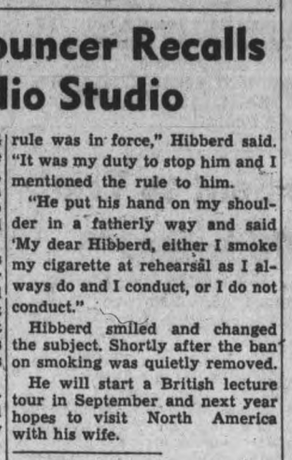
That ended that broadcast abruptly. The long-wave transmitter was seriously damaged and the main Daventry station was off the air for 45 minutes at a cost of £350.

Tallulah Bankhead, the American actress, was new to broadcasting when she delivered a weekly "good cause" appeal from London some years ago. She read her script at an almost unintelligible speed, and when it was over dropped fainting to the floor. Hibberd and another BBC man carried her out into the fresh air.

Loses Round

"I remember my horror when I found Sir Landon Ronald smoking in the studio while rehearsing the BBC Symphony Orchestra at a time when a strict 'no-smoking' rule was in force," Hibberd said. "It was my duty to stop him and I mentioned the rule to him.

"He put his hand on my shoulder in a fatherly way and said 'My dear Hibberd, either I smoke my cigarette at rehearsal as I always do and I conduct, or I do not conduct."



Hibberd smiled and changed the subject. Shortly after the ban on smoking was quietly removed.

He will start a British lecture tour in September and next year hopes to visit North America with his wife.

Eleven In Hospital After Highway Crash

TIMMINS, July 11 — (CP) — Eleven men were taken to hospital Tuesday after a highway crash near Golden City, 7 miles east of here. One other man escaped injury.

Several men travelling in a Highways Department truck were spilled across the road when the truck and a car collided.

Injured were: Ferdinand Rochon, the truck driver, who suffered a fractured skull; Lionel Donovan, the car driver, internal injuries; Leonard Daigle, Alphonse Carriere, Alphonse Chenier, A. Thebiault, R. Allaire, Leo St. Pierre, George Culhane, Vincent Parnell and John Lariviere. All live in Timmins.

Leo Dubois, also of Timmins, escaped injury. Police said the truck had stopped and Dubois climbed off to place warning flags on the road where the men in the truck were to work.

Chinchilla Breeders Hold Meeting

PORT HOPE, July 11—Members of the Trent Valley Chinchilla Breeders Association held their summer meeting in Port Hope Sunday. Guest speaker was John Clark or Appleton, secretary of the National Chinchilla breeders of Canada.

He outlined a program for the future and told of progress the breeders have made. If the proper program was followed, he said, the industry would soon be on a pelting basis. Mr. Clark was introduced by G. R. Schwab of Peterborough.

Nabbed Her Man

BEDFONT, Middlesex, England —(CP)— The moment that 15-year-old Monica Smith saw airman Stanley Howard, then 19, in a passing bus two years ago, she made up her mind she would marry him. She traced him to his camp, wrote him a letter. They were married at Staines recently.

Two Stole Pen, Pencil Sentence Suspended

James Shaw, 166 Adaline St. and Barton Woods, 156 Dublin St. were both placed on a year's suspended sentence today for stealing a pen and pencil Saturday. Both were ordered to pay court costs of $2.50 each.

OPP Constable Jack McKendry said on Saturday while on routine work, he was despatched to Young's Point where the theft of a pen and pencil from a wrecked American car was reported. A licence number was offered and he spotted the suspect's car in Lakefield.

There he stopped the car and questioned the occupants who denied any knowledge of the theft. He returned with them to Young's Point they and the car was searched, but neither the pen nor pencil were found. The youths were then released.

After they drove away, Constable McKendry saw the pen near the location of the suspects' car. He followed them and questioned them for a second time. This time they admitted the theft.

CLERICAL UPHEAVAL—Rev. Harry W. Garbutt, centre, has been dismissed from his post as rector of Toronto's St.Barnabas Anglican Church for breaches of canon law. Mr. Garbutt, however, claims that the order, made by Rt. Rev. A. R. Deverley, Anglican Bishop of Toronto, left, is also contrary to canon law, and intends to protest the dismissal. Rev. H. C. Cox, right, has been appointed new rector to St. Barnabas. A special commission investigated charges against Mr. Garbutt and recommended his dismissal. Among alleged breaches of canon law were: repeated appointment of an unqualified warden; failure to keep a proper vestry list; holding of an unconstitutional parochial tribunal; the barring of seven parishioners from communion; and permitting the marriages of divorced persons in the church.

Fly Injured To Edmonton

JASPER, Alta., July 11 (CP)—Mrs. Alfred M. Steiner of Bronxville, N.Y., severely injured in the overturning of a sightseeing bus in the Canadian Rockies Tuesday, was flown to hospital in Edmonton Tuesday.

Two other United States tourists were killed in the accident, which occurred when the bus toppled over the side of a bank a mile south of Jasper while returning from a trip to the Columbia icefield.

Killed were Mrs. G. L.Andrie, Lakewood, Ohio, and Isabell Ryan of Burbank, Calif. Mrs. Steiner, whose husband also was injured in the accident, suffered undetermined internal injuries.

Four other passengers in the bus suffered injuries and 21 were treated for minor hurts.

Seek Nude Visitor

SOUTHAMPTON, Ont., July 11 (CP)—Town police, provincial police and residents scoured the bush around here Tuesday night for a man wearing only shoes. The man is reported to have grabbed a girl, aged about 14, at the Southampton beach, just outside the town's limits late Tuesday. He dragged the girl some 15 feet, before she could fight her way loose.

Sympathy Strike?

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., July 11 (CP)—A sympathy strike will be discussed by the Electrical Utilities Employees Union (CC) in connection with the walkout of employees of the Saskatchewan government airways. Chester Tatlow, local president of the electrical union said Tuesday: A sympathy strike is rather strong action to adopt, "but it is the only lever they give us."

East China Mills Resume Operations

HONG KONG, July 11 (AP)—The Chinese Communist news agency said today in a dispatch from Shanghai that practically every mill in East China's textile industry has resumed operations.

The dispatch made no reference to an order issued in Peiping in June closing all mills in China because of a cotton shortage.

Morrison Welcomes Centenary Guests

LONDON, July 11 (CP)—Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison Tuesday officialy welcomed overseas guests attending this week's Reuters News Agency centenary celebrations.

The guests, including executive director Kent Cooper of The Associated Press and general manager Gillis Purcell of The Canadian Press, were greeted individually by Morrison, Christopher Chancellor, general manager of Reutuers, and Mrs. Chancellor.

Chancellor was granted a knighthood in the last King's Honors List but has not yet been officially invested because of the King's illness.

Meanwhile, in Paris, the French foreign office announced Tuesday th government has awarded Chancellor the rosette of officer of the Legion of Honor.

Blames Equipment For High Rail Rates

BRANDON, Man., July 11 (CP)—D. S. Thomson, vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, said Tuesday that lower rates on Canadian railroads may be possible again when present equipment has been converted to modern standards.

Due to the present high cost of labor and materials greater savings in operating costs could be made if the new tools and new facilities needed to effect these economies can be obtained, he said.

Pleads Guilty

MONTREAL, July 11 (CP)—Moses L. Hershunov, a jobbing contractor, pleaded guilty Tuesday to 21 charges of obtaining $80,000 by fraudulent means and of attempting to commit suicide. He will be sentenced today. Police said the jobber represented himself to friends as holding an important position in the flooring business. He induced his friends to give him money to invest on the promise of high profits.

Makes Post Permanent

OTTAWA, July 11 (CP) — A spokesman for the apostolic delegation said Tuesday night a papal decree establishing a military vicar for the Canadian army merely puts on a permanent basis a post already in existence. Commenting on a Vatican dispatch Tuesday which reported establishment of the post, the spokesman said the present military vicar is Archbishop Maurice Roy of Quebec, who serves under the title of Roman Catholic bishop ordinary of the army.

Gored By Bull

GODERICH, July 11 (CP) — Samuel McNall, 50, Colborne township was gored by a bull on his farm near Ben Miller on Monday night. He was leading the animal when it charged. Besides several ribs being caved in he suffered leg injuries. He was taken to hospital.

Rector Decides Give Obedience

TORONTO, July 11. (CP) — The Rev. Harry Garbutt, storm centre in an Anglican church controversy in Toronto, said Tuesday he will give "full canonical obedience" to Bishop A. R. Beverley, who fired him by letter Monday.

The rector had said previously he would not leave St. Barnabas church. Shortly after promising obedience he arranged a meeting with the bishop Tuesday night.

The 49-year-old clergyman said, however, he wanted to be "fired properly."

Anglican canonical law, he said, requires that when a bishop believes the welfare of a church demands the resignation of a rector, he ask for the resignation in writing, giving approximately six weeks' notice.

Mr. Garbutt said that Bishop Beverley had never requested his resignation.

"In addition," said the rector, "I expect to be compensated for the $15,000 I have spent refurnishing and redecorating the church residence."

Woman Killed

MILTON, Ont., July 11 (CP)—Mrs. Thomas McBride, 72, of Rockwood, was killed and her husband injured Tuesday in a car-truck collision at Moffat. Police say the accident occurred at an intersection when the McBride car collided with a truck driven by Charles Mitchell, of Campbellville.

Continue Negotiations To Settle Strike

HAMILTON, July 11 (CP)—Officials of the United Rubber Workers of America, Local 113 (CIO) and the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company will meet today to continue negotiations aimed at settling a partial strike which began Tuesday.

Union officials said morning shift employees at the plant will report for work and a decision on calling a strike will be made after company offers are heard. The union is asking a 25-cent hourly wage increase. The company has offered 11 cents.

No Relief From Heat For BC Firefighters

TERRACE, BC, July 11 (CP)—There was no escaping the heat Tuesday for 60 men fighting to control a forest fire seven miles southeast of here.

The temperature hovered around 98 degrees.

The fire already has swept over about 80 acres of logged-over bushland in the vicinity of Fraborne sawmill.

Terrace is 95 miles inland from the north coast of British Columbia.

Hiscocks-McCamus

CAVAN, July 11 (ENS).—The marriage of Charlotte Eileen McCamus, daughter of Mrs. McCamus and the late Robert McCamus, Ida, to William Frankland Hiscocks of Gananoque was solemnized in St. John's Anglican Church, Ida, Saturday afternoon. The Rev. A. A. Chote, rector of the parish of Cavan, officiated.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Thomas Allen McCamus, wore a dress of navy nylon marquisette over taffeta, designed with Peter Pan collar, a very bouffant skirt with hand-painted pockets and a navy hat with touches of pink. Her pink lace mittens blended with her bouquet of Briarcliffe roses and stephanotis. The bridesmaid, Miss Minn Weir of Wingham, wore a spice nylon marquisette duster dress with matching accessories and carried a bouquet of Johanna Hill roses.

Mr. Thomas Stalker of Detroit, Michigan, was groomsman. The ushers were Robert Harry McCamus, brother of the bride, and Robert George Hiscocks, son of the bridegroom.

After a reception at the family home, the couple left for a motor trip to Northern Ontario.

The out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Alf. Larson and daughter Janice, and Miss Dorothy Hiscocks, Toronto; Mr. Robert Hiscocks, Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hiscocks, Collingwood; Mr. Harry Hobbs and Mr. Thomas Stalker, Detroit; Miss Minn Weir, and Miss Hazel Weir, Wingham; Miss Edythe Woodcliffe, Toronto; Dr. Stewart McGregor, Deleware; Mr. Dane Frunston, Toronto. Weather Reporter Woman 93 Receives Citation

PARRY SOUND, Ont., July 11 (CP)—A 93-year-old weather watcher was honored yesterday for 40 years of three-time -day weather reports.

Mrs. Amy Foot, who took over her husband's job with the Canadian meteorological service when he died, was awarded the imperial service medal. The citation said it was an award "which His Majesty the King has been graciously pleased to award you in recognition of meritorious services which you have rendered."

Andrew Thomson, meteorology controller of the federal transport department, said Mrs. Foot took 38,000 single observations without missing a day.

"Weather reports like those from Parry Sound are often worth far more than their weight in gold," he said. "They are the indirect means of....saving materials and crops and protecting light, telephone and power lines."

Mrs. Foot said it was "the nicest thing that has hapepned to me.

"I will treasure the decoration all of my life."

Kerr-Wood Rites

At "Woodville Farm," home of Mr. and Mrs. James Willis Wood, Millbrook, the marriage took place Monday afternoon at three o'clock of their daughter Audrey Jean Wood and Mr. Donald Herbert Kerr, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Kerr, also of Millbrook.

Floral setting for the ceremony performed by the Rev. A. Chase was white gladioli banked with ferns. The wedding march was played by Mrs. M. Lee of Lakefield and Mrs. Donald Hendren of Lakefield sang "O Perfect Love" and "My World."

The bride wore a natural silk shantung suit with matching accessories and a corsage of gardenias. She was given in marriage by her father and attended by her sister Miss Barbara Wood who wore blue silk with corsage of gardenias. Flower girl was Donna Hendren dressed in pink organdy and carrying a nosegay of sweet peas.

Mr. Jack McCaw was the groomsman and John Shannon ushered.

Following the reception the bridal couple left on a trip to the Maritime provinces and New England.

Trotter-Anderson

WARKWORTH, July 11 (ENS)—The marriage of Joy Anne Anderson to Mr. Stanley Harold Trotter took place Saturday at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Anderson, Percy township, the Rev. J. M. Ritchie of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Warkworth, officiating. The groom is son of Mrs. S. Patch of Toronto and the late H. Trotter.

The house was decorated with canterbury bells, sweet peas, ivy and fern and streamers of pink and white. Recorded music was played with Miss Mary McFarlin in charge and the selection during signing of the register was "I Love You Truly."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white lace over satin and a shoulder veil of embroidered lace, caught to a lace cap which she had crocheted. Her cascade bouquet was of red roses.

Miss Jean Anderson, bridesmaid for her sister, was wearing pale green faille with matching mitts and hat and carrying a cascade of yellow carnations.

Mr. Bruce Hope was groomsman and Alvin Anderson, brother of the bride, ushered.

For the occasion the bride's mother wore a navy sheer dress and white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. The groom's mother was also in navy sheer and had pink carnations. Guests were present from Kingston, Frankford, Campbellford, Toronto and Warkworth.

Leaving for United States, by way of the Ivy Lea Bridge, the bride travelled in a beige tropical suit and green accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Trotter will live in Toronto.

2 Girls Plan Film Output Based on Canadian Folklore

LONDON, July 11 — (CP). — Briming over with new ideas, two young Canadian firm-makers, Alma Duncan and Babs McLaren, are on their way back to Ottawa to start their own production company.

For the last four months Alma and Babs have been ou tour in Italy, France, Switzerland and Britain, absorbing tricks of the trade and technical hints they hope later to incorporate in their own productions.

The two women, both in their early 30s, have a busy time ahead. Starting from scratch, they will rent and equip their own studios make their own sets — and their own film stars. The first film is scheduled to start shooting in September.

Not for the versatile Alma and Babs the ordinary medium of live actors. Instead, the stars of their 10-minute animated films will be wooden puppets — carved and dressed with meticulous care by Alma herself.

Already an artist of recognized ability, Alma will paint her own backgrounds, create each scene, and make every prop by hand, from puppet characters to furniture, dishes, farm carts, flies, beetles, and anything else required.

Dark-haired Babs, a native of Ancaster, is the power behind the camera. "We may economize on anything else, but our camera will be the best we can find," she said in an interview.

Animated films of this type are made by thousands of still photographs of individually arranged sets, each differing only slightly from those coming before and after, and projected at a rate of 24 a second.

Alma and Babs started their film careers with Canada's National Film Board, Babs in the laboratory as a negative cutter and Alma in display. Later, Alma who comes from Paris, Ont., made her first free-lance film, Folksong Fantasy, under contract to the Film Board.

This film, already shown in Canada and scheduled for showing at the Edinburgh Festival in August if a copy can be made in time, gives a good preview of the type of film the new company will put on the Canadian market. It was based on three well-known Canadian folksongs, and Dunclaren Films—that is what the girls call their company—aims to bring to life many such Canadian ballads and stories of Indian and Eskimo folklore.

Asked what they felt about the financial hazards of their new enterprise, Alma said: "As long as we clear our expenses that is all we ask. We want to remain a small company; it's more fun that way."

1,200 Guests At Palace Party

LONDON, July 11 (Reuters)—More than 1,200 guests, including many members of the diplomatic corps, danced in the white and gold state ballroom at an evening party in Buckingham Palace Tuesday night.

The Queen was present. The illness, was in the palace but did Kin, recuperating from a recent not attend.

The guests included Commonwealth high commissioners, Prime Minister Attlee and Mrs. Attlee, Winston Churchill, members of the Cabinet, and the armed service chiefs.

The Princess danced with Viscount Alexander, Governor-General of Canada.

London People Hunt Bargains At Shoe Sales

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON (CP)—London's bargain-hungry crowds made a beeline for shoe counters when the summer sales got under way this month.

Stores advertising shoe bargains had long queues well ahead of opening time and men were eager buyers at a west end store selling oxfords, monks and casual shoes at moderate prices.

The main reason for the rush, apart from the pull of cut-price articles, was a government announcement that maximum prices of utility shoes would rise approximately 35 per cent July 2. This means an increase in price of the only footwear that can be bought without sales tax.

The higher prices affect shoes for all members of the family. Men's shoes which previously cost £4 5s 3d. now have a maximum of £5 15s. Women's shoes show a rise of £1 13s 9d. and shoes for kiddies and infants will cost about 5s and 3s. more a pair.

A govenment spokesman, however, said that the rise in price has been accommodated in economics of manufacture by many firms throughout the last few months. Most manufacturers do not intend to do so. The general rise in the cost of living makes it advisable to keep prices to a minimum due to tight purse-strings.

Plenty of Customers

Since the announcement, however, shoe sales have been brisk. Housewives and workers alike are thinking in terms of the general upward trend in shoe prices since the start of the year.

Summer sales are early this year after a long rainy winter and women are taking advantage of the late purchase of white shoes, light sandals and other holiday wear.

For the women of fashion, Bond Street and Regent Street stores are reducing an attractive selection of end-of-line shoes by three and four guineas. For instance, a classic court with open toe and three-inch heel, in red and tan calf, and a few pairs of navy and black suedes sell at five guineas, reduced from 8½ guineas.

Clothing stores are clearing summer stocks at reduction prices to avoid big losses due to bad sales throughout a fitful summer. This gives many of London's holiday millions the chance of summer wardrobes reduced to less than half-price. Summer dresses and beach wear cost as little as 15s. For washable cotton and linen outfits.

Fashion Vignettes

By Evelyn Kelly Croucher

ARTICLE 8

The other day an ambitious young business girl remarked dolefully to me, "Do you know that this last two weeks I've gone through ten pair of nylons. Either snagged them or they just went. How can you save money when you spend so much of it on stockings?"

Nylons are one of the business woman's biggest clothing expenses, and often the lady whose career is homemaking finds that her hose have an exasperating way of running just about the time she's hurrying off shopping. Barring accidents when pulling them on, or snagging, there are a few tricks which will prolong the life of your nylons.

First, are you sure you're buying the proper foot size and length, always securing garters into the hem or welt, never in the sheer part? Have you acquired the good habit of sitting down to fasten those back garters so that sitting never puts a sudden strain on your nylons? Buying weights best suited to the purpose: 45 gauge, 30 denier for business, 51 gauge, 15 denier (which are the filmiest sheers) for dress-up occasions?

Deadliest foes of nylons are your own toenails, especially if entire stocking over the toes. Good idea to always turn stockings inside out, draw them over toes so that the leg length which is sheer fragile part of nylons, never comes in contact with toenails. For the very sheer hose slip on a pair of gloves so that your fingernails don't touch them. Your toenails won't present a constant menace if you always keep them closely trimmed, smoothed well down with the fine side of an emery board. Keep nail polish on toenails by first applying one thin coat, hunting as you polish for jagged spots. Let this dry, apply another coat, covering right over the edges trimmed and emery-smoothed. One girl told me she uses as much polish on her toenails as on her fingers, purely to protect nylons.

I firmly believe hanging wet nylons puts a strain on them. Try blotting the moisture out in a thick bath towel, hang over a dry towel and they're dry in no time. Wash after each wearing . . . the experts say, rinse them even if you haven't time to wash them. Perspiration rots nylon yarns.

And in economy's name, it's wise to buy two or three pair alike so you always have a reserve if one runs. And if you consistently buy the same style, same heel pattern, etc., you can always take the collection of mismates, sort them into nearest matching colors and dye them. Then when dark browns and blacks are in fashion again . . . and they always have their inning! . . . you'll have several pairs on hand.

DOROTHY DIX

Boy Should Have Patience With Ways of Grandmother

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a boy of 18 and my trouble is about my grandfather. He lives with us and he gets on my nerves until I nearly go crazy. It makes me feel that I can't be happy at home. In fact, he spoils my home for me. It is not his fault, but he just isn't used to living the way we do and everything he does rubs me raw. The way he eats and dresses and talks. I wish you would tell me what to do, as I haven't the courage to talk it over with my mother and tell her what is wrong and what makes me so unhappy. R. H.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Well, son, the problem you face is one of the most insoluble ones in all human relationship. It is how to mix youth and age harmoniously at a time of life when both are most egotistic and have least patience and adaptability.

Too Far Apart

Because you are too young and he is too old you cannot understand each other nor make allowances for each other. Your grandad thinks that because he has lived so many years he has become an oracle and that you should sit at his feet and learn wisdom. Because you have lived so short a time you think that you know it all and that his ideas and opinions passed away with the Dodo. Both of you are right and both of you are wrong.

Age does bring wisdom, but some of it does not fit modern conditions and has to be revamped to apply to the world in which we live today. It is not to be wondered at that your grandfather gets upon your nerves. Old people often get very untidy about their clothes and their persons. Frequently their table manners belong to a day in which there were only two-tined forks and a knife was the accepted mode of conveying food to the mouth.

Maybe their grammar is rickety and they did not have the advantage of the education that you have. Nearly always they are opinionated and set in their ways. It seems to be the inevitable law of nature that age turns us garrulous and makes us bores, given to telling long-winded stories of our pasts.

But, granting all this, can you not have a little pity for this old man whose youth and strength have gone from him and who has no interest in life except in his memories? Can you not have patience with him when you reflect that the time will surely come to you, unles you die, when you will be old, with outmoded views, with manners and habits that belong to a past generation?

Think this over. Remember that your grandfather in his day has been a man among men. Perhaps from him you inherited your strong body and your good mind. Talk this matter over with your mother if your grandaddy is her father and with you father if grandaddy is his father, and get their slant upon it.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: For several months a friend of mine, a conservative, professional man, has been interested in a woman in her late thirties. She is very nice, but my frind has been wondering if she is the right person for him. He is rather serious; she likes to fool. My friend is careful about money. He doesn't spend it for trifles but invests it in sound undertakings. The woman makes a good salary but never saves a cent. She says she doesn't believe in saving money, but in having a good time. My friend is considering marriage but is in doubt about his chance of happiness with a person who has such frivolous and juvenile ideas about life. PETER

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your friend sounds to me like a stuffed shirt who'll do much better home counting his stocks than in seeking romance. Being conservative, serious and careful with money can be very fine qualities; they can also be overdone and from the tone of your letter I'd say he overdoes them. The lady is a little too extravagant but she does have a good time, which in these harassed times is something to achieve. Personally, I don't think a woman who can earn the salary you mention can be either too frivolous or too juvenile. She must have some sense and intelligence. As for a union of thse radically different people—it would turn into one continuous battle over money. Better keep your frind at his coupon clipping alone, and let the lady go her merry, extravagant way.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Do you think 18 is too young for the average girl to marry? JENNY

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I do. Very few girls of 18 are mature enough to know what real love is. They have crushes that they get over in a few weks. They haven't judgment and experience enough to pick out a husband, and they are not ready to settle down to the work and responsibilities of marriage. It is a pity for any girl to marry before she has had her playtime of life.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Offer Eggs a la Goldenrod As Special-Purpose Menu

Eggs a la Goldenrod
New Green Peas with Mint
Pure White Cauliflower
Tossed Green and Red Salad
Anchovy French Dressing
Cherry Tarts Iced Tea

Directions

For this colorful supper use your most colorful china.

I cannot lay claim to economy because I am suggesting that you use at least 1½ eggs per person. At 83 cents per dozen, which is what I paid this morning, that will not help you lay anything up for your old age. However, it is still lower in cost than any meat that is equal in nourishment would be.

Eggs a la Goldenrod

Make 1½ cups of medium white sauce for each 6 eggs used. This will serve four people. Melt 3 tablespoons butter or margarine and stir into it 3 tablespoons flour. Stir in 1½ cups hot milk over hot water and stir until thick. Add salt and paprika to taste. Cut hard cooked eggs in halves. Lift out yolks and chop whites coarsely and add to sauce. Sieve the yolks. Add half of them to the sauce. Make four slices crisp pre-buttered oven toast and serve the cream eggs over it. Sprinkle remaining sieved yolks thickly over each serving. Garnish with greens of some kind.

The mint flavor is blended easily with the peas, if, after they are quick-cooked, melted butter containing the mint is poured over them. The hot butter extracts some of the flavor from the mint.

To keep the cauliflower white, divide it into about 2-inch flowerets and pour boiling water over. Add 1½ teaspoons salt and 1 tablespoon lemon juice, cover and boil hard for about 15 minutes. Do not overcook or it will turn an oyster white. It should be crisply tender. This is the way to cook it when you want to use it cooked and cold for out-of-door salads.

Fresh Cherry Tarts

Have ready eight baked tart shells about 4 inches in diameter.

Cook together until tender 2 cups fresh pitted sour cherries and 1 cup boiling water. Drain off the juice. Stir it into a mixture of 1 cup sugar and 2 tablespoons cornstarch. Add the fruit and cook stirring for 10 minutes. Stir in 1 tablespoon butter and if desired ½ tablespoon cinnamon or ½ teaspoon almond flavoring. Chill. Spoon into baked tart shells when both shells and filling are cold.

Note: The same treatment may be used for making fresh plum tarts when they come into season.

Iced Tea

Do not stint on the lemon juice or your tea will be insipid.

Fill tall glasses with ice. Have tea made fresh and double strength. Pour it over the ice cubes, boiling hot, after it has steeped not more than 4 minutes. Add from 1 to 1½ tablespoons lemon juice, a bruised mint leaf, and, for garnish, a crescent of lemon over the rim of the glass.

Shawinigan Falls Records 50 Years Of Rapid Growth

SHAWINIGAN FALLS, Que.—(CP)—Fifty years ago Shawinigan was nothing more than a bend in the road by the falls of the St. Maurice River. From these same falls enterprising Canadians have drawn the power that built an industrial centre of steel, stone and 38,000 inhabitants.

This summer Shawinigan Falls celebrates its golden jubilee—50 years in which men have seen a colossus of manufacturing power rise from the previously unexploited lumber country of Northern Quebec.

At the turn of the century the newly-formed Shawinigan Water and Power Company built the first dams that were to feed the future progress of that region. In 1903 they commenced what had previously been considered impossible, the transmission of electricity from Shawinigan to Montreal, 86 miles away.

The first line was a wooden pole affair fed by two 5,000 horsepower generators. Now a total of 325,000 horsepower flows from their power-houses into the surrounding district, one of the most heavily-industrialized areas of the province.

Cheap power soon transformed the forest territory into an industrial promised land. Shawinigan soon established a subsidiary, Shawinigan Chemicals Ltd., which produces, carbide, acetone and steel. Canadian Resins and Chemicals was formed during the Second World War and now produces "Vinylite" plastic materials. Consolidated Paper Corporation's mills turn out 225,000 tons of newsprint a year.

The aluminum Company of Canada came to Shawinigan in 1900 and in 1941 constructed a new smelter plant, the second largest alumnum ingot plant in Canada.

From the factories of Canadian Industries Ltd. come such everyday marvels as "cellophane" and cellulose sponges, and many industrial products.

Shawinigan Falls itself is a model city with well-defined residential, commercial and industrial areas. Its citizens are proud of their community, its efficient public services, schools and churches. Serious crime is virtually unknown and the fire insurance rate is one of the lowest in Canada.

There are no slum areas in Shawinigan Falls. A new city hall was constructed last year and this summer a large, outdoor swimming pool will be ready for the residents.

Calgary Woman Does Man's Job

CALGARY —(CP)—Mrs. Mary Dover is proof enough for any man that it isn't a "man's world."

During recent years she has been a lieutenant-colonel in the Canadian Women's Army Corps, an alderman on the Calgary City Council and a vice-president of the Alberta command of the Canadian Legion ("not the ladies' auxiliary," she is quick to inform you, "but the Legion").

Now she is chief warden for Calgary's civil defence program.

Her father, the late A. E. Cross, was a pioneer southern Alberta rancher and her grandfather, Col. J. F. Macleod, was one of the first Mounties in the west and founder of Fort Macleod in 1874.

6—In Memoriam

CLEMENTS—In loving memory of George Edward Clements, who lost his life in the Whitaker fire four years ago today.
This world may change from year to year,
And friends from day to day,
But never shall the one we loved
From memory pass away.
—Always remembered by father, brother Fred and sisters.

McCOLL—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Mrs. Wilburt McColl, who passed away July 11, 1941.
Asleep in God's beautiful garden,
Sheltered from sorrow and pain.
Safe in God's wonderful keeping
Until we shall meet her again.
—Ever remembered by husband and family.

NOBLE—In loving memory of my dear mother, Gladys Noble, who passed away one year ago today, July 11, 1950.
And while she lies in peaceful sleep,
Her memory we shall always keep.

NOBLE—In loving memory of Mrs. Percy Noble, who passed away one year ago today.
What would I give her hand to clasp,
Her patient face to see,
To hear her voice, to see her smile,
As in the days that used to be.
But some sweet day we'll meet again
Beyond the toil and strife,
And clasp each other's hand once more
In heaven, that happy life.

10 Ontario Girls Begin Trip To UK

TORONTO, July 11 (CP)—Ten Ontario girls left here for Montreal Tuesday night to join 40 others from across Canada on a month-long tour of Britain.

Sponsored by Garfield Weston, Canadian-born industrialist, the trip will include visits to historical sites, industries and resorts in England, Scotland and Wales.

Fifty girls from Great Britain will come to Canada under the same sponsorship. Their trip includes a visit to Niagara Falls.

Appoint Carrie To Command Research Unit

OTTAWA, July 11 —(CP)— Gideon Milroy Carrie, OBE, ED, a native of Owen Sound, has been named to command a division of the Defence Research Board that will make him responsible for the research and development requirements of the Army, it was announced today.

A veteran of both wars who rose to the rank of colonel, he will "be closely associated with the operations of certain defence research laboratories," the announcement said without elaboration.

The Research Board is the scientific arm of the defence department. Col. Carrie will be chief of division "C."

A graduate in civil engineering from the University of Toronto, he served in France, Italy, Egypt, Palestine, Syria, Iraq and Iran in the First World War. In 1922, he retired and returned to Canada, but retained a keen interest in the reserve army, forming the first Canadian survey regiment, RCA, in 1937.

At the outbreak of the Second World War, he commanded an artillery regiment and proceeded overseas. In 1943, he was appointed director of artillery at headquarters of First Canadian Army in England. With the rank of colonel, he was named Canadian Armed Forces representative on the ordnance board in the United Kingdom in 1944 an appointment he held until his second Army retirement, in 1947.

Mr. Carrie was then appointed defence research members, Canadian Joint Staff, London, representing the Research Board in the United Kingdom. He held this position until returning to Canada to take up his present appointment.

UE Local Seeks Organize Plants

In the last two days Local 527, United Electrical Workers, have applied to the Ontario Labor Relations Board to be the bargaining agent for the production workers in two small Peterborough firms.

They are the Moldaver Bros. Lumber Co. and the Hobbs Glass Ltd.

Altogether this makes four firms in the city that Local 527 has applied to represent. Recently applications were filed for the Tilco Plastics and the DeLaval Co., a total of 375 production employees.

"This union activity is in line with UE policy recently re-affirmed at the district council meeting," said Len Velleman, UE district organizer. "That is to organize the unorganized here in Peterborough and elsewhere."

Two Cars Collide Passengers Injured

Ameida Traviss, 590 Murray St., suffered slight injuries, a scratched elbow and a cut back of the left knee, Tuesday in a two-car collision at Murray and Cambridge Sts.

Cars driven by John D. McCabe, Woodland Ave., and John McIsaac, 58 Victoria Ave., met in collision at the intersection.

Both vehicles were seriously damaged. Damage to the McCabe car was: front bumper, right fender, right door, running board, right side, window glass in right door, rear bumper and the motor moved; to the McIsaac car, hood, left headlight, left parking light, grill, radiator, front bumper, right fender.

Traviss was a passenger in the McIsaac car and was taken to Dr. Robert Young for treatment. McCabe was treated for shock at the clinic.

APS Gordon Trennum and PC Harold Andrew investigated.

IT'S AN OLD FAMILY CUSTOM—When Minnesota's Gov. Luther W. Youngdahl—soon to become a federal judge—proposed to his future wife back in 1919, he chose a rowboat for the occasion. In top photo, Governor and Mrs. Youngdahl are seen re-enacting that proposal at St. Peter, Minn. Young Paul Youngdahl liked the idea so much that he used his own rowboat 32 years later to ask for the hand of Catherine Mary Martin. The young couple is seen below, duplicating the proposal scene of the elder Youngdahls.

CCL Union Claims Victory Over Rival

HAMILTON, July 11 (CP) — The CCL-CIO Textile Workers Union today claimed a victory over the rival AFL United Textile Workers in Welland.

The CIO group said that the AFL union failed in a raid on the Welland local of the TWUA. Officials stated that the UTW had tried to take advantage of a Dunnville strike by the TWUA at Dominion Fabrics to hit at the firm's other plant in Welland.

This morning it was announced by the CIO union that an agreement ending the Dunnville strike would also be applied to the Dominion Yarns plant in Welland.

The CIO men added that the Ontario Labor Relations Board had previously dismissed the AFL union's application for certification at Dominion Yarns.

37 Improvements Urged By B of W

Board of Works made 37 recommendations to city council Monday night. Most dealt with local improvements and traffic.

The council accepted them all with one or two minor changes.

The city clerk was authorized to advertise the intention of the city to construct storm drains in two sections of Ashburnham and one on Monaghan Rd.

Sections to receive the drains are: Maria St. from the east limit of Rogers St. to a point opposite the west limit of lot 2, plan 11A; Rogers St. from Maria to James St., and Monaghan Rd. from the Otonabee River to the CNR tracks just north of Edison Ave.

A committee to submit recommendations for walks, grading and street widening around the new city hall will probably be appointed by the mayor in a short time. This was one of the board's recommendations.

The board also recommended that the Conger-Lehigh Coal Co. be allowed to instal two 2,000-gallon underground gas tanks at its new station on Lansdowne St. at Sherbourne St.

Traffic recommendations included: no change in parking restrictions on the east side of Aylmer St. between Murray and McDonnel Sts.; acceptance of the special traffic committee's recommendation of uniform parking signs and regulations; stop-and-go lights for Lansdowne and George Sts.

Civil Defence Leaders Confer

OTTAWA, July 11 (CP)—Civil defence leaders of Canada and the United States will meet here next Wednesday to check up on progress being made in integrating their programs.

Health Minister Martin will head the Canadian delegation. Either Millard Caldwell, former Florida governor who is chief civil defence official in Washington, or one of his deputies will head the US group.

The first meeting of this character was held April 28 in Washington and launched a series of studies on which reports will be made next week. These include an advanced warning system, arrangements for co-operation between provinces and states, communications and other matters.

Liftlock Trophy Tourney Gets Big Entry

Two hundred bowlers from 25 Ontario clubs started play here today in the seventh open lawn bowling annual doubles tournament for the Liftlock Gold Trophy donated by Mr. and Mrs. Chris' Graham. Total aggregate for three games in six draws will declare the winner tonight. Robert Gamble, tourney chairman welcomed the guests, including C. Argue of Belleville, past president of the provincial association; Percy Skitch of Lindsay, district No. 14 chairman. J. Dougheny of Toronto Withrow Club; Mayor J. E. Rouleau of Cornwall; and A Atchison of Ottawa. First round results:

OBITUARIES

WILLIAM ALBERT PAYNE

William Albert Payne, 86, of Lakefield, died Tuesday following a lengthy illness.

He was born in Dummer township, son of the late Joseph Payne and Mary Jean McCracken, where he was a farmer until he retired and moved to Lakefield. He was a member of the Lakefield United Church.

He leaves one brother Jacob, Lakefield and one sister, Mrs. Everett Garbutt (Elma), Warsaw. His wife the former Mary Graham predeceased him a year ago.

The funeral will be held Thursday at 2 p.m. from the Anderson funeral home, Lakefield. The Rev. George Dyson of Warsaw United Church will conduct the service. Burial will be in St. Mark's cemetery, Warsaw.

EDWARD THOMAS TIGHE

Edward Thomas Tighe, 64, RR 2, Lakefield, died suddenly in Peterborough hospital Wednesday.

Mr. Tighe was born in Dummer township son of the late Charles Tighe and Sarah Raycroft and has resided there all his life. He was a member of Bethel United Church and LOL No. 284, Warsaw. He was a veteran of the First World War, joining the 93rd Battalion and later transferred to the 52nd Battalion.

He leaves his wife, the former Emma Grace Rowe; two daughters, Mrs. Ivan Dunford (Elma Irene) Smith township and Mrs. Marvin Dunford (Elsie) Lakefield; a stepmother, Mrs. Margaret Tighe, Peterborough; four sisters, Mrs. Frank Trude (Mary), Smith Township, Mrs. Margaret Moore, Lakefield; Elsie, Chilliwack, British Columbia and Mrs. Mabel Forsythe, Windsor; and three brothers, Arthur and Hilliard, both of Peterborough and William, Douro township.

The funeral will be held Saturday at 2 p.m. from the Anderson funeral home, Lakefield. The Rev. George Dyson of Bethel United Church will conduct the service. Burial will be in Ray's cemetery, Lakefield.

MRS. ROBERT S. BOLTON

Mrs. Robert S. Bolton 73, Lakefield, died Wednesday following a lengthy illness.

The former Margaret Jane Leslie, she was born in Douro township, daughter of the late George Leslie and Marcelene Hamlin and has lived a lifetime in this district. She was a member of the Lakefield United Church.

She leaves six sons, Ernest, Charles, George, Donald and Cephas, all of Douro township and Bruce of Dummer township; four daughters, Mrs. Stanley Boyce (Violet) and Mrs. Fred Rowland (Grace), both of Smith township; Mrs. Rae Kelcey (Verna), Peterborough and Mrs. Gerald Northey (Lillian) Lakefield; one sister, Mrs. Ed Dunford (Lettie), Lakefield; two brothers, Edward John, Bronhead, Saskatchewan and Cephas, Burleigh Falls and 29 grandchildren. One son, Wilbert, predeceased her.

The funeral will be held Friday from the residence of her son, Cephas, RR 9 Peterborough, at 2:30 p.m. The Rev. W. H. Tonge of Lakefield United Church will conduct the service. Burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.

Danes Giving Trade Top Priority

By CHARLES GROOT

COPENHAGEN — (Reuters)— The Danish government is giving top priority to maintenance of the people's standard of living. This means trade and commerce is rated ahead even of defence plans.

The main threat to Denmark's standards of living comes not from defence expenditures, which at $42,000,000 are the lowest of any Atlantic Pact nation, but from the big drop in her foreign trade since the outbreak of the war in Korea.

Foreign Minister Ole Bjorn Kraft said recently "the defence effort should not be brought into variance with the maintenance of a standard of living for our population which is in conformity with our Democratic ideals. If we were to forget that, we would lose the battle on the home front."

Little Black Marketing

Rationing came to an end last year, except for sugar and coffee, so there is but little black market activity. As is the case in most countries of Europe, anyone with enough money can buy almost anything.

Import controls have been strengthened to try to keep the unfavorable trade balance as low as possible.

The government has its best brains at work seeking ways to combat inflation. Latest proposals, however, amount to little more than the usual method of increasing taxes.

Compulsory Savings

But two of the proposals are new in this country:

1. The introduction of compulsory savings for lower income groups. This is probably the least unpopular suggestion, since under it the Government would return all the compulory savings after a number of years. Sceptics ask how much these savings would be worth in buying power when they are returned, but the general feeling is that the measure would have a good anti-inflationary effect by reducing purchasing power.

2. Regulation of the cost-of-living index, which automatically controls the amount of cost-of-living allowances paid to salaried workers. This plan is the most hotly contested by the parliamentary opposition parties, mainly the Socialists.

The Government proposes a regulation which would reduce the amount of the bonuses paid out following any increase in the published cost-of-living index. The Socialists are bitterly opposed and the fight looks as though it will be a lengthy one.

BRINK'S HOLDUP FOILED—Lucky Del Castro, West Side hoodlum who spent 19 of the last 36 years in prison, lies shot to death in a Chicago street after he and two companions were routed by Brink's Express guards who fought off bandits' attempt to rob the armored car loaded with money.

Congregation Fetes Springville Couple

SPRINGVILE, July 11—(ENS) —Mrs. Clayton Howden, formerly Edna Davis, was honored Monday evening by the congregation of Springville church when she and her husband were presented with an occasional chair and a hassock.

The presentations were made by Walter Brown and Harley Cathcart and the address of good wishes was read by Mrs. B. Sargent.

A short program was given with Mrs. A. B. Preston as chairman. Doris Mann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Mann of Detroit, played several piano solos and also played two piano duets with her aunt, Mrs. Harry Bothwell. Hazel McIntosh gave a reading, "Behind the Parlor Door" and Mrs. B. Preston conducted a flower contest. Mrs. Bert Visee provided lovely flowers for the occasion. Refreshments were served in the basement.

Food Prices Steady

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP) —A government survey today showed no change in food prices during the first two weeks in June. The special food index of the Bureau of Labor Statistics put retail food prices in mid-June at 3-10th of 1 per cent lower than in mid-May, but 12 per cent higher than a year earlier.

To Entertain Dewey

TAIPEH, Formosa, July 11 — (AP)—Chiang Kai-shek plans to entertain Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York at dinner here Saturday. Officials said Dewey will probably remain in Formosa five days.

Deceiving Percentage

DUNEDIN, N.Z.—(CP— Largest percentage jump in population in New Zealand in the last five years was in the wild 3,000-square-mile fjord county in the extreme southwest. The jump was 400 per cent, but with a total of 35 inhabitants the county is not exactly overcrowded.

Cow Swallows Teeth

CARDIGAN, Wales, July 11. (Reuters) — Police are seeking the owner of false teeth found inside a cow. A slaughter house butcher found them—an upper set unchipped and unscratched. Police inquiries to dentists and five previous owners of the cow have failed to find a claimant.

Attack Garden Parasites As Soon As They Appear

By HENRY PREE, NEA

The old saying that the uninvited guest is the most welcome does not apply to bugs. And unless you show displeasure at once, they will be with you long enough to wear out their welcome.

Very much in evidence are the tiny aphids on roses, perennials, hawthorne and snowballs. The standard control for these small green, pink or brown insects found on tip growth, buds and on undersides of leaves is a spray made of two teaspoonsful of nicotine-sulfate (Black Leaf 40) and a couple tablespoons of mild soap flakes in one gallon of water. It is most effective on a warm day.

Trips have begun destruction of iris, gladiolus and some shrubs and garden flowers. They are a minute, elongated insect and produce a mottling of foliage not unlike the leaf hopper or mite. A 5 per cent. DDT dust applied weekly will end their career.

In the vegetable garden we have the flea beetle, common on tomatoes, eggplants and lettuce. DDT or rotenone dust will keep him away.

Leaf feeders such as willow leaf and elm leaf beetles, spiny elm caterpillars, leaf skeletonizers and cankerworm respond to application of a 50 per cent. DDT powder, 3 tablespoons per gallon of water, or lead arsenate, 6 tablespoons per gallon of water.

Dr. Ernest Grether of Midland, Mich., in the July-August issue of Popular Gardening, says, "If you have snails in your area, they'll gorge on your delphinium seedlings (and plants) unless you take proper precautions." The doctor holds them back with a band of lime around the plants. A DDT preparation also stops them.

The above is highly indorsed for two reasons: Delphiniums like lime; lime not only repels snails but it causes them to exude their "juices" so freely that they "bleed" to death.

Annual bluegrass, now going to seed in many lawns, is an annual, as its name implies. It normally begins growth in late summer or early fall from seed produced the same year. It is more dwarfed in growth than Kentucky bluegrass and lacks creeping rhizomes.

No other turf species can produce seedstalks under regular mowing, but this grass can reproduce seeds even when mowed regularly at a height of one-fourth inch. It is of little economic importance and is considered a weedy pest, especially on lawns and golf courses.

GARDENING QUESTIONS

Q—Is it necessary to thin vegetable seedlings and if so what are the distances between plants?

A—If high-quality and well-developed crops are expected, thinning must be done. Beets, carrots and early turnips should be thinned to stand two to three inches apart in the row, lettuce fourteen inches, Swiss chard fourteen inches, spinach four inches, and other crops according to their growth habits. Lima beans should not be planted more closely than ten to twelve inches in the row, and string beans about four inches, for proper development.

* * *

Q—Is it necessary to stake Pacific hybrid delphiniums? The flower spikes are now three feet tall, and while sturdy, do whip about in the wind.—I.D.

A—As delphiniums shoot up, they should be staked. Heavy rain and wind will create havoc among these beauties. They may be tied either to separate stakes or three or four stakes may be put around the outside of the clump and strings run around the outside and criss-crossed through the middle. For very large flower heads, the individual stake with several ties is safest. Often when growth has been lush, the weight of water alone after a rain will snap them off.

These are some of your garden's worst enemies. Move in on 'em.

NOTE ON QUESTIONS

Henry Pree is unable to answer directly individual questions from readers. However, with each column he will answer the most interesting and most frequently asked questions.

Ask Milk Increase

FORT WILLIAM, July 11 (CP) —Milk producers and distributors in two Thunder Bay associations Tuesday applied to the Ontario Milk Control Board for increases. The Thunder Bay Milk Producers Association, in a brief to the board, asked $5.32 a hundred pounds. They now get $4.58. The Thunder Bay Distributors Association asked for a 1½ cent a quart increase. Both groups said they were losing money at current prices.

Duck Supply Good

EDMONTON, July 11 (CP) — Ducks Unlimited (Canada) reported Tuesday night that waterfowl throughout Western Canada are producing bumper crops despite "extremely severe" storms in April, May and June. Ducks Unlimited, a conservation of wild fowl organization, said 220 of 297 field observers said more ducks are breeding this year than last.

S. Korea Protests 38th Buffer Zone

PUSAN, South Korea, July 11 (Reuters)—Crowds of South Koreans demonstrated throughout the country today against ending the war on Communist terms—a buffer zone along the 38th parallel.

An estimated 30,000 paraded through the streets of Seoul as the United Nations peace parley team returned from the second day's talks today.

They carried flags but were quiet and orderly.

Similar Syngman Rhee issued a statement today from his headquarters here that he would "rather die than see the war end before total victory or defeat."

A buffer zone 12 miles wide along the parallel was proposed by the Communist team at Tuesday's truce talks, the Communist radio reported overnight.

Fenella Baby Band Visits Roseneath WMS

ROSENEATH, July 11 (ENS)— The members of Fenella WMS entertained the members of the Baby Band at their July meeting Tuesday afternoon at the home of the WMS president, Mrs. N. C. Leach.

There was a record attendance of 28 adults and 17 children.

Mrs. Wm. H. Sandercock, Baby Band superintendent for the past 21 years, was in charge of the program, assisted by Mrs. Laurie Hope and Mrs. Marcus Lonsberry.

The following numbers were presented : piano solo, Carolyn McKee; a recitation, Linda Lonsberry; a piano solo, Eleanor Sandercock; a vocal duet by Audrey and Eugene Hope, "Mocking Bird Hill."

Following the program everyone went out on the lawn where a card of sports were run off including games, races and peanut scramble.

Lunch was served, followed by treats of ice cream for the kiddies.

Springville News

Mrs. E. Kelk and daughters, Mrs. Condon and Mrs. Cook, have returned after a motor trip to Wasaga Beach and points northwest.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Mann and daughter Doris of Detroit are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bothwell.

Mr. and Mrs. Fiokstra and family were recent guests of Whitevale.

Mr. and Mrs. Melville Johnston and Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Johnston went to Brantford over the week-end to visit Mrs. M. H. Johnston's sister, whose only son drowned in Lake Ontaorio.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stevens visited Mrs. Stevens' father, the Rev. A. Dudgeon, in Toronto on Sunday.

WMS Receive Tokyo Letters

ROSENEATH, July 11 (ENS)— An interesting letter from Miss Luella Rorke, a former Roseneath girl, now a United Church missionary in Tokyo, was read by Mrs. A. Nill at the July meeting of the WMS of Roseneath United Church.

Miss Rorke told of her work among the Japanese in the city of Tokyo.

Many WMS members remembered Miss Rorke as a girl when her father was the Methodist minister on the Roseneath circuit at least 30 years ago.

Another interesting letter was also read from Miss Mary Haig, in Tokyo. Miss Haig went to Japanas a missionary from the Cobourg district. This letter was read by Mrs. Fred G. Lewis.

The meeting was held on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. A. Nichol. The president, Mrs. J. N. Lovelace presided with Mrs. C. W. Varcoe as pianist. Mrs. R. C. White assisted Mrs. Lovelace with the worship service.

The financial statement presented by Mrs. J. A. Nichol showed $37 had been sent to the Presbyterial treasurer for the second quarter.

The Community Friendship report with Mrs. George Mouncey, secretary, reported 21 cards, four parcels and four calls by the members during the past month.

A number of articles were handed in by the members for the bazaar to be held in the fall.

Reports of the Sectional Rally at Coldsprings in June were given by Mrs. R. C. White and Mrs. Wilbert Smith.

Miss Rosemary Morrell, Bowmanville, played several piano numbers.

Lunch was served by the hostess.

Pioneer Scotsman Gardener At 96

REGINA, Sask. (CP).—Donald Stewart is still going strong at 96.

When he spaded his lot and put in his potatoes this spring, he began his 81st gardening year.

He started his gardening career as a 16-year-old boy on the estate of Lady Ashburton at Garve, Ross-shire, Scotland.

Since then he's spent most of his life close to the soil. He came to Canada in 1862, working for the Hudson's Bay Company as a transport driver. During the Riel Rebellion of 1885 he shipped supplies for the Canadian army by horse and ox team.

After that he homesteaded south of Qu'Appelle, Sask., until 1935 when he moved to Regina. Mrs. Stewart died in 1937.

Mr. Stewart gets his greatest pleasure recalling those early days when Regina was still called "Pile O'Bones" and he followed the telegraph line north over unbroken prairie.

"My, when I think of those days" he exclaims.

Aided Canadians Ben Revell Dies

CROWDON, Surrey, England.— (CP) — Ben Revell, known to thousands of Canadian ex-servicemen as host of the George IV hotel here, has died in hospital aged 70.

During the Second World War Revell's Hotel became the social headquarters of Canadian troops stationed at Croydon, Caterham and Warlingham. After the war, he received scores of letters from men in such cities as Montreal, Ottawa, Winnipeg and Vancouver thanking him for his kindness and hospitality.

Keenly interested in greyhound racing and in the sport known as coursing, Revell once owned Swashbuckler, a famous dog that won top events at London's White City and Wembley tracks. He introduced greyhound racing in Paris and for a time managed the first stadium there.

An expert pigeon breeder, he loaned some of his birds to the RCAF to carry messages. He bought gymnasium equipment and boxing gloves for a number of Canadian Army boxers, including Tommy Falls of Toronto and Jean Levere of Montreal.

Say Alcohol Poisoning Kills 2 Men

Army Officials Say 3 Quarts Stolen From RCEME Supplies

KINGSTON, July 12. (CP)—Police and medical authorities said today that two men died here Tuesday from methyl-alcohol poisoning. Police said John Joseph Leeman, 47, of the Royal Canadian Engineers at nearby Barriefield, and his father-in-law, Thomas Whitehead, 58, of Kingston, both died after drinking methyl-alcohol taken from an army paint shop at Barriefield.

Leeman had been attached to the RCEME school for the last year as a painter in the training aid section.

Leeman was admitted to hospital early Tuesday after complaining to his wife that he was ill. He died a few hours later without telling medical officers what he had been drinking.

Three Quarts Stolen

At least three one-quart cans of alcohol used for thinning paint were stolen, police said.

Dr. J. E. Kaine, Kingston coroner, said today that an autopsy performed on Whitehead showed death was due to alcoholic poisoning.

Army medical authorities said the same of Leeman's death, adding that he would have had a good chance of survival had he told them he had been drinking alcohol.

Police are awaiting the decision of the crown as to whether an inquest will be held. The army, meanwhile, has launched a court of inquiry, second in a week, to determine circumstances leading up to Leeman's death.

Earlier in the week, the army began in investigation into the death of Craftsman J. W. Johnson, RCEME soldier from Hamilton, who died last week after being found unconscious early July 4 near railway freight sheds here.

Two Canadians Mentioned In Despatches

Pair Risk Lives In Minefield To Carry Out Badly Wounded Koreans

OTTAWA, July 12 —(CP)— Two Canadian soldiers—one of Japanese ancestry — were awarded mentions in despatches today for risking their lives to save six Korean refugees who wandered into a mine-field in their trek back home.

They are Sgt. Frank Henry William Taylor, 30, of 5735-2nd Ave., Rosemount, Montreal, and Pte. Masao Kawanami, 26, of Vancouver and Toronto.

The army said their awards are the first mentions in despatches given to Canadian soldiers for service under United Nations command in Korea. Earlier one officer won the Military Cross and two other ranks won the Military Medal.

Sgt. Taylor is a member of the Army Medical Corps attached to the 2nd Battalion of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry and is in charge of sanitation and hygiene for the unit. A native of Winnipeg, he served overseas in the last war and re-enlisted last summer.

Pte. Kawanami is an interpreter and rifleman with the Patricias. He is of Japanese extraction and his next-of-kin is Albert Tobias of Aldershot, Ont.

Wander In Minefield

On June 5, near Kungchong, a group of Koreans were returning home through the ripening grain, heading back to the homes they'd been forced to leave. They wandered into a minefield and when Sgt. Taylor was called to the scene he found six of them lying on the ground, wounded by exploding mines.

Kawanami, then acting as an interpreter with a group of Korean porters, joined Taylor and they stepped gingerly into the minefield, never knowing when they might be blown up themselves. They went in and out six times, each time carrying a bleeding body, then gave what first aid they could before evacuating the Koreans to medical attention.

Two of the six died. The others lived, thanks mainly to the two soldiers.

Accept UN Convoy Or No Conference Ruling By Ridgway

MUNSAN, Korea, July 12.—(AP)—Korean cease-fire negotiations were broken off today on the issue of United Nations press representation at Kaesong, site of the conferences. There was no indication when talks would be resumed. Sessions scheduled for today were cancelled after Communist guards refused to let a truck load of 20 newspapermen pass a check-point with a UN convoy.

TOKYO (Friday) — (AP). —The Chinese Red radio in Peiping today confirmed the suspension of cease-fire talks in Korea, and said there was no indication United Nations representatives would continue the negotiations.

Vice-Admiral C. Turner Joy, chief UN delegate, said there would be no more cease-fire talk until the Reds agreed that "my convoy, bearing the personnel of my choosing, including such press representations as I consider necessary, will be cleared to the conference site."

Joy ordered the entire 17-vehicle convoy to turn back from the Red check-point.

The UN commander, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgeway, said it was "all or nothing."

The five allied armistice negotiators did not leave Munsan Thursday for their scheduled sessions in Red-occupied Kaesong, 12 miles away.

They won't return, Joy announced, until the Reds permit the UN party, as selected by UN representatives, to proceed intact.

Joy so informed North Korean Gen. Nam Il, head of the Communist cease-fire delegation, in a strongly-worded dispatch sent to Kaesong by helicopter.

Considered Right

Gen. Ridgway informed the Communists Wednesday that the "presence of a selected number of newsmen at a conference of such major importance is considered an inherent right by members of the United Nations."

Norwood Man Knocked Down By Tourist Car

Percy Kempt, 64, Norwood, was knocked down by a Nova Scotia car passing through the village, and he was admitted to Civic Hospital shortly before 2 p.m. today.

At press time he had not been X-rayed and was being examined in the emergency ward. His injuries are not considered serious.

Kempt, who has a harness and boot and shoe shop on Colborne Street, was crossing Peterborough Street, 123 feet west of the intersection. He had just walked across the middle of the road when he collided with the westbound car driven by Francis J. Mossam, Lunenburg, NS.

Knocked Unconscious

The driver applied the brakes and skidded sideways. The right rear fender and side door handle struck Kempt and spun him sideways. He was temporarily knocked unconscious, but recovered before he was taken to Peterborough by ambulance.

The accident was just west of Gordon Rothewell's barber shop in the main business block. Kempt was walking from the south to the north side of Peterborough Street, the continuation of Highway 7 in the village.

The only eye-witness was John Bull, a truck driver from Campbellford.

Constable William Parcels and OPP Constable Russell Pollard are investigating. No charges are likely to be laid.

Firemen Patrol City Waterfront

VANCOUVER, July 12 (CP)—Potential disaster by the thousands of gallons slicked the Vancouver waterfront again early today.

A barge tilted twice Wednesday and spilled some 50,000 gallons of gasoline onto the water.

The North Vancouver fire department said an attempt would be made to beach the barge, owned by the Home Oil Company.

A spark could touch off a major blaze. Firemen patrolled the waterfront throughout the night. Police barred the public from the danger area.

Vancouver's new fireboat stood by. City council rushed through an emergency resolution Wednesday allowing the vessel to operate outside city limits.

All ships in the harbor have been warned of the danger of crew members throwing lighted matches or cigarettes into the water. Industrial plants were warned, too, and one lumber mill shut down.

Queuille Refuses To Take Job Again

PARIS, July 12 —(AP)—President Vincent Auriol's office announced today that Premier Henri Queuille has refused to succeed himself for reasons of health.

He resigned Tuesday as a part of the formality of organizing a new government in the wake of the June 17 elections. Queuille had been premier four months. He is a member of the middle-of-the-road radical Socialist party and led a coalition of centre parties in the government.

It was expected that Auriol would ask finance minister Maurice Petsche to take over.

Experts predict hard going for Petsche, a right winger without party affiliations.

Flood Damage $85 Million As Kansas Areas Hard Hit

TOPEKA, Kas., July 12. (AP)—Flood waters poured over eastern and central Kansas in the greatest torrent in the state's history today and lapped over into parts of Missouri leaving seven dead and five to eight missing. At least five persons were dead in Kansas, and two in Missouri. Two more were killed by lightning at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., which was not affected by floods. Army engineers estimated damage from the floods totalled at least $85,000,000. It likely would go higher. The Kansas River valley was hardest hit.

Many of the state's major cities were deep under the waters of the swollen river, including the North Topeka and Oakland sections of Topeka, the state capital; the northern portion of Lawrence, home of Kansas University; Manhattan, Abilene, and parts of the Argentine section of Kansas City, Kansas.

Hundreds of residents of North Topeka who ignored evacuation orders Wednesday were trapped by water that poured through two levee breaks.

Thirty-eight persons died in a similar flood at Topeka in 1903.

Surface travel in eastern Kansas was virtually halted today except for short highway spans on hilltops.

Trains were stranded. Motorists were marooned. The armed forces and Red Cross joined volunteers in aiding evacuees and patrolling dikes.

Parachute Boats

Boats were flown to some flooded areas and dropped by parachute.

The majority of 10,000 residents of North Topeka, across the river from this state capital, evacuated the area.

Breaks in dikes sent flood waters of the Kansas river pouring into North Topeka today. Water was knee-high in the business district and deeper in some areas close to the river.

The river is expected to reach its highest level in history—33 feet—at Topeka tonight. North Topeka merchants sandbagged stores and carried stocks to second floors before fleeing.

Flooding already has inundated large sections of many towns. Ottawa, Council Grove, Manhattan, Marion, Strong City and Florence are among the hardest hit.

Water 16 Feet Deep

This was the picture in just one small town—Marion:

Muddy waters 16 feet deep flowed over 15 blocks of main street. The town's water supply was cut off. Windows in virtually every building in the business district were shattered.

Fear 7 Killed In Plant Blast

INDIANAPOLIS, July 12 (AP) —Seven men are believed to have died in an explosion today in the General Motors Corp. jet-engine plant just west of Indianapolis.

Maj. Harold E. Wilber, air force public information officer, said eight men were working in the small concrete block building where the building occurred shortly before daybreak.

One man was blown from the building and survived the blast, although he suffered severe burns.

The explosion was in a jet engine testing cell for the General Motors' Allison division.

A detachment of military police was sent to the plant, which sprawls over several acres five miles west of Indianapolis.

The explosion tore the roof from the concrete testing cell. Huge blocks of concrete were hurled several hundred feet and scattered over a nearby parking lot.

Actress Carol Bruce Charged In Crash

LEHIGHTON, Pa., July 12 (AP) Actress Carol Bruce was charged today with involuntary manslaughter in the death of a truck driver in a highway crash.

Miss Bruce, who gave her age as 31, was freed in $1,000 bail.

Miss Bruce's car was involved in a collision Wednesday with a coal truck. The driver, Sherwood Fehnel, 23, of Nazareth, Pa., was crushed to death.

The car Miss Bruce was driving was damaged but she and a companion, actress Sylvia Karlton, escaped with minor injuries.

28 Killed In Crash

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, July 12—(AP)—Paulista Air Lines announced that one of its passenger planes crashed near Aracaju in bad weather today, killing all 28 persons aboard.

Meridional news agency said the dead included Governor Dix-Sept Rosado of the State of Rio Grande Do Norte and four high officials.

The plane was en route from Maceio in Alagaos state to Rio de Janeiro. All the victims were believed to be Brazilians.

New Zealand Election Held Before September 8

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, July 12 — (Reuters) —Parliament will be dissolved Friday and the a general election between Aug. 25 and Sept. 8, Prime Minister Sidney Holland announced today.

The election is regarded as a means of testing public opinion on the government's handling of the dock strike for the last five months.

Holland said the exact election date could not be determined until electoral rolls were amended and printed.

The present government took office in December, 1949, and could continue without an election until 1952 if it chose.

The Nationalists now hold 46 seats and Labor 34 in the House of Representatives, New Zealand's Lower House.

Since the dock strike in February the government has been criticized for repressive acts to combat it. Holland said he believed the government had done its duty to the country in a time of crisis.

The strike, now nearly over, was called to support wage increase demands from 60 cents to 85 cents an hour.

Wednesday union leaders urged stevedores to go back to work and seamen, cooks and stewards, who had walked out in sympathy wer on the job today.

Holland said the opposition allegations of Fascism, dictatorship, prying and telephone tapping were unproved.

If they could be proved, it would mean his government was unfit to govern.

He said he wanted a clear mandate from the country at the earliest possible time.

Strike May Shut Big Gold Mine

TIMMINS, July 12 (CP)—The strike of 1,600 workers at Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines may force closing of the neighboring McIntyre-Porcupine Gold Mines within a few days.

McIntyre officials said Wednesday night they had only two days' supply of backfill sand, used to replace rock removed in mining operations. The Hollinger strike which started Tuesday closed down the aerial tramway carrying sand to McIntyre.

Hollinger workers walked out to enforce demands for a pay raise of 17 cents an hour and a union dues check-off recommended by a conciliation board. The strike also put 500 office and managerial employees temporarily out of work.

McIntyre workers, represented by the same union, the United Steelworkers of America (CIO), are awaiting a conciliator's report on wage disputes with their company.

Anti-Sub Frigates Get Atomic Protection

LONDON, July 12 (Reuters)—First of a new group of fast British anti-submarine frigates, specially protected against atomic radiation will be ready for trials within a week, it was authoritatively learned today.

Officially described as being able to deal with any submarine which a potential enemy is likely to be able to put to sea for many years, the new frigates are redesigned and streamlined for atomic warfare.

The first to be ready for trial will be the converted destroyer "Relentless."

Design of the ship has been modified to present a smaller silhouette. Superstructure has been cut to a minimum.

The ship is controlled from an operations room with the aid of a wide-range periscope. In addition, most of the men will be protected from radiation effects.

Announce Jap Treaty Terms

WASHINGTON, July 12. (AP)—The United States and Britain as co-sponsors formally unveiled today a "peace of reconciliation" with Japan they expect to be signed by some 50 nations. Ambassador John Foster Dulles, in charge of negotiations for the US, said it still was hoped Russia would join in the settlement. But he gave notice the other countries otherwise will make peace without Moscow. The treaty, which Dulles termed "unique" in history, is due to be signed at San Francisco the week of Sept. 3. It strips Japan of its pre-World War Two overseas holdings, but permits the Japanese to rearm and in other major respects restores the defeated empire to the status of a sovereign equal in the free world.

The signing is to be followed by a US-Japanese pact permitting the US to retain troops and military bases in and near Japan, pending the future creation of a system of collective security for the Pacific. A three-way security pact among the US, Australia and New Zealand and a separate commercial treaty between the US and Japan are parts of the general settlement.

Generally Acceptable

Dulles predicted the draft will be "generally acceptable to the 50-odd nations at war with Japan."

"No one will be 100 per cent satisfied but almost everyone should be about 95 per cent satisfied," he said in a statement.

Dulles listed as unique the direct negotiations by which the terms were worked out without a general peace conference, the restoration of a free Japan without any attempt to impose permanent restrictions, and the principle of collective security under the United Nations. By this arrangement, he said, "there will be a combination of US and future Japanese forces, and perhaps others, so that it would be materially impossible for Japan to wage a war of revenge."

When the treaty comes into force, perhaps early next year, American occupation payments by Japan of $300,000,000 to $400,000,000 a year will cease. Dulles told reporters it depends largely on Korean developments whether the

Crisis Deepens in Egypt After British Ship Boarded

CAIRO, Egypt, July 12. (Repters) — Squads of steel-helmeted police stood guard today over the British Embassy and Consulates in Cairo, Alexandria and Port Said. A state of emergency declared Wednesday — anniversary of the British bombardment of Alexandria in 1882 — was extended throughout today.

Anti-British demonstrations were banned. Guards were mounted on the Egyptian Broadcasting House and at other key points in the main cities.

The anniversary passed off quietly except for a token transport stoppage Wednesday.

But today the atmosphere was electric after Britain's protest over the boarding by an Egyptian armed party of the British ship Empire Roach.

Demand Damages

(Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison said in the House of Commons Wednesday that Britain will demand substantial damages from Egypt for halting the vessel in the Red Sea July 1.)

Egypt explained that a warship was ordered to halt the British vessel because she was in Egyptian waters.

Egyptian shore batteries had orders to fire on her at sight, Egyptian War Minister Mustafa Nosrat Pasha stated.

"The ship must consider herself fortunate on being stopped in time," he added.

Pacific Pact Now Accepted

WASHINGTON, July 12 (AP) The State Department announced today the United States, Australia and New Zealand have agreed on terms of a mutual-defence pact in the Pacific.

A formal ceremony to record the three-way agreement was arranged for 4 p.m. EDT. Ambassador John Foster Dulles, representing the United States, Australian Ambassador Percy Spender and New Zealand Ambassador Sir Carl Berendsen will attend.

The text is to be made public soon afterward.

The security alliance is part of the general Second World War settlement in the Pacific sponsored by the United States and Britain.

Iran To Ask Loan From US

TEHRAN, July 12 (AP).—Iran, hard-pressed financially because of her dispute with Britain over the vast Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, moved today to obtain a $25,000,000 loan from the United States Export-Import Bank.

Premier Mohammed Mossadegh introduced a bill in the Majlis (parliament) urging ratification of the loan, which was first discussed last September. At that time, Iranian officials and newspapers complained that the $25,000,000 was insufficient and far below economic assistance given other Communist-menaced nations.

Mossadegh's government now is living on a hand-to-mouth budget because its oil royalties from the billion dollar Anglo-Iranian Company stopped several weeks ago, when it passed the bylaw to nationalize the oil industry.

Mossadegh also said if Britain takes the oil dispute to the United Nations "Iran will retaliate by producing documents seized from the former oil company which prove British interference in Iranian internal affairs."

The British ambassador, Sir Francis Shepherd, said, however there is "not much point in Harriman coming to Tehran since the Iranians have already rejected the President's advice to accept the recommendations of the International Court."

Abbey Burglar Alarm

LONDON, July 12 (Reuters)—A complicated burglar alarm system is being built in Westminster Abbey to protect the Scone coronation stone, Abbey officials said today. The stone was removed by Scottish patriots who broke into the Abbey Christmas Day and was not recovered until April. It is still being kept in hiding.

Heat Wave In BC

VANCOUVER, July 12.—(CP)—Vancouver sweltered Wednesday through what may have been the hottest day in its history, but nobody can say so officially. The temperature reached 85 degrees at 5:30 p.m. on the official weather bureau thermometer at outlying International Airport. Official temperatures haven't been taken inside the city since 1937.

Russia, Satellites Not In Petawawa Visti

OTTAWA, July 12 (CP).—Russia and her satellites were conspicuous by their absence today as a group of foreign military attaches stationed here started off on a visit to camp Petawawa, 125 miles west of Ottawa.

Yugoslavia's military attache, Col. Janko Susnjar was among the 12 invited along on the two-day visit to the big training base. But Russia, Czechoslovakia and Poland weren't represented.

Army officials said the Czechs and Poles were invited to send representatives from their legations here but didn't do so. The Russians weren't invited.

The ban against the Russians on such trips is retaliation for Moscow's refusal to allow western attaches to visit Russian military installations.

Negro Forced Give Up Apt. By Angry Mob of 3,000

CHICAGO, July 12 (AP)—Police remained on duty all night near an apartment building in suburban Cicero after a disturbance Wednesday night as a negro family prepared to occupy one apartment.

But the negro who rented the apartment told Cicero police he would not move his family into the apartment. His message was broadcast by police to a crowd of about 3,000 which milled around the area of the three-storey building.

Policeman Robert Canek, 25, was injured Wednesday night when hit by a brick. Windows in several apartments were broken. Vandals entered the apartment rented by the negro family and destroyed some furniture and tossed it out of windows. Later vandals burned the furniture.

Police later used tear gas to halt a group of about 100 from entering the building. Firemen were called to extinguish a blaze started in a vacant lot near the 20-apartment building. About 60 policemen were at the scene.

Harvey E. Clark, Jr., 29, a bus driver for the Chicago Transit Authority, had moved in furniture earlier this week. But he and his wife and two small children left the building Wednesday. Other families also remained away from their apartments last night.

No negroes live in Cicero, a community of 70,000.

Clark has filed a $200,000 federal court suit charging Cicero police with mandhandling him when he first tried to move into the $60 a month apartment.

Quads Born To UK Woman

BOLTON, England, July 12. — (Reuters)—Britain's latest quads, three boys and a girl born within 12 minutes Wednesday night were making good progress today in special new-type oxygen incubators.

Hospital authorities said the mother, Mrs. Hilda Wilkins, 36, of Little Lever, and the four babies, born three months prematurely, were "in a satisfactory condition."

Peter weighs three pounds, James three pounds 10 ounces, David three pounds 11 ounces and Ann three pounds nine.

They have two sisters aged 12 and eight. Twins born to Mrs. Wilkins some years ago both died.

The quads are the second to be born in Britain this year but one of those born to Mrs. Rita Prior, of Wolverhampton, did not survive.

Fire Cuts Power 3 Hours In Toronto

TORONTO, July 12 (CP)—Most of residential Toronto lacked power for three hours Wednesday when fire caused by a short circuit knocked the city's largest hydro sub-station out of commission.

Hydro officials said damp wires at the MacPherson Avenue station short-circuited and set fire to transformers in the building. Repairmen stood by for almost an hour until smoke cleared from the damaged equipment.

The break, the second in 24 hours, affected city traffic lights and caused record traffic jams during the five o'clock rush hour

Parish Row Nearing Settlement

Ousted Rector Ready Leave Peacefully If Conditions Met

TORONTO, July 12. (CP)—A six-month dispute that has rocked a strife-ridden Toronto Anglican parish appeared near settlement today with the resumption of negotiations.

The Rev. Henry W. Garbutt, ousted as rector of St. Barnabas Church for infractions of Anglican canon laws, said Wednesday night he is willing to leave peacefully—provided Bishop A. R. Beverley, of Toronto, meets certain terms.

Bishop Beverley removed the 49-year-old clergyman from his post last Monday on the advice of a diocese commission on differences. The commission recommended Mr. Garbutt's dismissal as the only means of restoring peace.

Following the dismissal order, Mr. Garbutt charged that the commission "pre-judged" him. On successive days he stated he was going to "stand by my parish whatever happens"; seek a position with a United States Episcopal church; take his case to a higher church authority.

Certain Conditions

Then Wednesday night following a three-hour meeting with his lawyer, R. J. Wilson, Mr. Garbutt said he was willing to give up his rectorship if certain conditions were met.

He asked for a "general demit" from Toronto diocese declaring that he leaves as a priest in good standing in the Church of England in Canada.

In addition he sought settlement for the money he spent on his church apartment—one report was $15,000—and permission to remain in his apartment until Oct. 1. He said he wanted an allowance for four months' holidays he didn't take during his term of office and three months' salary in lieu of notice.

He also asked return of his pension contributions and of papers he furnished the diocese several years ago on his return from the diocese of Nigeria in Africa.

Chancellor R. M. Soward, of Toronto diocese, is to meet with Mr. Garbutt and his lawyer tonight to discuss the terms. So far, the Chancellor has agreed to the demit and is reported ready to grant the pension request. He has declined comment on the other conditions.

Base Metals Advance Over Broad Front

TORONTO, July 12 (CP). — Base metals advanced over a broad front in an otherwise fairly mixed stock market today. Trading was again extremely quiet.

Consolidated Smelters was an extraordinary standout in base metals as it jumped $4.50 to $150.-25. Hudson Bay was up 1⅛ and Noranda, Waite Amulet, United Keno Hill, Steep Rock, Sherritt Gordon, Quemont, Golden Manitou, Labrador and East Sullivan added fractions.

Industrials held about even with price changes mostly in small fractions. Papers, steels, utilities, agricultures, foods, and refining oils showed a majority of gains in the groupings. Liquors weakened and the rest of the board was mixed.

Western oils were fairly mixed but the majority of issues were in the plus column. Golds attracted little attention.

"TODAY" FOLLOWS "YESTERDAY"—This automatic hay baler, one of the most advanced farm machines, is usually pulled by an equally modern tractor. But on this farm, near New Holland, Pa., four mules provide the 'horsepower." In most parts of the country, mules and horses are rapidly disappearing from the farm scene, but Amish farmers still cling to traditional draught animals. This farmer added a wagon hitch, seat and handbrake and substituted steel wheels for rubber tires to convert the baler into a mule-drawn machine.

Hear Protests About Treaty

PARIS, July 12 —(Reuters)—French ambassadors in London and Washington have instructions to express France's "strong objections" to the Japanese treaty draft, a French foreign office spokesman stated here today.

The objections, he said were:

1. The associate Indo-Chinese states of Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos should participate in the signature of the treaty because they suffered heavily from the Japanese occupation.

2. France objected to certain economic clauses in the treaty draft.

3. Objections in the wording of the draft. These objections were purely on phrasing, the spokesman said.

Other Worries

In Canberra External Affairs Minister Richard Casey declared that although the "seed" of democracy has been sown in Japan the security clauses of the proposed Japanese treaty are causing Australia considerable anxiety.

Casey added that because the memory of the last war is too clear to ignore the possibility of a revival of Japanese agrgession "if not in the near future at least within the coming generation,' Australia's first preoccupation must be for security.

"Nevertheless, we cannot look to indefinite occupation of Japan, nor can we leave Japan entirely defenceless," Casey asserted.

Flood Damage

Cows and pigs floated down the streets, occasionally bumping against boats, merchandise and tree limbs.

Marion County Sheriff Jim Kline said the damage was "tremendous," then added:

"Figure the number of stores and houses in a town of 2,300 and figure them all wiped out, and you've got it."

In addition to damages suffered by towns, farmers have lost millions of dollars in crops and the use of rich bottomland for the remainder of the growing season. The wet weather has bogged down the wheat harvest.

Deaths occurred at Ellsworth, Emporia and Manhattan.

A car plunged into a flooded creek at Ellsworth, drowning three San Diego, Calif., tourists.

At Emporia, a man drowned when his boat overturned as he was leaving work. Another man died of a heart attack in a flooded area at Manhattan.

Report Fund Needed For Fire Victims

CAP CHAT, Que., July 12 (CP)—Mayor Gerard Cote said today "funds are lacking" for the relief of some 300 persons left homeless by fire that swept this Gaspe peninsula town July 5.

Fire destroyed more than 40 homes built in the west side of this fishing and lumbering village.

The mayor said the homeless are living with relatives and friends but cannot do so indefinitely.

Population of Cap Chat is about 2,500.

2 Killed In Storm

FORT LEONARD WOOD, Mo., July 12 (AP)—Two soldiers were killed and 10 others sent to hospital by a lightning storm at Fort Leonard Wood. The accidents occurred in two separate sections of the training area at the fort. At one spot, a bolt of lightning resulted in the two deaths and injured eight others, and at another spot two men were injured when lightning struck a shack in which they had sought refuge.

At that time he said flatly they would be "an integral part of the United Nations command delegation to any and all future sessions beginning 12 July."

Thursday morning the Communists replied that they would like to have press representatives — but not yet. The convoy, including correspondents, already was on its way.

When Red armed guards insisted, politely but firmly, on cutting the newspapermen out of the convoy, all vehicles were ordered back.

The general impression here was that the break was temporary.

The opinion among many military men and some correspondents was that the whole situation was the result of a Communist misunderstanding, although delegates have been arguing over press representation since talks started Tuesday.

Sends Message

Admiral Joy's message to Gen. Nam, dispatched immediately after the convoy returned, read:

"To: General Nam Il, North Korean Army.

"1. At 0930 12 July 1951 (7:30 p.m. EDT Wednesday) my motor convoy, proceeding along the Munsan-Kaesong road, bearing personnel desired by me at the conference site, was refused passage to pass your control post by your armed guards.

"2. I have ordered this convoy to return to the United Nations lines.

"3. I am prepared to return with my delegation and continue the discussions which were recessed yesterday upon notification from you that my convoy, bearing the personnel of my choosing, including such press representation as I consider necessary, will be cleared to the conference site."

Hold Conference

Gen. Ridgway, Admiral Joy and Lt.-Gen. Sir Horace Robertson, commander of British Commonwealth troops in Korea, spent three hours in conference after the convoy was halted. Their meeting ended 30 minutes after the helicopter returned from delivering Joy's message to General Nam.

There was no explanation of Robertson's presence.

Thursday's developments brought to a head a request originally made by Admiral Joy Tuesday that 20 Allied press representatives be allowed in Kaesong but not in the conference room itself.

An army announcement said Gen. Nam at first accepted this but later reversed himself on instuctions from the top Red command.

Wednesday Joy raised the issue three times. In his first statement he said the UN command must "insist that newsmen be admitted to the area of conference without further delay."

Not Desirable

The UN announcement said Gen. Nam "did not consider the presence of newsmen desirable at this time" with sessions being held under war conditions and the agenda still uncompleted.

The second time Nam said, "I don't mean to say I refuse....but for the time being the matter must be reserved."

Then, near the end of the session, Admiral Joy read Ridgway's statement announcing that 20 press representatives would become "an integral part of the United Nations command delegation" starting Thursday.

Joy said if the Communists still objected, they should let him know by 7.30 Thursday morning "on what date it will be possible to resume the conference with newsmen present at the conference site."

At 7.30 am Col. J. C. Murray flew by helicopter to the Red check-point between Munsan and Kaesong. There a North Korean captain gave him the Red reply:

"We are in favor of having newsmen from both sides in Kaesong at the opportune time.

"When agreement is reached on our negotiations we shall welcome newsmen. . . We wish that we can state a definite date. . . but this depends on the efforts made by both sides during the conference."

Col. Murray replied that the convoy, including 20 correspondents, already was on the road "on the assumption that you would not allow the conference to be delayed over the issue of admitting 20 newsmen to the conference area. . . If you refuse the convoy permission to proceed, the officer in charge has been directed to return to our lines."

Gen. Ridgway himself had sent the correspondents on the way. He semed confident there would be no hitch.

But the convoy was stopped as it pulled into the Red outpost nine miles from Kaesong.

Armed Chinese and North Korean guards told Capt. Henry McAllister of Hambung, NY, convoy commander, that a truck-load of correspondents and photographers could not pass. The rest of the convoy could go ahead.

McAllister reported immediately to peace camp at Munsan.

The reply came promptly over a jeep radio:

"Tell them all or nothing."

Eight Killed In Air Crash

PARIS, July 12 — (Reuters) — Eight people were burned to death today in an air crash at Gao airfield, Dakar, an Agence France-Presse dispatch from Dakar reported.

The report said the plane, a French military Dakota transport, crashed and caught fire soon after taking off. It was on its way to France.

There were 17 persons aboard. The nine survivors were taken to hospital severely injured.

See Naked Man As Attacker

SOUTHAMPTON, July 12 (CP) A naked man who was given a suspended sentence last week for one appearance in the nude is being sought as the unclothed attacker of a 13-year-old girl here Tuesday.

Police of this village 20 miles west of Owen Sound swore out a warrant for Albert Lenoir, 27, Montreal-born northern Ontario bush worker, who was freed in police court at Owen Sound last Saturday for parading nude at Meaford June 29. He is said to use four aliases — Lenard, Lenoir, Lennox and Stewart.

Last Sunday a naked man was seen in the Allenford district near here and on Tuesday the young girl was molested near a summer cottage here. When she kicked at her attacker he ran for the bush.

A well-tanned nude man was later reported near a girls' camp at nearby Miramichi Bay and irate residents organized searches for him.

Colorful RAF Pilot Gets New Command

OTTAWA, July 12 — (CP) — Wing Cmdr. Percival Stanley Turner, DSO, DFC, 38, a colorful RAF pilot of the Second World War, will take over the RCAF's operational training unit at Chatham, NB, shortly, it was learned today.

He will succeed Wing Cmdr. E. B. Hale, DFC, 37, of Hamilton, who has commanded the Chatham station since April, 1949, and now goes to England in connection with the projected establishment of RCAF fighter squadrons in Europe.

Wing Cmdr. Turner was in the battle of Britain with the RAF "all-Canadian" squadron 242 and in various theatres throughout the Second World War. He was credited with shooting down 14 enemy planes, three of them in one day over Dunkirk. A native of Devon, Eng., he attended Toronto schools and the University of Toronto. He transferred to the RCAF in July, 1946, and since 1947, he has commanded the RCAF tactical wing at Rivers, Man.

Likely Appoint Neutral Supervise Truce

UNITED NATIONS, NY, July 12 (AP). — Appointment of a widely-known neutral, possibly from Sweden, as United Nations representative to supervise a cease-fire in Korea is being considered by some top UN delegates and Secretary-General Trygve Lie. No individual is being mentioned at this time, it was said authoritatively, but the possibility of asking a Swede to take this ticklish job is being studied. Sweden has recognized Communist China and is one of the few countries maintaining a ranking envoy there.

The Swedes have a tradition of neutrality. The feeling in the UN is that a Swede would be acceptable to both sides.

Persons discussing the cease-fire representative also mentioned that an Indian might be considered.

Should Be Civilian

The UN representative, they continued, should be a civilian, with powers to recruit as many military men as needed from both sides to supervise the cease-fire. His sole job would be to make certain that the terms of the armistice are being obeyed. He would tour Korea to check on the cease-fire and make reports to the UN.

Any report on a cease-fire likely will be made to the security council through the unified command, which is the United States government.

The feeling here is that the affair will wind up in the general assembly, with the 60-country political committee given the responsibility of talking over the next move and hammering out a decision.

No one here professes to see any solution that will unify Korea at this time. All that some delegates can predict is that the UN will have to support the republic of Korea in the south and the Communists will continue to back the Moscow-supported North Korean regime.

Dollar Unchanged

MONTREAL, July 12 — (CP) —The American dollar today opened at 5 31/32 per cent premium to the Canadian dollar, unchanged from Wednesday's close. That is, it took $1.05 31/32 Canadian to buy $1 American.

The pound sterling was $2.96-11/16, also unchanged.

Seaway Group Has Bitter Row Over Plan

WASHINGTON, July 12—(AP)—The House of Representatives public works committee engaged in a bitter, inconclusive row today over legislation to authorize the St. Lawrence Seaway and power project.

Rep. Tom Pickett (Dem. Tex.), an opponent of the project, angrily told reporters after the tumultuous, closed-door session that Chairman Charles A. Buckley (Dem.-NY)—who favors the legislation—had pursued "dilatory tactics."

The committee, meeting for the second straight day on the Seaway proposal, again failed to vote on the legislation.

Have More Meetings

Picket added:

"I am going to do everything in my power to force continued meetings of the committee until this matter is disposed of and, in keeping with my opposition to it, I'll do everything to kill it."

Buckley declined to discuss the committee session.

Pickett, still seething, said Rep. George Dondero (Rep. Mich.), a supporter of the bill, remarked to reporters as he left the committee room:

"We're all mad."

Concerning Wednesday's initial meeting Buckley announced only that the committee agreed to restrict itself to consideration of two of eight seaway bills. These bills, inroduced by Representatives George Dondero (Rep. Mich.) and John Blatnik (Dem. Minn.)—both committee members—are vitually identical except for minor details.

However, it was learned from other members of the committee who cannot be named that it had held at least two roll call votes on motions.

Refuse Postponement

One motion, made by proponents and defeated by a vote of 15 to 12, called for the committee to postpone further consideration of the legislation for the time being.

The other, defeated by a similar margin, and made by opponents, proposed that the legislation be tabled. This motion, had it been accepted by a majority of the committee, would have had the effect of killing the proposal for this session of Congress.

Seaway proponents held the view that could consideration have been delayed—as proposed in the first motion—an opportunity might have presented itself to replace with seaway supporters possibly two anti-seaway members who are reported ready to resign to accept other committee assignments.

Blatnik, commenting to a reporter on Wednesday's action, said he had "never seen such jockeying."

"It would be amusing," he said, "if the seaway weren't such an important matter. This (seaway) proposition is so vital I don't think it should be decided in committee. The whole House should be given an opportunity to decide."

University Grants Given Before Dec. 25

OTTAWA, July 12 (CP)—The government hopes to distribute before Christmas the bulk of the $7,100,000 federal university grant approved at the recent session of parliament.

This was the word given Wednesday by federal authorities to a delegation of university officials who came to Ottawa to discuss distribution of the grant, which implemented recommendations of the Massey Royal Commission.

7 Cruisers Burned

HAMILTON, July 12 (CP) — Seven expensive cabin-cruisers were destroyed in a fire which gutted a section of Kerr's boat house here Wednesday night. The fire took more than three hours to extinguish. Damage was estimated at $50,000.

Bill The Bishop Recalls Forest Fire

Sat on 4 Cases of Dynamite To Survive Forest Blaze

TIMMINS, July 12—(CP)—Bill the Bishop reminisced about the time 40 years ago when the safest place he could find during the midst of a raging forest fire was a seat on four cases of dynamite.

The outlook at the time—July 11, 1911—was a bit grim, he recalled.

Bill, now a wrinkled, 84-year-old pensioner, is one of a handful of survivors of the fire which claimed 71 lives, according to official records, and in which 100 perished, according to pioneers of this rich gold-mining district.

The fire destroyed everything in its path through the Porcupine district mining camps of northern Ontario.

Bill, whose real name is John McCambridge, said he and two companions were sinking an inclined shaft at the old Whalen claims. In another shaft close by, 27 persons suffocated.

Bill, Herb Wilson and Sam Crawford were trapped down the shaft when the great fire roared overhead.

"The bottom of the shaft was flooded. We sloshed the water into the air as we sat on four submerged cases of dynamite for five hours," Bill said.

Seen 50 Miles Away

The great fire was first visible at 9 o'clock in the morning from a distance of 50 miles. Acres of flame were flying through the air. Hundreds in the town rushed for the lake at nearby South Porcupine and many died trying.

Some saved themselves by standing lip deep in the lake.

Another of the survivors, James P. Bartleman, Timmins councillor and former Mayor said:

"I ran from my shack and clung to a log for two hours. You could breathe if you kept your lips just at water level. The evaporating water made oxygen."

The fire swept through the town and mines which had shortly before been the scene of Ontario's greatest gold rush.

Gets Nick-Name

Bill explained, in an interview, how he happened to get his nickname.

It was during construction of the Timiskaming and Northern Ontario railway.

"Some tinhorns were playing poker and I stood looking at them. One said, 'What are you, a clergyman?' The Catholic Bishop was coming on a visit and I said, 'Heck, I'm the Bishop,'" Bill recalls.

The name stuck.

Wellington Boat Tops Campbellford Regatta

CAMPBELLFORD, July 12 —(ENS)—Boats from Madoc, Wellington, Consecon, Picton and Campbellford were on hand for the regatta on the Trent Canal at Campbellford on Wednesday afternoon, sponsored jointly by the Campbellford Rotary club and the Campbellford Fish and Game Club.

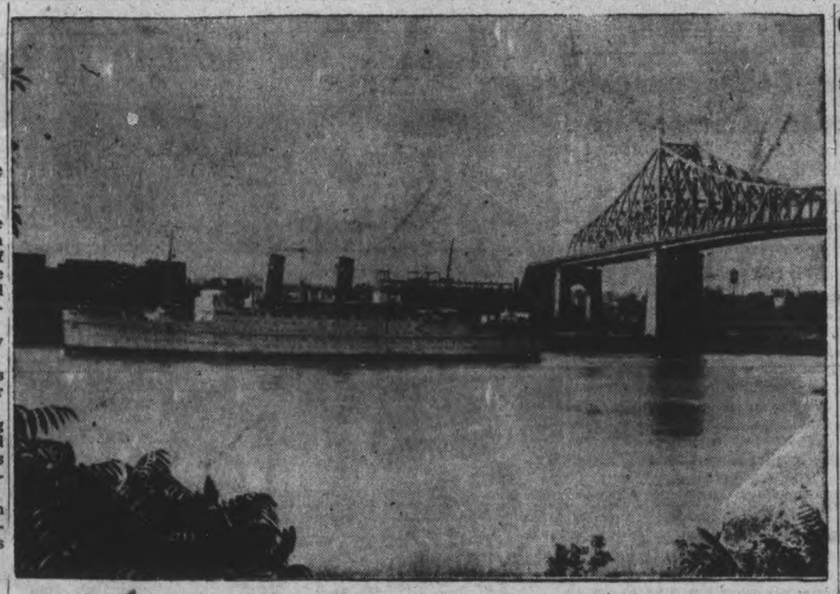
A large crowd of spectators lined the canal on both sides and also watched from the bridge in the centre of town. An even that drew much applause from the crowds was the boats in class 'M' entry, piloted by 12-year-old boys. The lads put on a great display of speed and bounced their tiny craft over the bumpy waters of the canals like veteran racers.

Following are the results of the races: Class M, 12 year old boys — 5 h.p. motors. 1-Darrell Mordin, Wellington; 2-Craig Platt, Wellington; 3-M. Vigoda, Picton. Class B. 25 h.p. hurricanes (without quicksilver units.) 1-George Miller, Consecon; 2-B. "Ozzie" Nelson, Campbellford; Class B, super hurricanes. 1- John Palmer, Wellington; 2-Carl McKoy, Madoc; 3-R. Sproule, Consecon.

John Palmer of Wellington designed and built the boats he used in the races, and is gaining himself fame with his handiwork. Hector MacMillan of Campbellford, who usually captures most of the honors in the class B entries was dogged by bad luck on the course today, when his motor seized on the first lap of the race, forcing him to withdraw.

Wonder If B-36 Planes Becoming Obsolete

WASHINGTON, July 12—(AP)—Because of recent developments in atomic weapons, the question is being raised in Congress as to whether the United States Air Force's global B-36 bomber is obsolete.



It was reliably learned today that the Air Force told the House of Representatives Armed Services Committee that it has only 87 of the giant bombers ready to go into action.

Several committee members were described as "utterly amazed" since it had been believed the Air Force had several hundred.

An Air Force representative is reported further to have told the committee that another 65 of the bombers are in the process of being modernized with "jet-assists."

4 Die In Fire

BRIDGEPORT, NJ, July 12—(AP)—Four persons were burned to death and a fifth severely injured Wednesday night when a huge truck rammed into their auto at the dock of the Chester, Pa.-Bridgeport ferry. A spare gasoline tank on the truck exploded and the car and truck burst into flames, trapping the occupants of the car. Two of the dead were children.

WILL CARRY ROYALTY—The Canadian Pacific steamship Empress of France will carry Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip to Quebec on their tour of Canada this fall. The ship, commanded by Capt. B.B. Grant, is shown approaching Montreal.

Plan To Lay Keel For New Carrier Soon

WASHINGTON, July 12 (AP)—The keel for the United States navy's new carrier with a disappearing "island" to enable it to handle big atom bomb planes will be laid soon.

Moreover, there is talk around the Navy Department that even befor th big carrier is finished, Congress may be asked to authorize the construction of one or two more of the same kind.

Estimates on the cost of the 60,000-ton vessel have ranged around $235,000,000. Building of the ship was authorized by Congress earlier this year.

Garden Club Meets

COLDSPRINGS, July 12 (ENS)—The Coldsprings Garden Club, met at the home of Dorothea Bowman, with all members present. Sheila Ritchie, secretary, read the minutes. Mrs. M. Lacey, leader, held a discussion on "How to define a vegetable, vegetable classification, mineral contents, and methods of cooking and serving." Dorothea Bowman demonstrated how to make a tossed salad.

EXECUTORS AND TRUSTEES FOR OVER HALF A CENTURY

MORE THAN A 'PRUDENT ADMINISTRATOR'

'EN BON PERE DE FAMILLE' (as a good father of the family) is a phrase often used in the Civil Law of the Province of Quebec. It means a 'Prudent Administrator' and, as applied to Executors and Trustees, requires them to act with care and skill.

In addition it suggests that an Executor and Trustee must feel a deep sense of responsibility for the personal welfare and comfort of dependants.

It is the aim of the Officers of The Royal Trust Company to live up to this high ideal with sympathy and understanding, and to ensure efficient and economical administration of every Estate entrusted to our care.

Trust and Estate Officers are always available when needed for consultation.

Peterborough's Good Credit

Peterborough's credit rating is still first class. This week a group of Toronto financial houses bought Peterborough debentures of $413,000 at an average price of 96.657. The interest which will be payable at this price averages 4.05 per cent. Although it is the first time in many years that Peterborough debentures have sold under par, the reasons are readily seen. More than half bear interest rates of 3¼ per cent. Since the prevailing rates are now four per cent. or more, obviously these bonds would have to be sold below their face value to bring their interest rates up to the present levels.

* * *

The financial houses bought the lot at a price to yield 4.05 per cent. interest. This compares very favourably with other bond issues recently floated. Even Government of Ontario bonds, backed by the riches and prestige of the entire Province are not being marketed at less than four per cent. Recently, in fact, Ontario bonds bearing 3¼ per cent. interest fell to less than 90 of their face value. An indication of the soundness which financiers attribute to Peterborough is that the new debentures are being picked up quickly and will all be sold within a week. Some of them are selling at par or a little better, in the open market.

* * *

The higher interest rates which bond-buyers require is an indication of the tightening of the market. Today Peterborough, Hamilton, London and the Province of Ontario—all gilt-edged guarantors—must pay four per cent. or more to borrow money. Only a year ago last June Peterborough floated a debenture issue of $440.000 and sold it as a block at a premium price of 101.31. All these bonds bore interest at low rates between 2¾ and 3¼ per cent. A year ago last April the city floated debentures totalling $932,212 and bearing interest rates varying between 2¾ and 3¼ per cent. These were bought up at a price above par of 100.9337.

* * *

Since Peterborough's treasurer and its financial advisers know the prevailing rates of interest, why did the recent debentures not officially bear a four per cent. or higher rate, instead of 3¼? Thus they could have sold at par or better. The reason is that the debentures to which the low interest rate was officially attached were incorporated in construction bylaws a year or more ago. The interest was set then at 3¼, a prevailing rate. If the money had been borrowed then, they would probably have sold at par or above. But the money is not borrowed until the bills for sewers, paving and the like come in, although the authority for borrowing may have been given a year ago. In the last year the bond market has changed greatly. Now, when the time has come to raise the money, the prevailing interest rates are about four per cent. and that is what Peterborough debentures this week were sold to yield. Incidentally, for newly-authorized construction, like the Utilities Office, the $100,000 bonds bore four per cent. interest and sold at par.

An Old Communist Lament

A spokesman for the United States Communist Party complained publicly not long ago that the party had been unable to retain any "big-name" capitalist lawyer to defend the seventeen party leaders now indicted in that country for violation of its Smith Act. It is an old complaint, and one thoroughly discredited shortly after it was first heard. That was when the conviction of the party's top eleven leaders was scheduled for review by the United States Court of Appeals, and several responsible agencies investigated the situation.

These investigations convinced those undertaking them that lawyers of high ability and reputation were quite willing to argue the Communist case on constitutional grounds. However, with the record of Communist misbehaviour in Judge Medina's court in mind, these lawyers stipulated that they be allowed complete control of the brief and of the conduct of the appeal in court. They also stipulated that they serve without pay. The same readiness to act existed later, when the Communists sought postponement of their hearing before the U.S. Supreme Court in order to obtain counsel from England, giving again the excuse that they could not get prominent U.S. lawyers to take their case.

According to a report from Washington, the Communists refused an offer of legal representation on the conditions cited above. That refusal makes it reasonably clear that the indicted Communists, and their party, are more concerned with attempting to stage another obstructionist circus, as other Communists did before Judge Medina, than they are about securing able legal representation. They want the "big names" more for the publicity attached than for the legal ability they represent—but they do not even want the big names if securing the latter means no judicial circus.

The Communist lament thus appears as so much windy whining. They can get all the help they need for the legitimate defence of their constitutional rights. If they wished to do so, they could get it from the American Civil Liberties Union, which regards the Smith Act as fundamentally unconstitutional. They are entitled to such help, but they are not entitled to abuse further the judicial system by which they will be tried.

Princess Elizabeth As Governor-General?

Buzz-buzzes in Ottawa are saying that Princess Elizabeth could be our next Governor-General, in succession to Lord Alexander who is scheduled to give up his office next spring. We see no possibility of Princess Elizabeth ever occupying Rideau Hall in a vice-regal capacity, nor should Canada expect this sacrifice of her or of Britain. It is more than grateful that she and her Duke are coming over for a month's visit in the autumn. Princess Elizabeth already has her hands full. How could she occupy Rideau Hall and still carry out the duties of heir to the throne, especially heavy now that the King must transfer to her some of the royal duties, owing to his health? How could she manage these duties, those of a Governor-General, and also continue to have babies?

Another thought occurs to us: Canada is not used to having a Governess-General. That would take a bit of getting used to.

Hollyhock

This lovely native of China is again towering its bounteous bloom over Ontario back fences. Borders of gardens are rich with its stately spikes and variegated flower, and stone and white brick walls of houses are gladdened by its colour.

Ontario is fond of hollyhocks. Once they do take firm hold of life they seem to go on from year to year with little care, though fertilizing now and then is good. Expert gardeners take no less pleasure in them than lazy amateurs, for the plant is susceptible to great modification under cultivation; gorgeous blooms with an infinite variety of colour and tone can be achieved. Hollyhocks have been cultivated in Britain for three centuries, and almost as long on this continent.

The name hollyhock means holy marrow. The plant has a lovely Latin name: Althaea rosea. One can regret only that its perfume is not as profuse as its bloom, as gracious as its Latin name.

Hot Weather Journalism

There was a time—and not so very long ago, either—when Canadian journalism relaxed during hot summer weather. Reporters did not work so hard; editors were more lenient in what they were prepared to consider as newsworthy; editorial writers forgot matters of state, and wrote about fishing and the pleasures of lying in a hammock. It was assumed that the newspaper-reading public did not want to hear about murders and political iniquities during the dog-days.

The daily news was faithfully recorded, of course, but the news had a way of accommodating itself to the weather. No self-respecting murderer committed his crime in hot weather; politicians restrained their scandalous doings until the first frost. Very rightly, everybody acted upon the belief that the summer was a time for gentle enjoyment, and not for too much hard work.

That leisured day appears to have gone. This paper, and our contemporaries, now feel the necessity to bustle through the summer as well as through the other three seasons. Politicians and murderers pay no attention to the weather. Reporters run breathlessly through the heat; editors are as crusty as if it were January; editorial writers keep up their roll of stage thunder without any decent regard for the calendar.

At the risk of appearing old-fashioned, we regard this as a decline. The quiet summer was one of the attractions of the journalist's life. Doing a minimum of work, he had time to loaf and invite his soul, and get ready for an active winter. Along with lawyers and schoolteachers, he was a man who could count on the summer as a time of refreshment, a period of lying fallow. But no more. Nowadays, the heat is on, whichever way you chose to take the phrase.

Barbers are sociable men. They have a way of scraping an acquaintance.

Military Consequences Of Korean Cease Fire

by
W. N. EWEN
(U.K. Information Office)

THERE seems no reason to doubt the genuineness of the Chinese desire for a cease fire in Korea. In fact, such a desire is not only explained but dictated by the military situation. The repulse of the second big Chinese offensive was so complete and so disastrous for them that it is quite certain that their armies and, perhaps even more important, their supply organization, are badly battered. But at the same time it would be rash to assume that their obvious wish for a cease fire means that they have decided that there is nothing for it but to put an end finally to all hostilities. There are still certain questions that we have to ask ourselves.

Do the Chinese want a cease fire as a first step to a complete cessation of hostilities and to an attempt to secure a negotiated settlement? Or are they simply hoping to get a breathing space in which to reorganize and re-equip their battered forces and perhaps at the same time to secure some tactical advantages which would stand them in good stead if and when they decided to resume the offensive?

✧ ✧ ✧

THIS second possibility cannot be ruled out. There are some grounds which suggest that something of the kind may be in the minds of the Chinese and North Korean commanders. The Peking radio and Peking press are already taking it for granted that if there is a cease fire the demarcation line between the two forces will be along the famous 38th parallel. This is a question which has, of course, not yet been decided, but it looks as if the Chinese negotiators are going to propose this. Now the military consequences of an armistice in which the United Nations troops would be withdrawn to south of the parallel would be very considerable.

The Chinese know perfectly well that in the past few weeks General Van Fleet has been building up a very formidable line of defence across the Peninsula—a line so strong that their chances of breaking it in any new offensive are negligible. They know that while on the west this line runs well south of the parallel, on the east it runs well to the north of it. So that the result of an agreement to make the parallel the demarcation line would be that on the west the United Nations forces would come forward to occupy new, unprepared and probably undefendable positions, on the east they would have to evacuate the whole of their carefully prepared defensive line.

In fact, if the United Nations forces were to exchange their present line for one running strictly along the 38th parallel, this would change the whole tactical position vastly to the advantage of the Chinese and would greatly increase their chances of success in a new offensive if hostilities were to break out again. I do not think there is the slightest possibility that General Ridgway would agree to anything of the kind. But if the Chinese negotiators really try to press for such an arrangement, it will arouse justifiable suspicion as to their real intentions.

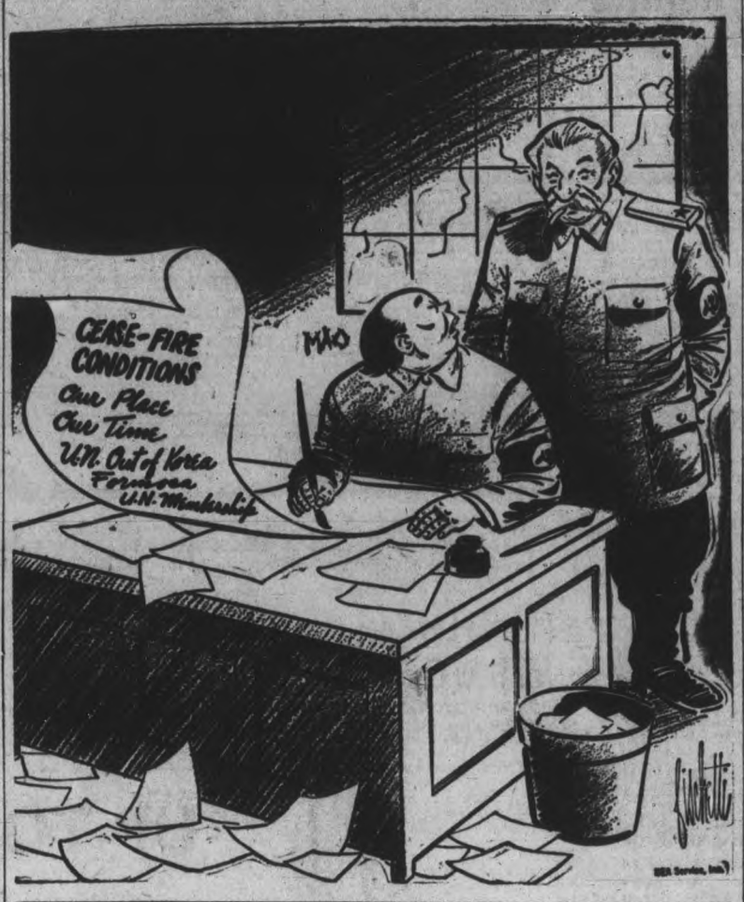
ON the whole, though looking at the military position in general, it seems to me more probable the enemy high command or rather Moscow and Peking have come to the conclusion that its wisest course would be to end the fighting altogether. They must surely have realized that there is no longer any hope of securing a decisive military victory and that any further continuation of hostilities would be far more likely to bring new crushing defeats and new devastating losses. The lesson of the last two months must have brought the Chinese to the conclusion that they simply cannot continue the war with any hope at all of success unless the Soviet Union itself were prepared to come to their aid with massive reinforcements of trained troops and of materials. And one suspected that Mao Tse Tung has been told by Stalin that the Soviet Government has not the slightest intention of doing anything of the kind.

✧ ✧ ✧

IF that is so, then we can feel fairly sure that an end of the fighting is really in sight. But even then there is need for much caution and much careful thinking. Communists may have abandoned at last all hope of achieving their aim by direct military attacks, but quite certainly they have not abandoned those aims. They are changing not their objectives but only the tactics and the methods by which they hope to achieve them. A cease fire might thus lead to an end of the conflict, but it might only mean that the conflict has been transferred from the military to the political and democratic fields.

✧ ✧ ✧



WE have to face the possibility that the real purpose of the whole manoeuvre is to exploit the strong desire of the democracies for peace, and the great reluctance which they would have to any renewal of the fighting. The Communists may well be calculating that they may be able to secure in negotiating many of the objectives which they have failed to gain by fighting—which the United Nations, by successfully challenging aggression, has denied them. They may well be calculating on securing a settlement which would leave them in a military position to renew their attempt to get control of all Korea, if and when a favourable opportunity seems to present itself.

✧ ✧ ✧

ARE the Communists hoping to retain North Korea under Communist control as a base from which to carry on "cold war" operations against the South? Are they going to ask, as a condition for a final ending of hostilities, for Formosa and for the admission of the Chinese peoples' government to the United Nations? Are they, in other words, preparing to ask for a very high political price for calling off their war? And the United Nations, anxious as they are for an end to the fighting and the suffering of the Korean people, will need to think very carefully about the future possibilities before deciding what price, if any, they are prepared to pay.

We shall see the shape of things far more clearly as the negotiations develop and the Chinese begin to table their proposals. If they come to Kaesong prepared to talk reasonably about reasonable armistice terms and reasonable guarantees to ensure that those terms are kept, then the prospects should be fairly good, but if they either demand impossible military terms, or if they bring forward political questions which in the nature of things General Ridgway can have no authority to discuss with them, that will be a danger signal. And until we can really judge their intentions and their purposes it would be a dangerous blunder to be over hopeful.

An American View: "SHALL WE ASK FOR DETROIT?"

An Oasis Of Sanity

(WALL STREET JOURNAL)

THE stabilizers in Washington are muttering darkly in the direction of the Government of Canada. The immediate cause of their displeasure is that Canadian mills have raised the price of newsprint and the Canadian Government seems disposed not to interfere.

However, there are people in Washington who have been unhappy for some time about the Canadian policy, which is against trying to control prices. The Canadians say they once tried controls and they did not work, so they prefer to try to stem inflation by balancing their budget and restricting credit.

There are dark hints that unless the Canadians run their country according to the Washington idea they may pay for their recalcitrance. There is talk of cutting off supplies and canceling defence contracts. In fact there are periods when one might wonder whether it is the Canadians or Russians who cause troubles in the world.

Obviously if the Canadians want to gain friends and influence people in Washington they must change their tactics. Several courses might be suggested.

The Canadians could mismanage themselves into a famine. They could blame the United States and intimate to the rest of the world that the United States was no better than Communist Russia, if as good. Then Congress would vote them a big gift.

Or the Canadians might persuade about one third of their people to vote the Communist ticket. That also would cause great perturbation in Washington and there would be a gift to the Canadians.

If the Canadians want to be treated real well, then let them honey up to Stalin briefly; let them shoot some citizens of the United States and throw them into jail. Next they must break with Stalin. After that they can get practically anything they want in this country.

The Canadians apparently want to stand on their own two feet and they have the unique notion that the more critical the time, the greater need for caution and sanity. That is not to be tolerated. How can there be an "emergency" if people are going to act in that fashion?

It is complained, finally, that the Canadians are not "planning."

We suggest they are planning. They are planning to keep an oasis of sanity on the North American continent.

Combining The Best Features of Both

(MONTREAL GAZETTE)

ONE of the intriguing things about our bilingual inheritance is how it has caused names to lose their accustomed significance. As successive groups of immigrants have been absorbed in French Canada we have become accustomed to finding Macdonalds and Reillys and Smiths who don't speak English. In Ontario and further west, the situation is reversed. There we find Cartiers and Langlois and Desmarais calling themselves Carteer and Lang-law and Dem-array and speaking no French. In each case the individual can make his peace with local pronunciation and eventually become accepted as a native.

Place names are not so easily compromised. But Quebec and New Brunswick, reared in bilingualism, show that it can be done. In most cases, it is an area originally given an English name whose population has gradually become largely or entirely French-speaking. Some of the results: St. Adolphe de Dudswell Ste. Angele de Kent; Ste. Anne de Stukeley; Ste. Appoline de Patton; St. Calixte de Kilkenny; St. Charles de Caplan; St. Cyrille de Wendover; St. Emile de Suffolk; St. Isidore de Prescott; St. Paul d'Abbotsford St. Simon de Drummond; and many, many more.

The procedure could have been noted in a bill that was recently presented in Commons to make the village of Crabtree Mills known, henceforth, as Sacre-Coeur de Jesus de Crabtree. However, we needn't get cocky about being possessors of the most delightful bilingualism in the world. Anyone who follows world chess tournaments knows that Europe sports some fine melanges, too. One of Europe's top chessmen is named Alberic O'Kelly de Galway. He plays for Belgium. Try to trace that one back.

The Last Frontier

(The Claresholm Local Press)

Anyone who insisted on clinging to the belief that Western Canada was still a country of the pioneer had that dream rudely shattered when the Provincial Government announced that it was opening the last of the frontier districts for homesteaders. That district is in the Peace River Country about 25 miles north of the town of Spirit River. It is expected that some 400 homesteads can be carved out of that area. The soil is said to be of clay loam variety on which grain crops can be raised.

Having learnt, however, by the experience of previous homesteading schemes the department of agriculture is urging that some thought be given to crops and crop rotation and that the homesteaders really farm and not try to mine the land. With the assistance of expert advisers this colonization scheme should be a lot more practical and more successful than others have been. Government regulations concerning the paying for the land are quite reasonable too and are designed not to burden the homesteaders with debts that it would be impossible to pay. One good qualification for the homesteader is that he must be a Canadian citizen or signify his intention of becoming a Canadian citizen within two years. Alberta will watch with great interest the development of this frontier area.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Then Solomon assembled the elders of Israel, and all the heads of the tribes, the chief of the fathers of the children of Israel, unto king Solomon in Jerusalem, that they might bring up the ark of the covenant of the Lord out of the city of David, which is Zion . . . And it came to pass, when the priests were come out of the holy place, that the cloud filled the house of the Lord, so that the priests could not stand to minister because of the cloud: for the glory of the Lord had filled the house of the Lord.

Then spake Solomon, The Lord said that he would dwell in the thick darkness . . . And the Lord said unto David my father, Whereas it was in thine heart to build an house unto my name, thou didst well that it was in thine heart. Nevertheless thou shalt not build the house; but thy son that shall come forth out of thy loins, he shall build the house unto my name.

And the Lord hath performed his word that he spake, and I am risen up in the room of David my father, and sit on the throne of Israel, as the Lord promised, and have built an house for the name of the Lord God of Israel. (I Kings 8: 1, 10-12, 18-20.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Wherefore, my beloved, as ye have always obeyed, not as in my presence only, but now much more in my absence, work out your own salvation with fear and trembling.

For it is God which worketh in you both to will and to do of his good pleasure. (Phil. 2: 12, 13.)

The West's Burden

(Calgary Herald)

For the third time in the past four years the Canadian railways have been awarded a freight-rate increase and for the third time in that period the burden has been thrust upon the Western provinces.

The railways have announced that the latest increase of twelve per cent. will not be applied to competitive rates at all. This means, of course, that while the rates on freight to the prairies will be boosted extensively, the rates on freight in the central provinces of Ontario and Quebec and in the competitive run to the West Coast will be held at present levels. The old game of paying for the low rates in the highly competitive areas by the high rates in the uncompetitive long-haul regions goes on as ever.

The members of the Board of Transport Commissioners have paid some heed to this iniquitous situation this time by saying they wish to consider in the fall the putting into effect of two recommendations of the Royal Commission on Transportation. These are the provision for ceilings on some forms of traffic and a stricter control of the railways' competitive rates. The question which might be asked, of course, is why hasn't the transport board investigated the matter of competitive rates before this?

While the rates in the "competitive" areas have climbed slowly in the past few years, the rates in the long-haul regions of the prairies, for instance, have gone up steeply and fully with each increase. The West bore the full brunt of a 21 per cent. increase in 1948 and of a 20 per cent. increase in 1949-50 and will now receive a 12 per cent. addition. These increases, furthermore, do not mount simply step by step, but cumulatively. The total increase appears at first glance to be 53 per cent.; actually it is 62.6 per cent.

Veteran Orangeman Wed 50 Years Ago In England

An Orangeman since he was 16, 75-year-old R. W. Montgomery will celebrate his 50th wedding anniversary in today's Orange Walk.

Mr. Montgomery was born in County Tyrone in Northern Ireland, came to Canada with his wife in 1913, and started work with the Auburn Woollen mill.

He joined the 93rd Battalion when war broke out and served overseas with it until 1918 as a private. He returned to his job at the Auburn, and stayed there until it closed down in 1936.

In England while working in County Durham, he met his wife, the former Alice Smith. They were married on July 12, 1901, and 12 years later came to Canada. Mrs. Montgomery was born in County Durham, daughter of Isaac and Frances Smith.

Still Works

Mr. Montgomery is still active, working part time as a parking lot attendant downtown.

The Montgomerys have four sons and one daughter: Jack, Tom, Fred, Stewart, and Mrs. Allan Found (Mary). There are eight grandchildren; and the whole family lives in Peterborough. Thursday's celebration will be a quiet one, attended only by the family and a few friends.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

July 12th sports attraction here tonight, weather permitting, is a senior ball game in Riverside. A Viaduct Major League fixture under the floodlights at 8.30 between Toronto Croftons and the leading Petes. With a lot of district folk in town for the day, a hefty crowd is likely, and fans ought to see another neat number. Doug Plunkett pitched the last start here, so it'll be any one of three this game, Bill Edger, Lefty Dadson or Bunny Maeson. Unless the Petes can secure a USA college hurler this week, they'll have to go along with the present staff, as the deadline is July 15 for imports. Locals have Staffords here Saturday eve.

* * * * * *

Don Ashbee will be back in the lacrosse lineup for the local gutted-stick seniors on the morrow in Miller Bowl. His suspension has been lifted. Don't know if Dootch Vitarelli's injured leg will permit him to play this week, but otherwise the team is at full strength again. Hamilton Tigers provide the opposition, and it may be stiff opposition, too. Petes aren't finding it any flowery path these days with Mimico last eve, Tigers tomorrow and away to Brampton on Saturday. No soft touches, but they're playing good lacrosse to stay up there around the top in a keen schedule, one that has more than a month to go yet.

* * * * * *

Just A Coolish Thought

Hockey makes for a cooling spot in the Show Window. The Major Series appears to have folded with St. Mike's and Marlboros retiring, and it looks like a revival of OHA senior "A" play next fall and winter. A recent meeting set Aug. 2 for drawing up schedule dates, taking entries and so on. At the moment, interested teams include Chatham, Sarnia, Brantford, Kitchener, Stratford, Hamilton, the Falls and Owen Sound. The meeting definitely called it senior "A" as distinct from Major Series hockey or the senior "B" brand—and we pointed out all last winter, despite the odd disagreement, that our brand of hockey here was senior "B". This bears us out.

* * * * * *

While it is true that Legion defeated Sarnia three years ago for the senior "B" title, and gave Brantford a good argument two seasons back in provincial finals, those teams have bolstered a lot since then and are now of senior "A" calibre. As was Owen Sound last spring when they ousted the Petes in four straight playdown games. Our two clubs would have to malagamate to be of "A" class, and even then might have to add a star import or two. No use kidding ourselves, as long as Peterborough ices two OHA senior teams they will be of senior "B" calibre only. Of course if we did go senior "A" with one team there would be some mighty long trips involved.

* * * * * *

Eeny, Meeny, Miny, Moe

Kitchener and Oshawa are still having fun (or is it?) over pitcher Jerry Creasey, who jumped the Merchants to play for Legion in the Intercounty League this year. OBA finally ruled the other p.m. that Jerry is Oshawa property, since he had signed a money contract to play for the Motor City. That wouldn't stand up in court since the OBA is supposedly an amateur body and pro contracts are beyond its jurisdiction. Kitchener and the Intercounty League, who don't pay too much attention anyway to OBA edicts, are saying in effect: "Nuts to that OBA decision, we'll still use him for league play." As it's past the deadline for signing ballsters to OBA contracts, Oshawa couldn't legally get Creasey now, even if he decided to return to that city.

And some lacrosse items: It's PMLA life-saver day Saturday to raise funds for minor lacrosse. Two bantam Bowl games this eve, while peewees play at nine a.m. Friday, followed by a tadpole tilt. Junior OLA-ers drill at seven tonight. They'll be all decked out in their new crested white sweaters at the senior joust here tomorrow to be presented by Blain McDonald with the junior "B" titular trophy, as well as receiving from Ald. Doug Miller (for the Mayor) the players' individual cups. Also, Mort Knox will turn over the Ostrander Trophy to Frank Patterson of Filter Queens (Junior club sponsor) as a most valuable player emblem. OLA has ruled that Lou Nickel of the juniors—formerly of Toronto—can't go with the senior Petes till he gets a proper release from Maitlands.

Oshawa Pair Captures Liftlock Cup

In case of rain two games completed in each draw will constitute a tournament, and on that basis the tournament was concluded and the prizes distributed accordingly.

The rain that came yesterday afternoon put a damper on the seventh annual open doubles for the Lift Lock Gold Trophy. It was declared a tournament after each pair had completed two games, but the third game, if played, always makes a decided change in the prize distribution.

Decision Right

The committee had a difficult situation to handle but their decision was right and just and all seemed satisfied.

Chairman Robert Gamble conducted the presentation of prizes and called on Mrs. C. Graham, donor of the trophy, to present it and first prize to R. Flintoff and R. Wright of Oshawa. All 24 two-game winners received prizes according to their scores and in conclusion Mr. Gamble thanked all and hoped when they came back next season that the weather man would be more considerate.

The Winners

Get 2 Fight Plums

NEW YORK, July 11 — (AP) —Barring upsets and accidents, New York will have the two fistic plums of the year —the return title bouts between Randy Turpin and Ray Robinson and Ezzard Charles and Joe Louis.

Promoter Jim Norris of the International Boxing Club made this clear today as he started working on plans to stage both shows at the Polo Grounds in September.

If all goes according to plan, the Turpin-Robinson middleweight bout will be held Sept. 6 and the Charles-Louis heavyweight championship bout Sept. 26.

Louis and Charles both have action scheduled before their date. The Brown Bomber will meet Cesar Brion in San Francisco, Aug. 1, and Charles is slated to defend his crown against Joe Walcott in Pittsburgh, July 18.

A London report quoted British Promoter Jack Solomons as saying that the Turpin- Robinson contract provided that the return match could be held in either London or New York, depending on where the most money could be gained.

RANDY TURPIN, right, drives a stiff left to the midsection of Sugar Ray Robinson in the second round of their 15-round world's middleweight championship fight on July 10th in London, Eng., in which Turpin gained a decision in one of the biggest boxing upsets in years.

10 Candidates For Gold Cup

INGLEWOOD, Calif., July 12—(AP)—Ten candidates may go postward in the $100,000 Hollywood Gold Cup Saturday but the exact field won't be known until final entries close Friday.

Heading the field will be the Calumet Farm's powerful threesome of Citation, Bewitch and All Blue.

The Silver Creek Stable of Santa Barbara indicated it may start Tantamount, who set a track record at Hollywood Park for the mile Tuesday at 1:35 flat.

Other possible entries include Andrew Crevolin's Be Fleet; T. G. Benson's Lotowhite; F. Norman Phelps' Sturdy One, Clifford Mooers' Sudan, the Breel Stable's Alderman, and the Seavan Stable's Akimbo.

Citation, of course, shooting to pass the $1,000,000 mark in winnings, will be highly favored to collect the $100,000 net purse.

Tentative jockey lineups include Steve Brooks on Citation; Glen Lasswell on Bewitch, Lester Balaski on All Blue, Bill Shoemaker on Be Fleet, Johnny Longden on Lotowhite and Gordon Glisson on Sudan.

Peewee Tourney Staged At Lindsay

LINDSAY, July 12.—Six teams have entered the first annual east central zone peewee baseball tournament for the Walkwood and Trent Valley Bread trophies, to be held Saturday at Lindsay Baseball Stadium. "Under 13 lads" from Peterborough, Bowmanville, Aurora, Newmarket, Oshawa and Lindsay will line up in the dawn-to-dusk tournament sponsored by Lindsay recreation caner and the local minor baseball association.

The draw brings together the local Police Cadets, managed by Chief Arthur Webster, and Peterborough in the opener. Bowmanville and Aurora clubs clash in the second game, while Newmarket and Oshawa CRA meet in the third game of the first round. The draw for the semi-final and final rounds will be made Saturday morning by team managers.

Soccer Notes

On Saturday, the local UEW soccer club will play a re-arranged Eastern Ontario League game with No. 6 R.D. Trenton at three p.m. in Morrow Park. It will be the first meeting of these teams and UEW will be looking for their 13th straight win.

The team has been notified that it is in the last eight of the Ontario section of the Dominion Cup play, the draw being made later. The club so far has scored 54 goals with eight against, the leading scorers being Strong with 22 and A. Smith with 18.

Last Saturday the team beat Hamilton UE there, the leaders of the Southern Ontario League. The Ontario F.A. has sent a cheque for $50 as a contribution to the Fire Fund benefit game. This makes the total soccer contribution $210.

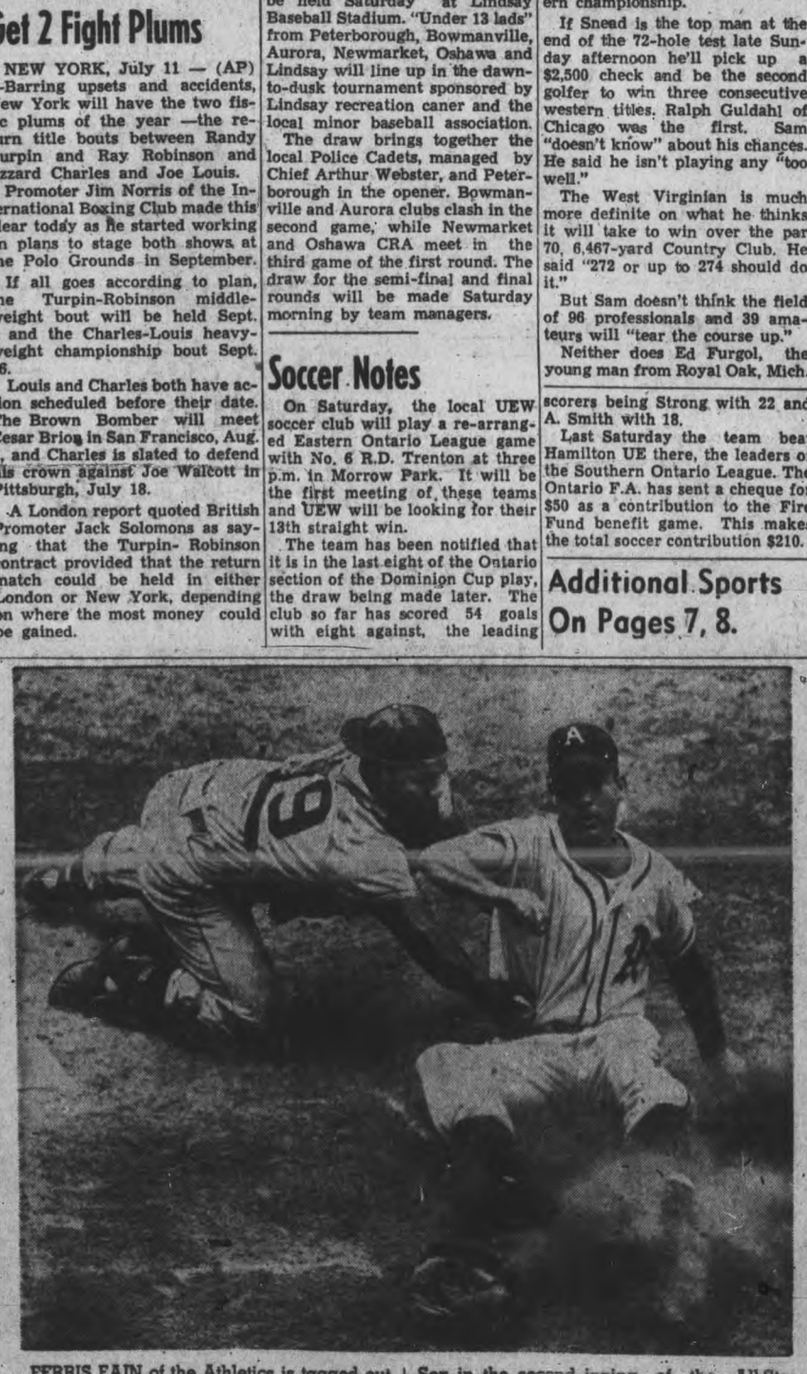
TURPIN WAVES to supporters after winning the middleweight title from Robinson recently via the decision route.

Sam Snead Starts After More Money And Glory.

DAVENPORT, Ia., July 12 (AP) —Sam Snead, the drawling West Virginian with the perfect swing and golf's biggest bankroll, started out after more cash and glory today in the US western open tournament.

Slamming Sam picked up $100 in spare change by winning a driving contest Wednesday with a clout of 292 yards. Today he was off on what he hoped would be a successful 18-hole opening spurt in quest of his third straight western championship.



If Snead is the top man at the end of the 72-hole test late Sunday afternoon he'll pick up a $2,500 check and be the second golfer to win three consecutive western titles. Ralph Guldahl of Chicago was the first. Sam "doesn't know" about his chances. He said he isn't playing any "too well."

The West Virginian is much more definite on what he thinks it will take to win over the par 70, 6,467-yard Country Club. He said "272 or up to 274 should do it."

But Sam doesn't think the field of 96 professionals and 39 amateurs will "tear the course up."

Neither does Ed Furgol, the young man from Royal Oak, Mich. who overcame the handicap of a deformed left arm to become a star along the professional trails.

Furgol listed Snead, Lloyd Mangrum, Jim Ferrier and Dr. Cary Middlecoff as his title favorites.

FERRIS FAIN of the Athletics is tagged out at home plate as he tries belatedly to score on a single by Chico Carrasquel of the White Sox in the second inning of the All-Star Game. Roy Campanella of the Dodgers put the ball on the American leaguer after taking a throw from Richie Ashburn in centre-field.

Gordon Unlikely Be Wiih Ottawa For This Season

OTTAWA, July 12 (CP)—The Ottawa Rough Rider Football Club indicated today that Andy Gordon, former Villanova College star who quarterbacked the capital's entry in the Big Four League the last two seasons, likely will not be back this year.

A spokesman said a letter had been received from the United States footballer saying he had a good job in Philadelphia and would retire from the Ottawa grid scene unless he received an outright contract for the season.

The Riders wrote back this was impossible under a policy laid down by new coach Clem Crowe, calling for every man to win his berth in the training season.

Two US prospects already are lined up for the quarterback spot. They are Tom O'Malley, a passer with Green Bay Packers last year, and Rudy Schaeffer, last season at John Carroll College near Cleveland.

Orioles Whip Buffalo In 6-3 Triumph

By The Associated Press.

Inability to curb the home run hitters of Baltimore Orioles cost Buffalo Bisons a chance to close in on the pace-setting Montreal Royals of the International League.

The Baltimore-Buffalo game was the only contest played in the circuit Wednesday night and the Orioles won 6-3 on the strength of three home runs.

As a result the Bisons now trail Montreal by 9½ games. The Orioles however, moved within one game of the sixth-place Ottawa Giants.

Marv Rickert was the big gun of Baltimore's 10-hit attack. He pounded out two homers and a single and drove in three runs. The other homer was hit by Mike Goliat, recently sent down to the Triple-A club by the parent Philadelphia Phillies. Arch Wison also homered for Buffalo.

Lou Possehl received credit for the victory but it was little Blix Donnelly that put down the Bisons' eight-inning uprising. Buffalo had one run in, two on base and one out when Donnelly stepped to the mound. He allowed only one hit the remainder of the game.

OLA Reinstates Don Ashbee

BRAMPTON, July 12 (CP). — Don Ashbee of Peterborough on Wednesday night was reinstated by the Ontario Lacrosse Association. Ashbee missed five senior games after his suspension for a brush in Mimico with referee Piper Bain during which the official's shirt was ripped.

However, an OLA executive session decided to keep the suspension of Harry Kazarian of Fergus in effect until Toronto West Corks' Pat DePippo is able to play again. DePippo was injured in a clash with Kazarian at Fergus.

The Brampton and Fergus clubs who each claim the services of Owen Sound's Don Campbell, were given until July 15 to settle their dispute. The association recently awarded Campbell to Brampton but Campbell said he would rather join other former Owen Sound players now at Fergus.

Charles Bit Miffed Over Walcott Remark

PITTSBURGH, July 12 (AP).—Heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles is a bit miffed over a remark by Jersey Joe Walcott, who will meet Charles here July 18 in a title go.

Walcott laid off a sparring partner long enough the other day to say he had been robbed of decisions on two occasions when he fought Charles. Ezzard came back Wednesday with:

"I've beaten him twice before and had him in trouble and had him down in both fights. If he's going to pop off like that, I'll be sure and kayo him early in the bout."

Both fighters are training near Pittsburgh.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

For the second time in cricket history, a test match was abandoned without a ball being bowled 13 years ago today when rain fell for the fourth successive day at Old Trafford. Australia eventually retained the ashes as each side scored a victory and two matches were drawn. Another test was rained out at Old Trafford in 1890.

GEORGE (MOONEY) GIBSON, Royal catcher in 1904-05, sits between two other greats of the game at tryouts in the London, Ont., park. Left, Hank Gowdy, right, Tris Speaker. A native of London, Gibson was ailing during the spring. He piloted Pittsburgh and Chicago in the National League. The ball which Gowdy is holding was hit foul into the stands during a game in 1912 by Speaker and caught there by Jack May of London.

Stukus Gets Homer As Fenelon Wins 8-2

LINDSAY, July 12.—Manager Frank Stukus hammered a home run over the left field fence to lead Fenelon Falls to an 8-2 victory over the top-rung Lindsay Walkwoods in a Tri-County Baseball League game here.

Fenelon's young righthander, Allan "Doc" Gleason, turned on his former mates to space three hits and also came through with a two-run double to break up the game in the third. "Dit" Foshay had a triple for the losers.

By The Canadian Press

One of the strongest fields in its 15-year history is expected to enter the 54-hole Seagram Invitation Amateur Tournament at the Sudbury Golf Club, convener Sam Rothschild announced Wednesday.

Rothschild, who has been in touch with leading amateurs in the province, said close to 150 entries are expected including Nick Weslock of Windsor and former titleholders Tony Matlock of Kitchener and Bobby Fair.

Competition in the amateur tournament will start Aug. 19 with an 18-hole qualifying round and will conclude with a 36-hole final round the next day. Close to 300 rounds have been scheduled over the nine-hole course.

W. F. Morrissey, national president of the Horsemen's Protective Benevolent Association said Wednesday night, following settlement of the proposed strike of horsemen at Fort Erie race track, that he would not stand for re-election as head of the Horsemen's Association.

He was commenting on the acceptance by the horse owners of the compromise offer to their demands for purse increases of $1,200 daily. Earlier Wednesday members of the association voted to accept an offer by John Cella, track president, of an $800 a day increase.

With one of the largest crowds in history of the event in the stands, rain came down and cancelled the annual meet of the Exeter Turf Club Wednesday after only one heat had been raced in each of the classes.

The meet will be concluded today when eight heats will be run off.

J. Knowles' Beamsville rink won the seventh annual Twin City Lawn Bowling Association rinks tournament Wednesday night at Kitchener with an aggregate score of 67.

The Beamsville foursome won three games and recorded a plus of 32 to defeat the 96 rinks in the competition. Together with the Mutual Life Trophy, the bowlers picked up some $300 worth of prizes.

Second place and the Kitchener-Waterloo Lawn Bowling Association Trophy went to E. D. Daigneau's Owen Sound rink, with an aggregate of 61.

Cam MacLelland, chief scout for the McGill University senior intercollegiate football squad last year, will take over as head coach at St. Michael's College this season, it was announced Wednesday.

MacLelland succeeds Lew Barnes who resigned to coach suburban East York High School team.

Father Faught was named manager of the college's Ontario Hockey Association Junior A entry.

Bobby Lee, Negro quarterback with the University of Pittsburgh from 1946 to 1949 has been signed by the Toronto Beach Football Club manager Paul McGarry said here Wednesday. He will report at the start of training Monday, July 16.

Bill Veeck, new owner of St. Louis Browns, said Wednesday he had talked to George Weiss, New York Yankees' general manager, and other major league club owners while at the all-star game at Detroit and that he expected early action on player deals.

"After all," Veeck said, "the season's only half over and we want to improve the Browns now."

Girls' Teams Tie

NORWOOD, July 12—(ENS)—The Stony Lake girls journeyed here and tied the Norwood girls Tuesday night 20-20 in a friendly game of ball. Although Stony Lake made 12 runs in the second innings, Norwood gradually came back to tie them by the end of the ninth. Shirley Rusaw got the only home run of the game.

Teams:

Stony Lake—K. Lowery, E. Credicott, L. Dafoe, M. Duggan, V. Hall, E. Davis, D. Davis, I. Jessup, L. Duggan.

Norwood—L. Hie, E. Fleming, S. Rusaw, E. Hall, R. Richardson, J. Waldon, R. Baskin, I. Wannamaker, A. Reddy.

Umpires, Lowery and Cuthbertson.

Allow German General

PARIS, July 12 — (AP) — A French foreign ministry spokesman said Wednesday it would be "obligatory" to have a German general on the staff of a West European army. He said the French position has always been that all nations in such an army should have equal treatment.

Burnbrae Victorious

CAMPBELLFORD, July 12 — (ENS)—The OPP Burnbrae midget team, undercoach Donald W. Erskine, chalked up another victory 12-7 on Tuesday night, when they defeated Warkworth at Burnbrae. A large crowd watched the game. The players came to the diamond by horseback, bicycle, automobile, and some walked.

Donny Haig, assistant coach of the Burnbrae team, kept up the morale of his players when the going got tough, and was largely responsible for the 12 to 7 victory. Ralph Erskine, playing with a finger injury, sustained in a recent game, turned in a good game as shortstop despite his injury. A return game will be played between these teams in Warkworth in the near future.

Burnbrae — Denton Meiklejohn p (Denton struck out eight batters), James Haggerman c, Art Nelson 1b, Earl Owens 2b, Earl Fry 3b, Ralph Erskine ss, Guy Ingram lf, Leslie Billen cf, Ralph Fray rf.

Warkworth—Al Laver p, Mel Maycock c, Ed Thompson 1b, Doug Pearson 2b, Bill Allen 3b, Joe Perry ss, Bob Allen cf, Glen Nelson rf, Bill Isaac lf.

Sees Expansion

ANTIGONISH, NS, July 12 — (CP)—A. B. MacDonald, national secretary of the Co-operative Union of Canada, Wednesday said Canada's co-operative movement is showing expansion in every field. Mr. MacDonald, addressing the Nova Scotia Co-operative congress at St. Francis Xavier University, said 600 new marketing and merchandizing co-operatives were formed last year. Total volume of business transacted by the movement's 300 societies was "well over $1,000,000,000."

77 Players To Compete In Junior Golf

TORONTO, July 12 (CP). — Seventy-seven players will compete in the Ontario Junior Golf championships to be held at Toronto Oakdale next Friday, the Ontario Golf Association said on Wednesday.

Two low scorers in the 14, 15, 16 and 17-year-old age groups will be sent to play eight junior golfers at Washington, DC. The match will be held Aug. 3 at the Columbia Country Club. A Toronto department store has sponsored an international trophy for the event.

Red Action Shows Peace Outlook Not Too Bright

WASHINGTON, July 12 (AP)—Communist propaganda treatment of the Kaesong truce talks was described by top officials today as evidence that the outlook for peace in Korea is far from bright.

They held this view even before a new incident led to at least temporary breaking off of cease-fire talks.

The caution with which official Washington approached the opening of the negotiations earlier this week has been deepened by the Red use of publicity as a weapon at the bargaining table.

Adding to this feeling was the temporary snag the Reds threw into the talks today by barring 20 Allied correspondents from going to Kaesong. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Supreme Allied Commander, said the talks have been broken off temporarily because Allied newspapermen were not allowed to pass a Communist check-point.

Washington authorities emphasized that nothing has been agreed on so far except some procedures for future meetings, that the Communists already are fixing their negotiating position by public statements and that meanwhile the military build-up in the field continues.

State Department authorities have been most deeply disturbed by the Pyongyang and Peiping radio broadcasts of a three-point demand for a cease-fire agreement which the Red negotiators assertedly introduced at Kaesong.

The terms thus presented call for a buffer zone on the 38th Parallel, re-establishment of the conditions existing just before the war started (the division of Korea) and withdrawal of all (foreign troops."

To Be Negotiated

These specific points are all the subject of negotiation, or will have to be negotiated. It has been understood that the United Nations side has had in mind a buffer zone not on the 38th Parallel but along the present battle line north of the parallel. Furthermore, there is no intention to withdraw all "foreign troops" and leave South Korea open to another attempt at conquest.

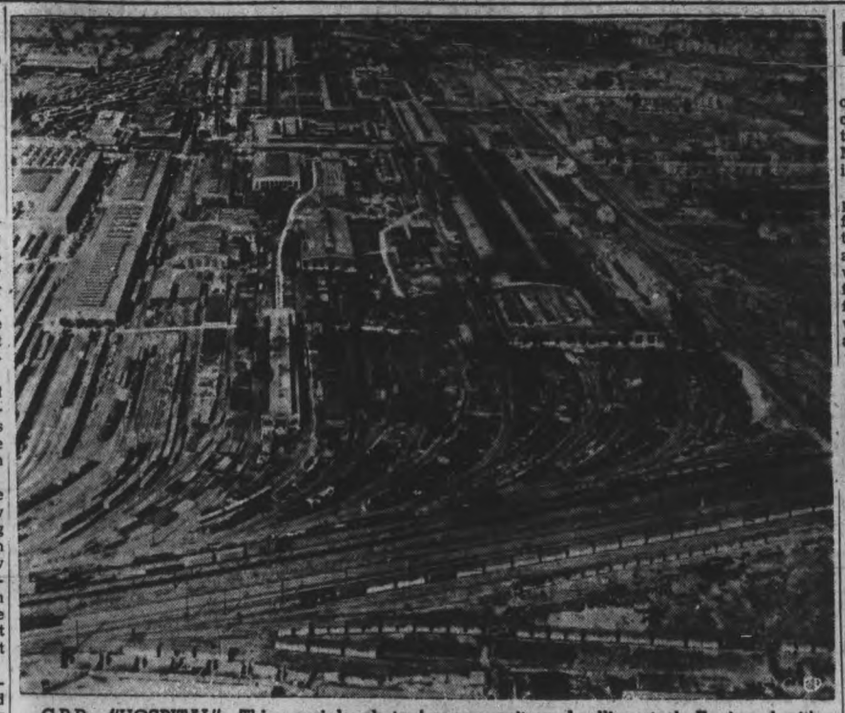
But the significance of the Red statement is not so much in the specific issues as in the general implication that the Reds are trying by publicity to bring into the negotiations pressures which may in the end wreck the talks.

There appears to have been some difference of opinion in the government here over what to do about the Communist propaganda.

One view is that this propaganda line is not of primary importance, that if peace comes to Korea the world generally will know why and if it does not come the world will place the blame where it belongs.

Another view is that the Reds may convince some of the poorly-informed peoples of the world that they have won a military victory in Korea and that the UN forces have been compelled to back down.

E. Chatterson Dies



TORONTO, July 12 — (CP) — Word has been received of the death in California of Edward Chatterson, 90, whose experiments led to the invention of the loose-leaf ledger system now used internationally by industrial and financial houses. He was the fourth man in Toronto to own an automobile and his car was delivered to him by Henry Ford, personally.

To Act As Consultant

TOKYO, July 12—(AP)—Dr. Robert T. Oliver, of Pennsylvania State College, arrived today on his way to Korea to act as consultant to President Syngman Rhee. Dr. Oliver, sudent of Far Eastern affairs and author of several books on Korea, will remain in Korea until January. He has served Rhee in a simitar capacity before.

"SPIRAL STAIRCASE"—This radically different type of television antenna, developed at General Electric's Syracuse, NY, plant, will be used for ultra-high-frequency transmission, which is expected to play a major role in the nation's future TV expansion. The 40-foot-high helical antenna increases initial transmitting power 20 times, so is expected to bring the TV world into many new communities.

Immigration To Hit Peak During 1951

By D'ARCY O' DONNELL

OTTAWA, (CP)—Immigration to Canada in 1951 is expected to be greater in any year since the prosperous 1920s.

Immigration officials state it is possible that more than 150,000 new citizens will reach Canada before the end of the year. The last time the immigration total passed that mark was in 1929 when about 165,000 immigrants came to this country.

The officials recalled the Immigration Minister Harris said last December it was expected that between 100,000 and 150,000 immigrants would come to Canada in 1951. They said these figures did not represent a target or a quota; they represented an estimate of the number of immigrants Canada thought she might obtain.

Figures for the first six months of this year are not available, but officials estimate that more immigrants arrived in the period than during the whole of 1950. The 1950 total was 73,912.

Big Business

In the first five months of this year the number of immigrants totalled 60,356 compared with 30,347 for the corresponding period of 1950. Immigrants from the United Kingdom totalled 10,599 compared with 5,351, an increase of 98 per cent. The number from Northern European countries—20,677 compared with 7,768—was up 166 per cent. From the United States there were 2,926 compared with 2,493, an increase of 17.4 per cent. Other countries sent 26,154 compared with 14,735, an increase of 77 per cent.

All Northern European countries, but notably Holland and Germany, contributed to the large increase in immigration from the continent. Germany—the ban on the entry of German Nationals was lifted last year—sent 5,993 compared with 1,600 in the first five months of 1950. Holland sent 9,132 compared with 4,533.

Immigration Department officials said there are several reasons for the upsurge in immigration this year. The shipping situation has improved and more ships are calling at Canadian ports with immigrants. More interest has been shown in movement to Canada since the government inaugurated a program to assist immigrants with the payment of their passage. Some industries have sponsored group movements of immigrants to obtain the kind of help they needed.

Assisted Passages

Since Feb. 1, the Canadian Government has been assisting immigrants with the payment of their transportation. If an immigrant can put up $30 in the currency of his own country, the Canadian Government will lend him the remainder needed to reach his destination in Canada. The loan can be repaid within two years.

Through a special arrangement with the publicly-owned Trans-Canada Air Lines, immigrants can travel almost as cheaply by air as by ship.

Since 1946—the first year following the end of the Second World War—close to 500,000 immigrants have reached Canada and have helped to swell the country's population to 14,000,000.

The best of the post-war years was 1948 when arrivals totalled 125,414, a small number when compared with some of the years prior to the First World War. In 1913 alone, the number of immigrants totalled almost 500,000.

This is the record of immigration to Canada from Jan 1, 1946, to June 1, 1951:

Year	U.K.	U.S.	North Europe.	Others
1946	51,408	11,469	5,633	3,209
1947	38,474	9,440	5,482	10,458
1948	46,057	7,361	16,957	55,019
1949	22,201	7,744	17,439	47,833
1950	13,427	7,799	17,060	35,626
*1951	10,599	2,926	20,677	26,154
Total	182,439	46,759	83,248	178,299

*—Five-month period.

The figure for Northern Europe includes 7,320 French, 39,825 Dutch and 15,613 Germans

In the department's list of Other Countries are such places as Albania, Arabia, China, Greece, Italy, Japan, Mexico, Poland, Estonia, Russia, Spain, Turkey and seven Asian countries.

Pair Escape Unhurt

MONTREAL, July 12—(CP)—Two Toronto men escaped injury Wednesday when the Lockheed aircraft they were flying in crashed while landing at Montreal's Dorval Airport, about 15 miles west of here. The plane, owned by T. Eaton Company, was en route to Montreal from St. John's, Que., where it had been overhauled. The pilot was Martin Cleworth and the only passenger was Sam Kinnear. Both crawled from the damaged plane after it keeled over.

Eight Cities Report Living Costs Up

OTTAWA, July 12 (CP)—Cost-of-living indexes for the eight cities on which individual statistics are kept increased during May, coinciding with the advance in the Dominion index.

The Bureau of Statistics reported Wednesday that higher food prices lent principal support to the advance, although clothing and home furnishings and services were higher at all centres. Among foods, seasonal strength was noted for eggs and fresh vegetables, while meats and dairy products also were higher.

The indexes are based on August, 1939, equalling 100, and differ slightly from the bureau's general index for all Canada, which is based on 1935-39 equals 100.

Jewel Robbery

TORONTO, July 12 — (CP) — Gloria De Haven's hotel room was ransacked Wednesday night while the actress was performing at a downtown theatre. Miss De Haven said thieves took jewellery worth $20,000.

Donald Devereux To Stand Trial On Murder Count

BRANTFORD, July 12—(CP)—Donald Devereux, 23, Wednesday was committed for trial at the fall assizes on a charge of murder arising from the death of Mrs. Violet Thomson, 29, at preliminary hearing.

Bruce Farr testified that Devereux and Mrs. Thomson were together in Devereux's truck and in very good humor about an hour before Mrs. Thomson died of stabbing on the night of June 15-16.

Farr said that about midnight on June 15 Devereux drove up his truck to buy cigarettes and gasoline, accompanying him was Mrs. Thomson.

"They were very happy, both of them," Farr said in answer to a question from Crown Attorney C. C. Slemin, "they looked like they had been drinking a lot."

At 3 am police were called to the laneway outside the home of Charles Thomson, estranged husband of Mrs. Thomson. They found her dead in Devereux's truck. Coroner Dr. F. D. Clarke testified she had been dead about two hours.

Water in which Devereux washed after his arrest was entered as an exhibit at Wednesday's hearing. He asked for the water after being taken to a cell in Brant county jail.

Also entered as exhibits were a bloodstained knife, the clothing Devereux wore when arrested and an empty cigarette package.

Boy 9 Saves Child

GUELPH, July 12 (CP).—Nine-year-old Jimmy Higgins learned to swim last summer. Wednesday he saw Marilyn Miller, 3, slipping into the deep waters of the Speed River, plunged in and grabbed the child by the hand as she went under. Then he pulled her to safety.

SNACK WHILE YOU SWIM—Something new has been introduced at Puerto Rican beaches for hungry folk who are enjoying the water so much they don't want to get out. It's the floating snack bar pictured above, known in Spanish as a "Cantina Flotante.". Upon signal, the attendant paddles it over so you can help yourself, to sandwiches, drinks and native pineapple.

Toronto Milk Set At 21 Cents

TORONTO, July 12 (CP)—The Ontario Milk Control Board Wednesday night increased the retail price of home-delivered milk in Toronto to 21 cents a quart, from 20½, but ordered a cut to 19 cents a quart in the over-the-counter price.

The new maximum delivered price may be charged immediately. The store price will remain at the present 20 cents a quart until Sept. 1.

The board also set a new price for the producer. As of Sept. 1, the farmer will get $4.55 a hundredweight instead of the present $4.20.

J. B. Houck, secretary-manager of the Toronto Milk Distributors' Association, described the board's decision on milk prices as "completely unrealistic."

21,500 Car Workers In Production Disputes

DETROIT, July 12 (AP)—Some 21,500 automobile workers were idle Wednesday in two production disputes.

Chrysler Corporation said 6,000 employees walked out of its Plymouth plant protesting the firing of a worker accused of failing to do the work assigned to him.

Subsequently, Briggs Manufacturing Company sent more than home 5,500 employees because the bodies it produces for Plymouth began to pile up.

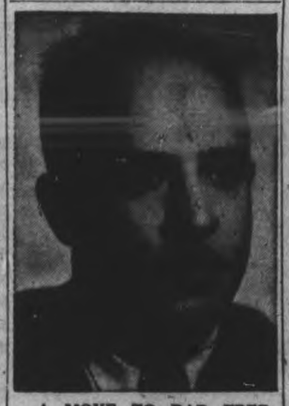
For the 22nd straight working day, Hudson Motor Car Company sent its 10,000 employees home in a dispute over production schedules.

Police Find Out What Charges Were

CRYSTAL BEACH, July 12 (CP).—Police finally found out Wednesday why they arrested two men two weeks ago.

The men were remanded when the appeared in court last week because policemen couldn't find out what the charges were. Gilbert Robertson, dismissed by Town Council as police chief last week, didn't tell anyone where he kept his papers.

Wednesday in court, Henry Corbett of Brantford was remanded one week on a charge of indecent exposure and Arthur Henry, 20, of Toronto was fined $77 and costs on three charges of committing indecent acts against two girls, eight and nine years old and a 10-year-old boy.



Police said they received the missing documents through the mail in an envelope postmarked Brantford.

Electricians To Strike

TORONTO, July 12 (CP).—One thousand Toronto electricians will strike Friday unless a wage dispute with 55 electrical contractors is settled, officials of local 353, the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, said Wednesday. The electricians are asking an hourly rate of $2.25, an increase of 40 cents. Although a conciliation board recommended a rate of $2.15, the contractors' best offer to date is $2.05.

20 Ships Booked

SASKATOON, July 12 (CP).—Twenty ships of 10,000-ton capacity have been booked to call for wheat at Churchill this summer, and more are expected, Frank Eliason, secretary of the Hudson Bay Route Association, said Wednesday. The ships will be from England and France, Mr. Eliason said: "We hope to export 10,000,000 bushels of wheat through the port this season."

A MOVE TO BAR FRED ROSE, former Labor-Progressive Member of Parliament for Montreal Cartier, from trying again for a seat in the House of Commons will be made at the fall session of Parliament. Under present law there is nothing to prevent Rose, who was convicted during the 1946 Russian spy probe, from seeking another seat in the House following his release from St. cent de Paul penitentiary early next month. The former Montreal member was convicted of violating the Official Secrets Act by securing and transmitting information concerning a secret explosive, RDX.

Ontario Crops Hard Hit By Wet Weather

TORONTO, July 12 — (CP) — Scattered rain in Southern Ontario Wednesday continued to reduce the amount of the province's bumper hay crop that can be cured. Agriculture Department officials, who said recently that crop losses due to the wet season might reach $10,000,000, said additional loss during the last few days might run to $4,000,000.

Hay losses due to the wet weather have already been high, but farmers still feel that a good crop can be harvested if the rain stops for a couple of weeks. Mould has hit much of the hay standing in fields.

Rainy weather has also caused a 40-per-cent reduction in the apple yield this year. Agriculture Department officials say wet weather has given scab a chance to get started and almost half of the McIntosh crop this year will have to go for cider.

The wet has also affected other fruit crops. Cherries have been suffering, and peaches and late fruits have had sprays washed off almost as fast as they can be applied. Removal of spray by repeated downpours has given both insects and fungus diseases an opportunity to cut into the fruit yields.

Sugar beet and tobacco growers have found it difficult to work their fields but the rain has made the weeds grow.

Dairy Butter Production Down

OTTAWA, July 12 — (CP) — Production of dairy butter, in continuous decline for the last 18 months, went down again in June to register a seven-per-cent drop for the first six months of 1951, the Bureau of Statistics reported Wednesday.

At the same time, output of margarine also eased slightly.

Butter production in June declined to 40,041,000 pounds from 40,227,000 a year ago, bringing output for the first six months of the year to 110,672,000 pounds against 119,079,000 in the corresponding period of 1950.

Margarine production in June was 7,380,000 pounds against 7,733,000 in May and 6,115,000 in June, 1950. The six-months output was 54,879,000 against 49,037,000 a year ago.

Half-year output of cheddar cheese fell from 39,292,000 pounds last year to 31,376,000, while June production was down to 14,184,000 from 18,302,000.

Predicts Defeat

LONDON, July 12 AP)—Arthur Deakin, head of Britain's largest trade union, predicted Wednesday the Labor Party will suffer a disastrous defeat in the next general election if it proposes still further state ownership of industry. Deakin, secretary of the Transport and General Workers' Union, spoke during discussion of a resolution at the annual conference of the TGW, which has nearly 2,000,000 members. The resolution called for the nationalization of land and the housing industry.

Four Steps to healthy, happy childhood

Long before your baby takes his first step there are delicious, digestible foods available that are safe for babies and saving in time and trouble for mothers. Made by Heinz, whose name stands high with Canadian parents, these famous infant foods are not only recommended by doctors, but in some cases Heinz varieties originated as the result of specific requests by physicians and nutritionists.

*STEP 1—Within the first three months of your baby's life, your doctor will recommend a varied diet of pre-cooked cereals. Heinz offers Barley Cereal, Oatmeal Mixture and Cereal Food.

*STEP 2—Soon after, it is customary to add many of the 27 varieties of Heinz Strained Baby Foods, a list comprising almost everything an infant needs at that age.

*STEP 3—For babies as young as eight months there is another whole list of 19 Junior Foods, offering a wide selection of sturdier foods—soups, meat products, vegetables, fruits and puddings.

*STEP 4—You can hardly say "presto" before those kiddies are school-age boys and girls. In the summer, after strenuous days outdoors, there is nothing they love better than a quick hearty bowl of Heinz Soup—and when school starts again, Heinz Cream of Tomato Soup is a top favourite for lunch boxes.

*Your doctor will tell you when to start and which of these varieties should be served first.

Britain Protests Carrying Charge Wheat Exports

LONDON, July 12—(Reuters)—Britain has protested to the International Wheat Council against a "carrying charge" added by the United States and Canada to wheat exports, it was learned Wednesday.

Britain claims that the six-cents-per-bushel carrying charges violates the international wheat agreement.

Britain, as the leading importer of wheat, has informed the council that she will move that this additional charges goes beyond the authority of the agreement, and is wrong in principle. The move will be made at the end of the next council meeting, scheduled for London, July 20.

The six cents per bushel added to the maximum agreed price of $1.80 per bushel, was announced by Canada, June 14, and by the United States a few days later. It takes effect Aug. 1, start of the new wheat agreement year.

Seeks Support

"Meanwhile Britain will try to enlist the support of other importing countries.

The dispute concerns the interpretation of article six of the international wheat agreement, which provides that the maximum price "shall include such carrying charges and marketing costs as may be agreed between the buyer and the seller."

There is no dispute that wheat under the agreement, including the additional six cents, is much cheaper than would at present have to be paid outside the agreement.

The British case is that an additional charge imposed by the exporting countries cannot be regarded as having been agreed between buyer and seller and is simply a violation of the maximum price.

To Boost Dues

MILAN, Italy, July 12 (AP)—Non-Communist labor leaders voted Wednesday to boost dues from member unions in the international confederation in order to fight Communism and improve the worker's lot. The new dues, about 20-per-cent higher, should bring in more than $1,000,000 from 67 countries and 50,000,000 trade unionists to help organize where free trade unionism is backward.

Changes Jobs

NEW YORK, Juy 12—(CP)—M. A. Wright, deputy co-ordinator of the world-wide production activities of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, is quitting that post to become vice-president of International Petroleum Co., Ltd. of Toronto, a Jersey Standard subsidiary, it was announced Wednesday.

FOR WHOM THE SHELLS TOLL—Maj. Roy Dunford, of Vancouver, B.C., Canadian Army chaplain, uses this unique set of chimes to summon men of his unit to church services. The chimes are made from the empty cases of shells fired by the famous Canadian artillery unit, "Hell's Bells."

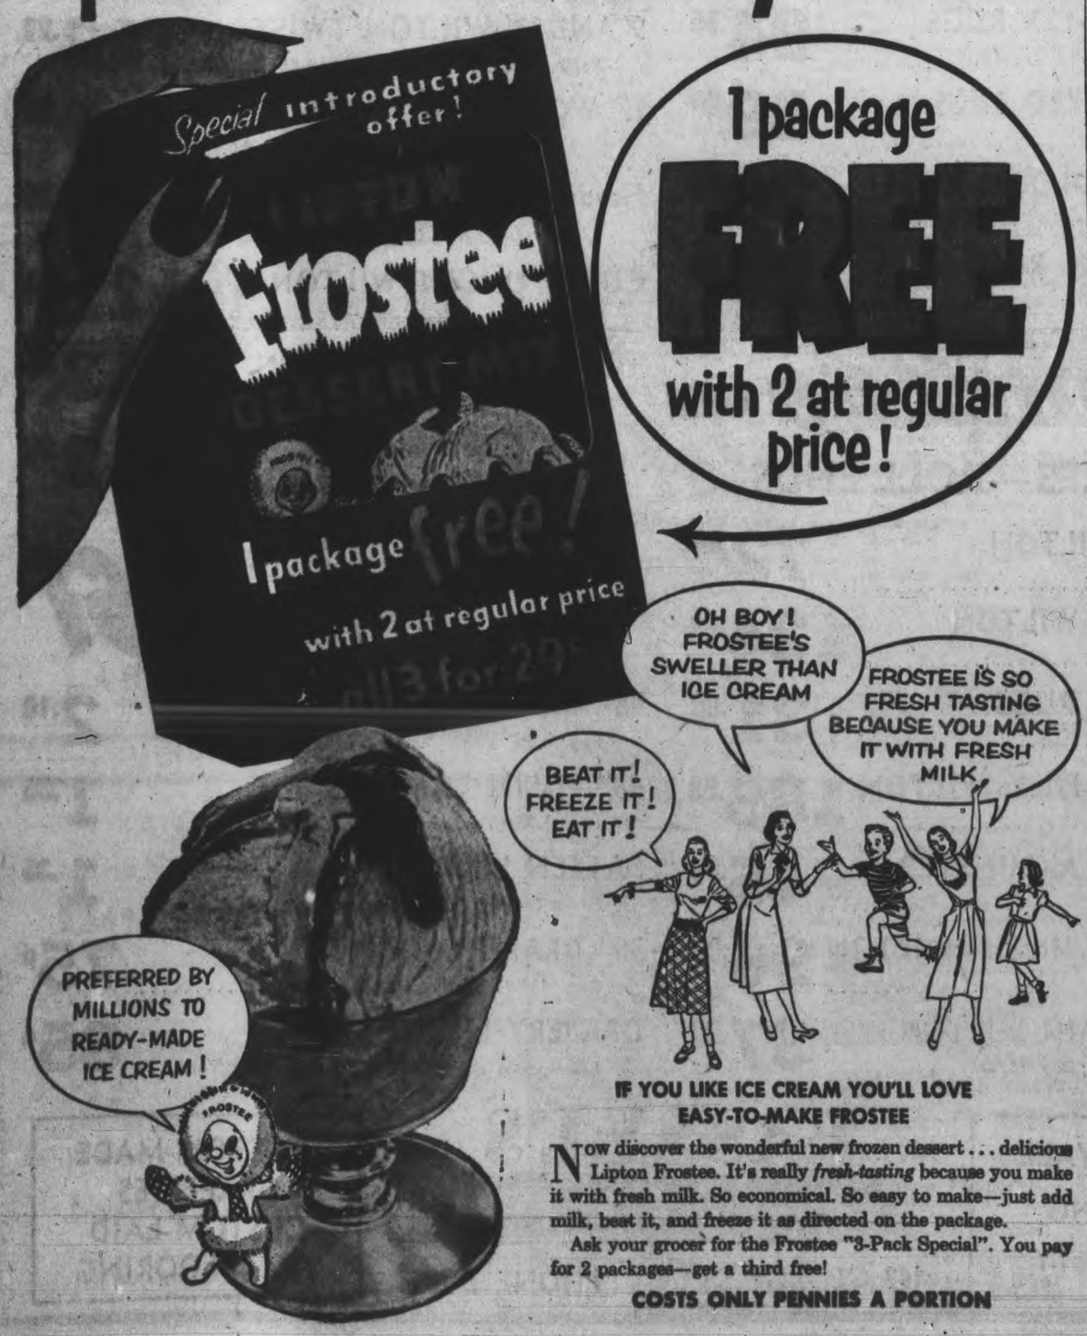
Witness Describes Quarrel On Street Car

TORONTO, July 12 (CP). — A "two or three-minute quarrel" between a man in black and a man in grey was described by Gloria Kilpatrick at the preliminary hearing Wednesday of John Lomax, 39, of Saint John, NB, on a murder charge.

Lomax is charged with the spring-knife stabbing of George Hobbs, alias Mulholland, 33.

The first-year nursing student told of the brief quarrel on an early-morning streetcar.

"I saw the man in black strike the man in grey on the left side of the neck with his fist," she said. She saw spurts of blood coming from the man in grey's neck.



Detective Sergeant Edmond Tong said Miss Kilpatrick picked Lomax out of a police line-up as the man she saw on the streetcar.

Lomax gave no evidence during the hearing, which is continuing.

Travels In Style

REMBERTON, BS (CP). — When William Stewart, superintendent of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, inspects his 400 miles of line, he travels by car — and on his railroad tracks. Special steel flanges hold the rubber wheels of the 1937 car on the rails.

Customers' Corner

Courtesy doesn't add anything to the high quality or superior value of the food you buy at A&P.

But it is the ingredient that makes your shopping trip a pleasant experience rather than a tiresome task.

That is why the men and women who operate your A&P work hard not only to give you prompt and efficient service, but to be courteous and friendly, as well.

They know that even the pressures of rush-hour shopping are no excuse for rudeness.

If they ever fail to make your trip to A&P a pleasant one, they want to know about it. Please write:

Lacrosse Players of 1893 Played On Open Field

All but one of the lacrosse players of the team that lined up for their picture and played in 1893 have been identified by Jack McCabe. No one offered the name of the one player.

The youth of this local teenage lacrosse team was long ago, nearly 60 years, when the field game was a great summer attraction.

Jack McCabe readily identified them all but one..... third from the right (front), and he said there should not be even one blank in his memory. Ches Mowry recognized many of them, and to his own surprise, when he reads this, was his failing to identify Frank Packenham who worked for years at the Canadian General Electric Company.

Of these boys probably averaging around 16 or 17 when the photograph was taken one day at the old Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association (PAAA) grounds in Ashburnham, the only survivor living in Peterborough is William H. Borland, 551 Weller St.

"We used to call him Tucker Borland after the famous Tucker of the Montreal Shamrocks, one of the all-time great lacrosse teams in Canada. And Jack McDonough was called Tansey, the name of another of the Shamrocks of that time. Billy Borland was a fine player," Mr. McCabe said, "but I think he retired from the game earlier than some of the rest of us."

"I know I was learning the game myself when this picture was taken, and if my memory serves me correctly I was then only the back stop."

Obviously the backstop was not a position on the team, but was one of the auxiliaries around the park, retrieving the rubber ball after it had been shot past the goal line. In those days there was no goal netting, only two thin upright posts. Sports writers often mentioned them as "flags". Maybe small flags were attached at their tops in important games.

Mr. McCabe estimated in time that the picture, taken by the late Homer O. Fisk, was a camera shot of about 1893, or 58 years ago.

Jack McDonough was a sturdy boy who later took up boxing and wrestling. Chris Graham will remember him, and in fact all the others. Mr. Graham probably played some lacrosse and also rugby, but baseball was his game, and hockey. He was the star catcher of the Peterborough baseball team, the other half of the battery of which Dan McCabe was pitcher.

Jack Mein was the original "Shockey", brother of the late George Mein, who played up to the days of Fred O. Goodfellow, and uncle of Keith F. Mein of Shockey's Cleaners, Simcoe St., last of the family to play lacrosse as a junior.

"Jack Adams worked at the CGE," Mr. McCabe recalled, "and later became head of the Canada Cycle and Motor Company, Toronto. I think he is still alive."

Rollie Glover became one of the best of the lacrosse squad that used to send the fans into raptures around the turn of the century. He and George Lipsett were a clever pair of stickhandlers and goal-getters at outside and inside home, around the enemy's nets. Glover and Jack McCabe teamed together on many an out-of-town expedition with various teams in eastern and western Ontario, and as far afield as Chicago and New York. They were a pair of aces.

Joe Phelan (wearing the Christy bowler) played the game himself, but was destined for the church. As the Rev. C. J. Phelan he was for some years rector of St. Peter's Cathedral and finally parish priest at Campbellford.

W. A. Sanderson was one of the business men keenly interested in sports. He was proprietor of a jewellery store in the premises of Ostrander's on George St. George Benton wil remember him as a cyclist in those years of bicycle races and clubs.

Frank Packenham, then a young man himself, was another of the active supporters of the local lacrosse teams. He was employed in the shipping and customs department of CGE for many years.

Fred Dobbin, of the composing staff of the old Review, starred as goal tender of the later seniors.

Ernie Wasson was a clerk in the W. A. Sanderson store, and is remembered by the fans of the early 1900's as goalie of the intermediate champion hockey team

George Lipsett's father kept a hotel on the north side of Hunter St. abutting on the PAAA field. He held down one of the hot spots on the home field, inside the enemy's defence.

Fred Heaps (front left) was a printer on the Examiner. Mr. McCabe said he was here on a visit several years ago.

Billy Borland has already been mentioned. Walter Phelan usually played about third home, near centre field, of the later senior team. He went to Winnipeg as a hardware salesman.

Wm. E. Lech was a sports enthusiast. He was uncle of Keith and Cyril Lech, and was a furrier.

Jim McCabe, for years with the Trent Canal, could dish it out with any of them when the going got tough, was a playmaker starting many a raid from centre. Joe Begley was apparently field captain with the youngsters. He was another CGE employee, lived on Charlotte St., and had long experience in local lacrosse.

Some of the boys are wearing medals they won at a Campbellford tournament, Mr. McCabe said. In 1985 he played on one of two Peterborough teams that went to Campbellford and won lockets. Compbellford was a lively centre of sports in those days.

"They had a host of fans there that day, soccer football, baseball, lacrosse tournament and horse races," Mr. McCabe said. "You never see anything like that in these times. Campbellford was the centre of an extensive lumbering industry, and when they put on a sports day, it was a full day, and there were people from all over the country."

Frank Packenham is recalled by Mr. McCabe as "hero" of the Ashburnham community one year the village ball team trimmed an Edison (former CGE) team that included players who were brought in to work here and also build up a baseball squad.

"I remember that the battery was my brother, Dan, and Bill O'Brien, a blacksmith. The Edison's were a smart team, and I guess they thought they were going to have a walkover. Some of them were from the United States. Incidentally the Lock works had another fine ball team about that time.

It comes to me that the Edison game at PAAA was played on Good Friday. The holiday must have been rather late that year. It was Frank Packenham who clouted the winning run for Ashburnham near the end of the game. The villagers won only by that run."

Mr. McCabe recalls that he played twice with the Brampton team against Galt. One of the Galt players was the Hon. Russell Kelley whose illness forced him a year ago to retire from the cabinet position as provincial Minister of Health.

So, of that youthful company snapped by the late H. O. Fisk, who used to be manager with the Utilities Commission, all but two are dead, gone with most of the fans who used to fill the stands of the old PAAA grounds. The high fence at the right of the photograph stretched along Driscoll Terrace almost to the easterly turn of that street.

In an earlier day, before these juniors were learning the game, without benefit of gloves and shoulder pads, the Peterborough Cricket Club used to play its games in that park. That association of name and place attached the name Cricket Grounds to the field that later became more generally known as the "PAAA."

Cricket Place, the short street stemming from Driscoll Terrace, perpetuates that memory. It was laid out along the north side when the old ball park fell into disuse and was abandoned as a sports centre.

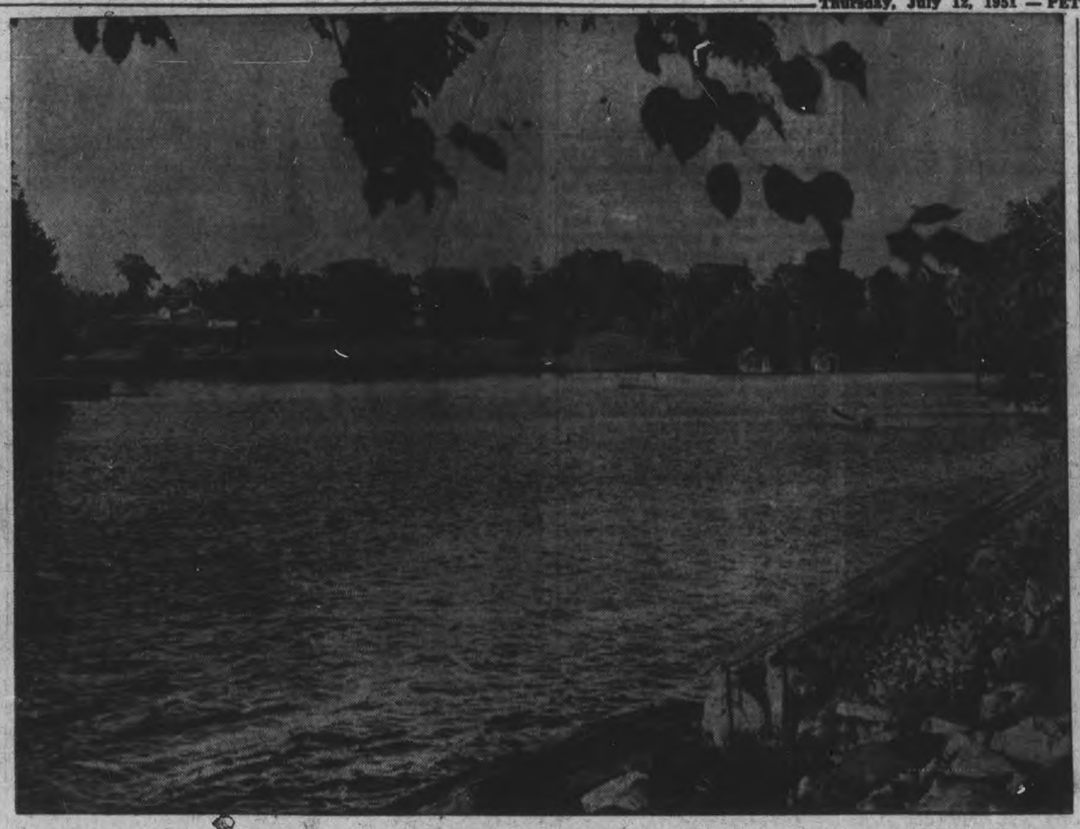
11 Sea Scouts Complete 8-Day Cruise

LAKEFIELD, July 12 (ENS)—Eleven members of the Lakefield Sea Scout Troop under Sea Scout Master Kenneth Jakins arrived back in home port on Monday following their third annual eight-day cruise.

A broken lock gate at Bobcaygeon forced them to abandon ship on Monday and proceed the last few miles in parents' cars. They had planned to sail home in their ship, the Warspite II.

The cruise got underway on July 1 and reached a camping out spot at Brown's Point on Buckhorn Lake the first night. They made MacAlpine Point on Sturgeon Lake the second night and camped near the stone quarry at Kirkfield on the third.



The following day they ran through to Beaverton on Lake Simcoe and remained there for two nights and a day. At this point they were able to experience some truly rough water sailing, so much so that three of the cadets were seasick.

Return Cruise

On the return cruise they made a 50-mile run in 24 hours, Beaverton to MacAlpine Point, and had the unique experience, to them, of sleeping in their open boat while it was under way. Mrs. (Col.) MacRipine showed the boys through her spacious summer home. Arriving at 'Caygeon at Saturday noon, the cruise was held up for two days due to inoperative locks at that point. They left the ship and returned home by car. It is planned to sail the craft back to Lakefield on Sunday.

Summing up the trip, Sea Scout Master Jakins had this to say: "There was much added adventure on this trip and the boys got a whale of a kick out of it. It was good practical training, too. All of the boys gained from two to six pounds in weight and not a few were sparked with professional seamanship as a future way of life."

Sea Scouts on the cruise strength were Ricky Wilford, Gordon Stenner, John Nickels, Jim Fraser, Alex Preston, Terry Doubt, Duane Knox, Stanley Hampton, Terry McIlwain, Bill Maxwell and Kenneth Darling.

Insure School At Apsley For $80,000

LAKEFIELD, July 12 (ENS)—Frank Payne addressed the Lakefield and District High School Board on Friday evening regarding insurance on the new school at Apsley.

It was moved by trustees E. H. Northey and Mac Tucker that the board authorized the placing of insurance for three years at the Apsley school (value $80,000) and assume the payment of one-third of the premium.

Roy and Keith Brown were present and discussed with the board the transporting of pupils from Apsley for 1951-52.

Walter Nelson and Joe Tucker of Apsley, representing the Apsley Area Board, reminded the board that their share of the school site in Apsley was unpaid and suggested it be paid and a requisition be sent for the amount to the Burleigh-Anstruther council.

It was moved by trustees E. Everett and G. McIlmoyle that the secretary issue a cheque for $400 for site for the high school at Apsley, and also write the township of Burleigh and Anstruther for requisition of same and arrange for transfer of the deed.

It was moved by trustees Hunt and Everett that the Lakefield District High School Board purchase barn and land from Frank Coyle for agriculture purposes for $2,500, subject to the approval of the board.

James Craig, architect and Mr. McGregor, electrical engineer, discussed with the board final plans of the new high school in detail, making decisions on several items.

Trustees John Bell and E. H. Northey, moved that the school plans of Lakefield District High School be approved with the necessary changes and revisions and on receipt of final revised plans and specifications that same be forwarded to the Department of Education for approval and authorization to call for tenders.

Principal R. E. Sutton in his report reported attendance as 99.2 per cent for June. Upper school examinations were completed on June 20 with 97 per cent making a pass. In Grade 11, 88 per cent passed; grade 10, 63 per cent passed; grade 9, 90 per cent passed.

Mr. Sutton requested that his secretary, Miss Joyce Huth, be allowed to start work a week earlier in the fall.

It was moved by trustees Northey and McIlmoyle that Miss Huth be hired a week earlier at the regular salary, and also that Mr. Sutton be allowed mileage to Apsley.

"DEVOTED SERVICE"—For 42 years, Mrs. Amy Foot, 93, of Parry Sound, Ont., has taken weather observations three times a day for the Dominion Meteorological Bureau. For making 38,000 reports without missing one, she has been awarded the Imperial Service Medal. Andrew Thomson, controller of meteorology for Canada, is shown making the presentation. The medal usually is awarded for faithful service by railway men or lighthouse-keepers, but was giden to Mrs. Foot for "devoted service."

Pay Tribute To Reuters

LONDON, July 12 (Reuters)—One thousand persons, including the world's leading newspapermen gathered here Wednesday to salute the basic principles of truthful reporting—freedom and accuracy—at a banquet honoring the 100th anniversary of Reuters News Agency.

Kent Cooper, executive director of The Associated Press, delivered the keynote address. Cooper said that the truth is a groundwork for international peace — and countries get the truth wherever newspapers co-operate without government control to collect and distribute the news.

Both the AP and Reuters gather and distribute news on a co-operative basis under newspaper control. The AP marked its 100th anniversary three years ago.

Among the guests at the dinner were Prime Minister Attlee, members of his cabinet, and prominent figures of the church, law, literature, industry, sport and entertainment.

In the newspaper field representing Canada, were Gillis Purcell, general manager of The Canadian Press, and Mrs. Purcell; Edwin S. Johnson, chief of CP's London bureau; W. H. Woolnough, vice-president of the Southam Newspapers of Canada and Mrs. Woolnough, and W. G. Matters of the London office of The Toronto Star and Mrs. Matters.

WAR DOESN'T STOP SCOUTS—Despite the war that has devastated their country, Korean Boy Scouts are carrying on in good shape, as a Navy combat photographer learned when he encountered this Cub patrol in Pusan. Brunettes Not Blondes Aided Bandits' Escape

WOODBRIDGE, July 12 (CP).—Police said Wednesday they have learned that two blondes sought in connection with a $10,600 bank robbery here are really brunettes.

A farmer near Woodbridge told police he had seen two women parked in a sideroad where the three masked gunmen ditched the car they used in the holdup Tuesday of the Royal Bank of Canada branch here.

Police said they believe the women supplied a second escape car for the men. First reports described them as blondes, but police said Wednesday that the women were definitely brunettes.

Police said they have found no trace of the robbers.

Religious Society Can Continue Work

TORONTO, July 12 (CP). — A plan which will enable the 119-year-old Upper Canada Religious Tract and Book Society to continue its work among Great Lakes seamen was approved Wednesday by Mr. Justice R. I. Ferguson of Ontario Supreme Court.

The society had been losing money due to an "over-expanded program." The approved plan calls for liquidation of assets of the society's retail book room and depository in Toronto to meet demands of creditors. Donations to the society for missionary work will be held in trust for that purpose.

The society also employs a minister to work among sailors in the Welland Canal area.

Fish 100 Years Old Hooked Near Wasaga

WASAGA BEACH, July 12—(CP)—A 242-pound sturgeon, estimated to be more than 100 years old, was hooked this week in Georgian Bay. The largest fish ever caught in these waters, the sturgeon measured seven feet two inches and was valued at $535. Russ Eberhart hauled in the fish on a night line with a 12-inch sucker as bait.

Said fisherman Eberhart: "It was like towing a log."

Charles Aberhard reported, June 29, catching a 225-pound sturgeon, believed at the time to have been the largest fish taken from Georgian Bay on a hand line.

Would Allow Britons To Invest In Canada

LONDON, (CP)—Lionel Stride well-known investment-trust chairman in London's financial district, wants the government to remove restrictions on Britons investing in Canada.

He told the annual meeting of the industrial and general trust: "In view of the reduced opportunities of investing in this country, the virtual exclusion of new British capital from the United States and Canada is most regrettable, particularly with regard to Canada.

"Canada is supremely rich in natural resources. But we members of the British Commonwealth are prevented from assisting in Canada's development."

Stride said that in December, 1950 alone net sales of Canadian securities to countries other than Britain and the United States reached $5,400,000. He said European continentals, particularly in France, Belgium, Germany and Italy, now are investing in Canada at an even greater rate, using Switzerland as the main channel.

Boat Skipper Never Leaves Home

PRESCOTT, Ont. — (CP). — Captain Prudent Boivin has travelled nearly 250,000 miles in his work without even getting more than a mile from home.

The man with the merry-go-round job has been sailing back and forth across the St. Lawrence River for the last 26 years with the Prescott and Ogdensburg Ferry Company.

His trips between Prescott and Ogdensburg, NY, have taken him a distance equivalent to 32 round trips between Montreal and Liverpool but the greatest obstacle that he has encountered in all that travelling is the Ogdensburg sand bar.

Despite frequent dredgings the persistent bar still forces the ferry boat to detour on its international runs.

Captain Boivin, born in the Saguenay district of seafaring folks, has been a mariner since 1905. In his off-duty hours he likes nothing better than getting out his violin or mouth organ and entertaining himself and his friends with French-Canadian and other folk songs.

UE Council Denounces IUE As CCF

Claims That Rivals Trying To Pervert Labor Movement

Striking back at the Peterborough and District Labor Council (CIO-CCL) for its Monday night resolution, the stewards' council of Local 524, UE, Wednesday night denounced the labor council's leadership and said that the organization was becoming a vote-catching machine for the CCF party.

This charge by George Wallace, president of Local 524, was in reply to the labor council's resolution that demanded the roundup of top Communist leaders in Canada, and linked UE leaders and politics directly with Communism.

Noting that the resolution was introduced by rival IUE unionists —Irwin Yeo and Orville Martin— Mr. Wallace commented that it was an attempt to cover up the recent IUE defeat in the vote by production workers at the CGE plant.

"To Hide Real Purpose"

"This action was taken in an attempt to hide the real purpose of the political leaders in the council," said Mr. Wallace. "It was taken because of our refusal to hand over the UE union to the CCF. It was the only means these people felt they had of facing the public with a statement after the defeat suffered in the recent vote.

"The Peterborough and District Labor Council is nothing more or less than a vehicle used by a few so-called labor leaders to advance the CCF party and attack those who won't turn the labor movement into a vote-catching machine for the CCF."

(The Canadian Congress of Labor has endorsed the CCF party as its political arm. All unions in the Peterborough and District Labor Council are affiliated with or chartered directly to the CCL.)

Labor council resolution claimed the UE had "brazenly announced Communist affiliation through some of its officers, all of which has been going on while our boys have gone to war in Korea."

Force of Habit

To this Mike Gahagan, UE executive board member replied: "The redbaiting at their Monday night meeting was just force of habit. . . But they're not fooling CGE workers who know that if these people were interested in combatting Reds, they would not have been so conspicuous by their absence in the Korean conflict."

Jack Chamberlain, vice-president of Local 524, said: "Our union stands firmly for the rights of any worker to be a member of the CCF or any other political party, but we do object to this group who are trying to saddle our union and its members with their party, the CCF.

Pipers' Serenade

Examiner employees and customers in the Examiner building were treated early today to a serenade from the Havelock Pipe Band. Arrayed in their new uniforms imported from Scotland, the pipers came to attention on the south side of Hunter St., east of Water St., and struck up a tune. They then wheeled away followed by a small mob of curious and excited children. Ernie Payne, past county grand master, marching at the head of the band, called up to the news room, "This is for the Examiner."

Rain Damage To Hay Mounts, Some In Barns

Rain damage to the county's hay crop mounted Wednesday. Agricultural representative Frank Paterson said today that hay harvested from now on will contain only about half of the usual amount of valuable nutrients.

"Hay is bleached and weathered badly," he said, adding that Wednesday's rain was just what he had feared.

Nearly all farmers have some good hay in the barns, but there is still a good deal of bleached and weathered hay in the fields. Hay is usually in the barns by the first week in July, said Mr. Paterson.

Spring and fall grain crops look good, but the condition of good weather must apply before it is a certainty.

Prospects for the fall wheat crop are somewhat better than average, if wet weather doesn't go into harvest time. Three weeks of sunny, dry weather are needed to turn the good prospects into good crops.

Wrong Man Jailed 24 Hours

After spending 24 hours in jail W. Goodhand was freed on a charge of firing a shot near Albert Playter, Langstaff, but somehow "Adam and Eve" were brought into the mixed-up Lindsay police court case.

Goodhand was freed but George Pinet of Toronto was found to be the culprit and given two years' suspended sentence by Magistrate E. A. Gee.

Apparently Goodhand and Pinet were two boarders in the Mariposa township home of Playter's estranged wife. When Playter tried to get into the house recently by pounding on the doors and windows he was greeted with a shot from a .22 calibre rifle.

He left in a hurry. And the two boarders were tossed into jail by police on a charge of firing the rifle.

Magistrate Gee observed philosophically: "These things occur when there is a triangle—it dates back to Adam and Eve."

"That's digging a long way back for a precedent," mused one spectator.

REFERRED CLINIC

A total of 44 people were x-rayed at the referred clinic used by doctors to check their patients at the Civic Hospital Wednesday. June, 1950's total was 35. During July and August only one referred clinic will be held in each month. Two clinics will again be held a month starting in September.

Failure to Stop, Speed Blamed in Traffic Death

A caution light at the intersection of McDonnel and Park Sts., and a check of traffic on Park St. North were recommendations made by the jury at the inquest into the death of William F. Potter, 57, Crawford's Grove. The jury found from the evidence presented that (1) the Potter car failed to come to a full stop at the intersection of McDonnel and Park Sts., and (2) the Jardine car was travelling too fast.

W. F. Potter was killed July 1 in an accident at the corner of Park and McDonnel Sts. His car had just started to cross Park St. while driving west on McDonnel St., when it met in collision with a car driven by John Jardine, 670 Hamilton St.

After the jury heard the evidence, coroner Dr. Herbert Young said, "Definitely it was an accident that shouldn't have happened."

He pointed out that the road conditions were good, the weather good and visibility good, adding that it was the jury's duty to decide the responsibilities of the two drivers.

Dr. J. A. McNeill said death was due to a depressed skull fracture, caused by the head striking a blunt surface with some force.

Lived Short Time

He said that some attempt at artificial respiration to clear the air ways was made.

"My opinion is that the individual was not alive during that procedure."

Dr. McNeill added that Mr. Potter "must have lived for a short time" because his lips were bluish.

Glen Hunter, an accident spectator, said that he was driving around in his car and happened upon the scene. He took snapshots which were presented.

Nephew of Mr. Potter, James Glanville, testified that Mr. Potter was driving while Mrs. Potter was sitting between her husband and nephew.

According to Mr. Glanville, Mr. Potter did not consume any alcohol that Sunday.

Mr. Glanville said that they were driving to the bowling greens at about 25 miles an hour. He saw Mr. Potter disengage the clutch and slow down.

When asked if Mr. Potter stopped, Mr. Glanville said, "Well at the time we were still discussing (meaning the bowling greens) and I was not paying any attention. I can't say whether he came to a definite stop."

Car Few Feet Away

He first realized danger when he caught sight of a car a few feet from the centre of the car. He shouted to his uncle to "look out." He added that he believed his uncle was concentrating on the railroad tracks.

[illegible] in a nearby coffee bar he pointed out to a policeman that Jardine had been drinking.

Mrs. Elsie Potter then testified briefly.

Mr. Jardine said that Sunday he had a drink of scotch at approximately 5 p.m.

Eggs $1 A Dozen Predicted For Next Month

Dollar-a-dozen eggs may be the rule for Peterborough within the next month, if egg prices go the way the experts think they will.

City egg prices run at present between 78 and 83 cents a dozen for Grade A large. In Montreal, the tops for Grade A large is 95 cents a dozen, the highest egg prices that city has experienced.

E. C. Braund said today that it wouldn't be too long before this city's egg prices follow the Montreal trend. "Egg prices are pretty well tied together across the country," he said. He added that some of the eggs sold in Montreal are shipped there from this district.

Several Reasons.

Agricultural representative Frank Paterson said there were several reasons for the increase in the price of eggs.

Last spring, there was a slump in the egg market and a lot of the smaller flock-holders sold out. High feed prices were also a reason for the smaller holders selling.

As a result of these flock sales, the total population of layers is down and there is no immediate prospect of its increasing. The fear of Newcastle disease among poultry is one reason that flocks are not being built up.

Mr. Braund remarked that the number of broilers has advanced markedly over the number of layers. "Not too many people are raising chickens for eggs," he said.

Meat prices going up brought a parallel increase in egg prices, and the six-cent jump Wednesday in Montreal is believed to be a possible fore-runner of dollar-a-dozen eggs.

Team Drags Man

Wilson Cairns, 21, Fleetwood in Manvers township, is recovering at home from painful facial injuries he received Tuesday when his team of horses bolted and he was trailed along the ground behind. He sustained cuts on the chin and mouth, one tooth was knocked out and several others loosened, a piece of jawbone was also chipped away, and he received skin burns on his left leg and hip. Cairns was using a hayrake when the team bolted. He was treated as an outpatient at Civic Hospital.

Train Hits Sitting Car Driver Unable To Move

James Guiry, 550 Homewood Ave., found Wednesday afternoon what it is like to sit in a car on railroad tracks unable to budge and be hit by the train.

Guiry was driving south on Aylmer St. at 4 p.m. when he reached the tracks crossing diagonally at Perry and Aylmer Sts. A train was approaching northward. Guiry put the brakes on, stopping just on the tracks.

He tried to put the car in reverse but the gears didn't mesh and the engine hit the small English-model car. The train shoved it

Both Guiry and his car escaped without too much damage.

APS Harold Mesley and Constable Jack Wilson investigated.

W. G. Thompson Air Cadets CO

W. Garfield Thompson has been named CO of the City of Peterborough Squadron Royal Canadian Air Cadets to be recruited in mid-September.

The roster of squadron officers was named by the Air Cadet Squadron sponsoring committee of the Peterborough Wing of the RCAF Association and were released today by Committee Chairman, K. C. Dalrymple. Actual appointment will follow approval by RCAF headquarters, Ottawa.

Mr. Thompson has served 10 years in the air force. He joined the RAF in 1936 and in 1945 transfered to the RCAF. He retired in 1946 as a wing commander.

Hugh Morrison has been named adjutant; W. A. Van Atter, equipment officer; Leslie Graham and Marlow Banks, flight commanders. All these men are former RCAF commissioned officers.

Dr. Lloyd Thompson will be medical officer and the protestant chaplain will be Major C. G. Everitt. Four civilian instructors have as yet to be named.

The sponsoring committee plans to establish a squadron of 100 cadets. Youths between the ages [illegible] enlistment. It is expected that the squadron will be on parade by the end of September.

3 RCN Ships Make Cruise In Pacific

OTTAWA, July 12 —(CP)—A Royal Canadian Naval group of three ships has started on the return leg of a Pacific cadet training cruise from Esquimalt, BC, to Pearl Harbor and back, the navy said today.

The cruise, similar to ones held for cadets off the Atlantic seaboard started June 27, when the destroyer Crusader and the frigates Beacon Hill and Antigonish left Esquimalt. They arrived at Pearl Harbor July 6 and left July 10, scheduled to arrive back at their base July 19.

Orangemen Of 130 Lodges Walk In Rain To Mark Battle Of Boyne

Citizens Band, Fife And Pipe Bands Lead Followers of King William of Orange In 261st Anniversary of Battle

Rain or shine, said the Orangemen, there'll be a Walk. Wet it was, beginning at 2:40 p.m., an hour late. The weatherman had threatened them with rain, but they turned out about 2,000 strong, forming up at the Armouries and the Orange Hall on Brock St. One hundred and thirty lodges were represented in the walk, from Durham, Northumberland, Victoria, Haliburton, Ontario, Hastings and Peterborough counties. There were about a dozen bands, including the Peterborough Citizen's Band, the Havelock pipe band and innumerable fifers and drummers from the lodges.

Inside and outside the Armouries, as they prepared for the Walk, energetic souls practised their marches on fife and drum, usually in pairs of one healthy-lunged fifer and one heavy-handed drummer.

Beside the Orange Hall on Brock St., the pipers from Havelock were tuning up individually, sounding their "a's" with a few trills and grace notes.

The rain started to fall in earnest about 1 p.m. and by 1:15, awnings in front of George St. stores sheltered bystanders waiting for the parade to start and a few Orangemen and their wives caught on their way to the organization points.

Seventy-five-year-old R. W. Montgomery, 193 River Rd., who celebrated his 50th wedding anniversary today, stood outside the Orange Hall and said he was thankful he'd brought his coat. Other oldsters were planning to dare the damp in shirtsleeves and vests.

County Master Gordon Trennum said he had had two or three telephone calls asking when the parade was going to be held, now that the rain had started.

The walk was in memory of the Battle of the Boyne 261 years ago, when the army of William of Orange defeated the Irish supporters of James II at the Boyne River.

The parade followed the following route: down McDonnel to Aylmer, up Aylmer to London, across London to George, down George to Hunter, across Hunter to Aylmer, down Aylmer to Charlotte, across Charlotte to George, up George to Hunter St. and across to Riverside Park.

MAIN ST. TOPICS

JUST SPRINKLER

A pumper truck and its firemen crew dashed down to the Outboard Marine plant, Monaghan Rd., shortly after 1 a.m. today after an automatic alarm had been turned into the fire station. But it turned out to be nothing more serious than a defective sprinkler head that had blown off tripping the alarm.

TOP THIS, FISHERMEN

We've all heard about the one that got away when fishing yarns start. But here's a tale to prove that truth is stranger than fiction. Jack Pennock, an Aurora barber who fishes for a hobby, made a routine cast into Hog Lake, near Minden. He felt a tug and settled in his mind for a fair-sized bass. He was wrong but he wasn't disappointed: it was a wallet containing $33.35.

Two Minor Accidents

Two minor accidents were reported to the police department Wednesday.

When Ronald Wood, 544 Elm St., who had been driving north on Park St., went to make a left turn on to Murray St., his car met in collision with a car driven by Frank Whatman, 278 Park St. Damage to both vehicles was slight.

Constable Eldon McDonald and Donald Mackay investigated.

At Lansdowne and Aylmer Sts. cars, driven by Keith Carnochan, 748 Water St., and Miss Jennie Saunders, 207 Romaine St., collided. It was investigated by Constable V. A. McConnell.

When Does Man Deserve Break Prospector Asks

VAL D'OR, Que.—(CP)—Chuck Bilgood is probably the only man in the world to buy an outboard motor for $60,000.

The 38-year-old prospector came here from Haileybury, Ont., after a stint in Kirkland Lake. His fling at expensive motors came a few years ago when he gave a fellow mine-seeker 10,000 shares of Golden Manitou stock for the outboard.

"How was I to know that Golden Manitou would be worth $6 a share in 1951?" He asked an interviewer.

For that matter he never got to use the motor anyway. His brother fouled the propellor in weeds and the motor fell into the Harricanna River near this northwestern Quebec mining town.

Chuck, a prospector since he was 12, figures he's the original hard-luck kid of prospecting.

Here's why:

When he was 13, he worked all summer with a crew mining cobalt (worth about $1 a pound). When they got the ore into a boat and down the river to sell it, the boat capsized and sank.

Guessed Wrong Again

He once held all the claims to the site of Golden Manitou mines, now one of the richest in the north. He sold it for a few dollars.

In 1938, he staked a claim near Val d'Or and then let it go for taxes. The claim is now the East Sullivan Mine. Shares are worth $7 each.

Before he went into army, he held 10 claims. One day he read in the paper that shares on the claims were worth $1 each.

"Wow! I figured I was worth $65,000....Instead I found my partner had sold our interests for $400."

"One of these days, I'm going to hook on to a good one and land 'er for a change."

Currently he has a half stake on the town dump, obtained when it came open for claims in 1948.

PERISCOPE IN REVERSE—With his "waterscope", right, Peter McLean of Windsor, Ont., hopes to investigate sunken vessels in Lake Erie. The telescopic tube is equipped at the lower end with a 3,000-watt lamp which is expected at give good visibility in a 60-foot radius at depths up to 100 eet. Mirrors and a surface eye-piece will permit a view of the lake bottom in all directions. Here inventor McLean points out features of the "waterscope" to 102-year-old Capt. Wellington Spheans, a former diver.

St. Catharines Has Best Shots

HAMILTON, July 12—(CP)—St. Catharines sharpshooters Wednesday won the Ontario Police Association annual shooting matches, for their second straight victory. With 655 out of a possible 720 points they nosed out the Hamilton team by three points.

Sixty crack shots from police forces in various parts of Southern Ontario took part.

Provincial Constable J. Fulton of St. Thomas, was individual winner with a grand aggregate of 272 of a possible 300.

Results included:

Grand aggregate, J. Fulton; expert shot of day, Chief J. Robertson, Weston, and Constable J. Storrie, St. Catharines, tied with 229; sharpshooter, class one, Constable K. McGivern, York Township, 222; class two, Constable R. Warden, Guelph, 221; class three, Constable A. W. Slidders, Galt, and Constable J. Hart, Hamilton, 217.

Dockers Name Guardsman President of New Union

By J. C. GRAHAM

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — A former Grenadier Guard, W. F. McMullen, has become the president of a tough New Zealand labor union six weeks after arriving from England. As head of the Auckland Cargo Workers' Union he has also stepped into the forefront of the showdown against extremist longshoremen's leaders.

The Auckland Cargo Workers' Union was formed when the governments decertified the former Waterside Workers' Union as a result of the nationwide waterfront strike which began in February. Even before that strike shipping lines imposed a 7½ per cent surcharge on freight to Auckland because of slow working and incessant port disputes.

Auckland was the first major port in New Zealand to form a new independent union. Numerous members of the new union were attacked by strikers and several required medical treatment. Nevertheless it grew rapidly in strength. Its members are drawn from many trades but they have shown themselves well able to look after themselves.

McMullen joined the new union immediately on arriving from England as an immigrant with his wife and two children. He had served with the Grenadier Guards in the Second World War and later as an officer in the Berkshire regiment. He rose to the rank of major and went through a course at the British Army Staff College at Camberley, England. He farmed after the war until he decided to take his family to New Zealand to begin a new life.

New Zealand laborers are traditionally cautious of accepting newcomers until they have proved their worth. However, McMullen showed himself well able to hold his own in cargo handling and at meetings his practical mind made a deep impression.

There were rapid executive changes during the storm early days when the union was struggling to get established. The first president was attacked in his home and taken to hospital with concession. He resigned as he faced a long period of convalescence. The second president proved unsatisfactory and was deposed. McMullen was voted to the chair at a meeting which drew up conditions for the future control of the union and later he was elected president.

The new union has already speeded up cargo handling at Auckland by 60 per cent. Although comparatively inexperienced, it sent one ship away in the fastest time for that class of vessel in 15 years.

Restrictive practices by the old union resulted in incentive bonus schemes bringing very little reward to workers, but the new union is taking full advantage of the schemes. As a result members are earning big money and a full labor force has been attracted to the new union, completely displacing the strikers.

Newsprint Conference Held In Quebec

QUEBEC, July 12 (CP).—Representatives of Quebec newsprint companies conferred Wednesday with Premier Duplessis and other Quebec Government officials over a recent newsprint price increase and other questions concerning the industry.

When an increase of $10 a ton, raising the basic price in Canada to 112, was announced last month, Premier Duplessis said he would like to see special consideration given Quebec newspapers.

Wednesday's conference followed a meeting of the premier and Quebec daily and weekly newspaper publishers two weeks ago. The conference lasted two hours and 20 minutes.

The talks were behind closed doors, but the premier indicated that he will make a statement at his weekly press conference Friday.

Ontario, Maritime Men Make Up Bulk of Brigade

OTTAWA, July 12 (CP).—Brig. Geoffrey Walsh currently is establishing his headquarters for the 27th Brigade at Valcartier, Que., as its manpower nears the 10,000 mark.

Army statistics Wednesday showed that the Maritimes and Ontario have contributed two-thirds of the 9,200 men who have enlisted in the last two months and been posted to the formation Brig. Walsh is expected to lead to Germany this fall.

About 6,000 of those men will go to Europe. The others will remain behind in a replacement group that will provide men to rotate with those overseas.

Defence Minister Claxton has said the brigade will need roughly double its own establishment, which he said is between 5,500 and 6,500 men. That means between 11,000 and 13,000 soldiers. Ten thousand has been set as a sort of preliminary objective but men will keep on being posted to the brigade after that is reached.

The contrast between recruiting interest in the Maritimes and Ontario and that in other parts of the country is a striking feature of the army's figures.

They show that since formation of the brigade for Atlantic Pact service was announced early in May men have been posted to its ranks from the recruiting stations at the rate of about 1,000 a week. Applications have been running at about 8,000 a month.

Of the 9,189 who had enlisted up to late Tuesday the four Maritime provinces—with about 10 per cent of the population—had recruited 2,685 and Ontario 3,238. The other areas weren't even close to that sort of interest.

Quebec had 1,091, Manitoba and Saskatchewan 904, Alberta and British Columbia 1,271.

Actually the man all enlist in the army and can be posted anywhere. So far, however, their wish to serve with the 27th is being respected.

Brig. Walsh finished a cross-Canada tour last weekend and headed for Valcartier to establish his headquarters. He has a rear-echelon headquarters at defence headquarters here, too, to keep in touch with the general staff.

TURTLES IN THE "SOUP"—Turtles like water, but they also like to come out once in a while and get some air and sun. Thanks to flood waters that cover many areas in Kansas, these turtles are having a tough time trying to find a dry place on the back porch of this Wichita house.

Patrol Gives Motorist Helping Hand

CALGARY — (CP), — A visitor from Pennsylvania stood on the side of the road near Banff one recent afternoon, dismally surveying a flat tire on his car.

Dressed in neat white flannels, the tourist regretted that he was about to get very dirty changing that tire.

While he pondered the problem, two white-overalled men on motorcycles approached, stopped, and with little ceremony got down to the business of putting on the spare tire.

When it was all over, the American learned his good Samaritans were members of the Alberta Motor Association Road Patrol, which helps motorists in distress.

The Calgary patrol is the first one in Canada, say AMA officials. It operates north, south, and west of Calgary on Friday evenings, Saturdays, and Sundays.

The AMA patrol has been operating a few weeks, and already hundreds of motorists have been assisted.

Tires are changed, headlights repaired, towing trucks obtained, and maps and information supplied.

The Alberta Motor Association will start a similar travellers' service out of Edmonton this summer.

NOW—AN OPEN SECRET

"That cup of tea at Muriel's just about saved my life—I could have hugged her, I was so weary shopping."

"Yes, it was good, too—I know! I've got her secret."

"Oh?"

"Yes — Mother Parker's Orange Pekoe."

"That's a coincidence! Only yesterday Aunt Bella was praising Mother Parker's Tea.

"Says she just loves the Quality and convenience of their Tea Bags."

Large Percentage Of Industry Prefers To Be In Smaller Towns

By FORBES RHUDE

TORONTO, July 12 (CP).—Do you want a new industry for your smaller city or town?

Apparently the chances are good for getting one, if general experience in Ontario can be taken as an indication. But, first, there are some things the smaller city or town must do, if it expects industry to come arunning and not give it the go-by.

The Ontario experience, and some of the things that must be done, are outlined in the annual review of the trade and industry branch of the Provincial Department of Planning and Development, submitted by F. J. Lyle, director, to Hon. William Griesinger, the minister in charge.

For one thing, an area must make itself known to industry; and, further, the review states:

"It is coming to be recognized that industry will only locate in municipalities with adequate physical services, good schools, serviced land for housing and improved recreational facilities." The report adds:

"The popular misconception that 'most new industries land in the metropolitan area' is not borne out by the record of branch-plant establishments (in Ontario) in 1950.

Choose Outside Areas

"Of 77 new branch plants employing at least 10 persons, or having at least 5,000 square feet of floor space, no fewer than 51 chose locations well outside the metropolitan area. . . .

"A number of factors influenced this trend, including the availability and cost of housing and labor. Proximity to consumer markets will always be an influencing factor in some types of production, and in heavy manufacturing the source of materials also counts. But, nevertheless, a substantial number of manufacturing enterprises are seeking favorable locations in smaller cities and towns. . . .

"Industry is showing an increasing interest in the Eastern Ontario area. This apparently is due in part to congestion in the built-up areas of central and southwestern sections, but more particularly to the regional promotion in the East.

"Some 32 municipalities have sponsored joint development with the leadership of the Eastern Ontario Associated Boards of Trade and co-operation of the municipal division of the trade and industry branch. One staff member now devotes full time to assisting those active in the industrial development of Eastern Ontario.

Progressive Attitude

"The progressive attitude of industrial commissions and municipal officials throughout the province has been responsible for much of the decentralization of industry in recent years."

Of current conditions, the report says:

"Shortages of such base materials as steel, nickel and chromium are being felt by those manufacturers who do not possess defence contracts, and their concurrent priorities for materials. Restrictions on consumer credit have cost some manufacturers a ready market.

"Conflicting pressures are likely to produce a variety of results, including peak employment and production for some industries and unemployment and loss of business for others. Companies beset by materials shortages have been advised by the trade and industry branch to explore the possibilities of sub-contracting as the quickest solution to their problem."

THIS RADIANT NEW MOTHER (above) receiving a bouquet from her proud husband, prepared through in-bed beauty routines to present an attractive appearance to visitors. Clean, well-arranged hair and fresh, glowing skin are the results of a dry smampoo (lower right) and a facial treatment (left) which will give her a head-start on beauty when she takes her baby home.

Don't Neglect Yourself At Stork Time

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

In the flurry of excitement over a new baby, many a young mother forgets that the well-wishers who come to view the baby will be seeing her as well. Her looks are therefore important.

If you've a date with the stork this summer, you'll find a little advance planning goes a long way toward preparing you to receive your beside visitors with queenly grace and self-assurance.

When you pack your bag for the hospital, remember to include—in addition to the usual items enumerated by your doctor—a few, well-chosen beauty aids to help you combat the problems which confront any woman who's temporarily or permanent abed.

During the hot-weather months, these difficulties are often accentuated—particularly those of hair care. Perspiration causes matting or stringiness; excess olliness causes unattractive, sticky strands which seem to attract more than their share of grime.

A dry shampoo such as that offered by one well-known firm is often the answer for new mothers who are troubled about the unkempt look of their hair following delivery of their babies.

This hair-cleasing preparation is a fragrant powder which requires, makers claim, only 10 minutes to convert limp, oily hair into fresh, sweet-smelling tresses.

The shampoo kit contains, in addition to a shaker container of powder, a small brush only slightly larger than a toothbrush. This manageable tool makes it easy to clean each strand separately. Your own hairbrush is used for brushing out the powder when its work is done.

Although this preparation does not ordinairly disturb the wave in your hair, according to the manufacturer, you may nonetheless find your curls in need of assistance. Straggling or matting often results from too much pillow-time.

Prepare for this possibility by taking along your bobby pins or other curling aids. For the sake of others who may be sharing your room or ward, as well as for unexpected visitors, it's a good idea to have along a length of pastel net veiling from which to fashion a turban. Wear this to conceal pin-curls or curlers rather than a hair-net.

During the time your were waiting for your baby's birth, you may have noticed physical changes other than figure differences. Sometimes hair and skin are affected. If your complexion is dull or muddy, you'll find you can put your hospital time to good advantage by turning to measures that will help restore its radiance. A cleansing program may be what you need; or perhaps a facial of some kind is your answer.

Avoiding waiting until you get home and get the baby settled to start a beauty come-back. You may find your schedule busier than you'd anticipated; you may find yourself wishing you'd taken advantage of your in-bed leisure.

Beruffled, Quilted Petticoats Feature New Fall Styles

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK, July 12—(AP)—The petticoats of grandmother's day are with us again, as even the most ardent devotees of blue jeans and bobby sox soon will be aware.

No less a designer than Jane Derby, noted for elegance and conservatvie taste, is showing full-skirted suits for fall, accompanied by petticoats not only beruffled and stiffened with horsehair hems but also quilted.

A sensation of her collection, shown today to the visiting fashion press, is a suit of mauve tweed with plum velvet collar and cuffs. The skirt flares like a morning glory at the bottom and there is a petticoat of plum-colored quilted satin, designed to peek out in a beguiling manner when the wearer mounts a high step or crosses her knees.

Startling Change

Startling after a year of straight-line-skin-tight skirts, the new silhouette may be all to the good. It may make girls study up on the feminine arts and graces once more, learn how to swish a petticoat and flirt a fan and stop borrowing all the clothes from their brothers' wardrobes.

While most designers are showing one or two full-skirted suits for fall, Mrs. Derby shows a majority of her styles with flaring hemlines and makes petticoats go with all hem.

Also in today's fashion line-up was Christian Dior, the Parisian credited with fathering the "new look" of several years ago.

Dior now appears to prefer the pared-down look, showing suits wilth skirts still straight and narrow and even deserting his beloved hip-padding. He does, however, achieve a rounded feminine line in suits by means of pockets, peplums and such, and keeps the shoulders in natural dimensions.

This year Dior calls it the "arched silhouette"—and it's all done without benefit of pads, bones or hidden girders.

Dutch Girl Wins Beauty Contest

TORONTO, July 12 — (CP) — A 19-year-old Dutch girl who isn't sure what color her eyes are, but who can speak six languages fluently, won a beauty contest Wednesday night.

Phyllis Greenway, an attractive blonde in dazzling white sharkskin dress, was chosen as a finalist in the Miss Toronto contest. Born in Holland, and a resident of France most of her life, she came to Canada four months ago.

She entered the contest as part of her plans to become a top-flight model.

And she studied languages because no one wants a dumb woman," she said.

As for her eyes . . . they're brown . . . or green . . . or grey . . . or hazel . . . or . . . well they're not red.

COOL AS A BREEZE—Cotton-knit blouses, like the one Pego McNaughton models above are both comfortable and attractive to wear at home with play skirts on sultry evenings.

CHESS MASTER WEDS—Abe Yanofsky, 26-year-old Winnipeg chess master is shown with his bride, the former Hilda Gutnick of Winnipeg. Yanofsky, four-time holder of the Dominion chess title, experts to enter the Canadian Chess Championship at Vancouver, Aug. 26-Sept. 1.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Prize-Winning Lemon Pie Found Heavy on Cornstarch

In the sunny land of the lemon it seems that you compete every year with hundreds of your sister cooks for the lemon pie championship.

When I received the prize-winning recipes—plus some appetizing pictures that in themselves looked good enough to eat—I made the pie up. Now it contains seven tablespoons of cornstarch which are quite a few—nearly one-half cup. Do not be tempted to tamper. Follow the recipe. The finished product is both a delight to behold and to savour.

Prize Lemon Meringue Pie

Mix together 7 tablespoons cornstarch and 1½ cups sugar less 1 tablespoon. Add ¼ teaspoon salt stir very well and add 1½ cups boiling water stirring over medium heat. When it thickens cook over boiling water for one half-hour, stirring occasionally, but cook covered. Beat 3 egg yolks and spoon some of the starch-sugar mix into it stirring, then return it to double boiler and cook 5 minutes. Remove from heat and add a generous half cup of fresh lemon juice and 2 tablespoons butter. Let cool somewhat before putting into baked pie shell. Beat the 3 leftover egg whites until foamy with ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar. Add 6 talbespoons sugar and beat until stiff. Spread over filling in pie being sure meringue attaches to pie crust at edge (this prevents "Weeping"). Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. until golden. Cool at least 3 hours before cutting. Do not cool in refrigerator.

Lemong Sponge Pie

(This is the pie that has a filling that is poured in a partially baked shell—and when baked has set into two layers. Very interesting and different.)

Bake a pastry shell for 8 minutes at 425 deg. Fahr.

Make the filling by creaming 1 tablespoon butter and 1 cup sugar together, then add 1 tablespoon flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, and cream again, then add 3 tablespoons fresh lemon juice and the grated rind from 1 lemon, and beat again. Add 2 beaten egg yolks and beat, then add 1 cup whole milk and mix. Beat the egg whites until stiff and fold them into the first mixture. Pour into the partially baked pie shell and bake in moderate oven of 350 deg. Fahr. for about 40 minutes or until top is a delicate brown and filling is set. Serve cold but not chilled.

Lemon Chiffon Pie

This pie is best when served chilled and if you do not care about calories add whipped cream to top it at the last minute.

Mix together in saucepan 2-3 cup sugar, 4 tablespoons cornstarch, and ½ teaspoon salt, and when well blended stir in 2-3 cup boiling water and cook until thick and smooth, stirring. Remove from heat and stir in 2 beaten egg yolks and 2 tablespoons butter. Cook over very low heat, stirring, for 5 minutes. Meanwhile have soaking in ½ cup cold water 1 tablespoon plain gelatine for 5 minutes. Add ½ cup lemon juice and grated rind of 1 lemon, stir, then add the soaked gelatine and 1 cup thin cream. Let this stand until it just begins to congeal then fold in 2 stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into 9-inch baked pie shell and let cool until set. Chill before serving. This may be made the day before it is needed for the gelatine mixture does not oversoak the crust.

REMODELLING SALE

We don't need an excuse to run a sale, because every day is sale day at thrifty old Levinson's. Day in and day out Levinson's offer quality merchandise at low prices.

We wanted to put a new face on Levinson's for some time, but were unable to do so for the simple reason that we did not have a long enough lease.

However, we understand the Property Committee of the City Council are going to renew existing leases, so Levinson's made an appointment with Hobb's and they want to get "cracking" fast. That's our story, and that's why we're having a sale. If you think you have seen values up to now, ladies you have seen nothing. Check these super dupers and see for yourself.

THE PLACE OF PLAID in fashion is assured the year around. This summer, it takes its rightful place in a wardrobe in the form of a sheer. Sheer cottons are strong hot weather avorites; in plaid, they are doubly acceptable this year.

A fabric used for a junior cotton (left) that has the repeated pattern of a man's handkerchief. This is an opaque sheer in blue overplaided with brown. Sleeves are brief, neckline is round, a narrow belt in brown carries out the feeling of the fabric design. The skirt falls into soft, unpressed pleats.

Dotted swiss (right) in a summer plaid for city wear. In shades of tobacco brown, it has tiny sleeves that just cap the shoulders, a narrow collar and neat ront closing. A full skirt is gathered onto a trim waist that's encircled by a brown velvet belt.

Hooper's CONFECTIONERS & CATERERS

THE FORMER MISS DORIS RICKER and her husband Mr. Lloyd Morley of Agincourt, pictured after their marriage Saturday in Kawartha Park Chapel. Her parents, Mrs. Carmen Ricker and the late Dr. Ricker have been summer residents at the Park for 32 years.—(Parks Studio Photo)

Summer Residents Daughter Wed At Clear Lake

Kawartha Park Chapel, Clear Lake, was setting for the wedding on Saturday of Miss Doris Isabel Ricker, daughter of Mrs. Carmen Ricker, a summer resident at the Park for 32 years, and the late Dr. Ricker, whose death occurred there in the summer of 1950 to Mr. Lloyd Oliver Morley, formerly of England.

Cedars, shasta daisies and ferns decorated the chapel. The marriage was performed by the Rev. Philip Duncan of Toronto and the music was played by Mr. Winkler of Cobourg. Soloist was a Leslie Bell singer, Mrs. Gordon Murphy of Toronto, and she sang Ave Maria and The Lord's Prayer during ceremony.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. John C. Ricker, the bride wore a gown of nlyon with net overskirt which had made. The bridal veil was caught to a crown of daisies and other flowers and she carried a bouquet of the same. Only attendant was her sister, Miss Marion C. Ricker, wearing green nlyon with a crown of blended red and pink carnations and carrying a matching bouquet.

Mr. John Morley of Montreal attended his brother and the ushers were Jack Taylor and Mr. Kerns of Toronto.

The bridal party and their guests were taken across the lake in speed boats for a reception at Davis Island Manor. The bride's mother received in a gown of pearl grey crepe with lace inserts over pink and wore a pink straw hat with mauve ribbon and flower trim and pink carnation corsage. She was assisted by the groom's sister, Miss Bernice Morley of Toronto who wore a flowered dress with white accessories.

After a week's honeymoon at Highland Inn, Algonquin Park, the couple will return to their home at RR 1, Agincourt, and will take a trip later in the year. Going away the bride wore a turquoise linen suit and hat and navy accessories.

Pre-nuptial entertainments for Miss Ricker were held by the staff of Northern Vocational School, dietitians of Sunnybrook Hospital, friends from the University of Toronto, and Mrs. Gordon Murphy.

Warns Against Sudden Changes From High Heels

A summer warning to American women not to climb down from their high heels too suddenly was sounded today by Dr. Elizabeth H. Roberts, professor at the Long Island University College of Podiatry.

Dr. Roberts is a specialist in the treatment of pedal ailments, and serves as a consultant to the staffs of large restaurant chains and department stores. She declared that women who consistently wear high heels most of the year often suffer acute pain and discomfort by suddenly switching to summer playshoes. Reason is that the muscles in the calf become shorter from constant use of high-heeled shoes, and cannot accommodate to the sudden strain upon them when the foot comes down flat in a low-heeled shoe.

Women who insist on wearing high heels should switch to a medium-heeled play shoe, and wear those for a while before getting into flat-heeled shoes, Dr. Roberts said. This allows the muscles to "stretch gradually. Roomy footwear is very important to make the transition as painless as possible, and genuine leather soles help absorb the shock of constant pavement pounding, the noted woman podiatrist said.

Dr. Roberts also cautioned against indiscriminate wearing of casual shoes during the summer. She pointed out that they are usually too flimsy to provide the proper protection for walking on hard pavements—resulting in a painful pounding for the arches.

The LIU professor recommended a lightweight shoe with a flexible leather sole as ideal for summer wear. The leather sole, she added, provides flexible support for the hundreds of different positions that the foot assumes in the course of an active summer day. In addition, leather permits free passage of air in and out of the shoe, and thus helps to avoid athlete's foot, which becomes pandemic in the summer time.

The cement and wood surfaces around swimming pools are ideal breeding ground for the fungi that cause athlete's foot, she said. Shoes that do not allow for adequate ventilation, around the sole of the foot, create a perfect medium for the growth of these fungi, which require a damp hot atmosphere in which to thrive.

As one last precaution, Dr. Roberts counselled women against going completely stockingless. The constant friction of the bare foot against the leather sole and upper will cause blisters and chafing, and provide a source of infection, she added.

Ethel Edgerton Is Bride Of Elwood Little

A pretty double ring wedding ceremony in Knox United church Saturday afternoon united Ethel Roberta, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Edgerton of Bailieboro and Mr. Elwood Russel Little of Peterborough, son of Mr. R. Little and the late Mrs. Little. The Rev. H. G. Douglas officiated.

Baskets of summer flowers decorated the church. Wedding music was played by organist Mr. W. Potter and during the signing of the register he played "I Love You Truly."

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown with train of slipper satin with bodice of Chantilly lace. Her veil of tulle illusion was fingertip length, caught to a pearl-beaded tiara, and her bouquet was a cascade of Bettertime roses.

Attendants were Miss Margaret Hargraves of Toronto and Miss Audrey Thornton of Peterborough in gowns of embossed satin with tunics of Chantilly lace and lace mittens, and headdresses to match Miss Thornton wore yellow and carried Talisman roses and Miss Hargraves wore lilac and carried yellow roses.

Mr. Edward Potter was the groomsman and ushers were Raymond Harrison of Bridgenorth and the bride's brother Lorne Edgerton of Bailieboro. Master Donald MacMurchy carried the rings on a white Bible.

The reception was at the bride's home where her mother received in a dress of pale blue tissue faille and white straw hat and wore a corsage of pink carnations. The groom's stepmother, Mrs. H. Little, also received, gowned in navy sheer with navy straw hat and wore a corsage of pink carnations. The groom's stepmother, Mrs. R. Little, also received, gowned in navy sheer with navy straw hat and corsage of pink carnations.

Later the couple left on a trip to New York, the bride wearing a navy nylon dress trimmed with white lace and white and navy accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Little wil llive at 63 Lansdowne St.

Fairmount WMS Holds July Meet

FAIRMOUNA, July 12 (ENS)—The ladies of Fairmount WMS met at the home of Mrs. Richard Earle for their July meeting.

Mrs. R. F. McIndoo invited the WMS and Mission Band to meet jointly at her cottage for their August meeting.

Mrs. Russell Earle conducted the worship period. The program, in charge of Mrs. H. M. Bain, consisted of a number of items from the Missionary Digest and were given by Miss Jean Hanbidge, Mrs. Downer, Mrs. E. McCarrel and Mrs. H. Bain.

A social half hour was enjoyed with lunch served by Mrs. Russell Earle, Mrs. E. Downer and Mrs. Ivan Eggleston.

DOROTHY DIX

Drop Whole Affair Advice To Girl Of Vacillating Beau

DEAR MISS DIX: Three months ago I met a man whom I've been seeing very steadily since. From the very start he told me he was separated from his wife and child. He has professed his love for me on numerous occasions. We have stirred many interests in each other that have long been dormant. He respects my moral code of conduct and says he has more than a physical love for me. He thinks I would make a wonderful wife and mother, and that he'd always be happy with me.

He admits his wife still has attractions for him, but lacks the depth he sees in me. Because he feels he can't promise anything, he has told me to go out with others. Although he was unhappy with his wife, he says he would go back to her if she needed him as he could learn to tolerate her because of the child. He cannot bear the thought of his wife remarrying and have his child, who is 4, calling another man Daddy.

Dorothy Dix

Would a man be content to live with a woman for the sake of a child, or is he using this as an excuse, knowing he cares for his wife more than he wants to admit? This is not the first time they have separated. Is the man confused, or does he seem to know what he wants? Should I hang on and hope, drop the affair completely, or go on seeing him and other men as well?

EDNA

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You have become the third figure in a very unpleasant triangle, but inasmuch as you have known this man only three months I'd say your emotions are not so completely involved that you can't drop the whole affair and look around for some nice men who will have more consideration for you.

Still Loves Wife

Your friend still loves his wife and you are merely a companion to while away his lonely hours until she beckons and agrees to take him back. He also loves his child, but his concern for her is, as you have inferred, largely a cover-up for his feelings towards his wife.

There is certainly no future here for you, Edna. You can hang on and hope, but believe me hope is all you'll get out of the whole affair. Friend wife here, as always, holds the winning hand and when she's ready to play it hubby will drop everything else and rush home to her. That, of course, is as it should be. His place is with his wife and child, and whatever the reason for their unstable existence, it's no concern of yours.

Look to your own happiness, which you'll find with someone who has at least progressed beyond the kindergarten stage of wanting his own toys and everyone else's, too.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a young married man with a sweet wife, who says she loves me. She is an only child and her father has always given her everything she wanted. While I give my wife everything that I can afford, that doesn't satisfy her and she goes to her father for things, which humiliates me. Whenever we have an argument she tells her father about it and she thinks that he should tell me what to do. I don't like that. I want to be the head of my home. I don't want her father to boss me as if I were a little boy. What shall I do?

WORRIED HUSBAND

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I don't think you should object to your wife's father giving her presents. Certainly it is no more than fair that a father, who has cultivated extravagant habits in his daughter and indulged her in everything, should help the young man she marries support her.

But you have a just grievance in your wife running to her father with all the tales of your little quarrels. That is not a loyal or wifely thing to do. If she has any sense at all, she should know that the inevitable result will be to make her father think you are mistreating her and that she is a poor, persecuted innocent who has thrown herself away upon a man who doesn't appreciate her.

Also, she is lacking in knowledge of human nature if she does not know that every man wants to be the head of his own house and that he resents any in-law trying to run it for him. Try to make your wife understand your point of view. Perhaps that will change her baby ways.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a boy 17, fair looking, and have been going with a girl 14 for the last year. Now she has lost interest in me. I am in high school and get very little spending money but I did show her as good a time as possible on what I had. Now she is going with one boy whose father owns a good car, and with another who is a star athlete. How can I win her back?—IRA.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your girl friend is far too young to be going seriously with anyone, and by switching from one steady boy friend to a number of casual ones, she is just showing good sense. Keep her as a friend, but don't press her to go with you alone. You, too, are too young to settle down with one girl. Both of you have lots of friends and lots of good times coming before you reach the serious stage.

Greece Needs Help Badly Canadian Ambassador Says

ATHENS, Greece (CP).—Canadian Ambassador George L. Magann, has left for home on a long-deferred leave bearing an urgent appeal for help from the poverty-stricken people of war-torn Greece.

Before he sailed with his family for his native Toronto, the ambassador revisited many of the bombed-out villages of Northern Greece where families are still housed in the ruins of shattered homes and living under conditions of abject poverty. In some of the more remote mountain communities he found the people not only subsisting on meagre rations but without many essential household necessities.

In co-operation with the Greek community of Ontario and other organizations, the ambassador arranged for immediate shipment of blankets and other urgently-needed supplies.

"The Greek War Relief Fund of Canada," Mr. Magann explained, "unfortunately is in the process of being wound up. But while I am in Ottawa I will take what steps I can to revive this organization or find some other means of channelling practical help to those areas in most need of it."

Erroneous Reports

The ambassador deplored what he described as misleading reports in the press of the country about large-scale emigration to Canada of surplus Greek population.

"There is at the moment no special agreement between the Canadian and Greek governments covering arrangements for mass emigration," he said. "There has been some preliminary discussion but nothing definite has been settled.

"Press statements implying that mass emigration has become a matter of official policy have been most misleading. Unfortunately, they have resulted in disappointment to many people, who, believing they had only to present themselves at the Embass to secure a Canadian visa, sold their possessions and arrived in long queues outside our doors."

At present, he said, emigration of Greeks to Canada was proceeding at the normal rate of approximately 200 persons each month. Carefully selected, these were mainly farmers, domestic workers, artisans and technicians. Most of them were sponsored by relatives or friends already in Canada or by prospective employers.

While in Canada, the embassador said, he would also seek some arrangement to solve the acute newsprint problem which confronts publishers in Greece.

"A two-ounce drink?" asked Mr. Bradshaw. "I imagine so."

When asked what speed he was travelling, Mr. Jardine approximated at 30 miles an hour, "more or less."

He said that as he neared the intersection he took his foot off the accelerator and put it on to the brakes. He first saw the other car in the intersection.

Centre of Intersection

"I don't know whether it stopped or not."

He placed the point of impact at about the middle of the intersection.

When questioned again about the drink, Mr. Jardine said it "was part of my dinner." He later picked up his companions at their homes, adding he had nothing to drink there.

"Have you had anything to drink today?" asked Mr. Bradshaw after Mr. Jardine answered, "I can't remember," to several questions.

"Yes, at lunch time."

"Has it affected your memory?"

"No."

Mr. Bradshaw asked Robert Primeau, a passenger in the Jardine car if he had anything to drink that day.

"Yes, before I met Mr. Jardine."

When asked what he saw, Mr. Primeau answered, "I didn't see it; I was asleep."

Ken Fleetwood, a passenger in the front seat of the Jardine car [illegible] when it was "20-25 feet in front of us at the top of the intersection."

He had "a couple of drinks of beer in the afternoon."

Speed Estimate

He placed the Jardine car's speed at 30-35 miles an hour.

Bruce Martin, the fourth occupant of the Jardine car, said he didn't see the Potter car until the middle of the intersection. He hadn't been drinking that day.

Cecil Bowden, Port Hope, who had been sitting on a verandah 100 yards south on Park St., placed the Jardine car's speed at a "little faster than medium for city traffic."

PC W. A. Scott testified that Mr. Glanville said at the accident that Mr. Potter did not stop at McDonnel St.

He said that the skid marks of the Jardine car measured 48 feet seven inches. When questioned by the jury, Constable Scott said a car travelling 30 miles an hour should stop in 40 feet.

Dr. Young asked Mr. Scott for an estimate in the Jardine car's case. "Over 40 miles an hour," was the reply.

Mr. Scott said, "Mr. Jardine had been drinking but was not intoxicated."

PC V. A. McConnell was the last witness heard and verified Mr. Scott's version.

The jury included, Stanley Darling, Gordon Bickle, William Saunders, Frank Patterson and George Baker.

HIS FACE DEEPLY LINED, King George, is shown above as he returned to Buckingham Palace, London, after his convalescence at Windsor Castle. The King spent three weeks at Windsor to recuperate from his attack of bronchial cattarrhal inflammation of the lung.

Death of Boy on Highway Accidental Jury Decides

A verdict of accidental death with no fault by the driver was given by the jury at the inquest into the death of eight-year-old Jackie Neish on Highway 28 on June 22.

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Neish, who live on the highway north of Nassau, was hit when he walked into the path of a car, driven by Gordon Longley, 32, of Leaside. He died in hospital two hours after the accident.

The jury also recommended that signs be erected on the highway both for the children and cars or that a man direct the traffic while the children are going and coming from school.

Dr. C. B. Waite, provincial pathologist, said the cause of death was shock and hemorrhages due chiefly to ruptures of the spleen.

When asked how fast a car would have to go to do the extent of injury to the Neish boy, Dr. Waite estimated between 25-30 miles an hour, then also depending upon where it hits and how.

First called was Jack Neish, father of the boy. He located the school, SS 4, Smith from which Jackie was returning when killed. It is nearly two and a half miles from the Neish home, he said.

When asked about a bus service or any mention of a proposed service by Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, KC, Mr. Neish said: "None that I know about."

Mr. Neish said that between 40 and 43 children from the area attend the small school but could not estimate the number from the highway area.

Buses

Here a brief discussion on rural school bus service was entered upon with the sunggestion that where children have to cross highways to reach school, buses should be provided.

A juror, Donald Little, Scarboro, described the system now enforced in Scarboro. He pointed out that after complaints, "I imagine by the parents," the district had someone look after the children.

The next witness was Peter Pearson, a school chum of the Neish boy. He was later commended for his manner during the questioning.

The eight-year-old lad said that daily about seven children walk down the fourth line of Smith from the school to the highway and then hitchike home.

He said, "We were standing at the corner waiting for a car and truck to go by." He added that the car was going south towards Peterborough and the truck north to Lakefield.

"Look out for the car coming down," Pearson testified he said when the Neish boy, after watching the truck, "didn't look the other way," and moved out. The car hit him.

Wasn't Far Away

Mr. Bradshaw asked why he hadn't started to cross, and Pearson answered: "The car wasn't that far away." He pointed out the approximate distance for the jury.

Pearson added that his sister, Linda, attempted to cross at the tight spot, and I wanted to let the truck past first so I would have a chance to cross the white line."

When asked if he had anything to drink previously, Longley answered, "No."

J. L. Fraser, Lakefield, said that he was travelling northward from Peterborough after the accident happened. "I noticed a bundle on the highway and thought there was trouble."

When questioned by Mr. Little, Constable Russell Pollard, OPP, said: "No indication of speed whatever," on the part of Longley.

Bus Wanted

Mrs. P. Pearson said that the various mothers in the district have often discussed a school bus and still feel there should be one.

"It's a long walk for the small children. Sometimes they don't get home until 5 or 5:30. Surely people after this should try to get a bus."

Before the jury went out, Coroner Dr. Herbert Young, said that the fact the truck did not stop, indicated the driver did not see the Neish boy move.

"He must have moved after it passed or it would have checked".

On the jury were: Donald Little, Leo Hanrahan, Isaac Logan, Clarence Smith and Russell Hockaday (foreman).

Urge Steelworkers Return To Work

TORONTO, July 12 —(CP)— John Mitchell, district director of the United Steelworkers of America (CCL-CIO), today urged employees of Standard Steel Construction Company, Port Robinson, and London Steel Construction Company, London, Ont., to return to work pending conciliation of their dispute with the company.

The workers walked off the job in both plants June 28 in protest against delay in negotiations for a collective bargaining agreement which have been in progress since May 1.

Mr. Mitchell made the request after consultation with the labor department.

Havelock LOL Holds Annual Church Parade

HAVELOCK, July 12 (ENS)— Havelock LOL No. 326, Lady McGill LOBA No. 471 and the Mayflower Juvenile Lodge No. 284 held their annual church parade Sunday evening to the United Church. The large attendance included visitors from the Hastings Juvenile Lodge, the Norwood and Hastings LOBA, and the Peterborough, Warsaw, Hastings, Norwood, South Dummer, Blairton, Stanwood and Donegal LOL. Among the visitors were County Master Gordon Stephenson, of Donegal, past county masters John Kidd of East Peterborough, and Edward Payne of West Peterborough.

The parade to and from the church was led by the Havelock Pipe Band. The Rev. R. G. Newsermon "What Our Protestant Faith Stands For," basing it on Jesus' words "I am the way, and the truth and the life."

Mr. Newman divided his sermon into three parts, namely: (1) the Protestant faith is the return to the simplicity of the Gospel; (2) faith in our priesthood of believers; (3) the authority of the scriptures for our faith.

Try Out Defence Plan

BROCKVILLE, Juy 12—(CP)— Brockville's civil defence plans were pressed into service for the first time Wednesday night when a simulated air attack was successful, and the town hall theoretically was reduced to crumbled heap of smoldering rubble. It was the first of five war schemes.

Drama Critic Dies

CHICAGO, July 12 (AP)—Ashton Stevens, 78, known as the dean of American drama critics, died of a heart attack in his home last night. Stevens was a drama critic and columnist for Hearst newspapers in Chicago, New York and San Francisco since 1897.

Hastings To Vote On Building $80,000 School

HASTINGS, July 12 — (ENS) —The question of building a $80,000 new four room school in the village of Hastings will be brought before the ratepayers in a vote August 13.

This is the second time this municipality has been called to the polls to vote on the building of a new school. The ratepayers voted down the erection of a new school by 11 votes at the general election in January of this year.

Sixty per cent of the total estimated cost of $80,000 will be paid by a provincial grant with the remaining $32,000 to be paid by the public school ratepayers. The building of the school has been approved by the Department of Education of Ontario.

Before the election in January, an open meeting was held by the Home and School Association in conjunction with the School Board. At that time, Mr. Waltens, sanitary inspector for the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham, listed the repairs necessary for the present building which would cost $27,500.

New School.

Following this report, the school board decided that rather than spend the money necessary for repairs on an old building a new school should be built. The new school would only cost the ratepayers an approximate $4,500 more than the cost of repairs.

Should the school question receive approval in the August vote, the new building will be erected on the present side, subject to the approval of the Department of Education.

Ask Nationalization Of Liquor Industries

TORONTO, July 12 (CP).—The United Church Observer, twice-monthly magazine of the United Church of Canada, today called for nationalization of Canada's liquor and beer industries.

The editorial charged that the "little fellows" had been "squeezed out" of the industries, making nationalization much simpler than it would have been some years ago.

"All the government would have to do would be to take over the management of a business that had already been prepared—albeit unwillingly—for nationalization by men like Samuel Bronfman (president of the board of directors of Distilleries Corporation-Seagrams Ltd.)"

The editoroial said the leader in the drive "for monopoly control" of the brewing industry is Canada Breweries "under the direction of E. P. Taylor. (It) is bending every effort at the moment to get control of Norman Dawes' National Breweries interests."

Funeral Service Held For Edward Roach

The funeral for Edward Roach, 41 Elm St., who died Monday from inuries received in a dive off McFarlane St. bridge, was held today in St. Peter's Cathedral.

Requiem mass was celebrated by the Rev. G. Weiss. Also in the sanctuary were the Rt. Rev. Msgr. P. P. Butler, the Rev. K. Malane and the Rev. F. Mihelic.

Pallbearers were Neil and Daniel Harrington, Ron Horton, Herbert Payne, Edward Hynes, Del Crary.

Graveside prayers in St. Peter's cemetery were said by the Rev. K. Malane.

Have 26 Players As Final Tryout

BRANTFORD, July 12 (CP)— Twenty-six players were invited to return for today's final session of the Brooklyn Dodgers' baseball tryout camp.

The Brooklyn officials expect to sign one or two after watching them in action in a game today.

The players asked to return include pitcher Dean Ayrheart of Stratford juniors; Herb Simmers and Neil McDonald, Preston junior hurlers; Bill Weir, Toronto boy who started the season at first base for the Kitchener Legionnaires; infielder Don Rowe and outfielder Ken McDowell, all of Brantford, and pitcher Bill Muckles of Paris, Ont.

Pitcher Jackie Bowes, Guelph came into the camp late Wednesday. Bowes, reportedly has been approached by several other major league scouts but as yet has not signed with any pro organization.

Earl Of Home Dies By-Election Necessary

LONDON, July 12 (Reuters)— A new parliamentary by-election was made necessary today — the second within a week—by the death of the 77-year-old Earl of Home. The Earl died Wednesday night.

The heir to this earldom is Lord Dunglass, Conservative Member of Parliament for Lanard, Scotland, who will now go to the House of Lords.

Monday, a parliamentary by-election was also caused by the death of the Rev. G. S. Woods, Labor member of parliament for Droylsden, Lancashire. This reduced the Labor government's effective majority to four.

As a result of Earl Home's death, the Labor majority goes back to five.

Comeback For Shin Plaster Not Likely, Says Ottawa

The return of the "shin plaster" has been given the cold shoulder by Canada's money-makers. They were suggested as a temporary meaure to conserve essential metals and reduce coin-making expenditures during the current emergency.

Tooling operations, said the men who produce Canada's coins and bank notes, for the 25-cent bills would cost too much for the amount of metal saved and that the life of the low-denomination notes would be too short to be practical.

"Besides this Canadians have demonstrated that they don't like shin plasters."

Not Popular

The shin plasters, or 25-cent bills, were produced in Canada before the Second World War but were never popular except with collectors. The $250,000 worth of "plasters" have either been recalled, destroyed or kept as souvenirs.

Recommendations were re-reiced recently by the Bank of Canada to bring back the little bills. This move would conserve the copper used in the coin production and cut the cost of making money.

During the past five years the mint has produced some 500,000 coins of the 50-cent denomination annually. The silver used in these coins was worth only $150,000 and the copper valued at $750. The cost of setting up the machines to produce paper notes would "far outweigh" the value of the metal saved.

Life of a 50-cent bank note was estimated at six months and the shin plaster for no more than three. At present the dollar bill lasts only nine months in circulation. On the other hand silver coins last for 22 years.

British Papers Praise Canadian Play

LONDON, July 12 (CP)—The Manchester Guardian today praised Toronto's touring Upper Canada College players for an "excellent performance of Thornton Wilder's "Our Town."

The Canadian company is presenting the play at a number of British schools and colleges in what sponsors describe as an unique experiment.

The Guardian said the all-male cast was curiously convincing, even when playing spinsters or young girls. The Daily Telegraph, in similar vein, gave the Canadian company credit for a "sensitive and delicate" performance.

"We have a high standard of school acting (in Britain)," the Telegraph critic said, "and so I intend a high compliment when I say that Upper Canada College could compete in our highest class."

The reviews related to the company's performance Tuesday night at Cripplegate theatre.

Today the 27 Toronto players went to Harrow, Conservative Leader Winston Churchill's old school, to give another performance. Friday they will have lunch with Sir Edward Peacock, British financier and native of Glengarry, Ont. Sir Edward, sometimes referred to as Canada's leading "export," was English master and senior house master at Upper Canada College from 1895 to 1902.

THIS SKETCH, says a book expert, is a self-portrait of Shakespeare—the man whose portraits have been argued about for centuries. The sketch has been found on an end-page of a 1605 volume bought by a collector, Ronald Ashford, at Stratford-on-Avon. Copies of the sketch have been sent to experts in London for appraisal. The four-line inscription is said to be in writing like the known specimens of Shakespeare's hand and appears to say: "It is better to . . . present estate with security than strive to (recover?) these olde idle doings say I."

Private Plane Brings Stranded Anglers Out

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., July 12 (CP)—A private plane from Manitoba is flying out fishermen stranded at Northern Saskatchewan lakes as the strike of Saskatchewan government airways rounded out a full week.

Both sides continued adamant in the dispute which arose from the firing of Pilot Stuart Millar. The airline, owned by the provincial government, cited a poor safety record as its reason for dismissing Millar.

Manuel Conde 1-Man Studio In Philippines

By JACK QUIGG

HOLLYWOOD, July 12 (AP)—Combine in one man the talents of Darryl Zanuck, Errol Flynn and Cecil B. Demille, and a dash of F. Hugh Herbert, and what have you?

The answer is a one-man movie studio. And that's just about what Manuel Conde is.

Conde operates in the Philippines, where they have a thriving picture industry.

Last year, in a poll of island flicker fans, he won four top awards — best picutre, actor, character actor and director. All were for his production "The Seven Devils," which he also wrote.

As a reward for his virtuosity, the Philippines Herald, sponsor of the poll, is treating him to a free trip around the world. He is stopping over here to negotiate an American release for his prize-winning film.

A Lulu

It's apparently a Lulu: Manuel says 17 actors were injured, some seriously, in the making of it. A tale of adventure and intrigue in 16th Century Spain, it featured Manuel in a dual role (hence the two acting awards) and an all-Fillipino cast clad in full armor.

His epic runs two hours, 10 minutes, and a good part of the footage is devoted to violence.

All Manuel

Manuel, 35, is handsome and the father of five boys, all named Manuel, and a girl, Manuela. He calls the boys Manuel One, Manuel Two, etc., and when he yells they all come.

A former lieutenant in a Philippine unit of the US army, he went underground after the Japanese conquered the islands in the last war. He became an actor in 1947.

Indian Import

MELFORT, Sask. (CP)—Saaflower from India which produces an edible oil is being grown in Saskatchewan this year on an experimental basis.

PARTIALLY DISMANTLED US JET fighter plane, one of two F-84 Thunderjets which were released by Czech authorities after forced landings behind the Iron Curtain near Prague is hauled across the Czech-German border at Waidhaus, aboard a U.S. Air Force truck. The pilots had been released the previous day after strong protests against their detention.

Will Allocate Supply Of Crude Sulphur

WASHINGTON, July 12 (AP)—The International Raw Materials conference unanimously agreed Wednesday to allocate available world supplies of crude sulphur among 30 countries and areas.

The United States was awarded 1,050,000 tons—75 per cent—during the three months ending Oct. 1.

Britain was allocated 106,300 tons or about seven per cent of world supplies. Italy ranked next with 36,000 tons or about 2½ per cent. France and Australia were assigned about two per cent.

HAVE DAILY REGULARITY IN 3 DAYS—Or Double Your Money Back!

As you grow older, haven't you noticed — the more pills you take the worse you get? Haven't you suspected there must be something wrong? Decide today to break that vicious habit of dosing yourself with harmful drugs.

Now there is a better, more effective way to daily regularity, designed especially for people over 35.

It is Serutan — based on nature's fresh fruit and vegetable principle — the corrective method for constipation that today stands medically approved above all others.

Serutan contains no chemical drugs—no salts—no irritating roughage. Its gentle "push" differs completely from violent action methods.

Serutan is a more lasting way to help you be regular the way you want to be.

Try Serutan today—if in 3 days daily regularity has not returned—send the empty package to SERUTAN, Dept. SC-11, 2299 Dundas Street West, Toronto, Ontario—and get double your money back. Introductory size package.*

Sees Car Prices Continuing Rise

WASHINGTON, July 12 (AP)—Price Administrator Michael Disalle said Wednesday auto prices will be boosted if Congress bans price rollbacks.

Disalle, at a press conference, also hinted that meat price control already is fraying.

He said livestock marketing is up since Tuesday's decisive vote in the House of Representatives against slaughtering quotas "but so is the price."

As to autos, Disalle said the outlawing of price rollbacks would leave auto makers in a position of inequity, for they already have been rolled back and cannot pass their cost increases on to the public as can other manufacturers.

Gas, Cramps, Indigestion Relieved; Praises Syntona

Eat Better; Sleep Better, Nerves Calmed Down, Feel Like a Different Person, Says This Man After Using Short Treatment of Famed Herbal Compound.

MR. J. BENNETT

"I wouldn't take anything for the good results I got by taking Syntona Herbal Compound and I am glad to tell for the benefit of other sufferers just how this medicine helped me," said Mr. J. Bennett, 49 Hughson Street North, Hamilton, Ontario, in a recent report.

"During the past few months I was having an awful time with indigestion cramps, and so much gas and distress after my meals. I would get heartburn, sick, dizzy spells and throbbing headaches. I got so that I couldn't eat my meals, couldn't get my proper sleep at night, and felt all tired and worn out.

"Having heard about Syntona and what it was doing for other people I thought I would give it a trial and in a very short time this medicine has given me great relief. The cramps in my stomach, heartburn, and gassy bloated feeling is now cleared up. I now eat better, sleep is more sound and restful and my nerves are calmed down. Also, the dizzy feelings and headaches do not trouble me, and I feel better than I did for many months."

Here is good advice for all sufferers from common disorders of stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels and associated nervousness, backache and run-down condition: Begin taking a treatment of Syntona Herbal Compound today. Find out for yourself how this great medicine can help you.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store. (Advt.)

Remove Guards Or Pick New Site Reds Ordered

HMC3 "DYING DUCK", A PADDLE-WHEELER weed cutting machine was put through its trial run today at the Trent Valley Canal machine shops, Lock 20. The contraption has been in use for the past three seasons and shop machinist Sam Wawryko is getting it tuned up for a two-man crew who will start Monday cutting navigation channel weedbeds near Trenton and work their way as far north on the system as Lindsay. Another cutter works from Lindsay to Kirkfield, and west. (See story, Page 13.)—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Bayonets Quell Chicago Mob After 2-Hour Riot

CHICAGO, Ill., July 13. (AP)—Bayonet-swinging National Guardsmen and police battled a hooting, jeering, unruly mob of hundreds for a riotous two hours in suburban Cicero streets Thursday night and early today. Eleven persons, including three soldiers and three policemen, were sent to hospital in the rioting which stemmed from a racial housing dispute. Some of the civilians were cut by bayonets. Others were injured by stones and bricks hurled at the soldiers and police from the throng of about 4,000.

An undetermined number of civilians suffered bruises and cuts in the melee between the mob and steel-helmeted soldiers and police in one of the worst riots in the Chicago area in several years.

Police cars were overturned. Lighted flames were tossed into the windows and onto the roof of a 20-apartment building — focal point of the disturbance. Firemen dodged a barrage of rocks and stones to douse the fires.

Police rounded up 50 persons after the crowd had dwindled during the early morning hours. They were taken to the Cicero police station for questioning and were held without charge.

Order was established at the scene — a residential district in this community of 70,000—shortly before 2 am EDT, more than two hours after the fighting broke out.

Thursday night's fighting climaxed three nights of violent disorders at the apartment building.

The first disturbance came after Harvey F. Clark, Jr., 29, a Negro bus driver for the Chicago Transit Authority, and his family moved furniture into the apartment he rented. The furniture was dumped out and burned by a mob Wednesday night.

Declare Martial Law

No Negroes live in Cicero, a suburb west of Chicago.

The 450 national guardsmen arrived on the scene Thursday night, a few hours after Governor Adlai E. Stevenson declared martial law in the trouble area.

Before their arrival, 200 police were having trouble keeping the mob from breaking through police lines.

The crowd pressed forward as the troops arrived but the guardsmen pointed their rifles, machine guns and pistols at the mob, halting the advance. Some of the mob were close enough to hurl heavy firecrackers or dynamite caps into the building.

Stones, bricks, flares and fire bombs were hurled by the shouting and frenzied mob. Police said the rioters' object was to break the police lines and set fire to the apartment building.

The soldiers and police finally succeeded in forcing the mob to retreat.

Clark Wednesday told police he had abandoned plans to move into the apartment but his lawyer said Thursday Clark is planning to move in later.

Communists Still Bar UN Reporters

Equality of Treatment Sadly Lacking Ridgway Tells Chinese

By BILL BOSS

ABOARD ALLIED PEACE TRAIN, July 13. (CP) — The Allies told the Reds today to take their armed guards out of Kaesong or agree to a gun-free site for armistice talks in the Korean war.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway also insisted on freedom to name anyone he wants to the United Nations delegation, including news correspondents.

Communists in effect rejected the second demand in a reply to an earlier Allied message.

The Chinese and North Korean radios reported tonight that North Korean Gen. Nam Il, chief Red armistice negotiator, said:

"We will not pass any reporters or newspaper representatives unless we reach agreement on this point."

His message was in reply to a demand sent 30 hours earlier by Vice-Admiral C. Turner Joy, chief UN delegate.

Contrary to Demands

Nam's position was contrary to both of Ridgway's new demands. It presumed the continuance of Red guards. And it insisted on negotiation of the composition of the Allied party. Joy said the newspapermen were an integral part of his delegation.

Nam's message was not a direct reply to Ridgway.

This reply was delivered to a UN laison officer at 10:55 a.m. but the allied command did not announce it until 12 hours later—after Nam's message had been broadcast by both the Red Peiping and Pyongyang radios. The delay was not explained.

Ridgway's headquarters in Tokyo said:

"This reply offered no settlement of the issues contained in General Ridgway's message to generals Kim Il sung and Peng Teh-huai, which was then in preparation and later broadcast at 1315 hours (1:15 p.m.) today.

"No reply to General Ridgway's message has been received."

Kim is the North Korean premier. Peng is the commander of Chinese troops in Korea.

By going directly to them, Ridgway took the issues out of the hands of the cease-fire delegates.

BROUGHT TO THE WATER'S EDGE by a small boat, residents of this central Kansas town of 1,400 stand by cars and trucks of rescuers, as shown in the aerial photo above. Torrential rains have virtually paralyzed eastern Kansas today and thousands are homeless. This has been the third flood in a month.

Floods Paralyze E. Kansas Thousands Left Homeless

TOPEKA, KAS., July 13. (AP)—Swirling flood waters and continuing rains spread new misery through sodden Kansas on this grim Friday the 13th. Kansas City, Kas.—the big $40,000,000 industrial area of the Midwest's sprawling metropolitan centre — and this capital city of 10,000 suffered the newest blows. Lawrence, site of Kansas University and 20 miles downstream from Topeka, was beginning to feel maximum pressure.

Aircraft from many areas, including the Coast Guard from New York City, were busy at rescue efforts but lowering skies made flying difficult.

The floods claimed nine lives in Kansas and two in Missouri earlier this week.

An early morning overflow by the Kansas (Kaw) River flooded the Armourdale and Argentine in Kansas City, Kan., licking at the heels of the last 6,000 residents who had been herded from Armourdale during the night. Some fled with only the clothing they were wearing.

Gasoline Fire

Gasoline from a half-submerged filling station caught fire during the wild dawn exodus and spread to a lumberyard and warehouse. Firemen, fighting their way through the swift-flowing streets, succeeded in controlling the blaze after nearly a four-hour battle.

The conflagration broke out in an area filled with huge freight yards, grain elevators and other plants. Water damage to these properties was unestimated.

The population of Kansas City, Kas., is 130,000.

The swollen Kansas river smashed through a levee and [illegible] 000-acre district in Kansas City. Water swirled 12-feet deep. About 3,500 persons were evacuated.

Another section of the city containing industries and the homes of 15,000 persons also was endangered. Almost all the residents evacuated Thursday night.

In Topeka, the state capital, refugees poured into the municipal auditorium, the Masonic hall, ho-

Breeders Set Up World Hereford Council

HEREFORD, England. July 13—(AP)—Hereford cattle breeders of nine countries including Canada decided today to set up an international organization to be known as the World Hereford Breeders' Council.

The council will draw together in a world fraternity numerous Hereford associations of various lands. Its objectives include improvement of the breed and standardization of regulations covering international trade in breeding animals.

Breeders, who voted unanimously to form the world council, represented breeders from Britain, Argentina, Uruguay, South Africa, Australia, New Zealand and Iceland as well as Canada.

Triennial Meetings

Canadians attending the conference are led by W. J. Edgar of Innisfail, Alta., and D. A. Andrew of Calgary, secretary of the Canadian Hereford Breeders' Association.

It was agreed the council should meet once every three years, and the founders accepted the invitation of Dr. E. L. Scott, president of the American Hereford Breeders' Association, to hold their first meeting at Kansas City. A date has not been fixed.

Headquarters of the council and its secretary will be here, the historic home of the Hereford breed of cattle.

Bank Robber Gives Self Up

KALKASKA, Mich., July 13 — (AP)—For two nights and two days 100 state troopers hunted the woodlands around this northern Michigan town for an amateurish robber who held up the Kalkaska State Bank Tuesday.

The manhunt ended late Thursday when Raymond Turcotte, 41, came out of some roadside underbrush near here and meekly surrendered.

He was famished and bedraggled from his long stay in the woods.

Turcotte, alias Wayne (Muddy) Waters, a Canadian with a long police record, carried a paper bag containing $126 in dollar bills. That was all the loot he got, police said, when he nervously held up the bank and fled into the Fife Lake forest.

At Traverse City, Police Capt. Earl J. Hathaway said the prisoner admitted the holdup.

Police said Turcotte has a criminal record covering more than 15. They found two torn and broken bodies in the wreckage and the third thrown clear.

The engine gouged a deep hole in the field 20 feet from where the fuselage was picked up.

Farmer Warwick Walker, 21, said he saw the plane explode. Then, as it went down, fishing tackle and camping equipment streamed from the ripped fuselage and showered down on trees and bushes.

Provincial police took charge. They barred spectators from the immediate area of the wreckage and said a Transport Department inspector was coming to investigate.

Allied Troops Gain 3 Miles

US EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, July 13 (AP) —Allied troops today advanced up to three miles through heavy Communist gunfire in a limited objective attack on the east-[illegible]

The fighting, southeast of the Red base of Kumsong, was the main ground action in the Korean war.

US night fighter planes shot down two small Red planes near the Allied peace camp at Munsan, one Thursday night and the other Friday.

While cease-fire talks in Kaesong remained stalled, there were persistent reports of Red buildings behind the lines.

But an Allied officer on the western front said there was nothing to indicate the Reds were preparing to launch an offensive in the immediate future.

He said, however, their "capabilities are increasing."

An Allied patrol in the west Thursday observed a Chinese Communist company southeast of Kaesong, at the edge of the neutral zone between Munsan and Kaesong.

SEEK ESCAPED PRISONER

SUDBURY, July 13 — (CP) — A hunt is still on in the Sudbury district for Charles Miles, from Corbettown and Toronto, who escaped from Burwash Reformatory Wednesday. He was the fourth to escape in two weeks.

8 Million Damage In Jet Plant Explosion

INDIANAPOLIS, July 13 (AP) —An explosion and fire at an Allison jet engine plant Thursday caused $7,500,000 damage and snuffed out eight lives.

The damage figure was 15 times the previous, unofficial calculation.

Allison division of General Motors made the damage estimate today. The eighth victim died Thursday night, 18 hours after the blast wrecked a jet engine test building west of Indianapolis. He [illegible]

Let Ratterman Go To Alouettes

MONTREAL, July 13 (CP) — Coach Lew Hayman of Montreal Alouettes said today a restraining order aimed at preventing George Ratterman playing with Alouettes has been lifted in the United States and a temporary injunction denied.

The court moves were taken by Ted Collins, owner of the New York Yankees Football Club.

Ratterman, ace quarterback, was signed by Alouettes a week ago last Monday.

This is the first court case to have some bearing on moves by American players coming to Canada.

Hayman said that Ratterman, a resident of Englewood, NJ, is on his way to Montreal.

The restraining order was taken out 10 days ago in Newark, NJ, injunction against Ratterman, who claimed his contract option with the Yankees lapsed May 1.

UK Trade Gap Biggest Ever Recorded

LONDON, July 13 (Reuters)—Britain's visible gap in her external trade jumped to more than $423,000,000 in June, it was announced today.

This is the biggest gap ever recorded and explains why Hugh Gaitskell, Chancellor of the Exchequer, regards the balance of payments problem as even more serious than that of raw materials.

The June figure compares with an average gap of $226,800,000 between January and May. In 1950, the monthly gap averaged only $81,200,000.

These visible figures always overstate the true gap. Much of the difference between import and export values that they show is accounted for by freight and insurance charges paid to British companies, not to foreigners.

Invisibles Help

A large part of the gap is covered by the big surplus on invisibles. Up to the end of May, they covered most of it, so that the true deficit was quite moderate. It may not have been much worse than the annual rate of $280,000,000 for which the government was prepared.

But invisibles in June cannot have covered the visible gap of deficit in June may have soared to a rate of more than $1,400,000,000 a year. That is a conservative estimate, though the figures for one month cannot properly be converted into annual rates.

Among the off-setting invisibles the biggest factor in rescuing Britain from her crises of 1947 and 1949 was oil earnings. In those again, the biggest single contributor was Anglo-Iranian oil. That supply now has stopped.

Three American Tourists Killed as Plane Crashes

DUNNSVILLE, Ont., July 13. (CP) — An investigation started today into a plane crash Thursday that killed three Pittsburgh area men on a fishing trip. The single-engined plane, fitted with pontoons, exploded at tree-top height as it nosed downward through rain and mist. Moments later, it crashed in a field on the farm of Harold Elliott, about 25 miles southwest of Hamilton.

Killed were its owner, Dr. William R. Marshall, 54, of Sharpesburg, Pa., believed to have been the pilot; and Richard H. Boyles and W. N. Steitz, both of Pittsburgh. All carried pilot licences.

First to reach the crash scene were Gordon Rowe, 18, a neighbor of Elliott; his father, William Rowe; and his brother, George,

Likely Accept US Invitation

LONDON, July 13 (Reuters)—Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh are certain to accept President Truman's invitation to visit the United States, it was learned Thursday night.

The Princess and the Duke sail from Liverpool Sept. 25, arriving at Quebec Sept. 30 for a tour of cipal cities of Canada from Atlantic to Pacific.

Truman announced in Washington that he had sent a formal invitation Thursday.

A Buckingham Palace spokesman said Thursday night a public announcement will be made after the President's invitation has been received here.

Ontario Sends Rain To British Columbia

MIDLAND, July 13. (CP) — British Columbia, which has had almost 40 days of continuous drought, is due for rain but it won't get there until the first of next week.

The "rain" is in a bottle shipped Thursday from this Georgian Bay town where hardly 24 hours have without a visit from Jupiter Pluvius.

The bottle went with 10 Midland Sea Cadets who will train two weeks at Camp Latona, BC, along with a request from the Midland Chamber of Commerce that Ontario and British Columbia get together on an interchange of weather.

Pearson Will Pay Visit To Germany

BONN, Germany, July 13 — (Reuters)--External Affairs Minister Pearson is due in Bonn Monday for a visit with Thomas Clayton Davis, head of the Canadian mission here, a mission official stated today.

Now that Canada has ended the state of war with Germany Davies is expected soon to present his credentials as Canadian ambassador to the west German republic.

Jail Drug Peddler

TORONTO, July 13 — (CP) — Eighteen-year-old James C. Gilmour of Montreal sold 100 capsules of narcotic drugs at $3 a capsule in one week in Toronto, a court hearing was told today. Gilmour, who said he sold only to adults, was sentenced to six months in jail plus a $200 fine or another six months in prison at Kingston, Ont., for manslaughter.

Falls Off Racing Sloop Battles Sharks For 30 Hours

HONOLULU, July 13 —(AP)— A crew member in the Los Angeles-Honolulu yacht race was rescued dramatically from the tossing Pacific Thursday, 30 hours after he fell overboard from the sloop L'Apache.

His rescuers said he had killed a seven-foot shark while he drifted in a life-saving ring.

Ted Sierks, 40, of Avalon, Calif., was picked up exhausted but uninjured. The rescue was made by the US destroyer-escort Douglas A. Munro after it was instructed to abandon the apparently hopeless search.

The Munro sighted Sierks on its final sweep of the area.

"I felt it was almost a miracle," Sierks was quoted by the skipper, in a radiophone interview.

A dispatch from the Munro to the Hawaiian sea frontier said Sierks' greatest difficulty was with breaking seas and sharks.

The message did not explain how he killed the shark. Sierks was believed unarmed.

Sierks toppled off the racing sloop Wednesday, 810 miles northeast of Honolulu. He was buoyed up among the eight-foot waves by a lifering tossed to him by L'Apache crew members as he disappeared.

Five other yachts near L'Apache halted their 2,225-mile race to hunt for Sierks. A navy escort carrier and seven destroyer-escorts joined the search late Wednesday and a B-17 search-and-rescue plane flew out from Hickson Field.

Appeals Court Orders 15 Red Leaders Released

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP) — Judge Sylvester J. Ryan today complied with a United States Appeals Court ruling and ordered release of 15 Communist leaders under bail previously supplied by the Civil Rights Congress bail fund.

Ryan previously had revoked the bail, totalling $175,000, on the ground trustees of the bail fund were "unworthy of trust."

He had sentenced three of them to jail for contempt of court for refusing to reveal identities of contributors to the fund.

The 15 Communists are charged with conspiring to teach and advocate violent overthrow of the United States government and are awaiting trial.

Ryan jailed them Wednesday with instructions to obtain bail from another source.

US appeals court Judge L. Hand Thursday ordered the bail from the Civil Rights Congress reinstated.

Hand held the full, three-member appeals court previously had ruled bail from the congress as acceptable.

The congress is listed by the department of justice as subversive.

Ton Of Explosives Explodes At Plant

SENECA, Ill., July 13 (AP)—Four men were killed Thursday night when a ton of explosives went off at the Du Pont powder plant. All that remained of the small frame building where they worked, authorities said, was a hole in the ground.

D. E. Montgomery, assistant manager of the company, said the building was a gelatin cartridge plant in which explosives in a gelatinous form were placed in paper shells for manufacturing small cartridges.

Nepal Sends Troops To Crush Revolt

KATHMANDU, Nepal, July 13 (Reuters — The Nepal government today rushed troops to the southern district of Bhutawal, about 70 miles from the capital of Katmandu, to quell a revolt headed by a former Nepal Congress Party leader, K. I. Singh.

Singh, who escaped from jail earlier this week, has been sent to prison for leading lawless elements in the countryside. He was rescued by armed followers estimated at 2,000 strong and raided the district prison.

Official reports received here said Singh stormed the district governor's office, seized it and proclaimed himself governor of Bhutawal.

Unconfirmed reports here said the Nepal government asked for Indian armed assistance to quell the revolt.

One Of Quads Dies Second Some Better

BOLTON, England, July 13 — (Reuters).—One of Wilkens quadruplets born here Wednesday died Thursday night.

James, one of three boys and a girl delivered to 36-year-old Mrs. Hilda Wilkens by caesarian operation, lived just over 26 hours. The quads were born two months premature.

Another of the quads, David, who had been reported earlier as doing "very poorly" showed slight improvement Thursday night. The condition of the other two quads, Peter and Ann, was satisfactory.

Joins Air Force

Edward J. Coderre, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Coderre, 217 Westcott St. left Peterborough recently for initial training in the RCAF at St. Johns, Quebec.

Coderre was born in Renfrew and was educated in Peterborough. He attended St. Peter's High School. Before enlisting he was employed at Dale's Meat Market.

His brother, Maurice Coderre served five years in the RCAF during the Second World War.

HIGH WINDS LIFTED this shed on the Mat Griswald farm near Hartland, Wis., off its foundation and landed it without ceremony on the top of an automobile. The oil tank at far left of the picture weathered the blast and remained upright. The car, it appears, bore the brunt of the wind's assault.

Two Diplomats Suspended By US

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP) —The US State Department announced Thursday night it has suspended two high officials pending hearings on security charges.

The officials—both career diplomats—are:

John Paton Davies Jr., 43, a member of State Secretary Dean Acheson's top level policy planning staff and a veteran of many years' service in China. His hearing has been set for July 23 before the department's loyalty security board.

Oliver Edmund Clubb, 50, director of the Office of Chinese Affairs, also a veteran of many years' service in China. His hearing has been set for July 31.

The department said the suspension action was mandatory under the law and "does not indicate that a person is guilty of misconduct or is a security risk."

10 Air Force Men Killed In Crash

LYNEHAM, England, July 13— (Reuters)—A twin-engined RAF transport plane crashed near here early today, killing all 10 persons aboard.

The plane crashed shortly after taking off from the airfield here. It burst into flames immediately and was completely destroyed.

The 10 victims were all Air Force trainees.

An RAF crash crew from the air field dashed to the wreckage but the fire was so intense they were unable to get close. The blaze was extinguished more than an hour later, after several fire companies had been called to the scene.

The plane was a military version of the widely-used Vickers Viking. Known as the "Valetta" it was developed as a plane for several different types of work — troop transport, glider, paratroop or freight carrier.

Obituary

ROBERT BURN

A lifetime resident of Janetville Robert Burn, 60, died of a heart attack while at his home Thursday night. He had been in failing health for some time.

Mr. Burn was the proprietor of the general store in the village. He was born in Janetville and lived there until his death. The business he inherited from his father, the late John Burn. His mother was the former Fannie Georgina Howe, he leaves two sons, Cadet F. J. Burn, RCN (R), now in England and John, in business with his father at home.

Mr. Burn was a member of Janetville United Church; the Masonic AF & AM No. 77, Lindsay; the Orange Order and the IOOF.

There will be a Masonic service at the Mackey funeral home, Lindsay, at 9:30 p.m. Sunday. The funeral service will be 2 p.m. Monday at the funeral home, the Rev. J. C. Kellogg, Janetville United Church officiating. Burial will be in Riverside cemetery.

BADLY NEEDED

Today's sunny weather, farmers hope, may be the beginning of a spell of dry weather. Recent rains have spoiled up to 50 per cent of the wheat crop and further rain could damage lush growths of grain. Tomorrow's prediction of "mostly sunny" encourages them, too.

Plan Conference In Washington

LONDON, July 13 (Reuters)— Commonwealth finance ministers or their representatives will hold talks in Washington early in September on commonwealth financial and economic problems, it was learned here today.

Commonwealth finance conferences are usually held in London. However, these talks will take place in Washington as the ministers or their representatives will be there in September for annual meetings of the international monetary fund and the international bank for reconstruction and development.

One important problem likely to be discussed in the commonwealth talks in Washington will be whether dollar relaxations made in some of the commonwealth sterling area last November now should be revoked.

There has lately been a deterioration in Britain's balance of payments and dollar and hard currency earnings.

tels and private homes. Almost 20,000 persons in the city of 80,000 have been forced to flee their homes.

Two bridges linking the north and south sections of the city have been swept away by the Kansas river.

Wichita, the state's largest city, was preparing for flood waters. The little Arkansas river was expected to sweep into the city tonight. The smaller towns were taking a beating too.

The Sante Fe's deluxe train, the El Capitan, has been stranded near Cedar Points, 120 miles southwest of Kansas City, for two days. Buses are attempting to take out the passengers. A few of the 345 passengers have been flown out. The remainder were reported in no immediate danger.

Unseat Harry Binder From Montreal Council

MONTREAL, July 13 (CP).— Mr. Justice Elphege Marier in a Superior Court judgment today unseated Harry Binder from Montreal city council.

Binder, said to have Communist leanings, was elected at the municipal elections seven months ago but was unable to take his seat because of his imprisonment by unsuccessful opponents who claimed Binder has served prison terms and therefore was ineligible to sit as a council member.

Ridgway directed his new demands to the North Korean Premier and supreme Chinese commander in Korea.

He told them conferences would be resumed as soon as they met three basic demands:

1. A conference area free of armed personnel—either Kaesong or elsewhere. Kaesong, site of the armistice talks Tuesday and Wednesday, is Communist-controlled.

2. "Complete and equal freedom" of movement of cease-fire delegations.

3. Freedom of each commander to select his own party, including newspapermen.

Strongest Statement

Ridgway's broadcast to North Korean Premier Kim Il sung and Chinese Gen. Pei Tai hua was the strongest statement yet made public in cease-fire exchanges.

Ridgway made three proposals to implement his demands. If they are met, he said, the conference can be "resumed without delay and with some expectation of progress."

He proposed:

1. A circular area radiating five miles from Kaesong be declared neutral. (There is no mutually - agreed neutral area now.)

2. The conference area and the roads the delegation use "be completely free of armed personnel." (Armed Red troops now guard Kaesong and nine miles of road leading to it from the CN peace camp.)

3. Delegations be limited to a maximum of 150, each commander to send whomever he wants, but those in the conference chamber to be mutually agreed upon.

The breakdown came when Chinese guards refused to permit 20 correspondents to go to Kaesong with the rest of a UN convoy.

Blames Reds

Ridgway's statement laid the blame for interruption of the talks squarely on the Reds. He said:

"Since the opening of the conference it has been evident that the equality of treatment so essential to the conduct of armistice negotiations is lacking.

"Since the first meeting at Kaesong, your delegation has placed restrictions on the movement of our delegation.

"It has subjected our personnel to the close proximity of your armed guard.

"It has delayed and blocked passage of our couriers. It has withheld its cooperation in establishment of two-way communications with our base even though it agreed to do so immediately.

"It has refused admittance to the conference area of certain personnel in our convoy which I desire and for whose conduct I stated I assume full responsibility.

"Extension of the present recess and the delay in resuming the conference . . . is solely due to those unreasonable and unnecessary restrictions which my representatives have repeatedly protested."

Honorable Intentions

Ridgway made it clear that it was impossible to negotiate "an honorable and enduring settlement" under these conditions.

He said the UN delegation had established "beyond any shadow of doubt their honorable intentions and good faith at every stage of the proceedings."

Ridgway said his five representatives were ready "to continue our discussions in the same spirit of good faith at any time that we receive assurance that your delegation will proceed in like spirit.

"The assurances which I require are simple and few.

"They include as primary prerequisites the establishment of an agreed conference area of suitable extent completely free of armed personnel of either side.

"Each delegation must have complete reciprocity of treatment, to include complete and equal freedom of movement to, from and within the agreed conference area and complete and equal freedom at all times in the selection of the personnel in its delegation party to include representatives of the press."

He then made his proposals for designating a neutral area around Kaesong and added:

"Should you continue to insist [illegible] other reason, I propose that the conference site be moved to a locality which will afford the few simple assurances I have specified herein."

Seaway Group Deadlocked In Bitter, Rowdy Session

WASHINGTON, July 13. (AP) —Tempers erupted Thursday as the House of Representatives public works committee, in a bitter, rowdy session, again failed to act on legislation to authorize the St. Lawrence Seaway and Power project.

Neither faction, at the end of the hour-long secret meeting, could be sure as to who won what. But this much, Representative Frank Smith (Dem., Miss.) told reporters, was certain: "It (the meeting) was the sorriest mess I've ever seen."

Reporters, flocking into the committee room after adjournment, viewed a scene of wild confusion. Representative Tom Pickett (Dem., Tex.), a determined opponent of the bill, was shaking an angry finger at Chairman Charles Buckley (Dem., NY) as he shouted: "You've been unfair."

Pickett's outburst, he later told reporters, was occasioned by what he termed dilatory tactics on the part of Buckley—a supporter of the seaway bill.

Buckley, Pickett said, blocked action on a motion by Pickett which would have killed the seaway bill.

Pickett, shouting to reporters, said he was convinced that Buckley would never call another meeting of the committee to consider the bill until it was stacked in favor of the St. Lawrence seaway.

Buckley, who hurried away from reporters after the session, announced that the committee's next executive meeting to consider the St. Lawrence legislation would be held July 31.

Prices Hold Steady On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, July 13 (CP) — Prices held steady as the session progressed on the stock market today.

Industrials were up fractions. Papers, utilities, foods and liquors led the way and steels, textiles, refining oils, retail stores and manufacturing companies followed. Banks, constructions and agricultures were mixed.

In the firm base metal section Sherritt Gordon, International Nickel, Quemont, Mindamar, Consolidated Smelters and Falconbridge showed moderate increases. Western oils became mixed after early gains. Golds attracted little interest and showed little trend. Senior producers were mixed and almost unchanged and moves in the secondary list were mostly of the one-cent variety.

W. A. Payne Buried

Funeral service for the late William Alfred Payne, 87, of Lakefield, who died on Tuesday following a prolonged illness, was held on Thursday at the Anderson funeral home.

The Rev. George Dyson of Warsaw United Church officiated and pallbearers were Frank and Vivian Payne, Howard and Melville Sanderson, Chester McCracken and Elwood Garbutt. Burial was at St. Mark's cemetery, Warsaw.

Dollar Up

MONTREAL, July 13 (CP)—The American dollar today opened at 6⅛ per cent premium to the Canadian dollar, up 1-32 from Thursday's close. That is it took $1.06⅛ Canadian to buy $1 American.

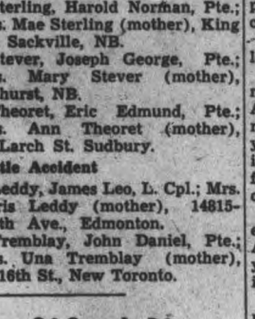
The pound sterling was $2.97⅛, up 1-16 from Thursday.

Troops Halt Anti-Red Riots

GUATEMALA, Guatemala, July 13 (AP)—Three persons were killed and at least 30 wounded Thursday night when government troops fired on anti-Communist demonstrators, climaxing two days of anti-Red disorders.

Thursday night's shooting began when soldiers in trucks tried to scatter the anti-Red marchers after an automobile had been overturned and burned in Guatemala's central park.

Violence first flared Wednesday afternoon at the national orphanage. University students and market women beat up the director and four other members of the orphanage staff whom they accused of being Communists.



In clashes with police which followed the incident, at least seven anti-Communist demonstrators were injured and several others arrested.

The demonstrations came on the heels of a recent Communist-directed bus strike which stranded about 40,000 Guatemalan commuters and caused wide resentment.

Charge Wife Wounds Husband In Quarrel

HULL Que., July 13. (CP) — While 35-year-old Michael Gnantouskamy lay in critical condition in hospital with a stab wound, his 23-year-old wife appeared in court today on a charge of causing bodily harm. She was remanded until Monday without plea.

Police said they found Gnantouskamy, a restaurant operator, lying in a pool of blood on the floor of his establishment. He had been stabbed just below the heart by an eight-inch knife following a quarrel with his wife.

Millbrook Legion Fetes Two Couples

MILLBROOK, July 13 (ENS)—The members of the Canadian Legion Branch 402, Millbrook, and the ladies of the Auxiliary met in the Legion Hall for a presentation to two couples, Mr. and Mrs. George Freelove in honor of their golden wedding anniversary, and to Mr. and Mrs. Hector White, who are leaving Millbrook to make their home in Vancouver, BC.

Walter Challice, Legion president, spoke in appreciation of the work of both men in the organization, and Mrs. E. C. Richards told of the untiring efforts of Mrs. Freelove and also of Mrs. White, the latter as pianist for the past two years.

Mrs. Keith Blair, Auxiliary past president, made the presentation of a lace tablecloth to Mrs. Freelove. Mrs. Basil Richards, first vice-president, made the presentation of a lace tablecloth to Mrs. White. Mr. A. Foottit presented Mr. Freelove with a box of cigars and Mr. White was given a substantial cheque from the Legion by Robert Carr.

The rest of the evening was spent in dancing. Refreshments were served.

Youth Protests Price Pays Fine Of $10

WALKERTON, July 13 (CP)—"The case of Mildmay's miniature meatballs" in court here Thursday saw the high price of meat cited before a youth was fined $10 for creating a disturbance.

Evidence showed the young man took objection at the small quantity of meat in a hamburger served in a Mildmay cafe.

The youth howled loud and long for a free replacement until the cafe operator ordered him out. The would-be hamburger gourmet continued his wails on the street and found himself in the hands of the law.

In fining the accused, Magistrate E. O. McClevis said that the price of meat is enough to rile anyone. He suggested, however, the accused should have ordered eggs as he knew the meat in meatballs is fighting a losing battle.

15 Charges Of Forgery Man Jailed Two Years

TORONTO, July 15. (CP) — Joseph John McMahon was sentenced Wednesday on 15 charges of forgery and 15 of uttering. But the 43-year-old Toronto man will serve only two years. The two-year terms on each charge were concurrent.

Police said McMahon signed his brother-in-law's name on 15 cheques for a total value of $550 and cashed them for gambling purposes.

Warkworth Walk First Since 1926

WARKWORTH, July 13 (ENS) —Twenty-five lodges from Northumberland county and Peterborough East took part Thursday in Warkworth's first walk in 25 years.

Led by the Warkworth Community Band, the parade marched through the main sections of the town, under strings of flags and pennants hung across the streets.

As in Peterborough, the marchers walked in a heavy rain, which only cleared when the parade was finished. Leading the parade were the master of Percy (Warkworth) lodge, Douglas McVety and the secretary, Stewart Lowe.

Addresses by clergy and members of parliament scheduled for after the parade were cancelled. Speakers who leave been the Hon. W. A. Goodfellow, minister of wefare, Dr. Fred G. Robertson, MP for Northumberland, R. Earl Drope, ex-MP, Richard Sanderson, deputy-grandmaster, Fred Bateman, vice-grandmaster for Ontario East, the Rev. R. C. White of Roseneath, the Rev. J. M. Ritchie, and the Rev. H. G. Lester, both of Warkworth.

Men's lodges were present from: Norwood, Belmont, Havelock, Hastings, Blairton, Roseneath, Stanwood, Brighton, Campbellford, Castleton, Little Lake, Codrington, Polmont, Pethericks Corners, Percy ;women's lodges from Brighton, – Hastings, Castleton, Havelock, Norwood and juvenile lodges from Castleton (boys), Hastings and Havelock (girls).

The Warkworth Women's Institute catered for a dinner after the parade in the town hall, and a dance was held afterwards, music supplied by Potter's orchestra.

Toronto Firm Samples Soil At Ordnance Site

COBOURG, July 13 (ENS)—A Toronto firm specializing in taking soil samples by borings and by cylinders driven into the ground, is hard at work at the site of the new ordnance depot and work is expected to be finished by next week.

A rush job of analysis will be done at the University of Toronto in order to determine all the necessary soil classificiations and characteristics. This information will be assembled to assist in arriving at such decisions as depth and area of footings and other details of the specifications. Tenders are expected to be let this month and work is to start in August.

Rain Postpones Soap Box Derby

CAMPBELLFORD, July 13 — (ENS)—The Soap Box Derby that was to have been run in Campbellford on Thursday afternoon as part of the Rotary Home Week, was called off because of rain, but will be held, weather permitting, on Saturday afternoon on the public school hill.

Quite a few entries are reported for the event. Dads and lads have been working on soap box racers for the past two weeks, preparing them for the big event, and extra provincial police officers will be on hand to direct traffic while Bridge Street is blocked off to give the racers a clear sweep over a good stretch of roadway.

82 TV Channels

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP) —The United States will have 82 channels for television broadcasting. The Communications Commission announced Thursday it has decided definitely to reserve 70 channels in the ultra-high frequencies. There now are in use 12 channels in the very-high frequencies. "Ultra" and "very" are technical terms denoting position of the frequencies in the radio spectrum.

Shriners Give New York Show

NEW YORK, July 13 —(AP)— A hundred thousand shriners started saying their goodbyes to New York today after showing Broadway how to put on a real extravaganza.

Twenty thousand of the nobles treated the town to a five-hour fun fest that wound up at Times Square at 1:20 a.m.

Police estimated that 2,500,000 persons watched the Shriners' parade.

The parade was studded with bands, colorful costumes and every zany bit of showmanship the fezzed visitors could think up.

It was the last big public show on the 77th annual convention of the ancient Arabic order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, which ends today.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, himself a Shriner, and Mrs. MacArthur rode at the head of last night's parade and then took places in the reviewing stand. Loud cheers greeted their arrival.

Steelworkers Want No Help From Reds

TIMMINS, July 13 —(CP)— Local 4305, United Steelworkers of America (C.C.L.-C.I.O.), wants no help from the allegedly Communist-led Canadian Union of Woodworkers in the strike against Hollinger Gold Mine, International representative L. A. Behie said Thursday.

"It has been brought to our attention that the new Canadian Union of Woodworkers headed by well-known members of the Communist party, are going to march to the picket lines to support the steelworkers," Behie said.

"The Communist officers of this group have been outspoken in their criticism of the steelworkers in the past and we want no support from them morally or physically, and would consider any help they may ask to render in any way, shape and form to be a kiss of death."

Budget Surpluses

The criticism now flying through the air about Mr. Abbott's perennial surpluses is dangerous. The latest heavy attack came from Mr. Donald Fleming, Conservative critic, over the C.B.C. on Tuesday evening. He said that in the last five years the Minister of Finance has made "errors" in budgeting to the total amount of $1,250,000,000. That is the sum of the surpluses since 1946. The battering which Mr. Abbott and the Government are getting from people who, for one reason or another, do not like surpluses, may force Mr. Abbott and the Government to get rid of any surplus in sight this year.

* * *

If the Government is going to be severely taken to task for its surpluses, it may jolly well try to avoid a surplus this year by lavish spending. That is the quickest way to get rid of extra money—spend it. Is that what Mr. Fleming and allied critics want Mr. Abbott to do? They seem to be forcing his hand open, anyway.

* * *

The criticism of over-budgeting should come at the time the budget is being prepared, and the estimates made. That is the time for a good Opposition to call the Government's attention to too-liberal budgeting. If Mr. Fleming is wiser than Mr. Abbott about such matters, and realizes better than Mr. Abbott that the budget as laid down will mean a surplus of two hundred million dollars instead of thirty million, why does he not say so at the time? Hind sight is easy. Mr. Fleming has yet to demonstrate that his foresight is good. The time to attack Mr. Abbott about surpluses is before tax rates, estimates and budget terms are set: before the surplus piles up from unnecessarily high taxation. Opposition criticism of the current budget last spring was not as effective as it should be if another great surplus is in the making at the same time higher taxes have been imposed.

A Brave Walk

Orangemen of the city and district and neighbouring counties, two thousand strong representing 130 lodges, took the annual walk in Peterborough yesterday despite drenching rain. It was a brave show. The colour of orange bands streaked faces and white shirts. Blues and reds ran into water-saturated dresses. The big drums sagged and gave out sodden thumps; snare drums wheezed; fifes gurgled—but "Stand Up, Stand Up For Jesus" was still thinly recognizable from one rural lodge. Bibles ceremoniously carried open were soused, except those covered with cellophane by some provident ladies.

The men and children fared worse than the women. Many of the women were fortified with umbrellas—one lodge entirely with blue ones. But for the youngsters with water squelching out of their boots, and the men with clammy shirts and soaking trousers, and neither umbrellas nor coats, the two-mile parade was an ordeal, a test of their devotion to the Walk and the Order. It was a rigorous affair for many of the women, too, who preserved their poise despite limp bosoms and hats. All lodges came through with flying colours —well, with banners bedraggled and dyes running, but still valiant.

The Orange Walk is always fascinating. It brings together once a year people one never sees at any other time, in a lump and in a special guise—silk hat and big horse included. This year the Walk was even more interesting [illegible] gaits, facial contours and individual forms, and brought out the character of the walkers and their resources of humour, patience and staunchness. It was a good show—formidable.

A First-Rate Canadian Critic

We admire the series of pamphlets which the Winnipeg Free Press brings out, preserving in a permanent form some of the better things which appear in that great newspaper; we are particularly happy to have the 35th of these pamphlets, which contains some of the articles of criticism written by the late Edward Killoran Brown between 1947 and 1951. The articles appeared under the general heading of Causeries; this useful French word means a series of chatty and informal essays, discussing serious things in a light but not trivial manner; Brown was an admirable causeur.

E. K. Brown was a brilliant man and a good scholar. In some circles in Canada he was spoken of as a young man in a hurry—because he was not content to wait until he had grown old to speak his mind, and because he had such an abundant mind from which to speak. Canada lost him, for Canada could not or would not provide him with an atmosphere in which his great energies could be absorbed. But when he had gone to the University of Chicago he continued to write for the Free Press, and we always looked with eagerness at each issue, to see whether it carried an article over his initials.

It is foolish snobbery to suppose that good writing cannot appear in newspapers. No paper can be well written from cover to cover in each issue; the haste of journalistic work and the constant shortage of good writers makes such a thing impossible; but every good paper tries to include as much good writing as it can get. There is more good writing than is commonly supposed in the ninety-odd daily papers, and the great mass of weeklies in this country. But it may be said that the general standard of criticism in Canadian journalism is not high, and that with a few honourable exceptions few papers carry anything of an illuminating nature about books, or music or any of the arts and sciences, which are as much within the province of a good paper as politics, crime and the record of daily affairs. Brown's essays were mountain peaks in the lowlands of our journalistic criticism.

Busy people, and people who fear what may be highbrow, will read things in a newspaper which they would not read anywhere else, for they think, quite rightly, that what appears in a newspaper is timely and necessary. Brown, in his essays, brought necessary and timely matters which were also timeless to the attention of thousands of such people, and he did it in an easy, friendly style which would not alarm the simplest reader. His death early this year robbed this continent of a scholar of fine achievement and finer promise, and it also took one of our most accomplished writers for the press.

Closing The Liquor Store On Wednesday

We are now well into the tourist season, and already several American visitors have commented upon our custom of closing Ontario liquor stores all day on Wednesdays. They do not like it, for it causes them inconvenience, and when people are on holiday they have little time or inclination to study local oddities of this sort. Residents of Ontario have become accustomed to the closing of liquor stores on Wednesdays, as they have become accustomed to very high prices and watered whisky when the liquor stores are open. But if the Ontario Government is really serious about the tourist traffic we think that it should staff its liquor stores with enough men to keep the stores open on Wednesdays.

The present system gives another example of what happens when a government is running a public service. The price of liquor in Ontario bears no reasonable relation to the cost of manufacture, and the times of liquor sale are dictated by government convenience rather than by public convenience. The brewers' warehouses, run privately, serve the public when the public wants to buy. They stay open Wednesdays. If the Ontario Liquor Commission wants to please tourists, it should make arrangements to meet their convenience, after the fashion of private business.

Walter Trier, Artist

One of the most talented men to come to Canada as a result of the war was Walter Trier, the artist, who died on Sunday last at his home near Collingwood. Many artists are described as Bohemians; Trier was a Bohemian in actual fact, for he was born in Bohemia when it was still part of the Austrian Empire, before it became part of Czechoslovakia. Before he was twenty he was a contributor to the great Munich comic magazine, Simplicissimus and he was one of Germany's foremost comic artists until his satirical comments upon the Nazi regime, and the fact that he was a Jew, made it imperative for him to leave Germany in 1937. After ten years in England he came to Canada, and did distinguished work here.

its unusual artistic merit was sometimes overlooked; there are many people who think that a bad "serious" picture is of greater value than a good "funny" picture. The wit and simplicity of Trier's work may have persuaded unobservant people that it was easily done; but in colour and design his work was worthy of the admiration which it commanded among critics and discriminating lovers of pictures. Admirable as his technique was, it was the delightful comic fancy which he expressed through it which made his work distinguished. His pictures of children, of circus life, of witches and gnomes, and such illustrations as those which he made for Emil and the Detective were filled with a youthful, bubbling exuberance and a genuine originality of outlook which made a Trier picture unmistakable anywhere. Though his time in Canada was brief he was able to exert some influence upon art, and particularly upon commercial art, in this country which was all in the direction of lightness, simplicity and gaiety, and for that we must hold him in grateful remembrance.

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

ALPHA: What is the oldest brick house in Peterborough?

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: There is some dispute about this, and I shall not pretend to resolve it here and now. Rather I would like to stir up the memories of older residents and ask for their opinions.

In reading a newspaper obituary notice on the death of Robert Nicholls, husband of Charlotte Jane—he died November 7, 1883 —I came upon the statement that Robert Nicholls had built the first brick house in Peterborough, on Chambers Street. I do not know which house it was, or whether or not it has been pulled down.

Two buildings laid claim half a century ago to being the oldest existing brick houses in Peterborough.. One is on the west side of George Street, the building immediately north of the old Examiner plant (now the Peterborough Printing Company) presently occupied by a shop. Fifty years ago it was the shop and house of old Mr. Wrighton. The second claimant is a building on the north side of Charlotte across from Louis Street, though farther east, the building on the west side of the lane. It was a double front house, with entrance in the middle. One half of the remodelled front is now occupied by a barber shop.

Dr. J. Malcolm McCulloch tells me that he used to live in this house, 202 Charlotte, renting it from Mrs. Tom Harper in 1906. He recalls, shortly after moving to the house, walking home from his club with the late George Hatton. He said: "This is where I drop off now". Mr. Hatton: "Oh, so you are living there now? That is the old Globe Hotel. I remember when I was a lad at our home on Aylmer Street, south of Charlotte, creeping through the back alleys to it, and among the legs of shantymen watching the fights". Charlotte Street, in Mr. Hatton's boyhood, was called Hell Street. It was a rowdy street, Dr. McCulloch hazards a guess that 202 Charlotte Street was built in the sixties. He was told on moving into it that it was the oldest brick house in Peterborough, but that its rival for this honour was the George Street house.

ALPHA: What is the recognized abbreviation for the word Newfoundland? Other provinces have various contractions or abbreviations of their names: B.C., Alta., Que., etc. I have seen Newfoundland shortened to Nld., N'fl'd., Nfd. What is the accepted form?

ANSWER: Nfld.

✧ ✧ ✧

SIR: Now that the Dominion of Canada seems to be veering from kingship to republicanism (dropping the word Dominion and the term Royal Mail) I wonder in whose name Canadian passports are issued—the King's or the Canadian Government?

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Canadian passports are still issued in the name of the King. There is, however, a difference between pre-war and post-war passports. In the pre-war version, the mandate reads:

"We, John Baron Tweedsmuir of Elsfield, G.C.M.G., C.H., Governor-General and Commander-in-Chief of the Dominion of Canada, Request, in the name of His Britannic Majesty, all those whom it may concern, to allow the bearer to pass freely without let or hindrance and to afford him every assistance and protection of which he may stand in need. Given under our hand and seal-at-arms at Ottawa this second day of . . . " etc. The facsimile signature at the bottom is the Governor-General's. The arms reproduced beside it are his.

In the present version of the Canadian passport the injunction reads: "The Secretary of State for External Affairs of Canada requests in the name of His Majesty the King, all those whom it may concern, to allow the bearer to pass freely without let or hindrance and to afford him or her every assistance and protection of which he or she may stand in need". The signature (in facsimile) is that of Lester B. Pearson, External Affairs Minister. There is no coat-of-arms beside it, but at the top of the page is the word CANADA surmounting the Canadian armourial bearings.

These differences are apparent: The Secretary of State, not the Governor-General issued the request. Canada is not "the Dominion of Canada", just Canada. The King is not "His Britannic Majesty", but "His Majesty the King".

Incidentally, in the pre-war passports, there were blanks in which to type 'him' or 'her'. Now mass production has caught up with passports. The prolegomena is printed without blank spaces, and the awkward 'him or her' covers all passport holders, male or female.

Page 1 of the older passport says that so-and-so (the bearer) is "British Subject by Birth". The post-war form states that his national status is "Canadian Citizen by Birth". There is a footnote on the page, saying that "A Canadian citizen is a British subject; Section 21, Canadian Citizenship Act" . . . Thus the Canadian passport-bearer gets the advantage in far foreign countries of being a British subject (a considerable advantage in view of Britain's extensive foreign service and far-flung diplomatic offices) to notice that this country has any connection with the throne of the British King.

By the way, all Canadian passports are in two languages. Even the cover is printed "Passport" in English, "Passeport" in French. One further difference. Before the war my own passport named me "B. C. Alpha, Esq." Now, since the war, I am termed merely "Mr. B. C. Alpha." A distinction without a difference? Perhaps, but I would prefer the outward, if more British and less democratic, sign of respected gentility, 'Esq'. But I have fallen low in the world. Before the war my profession was "student". Now it is "writer", a lower calling to be sure, not worthy of "Esquire".

DEAR SIR: Permit me to suggest another curious property of the number 9. (Last week, Alpha mentioned that the digits of any product of 9 always add up to 9—for instance, 3 times 9 equals 27; 2 plus 7 equals 9). If you take any row of figures, and, reversing their order, make a subtraction sum of obverse and reverse, the final result of adding up the digits of the answer will always be 9. For example;

2941
reverse - 1492

1449

1 plus 4 plus 4 plus 9 equals 18 and 1 plus 8 equals 9.

RESPONSE: Thanks for the additional information about the miraculous persistence of number 9.

✧ ✧ ✧

NOTES and "Queeries" Sir: What was the original purpose of the water outlet on the east side of the canal immediately north of the Lift Locks, and where does the water come from? At one time there was a turnstile in the guard rail along the canal road at this point.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I am told that there is a spring at this point, from Armour Heights, and that the water—perhaps it is seepage water—is let out through a pipe, and a drinking fountain thus created. Cattle may use it now; formerly it was a proper fountain, I believe . . . The channel of water may have some relation to the canal, but I doubt it. Does this answer the question, or have I hit on the wrong spot? Any other views?

✧ ✧ ✧

FOR THE RECORD: Rocking chairs are coming back into fashion—if not as the last loll of modernity, then as comfortable period pieces. A Toronto second-hand and antique dealer, whose premises Alpha visited this week, says that American tourists last year badgered him for rocking-chairs. He scoured the country during the winter and secured a dozen or so, but before the tourist season began, sold all but two to Toronto people. An upholstered, old-fashioned rung-and-scroll wooden rocker which two years ago would have fetched at most a dollar, sold at Peterborough auction the other day for seven dollars—probably twice as much as the chair cost in 1890. With the return of the rocker, will there also be a demand for big, rangy verandahs?

War On Balm Of Gilead

(PORT ARTHUR NEWS-CHRONICLE)

PORT ARTHUR is again being subjected to the annual nuisance of the Balm of Gilead bloom.

This blooming nuisance became so bad a few seasons ago that the City Council set its engineer to cutting down all the Balm of Gilead trees on city property. The engineer is not known to have missed any. The Board of Parks Management made an appeal to private citizens that they get rid of the trees of this species and, as an inducement, offered to provide them, free, with new and better trees to take their places in yards front and back. Some residents responded, but not all.

It is a wonder, too, why anyone would permit this tree to make its home in soil within root reach of any home because the nuisance is not confined to the bloom that floats about over the community.

The roots are militant, persistent and thirsty. They will travel far, through difficulty and danger to get a drink. They will break down stone walls and will work their way into points of sewer and water pipes and continue until finally they have blocked these pipes and the plumbers, at their new high rates, with overtime where necessary, have to be called on for relief.

Again the call to arms; Let every one wage war on the Balm of Gilead and, if there is no other recourse, surely the City Solicitor, who has had some success in finding almost forgotten laws bearing on other matters, could find one that would provide penalty for anyone harboring a tree or permitting it to send its bloom or roots over into other people's property. Somehow or other it ought to be included in the law against maintenance of public nuisances.

Letter To The Editor

UNION'S PROPER JOBS

Sir:

It is heartening to know that there is at least one delegate to the District Labour Council who has his feet on the ground. I refer of course to Mr. E. Humphrey's dissenting vote, reported in your paper Tues. July 10 edition on the labour council's resolution that top Communists be rounded up (particularly Mr. C. S. Jackson (U.E.) and so forth and so on.

As an interested party in labour affairs in this locality I would suggest to some of the "Johnny come lately" labour leaders in this city and those who aspire to be labour leaders in this city, that they should contain themselves to the union business of organizing and improving the working conditions by what means they can of the various groups of working people who need such assistance and leave the security of our country to the competent and proper authorities.

As far as Communists in this country go, whether they are in Peterborough or elsewhere, I for one have all the confidence in the world in the government agencies assigned to cover subversive elements in Canada.

The R.C.M.P. has in the past and will continue to be in the future a model of democratic police methods, in which every precaution will be and is being taken to safeguard the security of this country.

Labour groups in this country must meet the Communists in labour on common ground, match them, competence with competence, word for word and act for act, in a bid for the confidence of the union members and workers involved. If they fail in this they cannot appeal to the totalitarian methods to gain their end, for this indeed would not be the democratic way which they so boldly champion.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Then said Jesus to those Jews which believed on him, If we continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed; and ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free.

They answered him, We be Abraham's seed, and were never in bondage to any man: how sayest thou, Ye shall be made free?

Jesus answered them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Whosoever committeth sin is the servant of sin. And the servant abideth not in the house for ever: but the Son abideth ever.

If the Son therefore shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed. (John 8: 31-36.)

✧ ✧ ✧

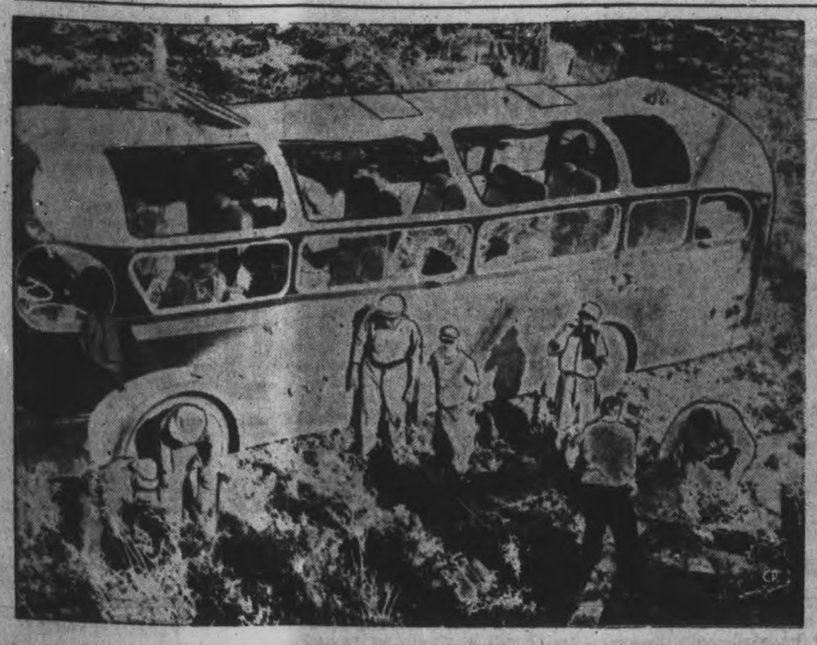
For I say unto you, That except your righteousness shall exceed the righteousness of the scribes and Pharisees, ye shall in no case enter into the kingdom of heaven. . . .

Therefore, if thou bring thy gift to the altar, and there rememberest that thy brother hath ought against thee: leave here thy gift before the altar, and go thy way; first be reconciled to thy brother, and then come and offer thy gift. (Matt. 5: 20, 23, 24.)

Pleasure Boats On The Thames

(John Betjeman speaking about the Festival in London, in a BBC programme.)

"The greatest thing the Festival has done for London is to reintroduce the Thames into a life of pleasure. Most Londoners have long thought of the Thames as brown, sliding water hidden away below high stone walls. The South Bank Exhibition has brought it back to what it used to be in the days before the Embankment was made, nearly a century ago. In those days the Lord Mayor's procession was a stream of many-coloured barges pulled down the river by liveried oarsmen. The new procession will be of passenger steamers up and down stream to Battersea and Poplar. The restaurants of the Festival hang over the water, palaces of glass and plants from which you can see the outline of the Royal Palace of Westminster, the fine chimney stacks of Scotland Yard and the domes and towers of the North Bank until finally the great dome of St. Paul's is seen riding over Waterloo Bridge."



A Bachelor's Function

(Sydney Carter speaking in a BBC programme called "I am a Bachelor".)

"Once a bachelor accepts the fact that his vocation is to be a bachelor, and is freed from the idea that marriage is the only proper way of life, he enters into a new benevolent relationship with the family and with society. He no longer feels that he is missing a good thing, that he ought to grab at it before it is too late. He has found his niche in life. He has become an Uncle."

Shipyards Put Fighting Ships Back In Shape

OTTAWA, July 13 (CP)—Shipyards in the Maritimes and Quebec are to put 36 Second World War fighting ships back in shape for a new career with Canada's expanding peacetime navy, the defence department said today.

All of them have been in reserve for some years and are being brought out and modernized. They are to help the navy meet its planned objective of 100 warships plus a lot of smaller ones in service by 1954.

Sixteen of the vessels are frigates and 18 are minesweepers bought as war surplus by Marine Industries Ltd., of Sorel, Que., and now purchased by the navy. The other two are Bangor minesweepers, the Digby and Granby, that have been in reserve at Halifax and which are to be refitted by Lunenburg, N.S., Foundry Co.

Delivery of the frigates and Bangor minesweepers from Sorel for refitting and reconditioning has started.

The Prestonian, first ship to leave was allocated to Canadian Vickers, Limited, oMntreal, and will be the prototype establishing the standard for the other frigates. In general the frigates will be brought up to current navy standards in respect to habitability and anti-submarine armament.

Second To Leave

The minesweeper Drummondville was second to leave Sorel under tow and was turned over to steel and engine products ..esl 6 Steel and Engine Products, Limited at Liverpool, NS. The minesweepers will be refitted and reequipped to their previous standard with certain minor alterations.

The program includes the frigates Cape de la Medeleine, Jonquiere ,Toronto, Buckingham, Victoriaville, Lauzon, New Glasgow, Penetang, Stettler, Ste. Therese, Inch Aran, Lanark, Outremont, Fort Erie, Prestonian and Sussexvale. The minesweepers include Sarnia, Kenora, Fort William, Red Deer, Blairmore, Nipigon, Malpeque, Medicine Hat, Westmount, Port Hope, Swift Current, Mahone, Gananoque, Milltown, Minas, Kentville, Goderich and Drummondville.

All ships will be towed to the shipyard assigned to convert or refit them as the yards are ready.

Nothing New Discovered In Korean Land Fighting

By WILLIAM BOSS.

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA, July 13 (CP).—It's the same old army.

The Second World War soldier once rid of his civvie-street paunch and with his wind back, would find it as familiar as slipping on an old glove.

Apart from a few new gimmicks here and there, he would find his former niche very much the prescription as before with respect to unit organization.

One difference is that a battalion now has two more majors—seven altogether. One commands support company, grouping the unit heavy mortars, medium machine guns, anti-tank guns and flamethrowers. The other heads headquarters company, with his assorted drivers, batmen, cooks, signalmen and others proper to the nerve centre.

That doesn't make much difference to the man doing the work; just more pay to the man giving the orders.

Weapons Similar

Basically unchanged, like the setup, are the weapons.

Over here the personal weapon among the riflemen is the much-loved Lee-Enfield bolt-action .303 rifle.

There was much headache when the news reached Korea that the Lee-Enfield was to give way to the Garand automatic rifle. Among Canadians the automatic rifle has a reputation for fouling up under the dirt and grime of service conditions. They much prefer the handy bolt action. Nothing fouls it.

The question here was — if standardization of ammunition was the goal, why not produce a .30 barrel for the Lee-Enfield?

The remaining infantry weapons are the same—the Bren light-machine-gun, the Vickers medium machine-gun (the only army weapon basically unchanged since the First World War) and the Sten gun.

The Sten's status has been questioned by troops using it since making the acquaintance here of the American carbine-automatic. Equally light and better produced, it has greater accuracy at greater effective range — 300 yards to the Sten's 50.

Indeed, CSM J. A. M. Juteau of Montreal, with the 2nd Battalion Royal 22nd Regiment, submitted a formal memorandum on the carbine, on his own initiative, to Defence Minister Claxton. It has been acknowledged with thanks by Ottawa.

Many Changes

Probably no infantry department has changed its weapon as often as the anti-tank platoon. Members started off last time with the Boys anti-tank rifle. That gave way to the six-pounder gun and the Piat mortar. The 2nd Battalion PPCLI started in Korea with the 17-pounder gun, and now, in common with the rest of the 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade group, use the American 75-mm. recoilless rifle.

It also uses a five-man crew, is more easily positioned, but has the one drawback of a dangerous back-flash.

The gunners and the tank men also are on familiar territory.

The 2nd Regiment, Royal Canadian Horse Artillery uses an improved version of the wartime 25-pounder with flash eliminator, while C Squadron, Lord Strathcona Horse battles in an up-to-date Sherman.

Another new note is the integration of the air force with the infantry to the point that it now almost is an infantry weapon. The "almost" is only because air help is not constantly on call.

The air force has two very damaging weapons, the napalm bomb and the rocket.

Out of Date

The thinking here is that napalm already may have exceeded its period of maximum effectiveness. The Chinese, at least, have learned how to dig to avoid the effects of anything but a direct strike, and get sufficient warning from the preliminary wheeling of the aircraft over the target to know what's coming.

The shrapnel effect of mortar and artillery — especially the radio-detonated shells that explode in the air just above the target—is considered much more effective in that it more frequently catches the enemy by surprise.

The 1951 soldier's personal gear too, is much the same as the wartime issue.

It is distinctive and generally superior in quality.

However, the Canadian Army still has to devise

1. An all-weather, wet-proof boot.
2. A light summer hat to give protection to eyes and face.
3. An easily assembled web harness, a line in which the British Army has made some progress.

Badouin Will TakeOver As New Ruler of Belgium

BRUSSELS, July 12. (Reuters)—A new King of the Belgians—Baudouin I, a shy, bespectacled 19-year-old youth — will be crowned next Tuesday in a long-awaited ceremony which will follow his father's abdication by only 23 hours.

Artillery salvos will welcome the young monarch, known for the last 11 months as The Apprentice King.

A year ago his father, King Leopold, returned to his throne from abroad. The Nazis had deported him to Germany during the Second World War, and when it was over her had gone into voluntary exile.

His return split the country into two camps and political crises, verged on civil war.

Socialists, Liberals and Communists demanded his abdication. In August his opponents began a march on Brussels. It was averted when Leopold said he would leave the throne and delegate his son, Baudouin Albert Charles Leopold Axel Marie Gustave, to succeed him.

Since then Baudouin has fulfilled the functions which nominally are still his father's. All parties except the Communists support him as king.

Baudouin's beautiful mother, Princess Astrid, was killed in a car crash when he was 5. When he was 9 the Germans poured across the Belgian frontiers.

After a few weeks' fighting his father ordered the army to lay down its arms and took his family into captivity.

When it became clear he was to play a part in his country's destiny, Baudouin took on a stiff course of training and learned to be a monarch the hard way.

Every weekday he confers with his ministers, attends public functions, makes his own decisions, and leads as busy and hard a life as any top executive.

Tuesday, as the bells peal, Baudouin will drive from the Belgian Chamber of Deputies after taking the oath.

Dressed in the uniform of a lieutenant-general he will drive back to the Royal Palace where, just 23 hours earlier, his father will have signed the Act of Abdication to end his 17-year-old reign.

Boost Freight Rates Starting August 13

OTTAWA, July 13—(CP)—The railways propose to increase their low "transcontinental" freight rates Aug. 13 by 12 per cent, it was learned Thursday.

The rates are used for the movement between Eastern Canada and the West Coast of heavy commodities such as automobiles, iron and steel and canned goods. About $10,000,000 of traffic moves each year on the special rates.

The railways have given formal notice to the Board of Transport Commissioners that they plan to boost the rates effective Aug. 13. The increase in the transcontinental tolls, is apart from the general 12-per-cent hoist in rates awarded the railways by the Transport Board July 4. That increase goes into effect July 26.

Freighter Carrying Record Wheat Load

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., July 13 (CP) — The Colonial Steamships freighter Scott Misener left for Port Colborne Thursday with a record load of 634,000 bushels of wheat.

Making her second trip down the lakes since she was put into service, the 654-foot lake vesel was locked through the Sault locks here 18½ hours after leaving the Fort William elevator loading dock.

The cargo record tops the previous record the ship set on her first trip by some 15,000 bushels. The freighter established another speed record en route to Fort William, making the trip in 16½ hours from here.

SERVICE STATION MAN SAVES CRIPPLE ENVELOPED IN FLAMES

Leslie Burtt, of Bronte, near Hamilton, Ont., dashes into garage fire to rescue 75-year-old victim

1. Arthur Smith, an elderly cripple whose condition requires the use of two canes, was in the habit of sitting in the back of Leslie Burtt's service station. Often he helped by answering the phone when Burtt was busy. One day, however, his helpfulness almost caused him his life. A container of gasoline somehow fell from a nearby table. Running under a space heater, the fluid ignited and in seconds the garage interior was like an inferno.

2. Leslie Burtt had gone outside to serve a customer when suddenly he heard an ominous hissing sound. Turning around he took in the terrible sight at a glance. Inside the garage flames seemed to be shooting everywhere. Many a man would have instinctively made tracks for a safe place . . . realizing that a disastrous explosion might follow at any minute. But Leslie Burtt's only thought was for his trapped, crippled friend.

3. Dashing in through the flames, Burtt found the old man still in his chair, his hands already scorched. Working quickly, the garage operator dragged the crippled Mr. Smith out to safety. We are proud indeed to add the name of Leslie Burtt, of Bronte, Ontario, to the list of Canadians who have won The Dow Award for outstanding bravery.

Meeker Won't Play For Ottawa Senators

TORONTO, July 13 (CP). — Toronto Maple Leafs' star right-winger isn't planning to play for Ottawa Senators of the Quebec Senior Hockey League while he is a member of parliament.

Meeker, elected Progressive Conservative member for Waterloo South riding last month, said Thursday night published reports that he would leave professional hockey to play for Ottawa were "absolutely out of the question."

(In Ottawa, promoter T. P. Gorman, said Meeker would be a most welcome addition to the hocgey club, but, commenting on the reports, said he didn't think Meeker would leave the Leafs.)

Said Meeker: "There's a much better chance that I'll be playing in Toronto with the Leafs."

However, he indicated that parliamentary duties will be his first consideration.

Revoy's Pound Out Win Over Lakefield

Revoys continued apace their neck-and-neck race with UEW for first place in the men's softball derby at the Bowl Thursday night, by defeating Lakefield 24-2 in the afterpiece of the twin-set for their 10th win of the season against four setbacks. The Dalton gang have 11 and three and a possible first place tie looms up on Tuesday as all teams square off in the final contests, prior to playoffs. Orphans are secure in the third slot.

Lefty Doris hurled shutout ball for the Guilfoyle squad for four frames and Haddy Eakins further tuned his wing by twirling the final five; each was touched for two safe bingles one a triple by Red Wasson in the ninth with Twist aboard, to break Merchants' goose-egg. Later Red scored on a wild pitch.

Blair Thomson switched to the keystone sack this game, fielded flawlessly and had six for seven with the mace, to drive home five markers and lead the home attack on Heffernan and McCracken who toiled for the luckless visitors. Don Bigford caught a neat game and homered while Taylor drove in three.

Out At The Kawartha

Important. Kawartha club members are reminded of the district tournament of the Ontario Golf Association to be held at the Peterborough Club on Saturday, July 14. The competition will be 18 holes, medal play, and there will be three flights:

Class A, handicap 1-9; Class B, handicap 10-20, Class C, handicap 21-36.

It is not too late to enter. Entry fee for the day is $3.50. Prizes are well worth while.

Due to the poor weather Thursday afternoon the business girls had to cancel their golf which was to have been two-ball foursomes with the men members. However, next Thursday, July 19, will be the day (weather permitting) and we hope the men will be able to be with the BG's on that date. Draw sheets have been posted in each locker room, and if there are changes to be made it would be appreciated if either Jack Cranfield or Audrey Oliver were notified.

The Kawartha tennis team made a successful and enjoyable trip to the Lindsay Tennis Club Tuesday and added another six points to their league score which now stands at 27 out of a possible 35 with five matches played.

Winning players were: Ladies' singles, Agnes Bubik; men's singles, John Fletcher; first men's doubles, Don Lamont and Ron Lye; second men's doubles, Rod Stuart and Trevor Clarke; first mixed doubles, Joan Lye and Willard Elmsley; first ladies' doubles, Ruth McKee and Betty Lamont.

The Lindsay pair of Ruth Smith and Steve Saganski won the second mixed doubles for the club's only triumph.

MOTHER OF INVENTION — Mrs. Carrie Hilton patented a thumbless boxing glove. The thumb isn't loose to be stuck in an opponent's eye. The glove make a natural fist. Padding doesn't work down. The greying housewife of New Burlington, O., got the idea when her two sons got hurt settling scraps in the barn.

LOST CAUSE — Yogi Berra of the American League slides across home plate at Briggs Stadium, Detroit, with the American League's first run. Berra scored on Ferris Fain's second inning triple. The ball (arrow) pops out of Roy Campanella's mitt as umpire Art Passarella calls the play. The National League won easily, 8-3.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Hamilton Tigers tackle the Petes tonight at 8.45 in Miller Bowl, an OLA senior "A" fixture. And one that should pack 'em in, as the Tigers are a clawing, fighting bunch of lacrossers and will extend the fast-stepping Crowe crew plenty. Local gutted-stick aces (with valuable Don Ashbee back in the lineup) have two tough ones in a row: Hamilton here tonight and Brampton on the latter's pitch tomorrow. It's a gruelling grind in this rugged sport. The local OLA juniors who take on Niagara Falls here on the morrow) will receive their various trophies at this Friday night fray for winning the junior "B" title last season. Hope the weather is okay this e'en.

* * * * * *

The OBA comes in for quite a panning by some of the Intercounty League scribes, especially Kitchener. On account of that august body (often in a state of flux) has ruled that Pitcher Jerry Creasey is Oshawa property and cannot play for Kitchener. We are interested, of course, because the baseballic Petes may have to face Creasey in playoffs or playdowns no matter which team he winds up with, Oshawa or Kitchener. Kitchener delegation to the OBA meeting said it was all cut and dried in advance and that they were given but three minutes until a decision was reached. Even though they took along a lawyer who said the OBA had no jurisdiction where a contract concerning pay for play was concerned, the association not being professional.

* * * * * *

OBA Going Professional?

Creasey had signed a pro-type contract for Oshawa, but then went to Kitchener ere playing a game for the Merchants, and he returned the money advanced to him. John Harris, who sponsors the pro-like Oshawa crew, felt the club was held up to ridicule by letting Creasey go. So the OBA decided that Creasey's actions were detrimental to the good of baseball. Another professional phrase. Can't a player dicker with two clubs ere signing an OBA certificate? Also, the OBA stalled around until it was too late for Kitchener to sign a replacement, so they may go ahead with league blessing and use Creasey, anyway. He can't legally return to Oshawa at this late date and sign a playing certificate. We think the OBA has acted a bit dumber than usual.

* * * * * *

However, it's no skin off our anatomy — it's an Oshawa vs. Kitchener rhubarb, with the OBA messing around in it, too. Meantime, the Petes have a Viaduct Major League tilt with Toronto Kingsways here Saturday night, weather being oke, at eight in Riverside under the arcs. The Whitehill squad hasn't too big a lead now — we believe it is two and a half games, though the loop scorer hasn't sent out a standing in some time — over Oshawa, and the team will have to keep winning most of its games to maintain that margin. It might turn out to be another swell diamond scrap for local fans, who have seen quite a few here in recent weeks.

As Schedule Nears End

UEW squeezed out a 10-9 men's softball win o'er the battling Orphans at the Bowl last night to grab off top spot by themselves once again. Reg Gordon pitched effectively against a trio of twirlers for the losers, Bill Lewis, Jim McGrath and Terry Woods, latter going best. They had a tough break in losing catcher Mark O'Donoghue, who suffered a broken finger when hit by a bat. Revoy's trounced Lakefield 24-2 in a real slugfest, paced by Blair Thomson's potent war club. Lefty Doris and Haddy Eakins shared slab duties for the victors, as Heffernan and McCracken saw mound action for the last-place Merchants. The battle Tuesday is for first slot, Orphans being safe in third as the schedule winds up. Games are: Revoy's vs. Orphans, and UEW vs. Lakefield.

Along the minor baseball front, George Sullivan's midgets have an exhibition tussle at 6.30 tonight in Riverside with the East City juniors, Ray Pammett advises. Anthony's peewees are in Lindsay on the morrow to take part in a six-team zone peewee tournament for a trophy. About 90 lads, under 13 years from Peterborough, Bowmanville, Aurora, Newmarket, Oshawa and Lindsay, will play in the all-day competition. Lindsay Police Cadets are drawn first against the Anthony outfit. All games are seven-inning affairs with a time limit of two hours. Players and team officials get a free lunch. Local PMBA schedules wind up ere the end of this month.

Supporters Flocking To Back Citation

INGLEWOOD, July 13 (AP)—The Citation bandwagon, abandoned by many just two months ago, was spilling over with supporters today on the eve of the old warrior's golden chance to become the first million dollar winner in turf history.

Saturday Citation, the proudest of the proud Calumet Stable of horses, races in the $100,000 Hollywood Gold Cup, the peak handicap event of the Hollywood Park summer season.

The six-year-old champion of champions, beaten off time and again in his quest to reach the $1,000,000 mark, will be making his 45th trip to the post, and possibly the last of one of the most brilliant careers in racing.

Citation is already the all-time money winning king of the sport, with $938,760 to his credit earned in such classics as the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness, the Belmont Stakes and others.

Foresters Win

Foresters trimmed Peterborough Lumber 9-1 last night to stay up in the top bracket of the Civic Softball League. They broke out with five runs in the first frame, adding one next heat and three more in the fourth. The losers' lone marker came in the sixth when Ferguson hit a wild streak. He whiffed four and walked four in the game, Blackburn issuing four walks on the other slab. Roberts, Davison and Dewar each had three hits in the total of 16, PLC being held to four. They booted five to one for Foresters. Teams:

PLC: Lonsberry lf, Blackburn p, D. Dummitt c, Haldimand ss, Payne 3b, Davis 1b, Shea cf, R. Dummitt rf, Burrows 2b, Dyer 2b.

Foresters: Roberts 1b, Walling rf, Doughty c, Davison 3b, S. Tyndall ss, Henry 2b, Ferguson p, Dewar cf, C. Tyndall lf.

Utilities Victors

Utilities yanked out an 8-7 Civic Softball League win over Bell Telephone last evening, counting the winning run in the seventh inning. They had scored one each in the first and fourth, three in the third and two more in the fifth. Bell sent two across in the first, three in the fifth, with one each in the fourth and sixth heats. Play was keen and close all through. Teams:

Utilities: Bryan c, Loucks 2b, Payne lf, Dyer cf, Montgomery 3b, Richardson 1b, Dundas rf, Phillips ss, Willshaw p.

Bell: Gillespie 1b, Tushingham 2b, Ackford 3b, Harrison p, Jamieson ss, James c, Greatrix cf, Davis lf, Brown rf.

Orphans Edged By UEW In Fine Game

UEW edged Orphans 10-9 in the curtainraiser of last night's men's softball set at the Bowl, to retain sole possession of first place in the league standing, one game ahead of Revoy's. Victory came on a single payoff tally in the ninth, following an outfield error after one of the closest and hardest fought games, to date. In fact, it looked like Orphans until the unlucky final frame after they came from behind to tie the score in the seventh; but UE kept punching with Robson scoring the winner on Heffernan's rap.

Reg Gordon twirled the route for UE, allowed 10 hits, fanned six and walked but two. Aside from the fifth and sixth, when the Dormer clan bunched six bingles for seven runs, (including Scriver's homer with Sully on the runways) Reg had his usual effectiveness. Bill Lewis opened for Orphans, gave way to Jim McGrath early, who in turn yielded to the reliable Terry Woods with one away in the third and a 5-0 deficit. Woods showed fine form the balance of the way.

Dalton and Thompson each homered for the shop nine while Lewis and Woods doubled for the Dormer help.

Russ Scriver robbed Heffernan, Walton and White with beautiful snares in the mid-pasture, as well as shining with th mac. Mark O'Donoghue, popular catcher, suffered a broken hand when struck accidentally by Jack White's bat in the eighth.

Rochester Wings Blank Giants In 4-0 Victory

By The Associated Press.

Bob Habenicht, 25-year-old righthander of Rochester Red Wings is back on the beam.

Habenicht, used primarily in relief since late May, has turned in two fine starting jobs within the last week.

The lanky newcomer to the International League turned back Buffalo 2-1 on four hits last Thursday and yesterday he blanked the Ottawa Giants 4-0.

Habenicht burned up the league early in May, winning four out of five decisions but after four knockouts he was shunted to the bullpen. His fine relief work earned him another shot at starting assignments and Habenicht is making the most of it.

Habenicht scattered seven Ottawa hits in posting his sixth Victory against one defeat. The game was called after six innings because of rain.

The Wings scored all of their runs in the fifth inning against veteran Ed Wright. Johnny Bucha doubled home two and Johnny Blatnik drove home the other two with a long single.

Rain washed out games between Montreal and Toronto and Syracuse and Springfield. Buffalo and Baltimore were idle.

Reynolds Hurls No-Hitter; Boston Tops Loop

By JOE REICHLER,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

A no-hitter by Allie Reynolds of the New York Yankees and the surge of the Boston Red Sox into the American League lead shared top billing in the baseball world today.

Reynolds' masterpiece was doubly dramatic since it came over Cleveland's Bobby Feller, king of the no-hit pitchers.

Feller, only hurler to fashion three no-hitters since the turn of the century, surrendered only four hits himself. One, however, was a seventh inning homer by ex-Indian outfielder Gene Woodling that gave the Yankees a 1-0 triumph.

The Red Sox took a full game lead over the White Sox by sweeping a twilight-night doubleheader in Chicago, 3-2 and 5-4. The Red Sox won the nightcap in the 17th inning to establish an American League night game record. Philadelphia and Cincinnati established a major league mark of 19 innings Sept. 15, 1950.

Outfielder Clyde Volmer produced the most telling blow in each game. He homered with one on in the seventh inning to snap a scoreless duel in the opener. His long fly in the 17th scored Lou Boudreau with the winning run in the afterpiece. Boudreau had opened the frame with a single and had raced to third on another one-bagger by Billy Goodman.

Brilliant Relief Job

Ellis Kiner hurled a brilliant relief win, yielding five hits in 10 scoreless innings to gain his fifth triumph without a setback. The two victories increased the Red Sox' streak to eight straight and 15 wins in their last 19 games. On June 14, Boston was in third place, seven games behind Chicago.

Sol Rogovin was the unfortunate Chicago loser in the second game. He pitched the entire 17 innings and allowed only 10 hits. His own error, a two-base wild throw, enabled the Red Sox to tie the score at 4-4 on an unearned run in the eighth.

Reynolds walked three and fanned four to become the first Yankee pitcher to hurl a no-hitter since Monte Pearson did it Aug. 27, 1938. Pearson's victims also were the Indians. Pearson, Reynolds and Woodling, who hit the game-winning homer, all played with Cleveland before coming to the Yankees.

It was the third no-hitter of the season. Feller pitched one against Detroit July 1 and Cliff Chambers wove one for Pittsburgh against the Boston Braves May 6.

The victory was Reynolds' tenth. The triumph boosted the Yankees into second place, a fraction of a percentage point over Chicago.

Feller himself had a no-hitter until Mickey Mantle doubled in the sixth.

Take Twin Bill

Gus Zernial struck out six times but he also hit a grand slam homer to lead the Philadelphia Athletics to a sweep of their doubleheader in St. Louis, 9-7 and 13-0. Elmer Valo's two homers won the first game.

A homer by Hoot Evers proved the difference as Detroit nipped Washington, 5-4 to give Bob Cain his eighth victory against six losses. Fred Sanford was the loser.

Brooklyn increased its National League lead to 9½ games, whipping Chicago Cubs, 9-3 while the St. Louis Cards blanked the New York Giants 2-0. Homers by Roy Campanella, Carl Furillo and Billy Cox highlighted the Dodger victory.

Gerry Staley blanked the Giants with four hits as the Cards slipped past New York into second place by one percentage point. Billy Johnson's homer with one on in the fifth provided the winners with their runs.

Eddie Waitkus cracked four hits and Granny Hamner drove in four runs with a homer and two singles to lead the Phils to an 11-6 victory over Pittsburgh. Cincinnati and the Braves were postponed by rain.

By The Canadian Press

Canadian marksmen learned Thursday that their principal victory in the Bisley rifle shoot is in the balance because of a difference between Canadian and English rules.

Lieut. Gil Boa, of Toronto, winner of the Imperial Tobacco service-rifle aggregate trophy, has written to the National Rifle Association Council, withdrawing from that cocpetition and disclaiming all right to the trophy. He said he inadeverdently shot with a rifle not sighted according to the rules.

As a result, teammate CSM Norman Beckett, of Hamilton, and Cpl. J. E. Witts, of the RAF—both two points below Boa with 98—will fire a tie-shoot tonight for the trophy.

Officials explained that as Boa was about to fire in another contest he was told the sighting aperture he was using was contrary to English rules for that type of contest.

Leading American and Canadian speed boat drivers will compete in a two-day international speed boat regatta at Pont Viau near Montreal this weekend.

The meet, sanctioned by the Canadian Boating Federation, is under the supervision of the American Power Boat Association, governing body for all speed boat racing in North America. Some 100 entries have already been received.

Three more members of the Winnipeg Buffaloes in the Mandak Baseball League left Winnipeg Thursday to join St. Louis Browns' farm organization.

They are pitcher Jim Newberry; pitcher-infielder Leon Day, and second baseman John Kennedy. Earlier this week, third baseman Charlie White left to join the US club's farm system.

Broadway bookmakers don't believe Randy Turpin can beat Sugar Ray Robinson again.

They already have set Robinson as 4 to 1 favorite to beat the new middleweight champion in their return bout.

In England, British bookmakers, who work legally at their trade unlike their American counterparts, made Robinson a 3½ to 1 favorite Tuesday night, when he lost his title to the 23-year-old Turpin.

Michigan boxing commissioner Floyd Stevens Thursday refused to approve a 15-round championship fight between lightweight champion Jimmy Carter and Harold (Baby Face) Jones in Flint, Mich., Aug. 16.

"Jones has no standing as a challenger and I've informed the promoters that the State Board of Athletic Control won't recognize it as a title fight," Stevens said.

President Ford Frick of the National League Thursday disallowed a Cincinnati Reds vrotest against Pittsburgh Pirates for letting Ralph Kiner play in a July 4th doubleheader while under league suspension. The Pirates won 4-1 and 16-4.

Luke Sewell, manager of the Reds, protested Kiner's participation after a telegram arrived during the doubleheader informing Kiner of his three-day suspension and $100 fine for a row with umpire Jocko Conlan in a game with Chicago.

Branch Rickey, Pirate general manager, said Frick approved Kiner's playing the holiday twin bill in Pittsburgh after learning the Buc outfielder already was in action before Frick's telegram arrived.

Communist Bulgaria has informed the Olympic Games organizing committee at Helsinki, Finland, that it will take part in next year's games.

EITHER WAY—Red Schoendienst took his time about breaking into the home run column, but the Cardinals' second baseman demonstrated his power both ways. He belted the first in Pittsburgh from the left side of the plate, the second batting right-handed.

Marciano Pastes Rex Layne, Ready For Louis

By MURRAY ROSE.

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP). — Power-punching Rocky Marciano set his bomb sights on heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles and Joe Louis today following a slashing victory over Rex Layne.

"Charles, Louis, that's for me," shouted the undefeated Brockton, Mass., clouter as he accepted congratulations for his six-round blitz of the world's No. 3 heavyweight in Madison Square Garden Thursday night.

"I'll take on anybody," said Rocky. "But my manager Marty Weill says it has to be Charles or Louis next. Okay, I'm ready."

This from a guy who was rated a 13 to 5 underdog, wasn't given a chance by the alleged experts, and who celebrated his third year of pro boxing by belting out Layne with a smashing right to the jaw in 35 seconds of the sixth of a ten-rounder.

The 12,565 fans paid $73,190 to see the bout. The chunky, game, aggressive 23-year-old Layne from Lewiston, Utah, has been a tonic to the game here with his pleasing fights. It was his first knockout loss and only his second defeat in 38 fights.

Knee Popped

Layne said his right knee popped on him in the third, the same round in which Marciano shattered his rival's bridgework and knocked out a tooth.

Bobbing and weaving and scoring with left hooks and right uppercuts, the 26-year-old Marciano defuddled Layne with his style during the first four rounds. In the second an ugly gash was opened over Layne's left eye and in the fourth the Lewiston larruper went down from a shove.

Rocky switched style in the fifth and started banging his chunky foe with looping punches from outside. At the start of the sixth he caught Rex with a powerful right to the jaw and Layne tottered forward and then fell on his face for the full count.

It was the 31st knockout in 36 fights for the ex-shoemaker from Brockton.

Layne weighed 193, Marciano 185½.

Mutuals Win Out

Mutuals took a 7-1 fastball win over Woollens at Quaker Park last night. O'Toole and J. White hit four for five to lead the winners and G. Leonard got three in four to top Woollens. Guerin pitched neat ball, as Doughty and Dorris saw slab duty for the losers. Teams:

Woollens—Wiechorek 3b, Nokes c, G. Leonard ss, E. Leonard 2b, Dorris p, Doughty 1b, McMillan lf, Coughlin cf, Schell rf.

Mutuals—T. White c, J. White rf, O'Toole 1b, Huard 2b, Gallagher lf, Thompson 3b, Plumpton cf, Guerin p, Simpson ss.

Suggest Conference

CAIRO, Egypt, July 13 (Reuters). — Britain and South Africa have invited Egypt and other African and colonial powers to attend a conference in Pretoria to discuss the defence of the African continent, authoritative sources said Thursday night. No date has been fixed for the conference. Other powers reported invited were France, Belgium, Spain, Portugal, Ethiopia, Liberia and the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan.

CENTURY MEN—Stanley Musial, left, of the Cardinals; Phillies' Richie Ashburn, centre, and Alvin Dark were the first National Leaguers to make 100 hits this season. Stan the Man led both major circuits in batting with .369. Ashburn battled the Dodgers' Jackie Robinson for the runner-up position wotih .355. Dark showed the way to the Giants with .319.

Make Longest Flight

LONDON, July 13 (Reuters) — Britain's first jet airliner, the Dehavilland Comet, now on loan to British Overseas Airways Corporation, will fly to Johannesburg, South Africa, next week on its longest flight so far—13,250 miles. The aircraft will carry out tests in air traffic controls, operating techniques, meteorological conditions and radar and radio navigation aids.

Language Use Topic Centenary WA Meet

ROSENEATH, July 13 (ENS)—"English as it is written and spoken" was the subject of an address given by Miss Linda Arthur at the July meeting of Centenary W.A. Thursday afternoon. Miss Arthur stressed correct pronunciation, spelling correctly and increasing a person's vocabulary.

The meeting was held in the church. Owing to the absence of the president, Mrs. Silas Sherwin, the first vice-president, Mrs. Dawson Timlin, presided, with Mrs. Arnold Elder as organist.

"The happiness of the Godly," was the topic of the devotional preiod chosen by Mrs. Timlin. Appropriate hymns were sung.

Thank you cards were read from two members, Mrs. Charles Thackeray and Mrs. Thomas Kelly, for boxes of good cheer received during their recent illnesses. Mrs. Leo Timlin is convener of this department.

The treasurer, Mrs. Reginald Timlin, reported total receipts for the month were $115, included in this amount was $50 from a sale of home baking.

Plans were made to have another home baking sale in August.

Mrs. Bruce Arthur was convener of the program and was assisted by Mrs. Reginald Timlin, Mrs. Arnold Elder and Mrs. Ernest Burrison. A musical quiz was won by Mrs. Burrison's group and a supper contest won by Mrs. Woodruff's and Miss Hilda Arthur's groups.

Lunch was served by a lunch committee, namely: Mrs. Walton Lean, Mrs. Leo Timlin, Mrs. Bruce Arthur and Mrs. Reginald Timlin.

How Your Donation Helps the Youngsters Of Peterborough

For the past four years the Peterborough Minor Lacrosse Association has been operating teams in tadpole, peewee, bantam, midget and juvenile leagues. From fifteen to twenty teams are formed each year. Last year a Junior team was formed and entered in competition.

A full-time supervisor is employed during the summer months, to properly instruct the youth of Peterborough, in the game of lacrosse. Harry Wipper, coach of the PMLA, is an experienced senior player and is considered well qualified to instruct the players of the minor leagues.

Along with operating city leagues, teams from each league, are entered in Ontario lacrosse playoffs, thus affording them competition with out-of-town teams. The work of the PMLA is highly regarded in Ontario Lacrosse circles.

Lads of all ages are welcomed at Miller Bowl. They are placed on a team and receive the benefits of good coaching. Lacrosse sticks are provided for those who require them.

A considerable amount of money is required to carry out this program. To raise a portion of the required funds, players and team managers from the Minor Lacrosse Association will be selling tasty packages of Life Savers on Saturday, July 13th. Give your support by buying Life Savers on Saturday.

Holiday Lasts 18 Months With Full Pay

DUBLIN (CP).—For more than 70 weeks two Dublin bus drivers, Edward O'Leary, 28, and Owen Monaghan, 37, have been signing for their pay envelopes for doing precisely nothing. Both are more than anxious to settle down to work but they can't.

The trouble started back in February, 1950, when the two men decided to leave the Irish Transport and General Workers Union to join the National Union of Railwaymen, with headquarters in London.

On the morning that Monaghan and OLeary made their move, their colleagues at the depot, 310 strong, went on strike. They insisted they would only work with members of the Transport Union.

The strike lasted five weeks and then was halted only by an agreement to give the two recalcitant drivers leave of absence with pay until the dispute was settled.

No Sign of Agreement

But agreement between the two unions is still as far away as ever.

Meanwhile, Monaghan, father of three children, has drawn salary exceeding $1,350 and OLeary about $1,250, including pay packets for four weeks holidays.

A year ago both received an issue of new uniforms which were tucked away in moth balls. They are due for another issue soon.

The two men would like to put an end of their enforced vacation, particularly. Two years ago he decided to marry but the wedding day has been postponed until the dispute is settled.

"Naturally, I'm hoping this farcial affair will end soon," he said. "But one thing is certain—Owen and I will stick it out to the end. All we ask is freedom to join the union of our choice."

SIGN OF TROUBLE—As the situation in Iran grows tenser, street fights and riots, sparked by Nationalists and Communists happen almost every day in Teheran. Typical is the scene above, where anti-British demonstrators hold aloft a sign ripped from the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. offices.

Thousands March To Celebrate Boyne Victory

By The Canadian Press

Thousans odf Orangemen across Canada and in other parts of the world marched in parades and went on picnics Thursday to celebrate a Dutchman's victory over his father-in-law in Ireland 261 years ago.

July 12th is the date on which Orangemen in the north of Ireland and in other parts of the world celebrate the triumph of King William III over James II in the Battle of the Boyne River.

King James, a Roman Catholic, differed with certain of his subjects over matters of religious policy and English noblemen invited William of Orange to take over the throne. The issue was decided in the Battle of Boyne and William and Mary, King James' daughter, became Britain's only joint sovereigns.

Rain kept the number of marchers in Toronto to about 2,500, with only three of the once-plentiful white horses taking part.

County Marshall Sam Hollingsworth, taking part in his 44th march, led the parade astride a horse that spends the rest of the year in the employ of a bakery.

A white charger also led the Orange walk in Winnipeg. After commemoration services, about 750 members left by train for Carman, Man., to attend a fair and sports day there.

Celebrated Quietly

The occasion was celebrated quietly in Nova Scotia. The biggest gathering in New Brunswick was held at Sussex where lodges from seven counties were represented.

Canada's immigration policy is political, religious and anti-British, T. Ashmore Kidd of Kingston, imperial grand president of the Orange Lodge of the world charged here Thursday while addressing 5,000 Western Ontario residents in Queen's Park at London, Ont.

His address was delivered during the concluding ceremony which saw more than 3,000 Orangemen and women participate in one of the city's largest "walks."

At Watertown, NY, about 3,000 persons marched in the Orange walk, a feature of the annual assembly of the Loyal Orange Associations.

Most of the marchers were from Canada.

Forty-five buses and two special trains brought the Canadian delegates.

REAL ESTATE MARKET FLOPS—Time was when a good Korean foxhole was worth money in re-sale value to old Army men with a flair for the fast buck. But all this "cease fire" activity has shot the front-line real estate market all to Seoul-and-gone. So M/Sgt. William H. Ellis, left, of Fort Worth, Tex., finds himself up against a hard bargainer in Sgt. Dimas Gonzales, of Jerome, Ariz., who knows it's a buyer's market.

400,000 Eligible For $40 Pension

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL

OTTAWA, July 13—(CP—The Federal Welfare Department soon will ask approximately 400,000 Canadians to register if they wish to qualify for a pension of $40 a month, payable to all over 70 and over, regardless of means.

Application forms will be made available late this month through Post Offices across the country. Anyone 70 and over not now in receipt of a Government pension will have to complete one of the forms if he or she wishes to obtain the federal pension, starting next January.

In brief this is the situation:

1. If you now are receiving an old-age pension you need not fill out an application form. Your records will be obtained from the Provincial Government and you will automatically start receiving a pension under the federal program next January.

2. Others 70 and over—rich or poor—who have lived in Canada for at least 20 years must fill out an application form to get the pension.

3. Announcements will be made by the department through newspapers, radio and other media when the application forms become available.

715,000 To Qualify

Approximately 715,000 Canadians are expected to qualify for the universal federal pensions. Of the total, 315,000 are receiving pensions under existing legislation.

At present, pensions of $40 a month—some Provinces pay a bit more—are paid to persons 70 and over who have lived in Canada for at least 20 years and who can prove their need for such a pension. The Federal Government pays 75 per cent of the cost and the Provinces the remainder.

Under the new program, the cost of the pensions—approximately $350,000,000 a year—will be paid mainly out of contributions from the Federal Taxpayer. Anyone who can, will have to pay something toward the cost of the pensions, possibly through a special Social Security Tax. Legislation providing for the pensions and for collection of the contributions will be passed at a fall session of Parliament.

Pensions At 65

Other legislation passed provides for Federal-Provincial participation in the payment of $40-a-month pensions to the needy between 65 and 69 and to needy blind persons 21 and over.

At present there are three categories of persons 70 and over. There are those not now receiving a pension because they are in receipt of an income beyond that allowed in the present Old Age Pensions Act; those receiving a partial pension, and those receiving a full basic pension of $40 a month.

The immediate effect of the universal pension will be to guarantee to all over 70 an income of $40 a month. For the first time people 70 and over will be allowed to earn, without having their pension reduced, any amount of additional income by taking part-time or full-time jobs.

The Welfare Department expects the wealthy will apply for the universal pension since, through taxation, they will pay not only their own share but part of the pensions paid to others.

Big Change

Under existing legislation there are few cases where a man and his wife can both qualify for a full pension. But under the new program a husband and wife will each receive $40 a month on reaching the age of 70. If more than two persons of 70 and over, eligible for the universal pension, are living together each one will receive $40.

At present, people now virtually destitute in home of various kinds either receive an old-age pension on their own account or it is paid in trust to those in charge of the institution on the understanding that some part of it be given to the pensioner for his personal needs apart from board and lodging. Under the universal pension, $40 a month will either be paid directly to the individual or in trust to those in charge of homes for the aged.

At present, old-age pensions are not paid to those in mental institutions. Under the universal pension, it is probably that this exception will be removed. This will mean that the Provinces, which now pay almost the entire cost of the care of mental patients, will receive a considerable amount of assistance.

Studio Takes Chance, To Use Actress

By FRANKLIN ARTHUR

HOLLYWOOD, July 13 (AP)—What of Rita Hayworth's future in Hollywood? Will movie-goers accept her again despite her much- publicized romantic wanderings with Aly Khan?

Those are questions Hollywood is asking as the breakup of her marriage and a return to films seems imminent. Millions of dollars may ride on the answers, but no one in the industry has them. In the end, it will be the public which decides.

Her studio, Columbia, suspended her when she first headed for Europe with the Moslem Prince 2½ years ago. But Columbia is willing to forgive, although it may be in no hurry to put her back to work.

She still is in a "cooling off" period proposed by her husband before deciding definitely to file for divorce. Attorneys say that Yasmin, 18 months old, and her religious training — have been settled. Rita has said she wants a $3,000,000 trust fund settled on the girl. The Prince wants Yasmin reared a Moslem.

Wants To Act

Miss Hayworth wants to get back into pictures. She should. Pictures were good to her—$5,000 a week worth. The studio would like her back, too. She has been good for it. Three of her films, "Gilda," "Cover Girl" and "Tonight and Every Night" grossed a total of $20,000,000.

During 10 months of romancing with the son of the fabulously rich Aga Khan she had many critics. An official of the General Federation of Women's Clubs urged a boycott of her pictures. A London newspaper called her "an insult to decent women."

Since public reaction to her return is difficult to guess, the studio will take a chance. Her first role is expected to be that of Julia Bulette, a strumpet of the old Nevada mining days.

Driver Fined $100

OAKVILLE, July 13 (CP) — Under the new section of the Criminal Code which lists the charge of driving while one's ability is impaired by alcohol or drugs, Andrew Gilmour Thursday was fined $100 or one month. Police said Gilmour was under medical care, and had taken a drugged capsule and several drinks before driving. He was found slumped over the wheel of his car, which was partially pulled off the road.

"BANDIT" ON WHEELS — With slot machines handling everything from laundry to soft drinks, it was inevitable that someone would invent a gadget to relieve them of their coins. It's pictured above, a strictly legitimate mechanical "bandit" used to extract money from parking meters and vending machines. Al Struzinski and Jim Diodato of the Philadelphia Bureau of Traffic Engineering are trying it out on a parking meter.

Summer Theatre To Revive "Hay Fever"

The Maxine Elliott Theatre in New York housed the 1925 debut of a new comedy by a brilliant young English playwright, Noel Coward. The stars were Laura Hope Crews and Harry Davenport —the play Hay Fever, and the first-nighters hailed it as the comedy hit of the current Broadway season. Hay Fever was and still is a "hit"; a play with all the ingredients to make an ideal summer evening's entertainment.

The plot is flavored with some of the cleverest dialogue of Mr. Coward's long writing career. The action takes place on a summer weekend in the country home of the ultra-Bohemian Bliss family. Judith, the mother, is a retired actress to whom all the world is literally a stage, and everyone she meets is a character in a play. David, her husband, is a novelist, and there are also Sorel, a beautiful and ill-mannered daughter, and Simon, a handsome and equally ill-mannered son.

All live a casual sort of life, and they each calmly announce on a Saturday afternoon that they are expecting a guest for the weekend. Judith invites an athletic young man who is in love with her glamor as an actress; Sorel, a middle-aged diplomatist; Simon, an intense young woman; while David has invited a flapper — a type he is studying for a novel. They all want their guest to have the Japanese Room and when they do arrive, to say they receive a rude reception is hardly adequate. The family is thoroughl used to the situations which quickly follow but the various guests are most bewildered.

The central figures—Judith and David—are played by two of the Summer Theatre's favorite personalities, Betty Leighton and William Needles. Kate Reid will highlight the role of the daughter Sorel; while Frank Perry will be seen as Simon, the son. Miss Norma Renalt, a new addition to the summer theatre cast, will play the role of Jackie Coryton—the naive young ingenue. The supporting cast will feature Gerry Sarracini, Ann Murray and Peter Mews.

Had Stolen Goods Given 18 Months

SUDBURY, July 13 (CP). — Thomas Frank Berrigan, 25, Thursday was sentenced to a total of 18 months.

Berrigan was given six months on each of three charges of possessing stolen goods, the terms to run consecutively. Police said he took the goods from parked cars.

Berrigan, with Thomas Cooper, 26, also faces a joint charge of armed robbery. The pair were remanded to today on charges of forging travellers' cheques.

Berrigan also was committed for trial on a charge of armed robbery with violence against a woman.

Pay Million Dollars In Paper Expropriation

BUENOS AIRES, July 13 (CP). —A federal court directed the Argentine Government Thursday to pay 18,854,000 pesos ($1,366,915 at the free rate) for the expropriated independent newspaper, La Prensa.

Officials of the newspaper said the figure represents onl ya fraction of the value of the big paper, which has been shut down for seven months.

Among the properties which the Government is taking over is a new printing press, still unpacked ,which cost La Prensa more than $1,000,000 some months ago.

Union Says Plant Barring Workers

LONDON, Ont., July 13 (CP)—A London union representative Thursday charged that the London Steel Construction Company has refused to allow 60 striking employees to return to work pending conciliation by the Ontario Labor Department.

H. Rayner, of the London local of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) said the company refused a union suggestion that the men return to work.

Meanwhile, officials at the Standard Steel Company plant at Port Robinson, near Welland, said they were willing to take on 160 men who struck with the London local. Both companies are owned by the United Steel Corporation of Toronto.

Workers in both plants walked off the job last June 28 to protest a delay in collective bargaining negotiations begun last May 1.

Frederick Wilson Dies After Long Illness

TORONTO, July 13 — (CP) — Frederick Wilson, 73, publicity director for the Canadian National Exhibition and former sports editor of The Toronto Globe, died Thursday after a lengthy illness.

Mr. Wilson started his reporting career with his hometown Woodstock paper at the turn of the century. After working on the sports staff of The Detroit Free Press for several years, he joined the Globe in 1910 and took over the sports editorship upon the retirement of the late Francis Nelson.

He left the Globe to join the Canadian National Exhibition in 1928 and served with the exhibition until his death.

VANCOUVER, July 13 (CP) — Funeral services will be held today for Dr. Guy Stewart Goodwin of Moose Jaw, a past president of the Canadian Medical Association. Dr. Goodwin, born in Halifax in 1891, died here Sunday. He served in the Royal Army Medical Corps from 1914 to 1919.

Hog Prices Set Record At Stockyards

TORONTO, July 13 — (CP).—Hog prices established a record at $40 a hundredweight this week at the Ontario Stockyards. Cattle prices dropped 50 cents on weighty steers and some closing sales of cows, bulls and low grade cattle. The bulk of sales was steady on Monday. Calves were weak to $1 lower. Hogs gained 50 cents and lambs $1.

The cattle run of 6,700 was even with last year's run and 1,500 more than a week ago. The carryover from last week was 250 with an estimated 600 unsold this week. Included in the supply were 1,000 stockers, mostly Westerns.

Good to choice weighty steers brought $35.50-$37; plain down to $31. Common to medium light steers and heifers sold at $25-$33 Good light steers were $36 and top heifers $33.50. Good to choice yearlings sold from $34 $36; mediums down to $31. Medium to good cows opened from $27-$29.50 and closed with tops about $28.50. Canners and cutters were mostly $20-$25. Good bulls sold early at $32-$33 and closed at $31-$32.50. Stockers moved slowly at $34-$35 for calves, with ordinary stockers at $28-$33.

Calf receipts totalled 2,000. Heavy calves were plentiful, selling from $32-$34 for best quality with others down to $25. Good to choice vealers traded at $34-$36 with tops at $37. Stock calves weighing 165-200 pounds, sold at $32-$35.

Hogs received totalled 2,100. Grade-A brought $40; sows $31-$32.

Sheep and lamb receipts were 450. Good ewe and wether lambs brought $37, with bucks at $36. Medium to good sheep sold from $16-$22; culls down to $10.

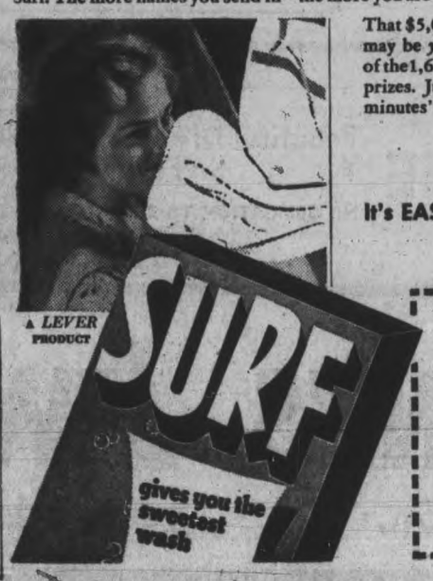
WIN $5,000 FIRST PRIZE for naming SURF'S SWEETEST BABY

Think of a name for SWEETEST BABY in center above

1,607 CASH PRIZES . . . Total $10,000



We want you to try the new, better-than-ever Surf—to find out how sweet-smelling fresh and clean it gets your wash. Twice as sweet, by scientific test, as any other leading washday suds. That's why we're offering these big cash prizes for naming the sweetest baby.

Just imagine holding the smiling youngster, above, in your arms—what would you name her? Honeychild? Rose? Sweet Sue? Any name that seems sweetest to you may win.

And try Surf—You'll think of dozens of names, once you sniff the sunshiny sweetness of your Surf-clean clothes. They're fresh-air-sweet even if dried indoors. Whiter, brighter, too.

So—try the new Surf—and send in your winning names. Be sure each one is accompanied by a box-top from a package of Surf. The more names you send in—the more you are likely to win!

That $5,000 first prize may be yours! Or one of the 1,606 other cash prizes. Just for a few minutes' work.

1st prize $5,000 — 2nd Prize $500
5 prizes of $100 each — 100 prizes of $10 each
1500 prizes of $2 each

OFFICIAL RULES

1. Send the name you choose, with the top from either size package of Surf, or a reasonable facsimile thereof, to—"Surf Contest," Box 988, Toronto. Affix adequate postage. You may send as many names as you like, so long as you send a Surf box top or a reasonable facsimile thereof with each entry.
2. Use the official entry blank or one side of a plain sheet of paper. Print both your name and address and your dealer's name and address plainly. If you win a prize your dealer may win one too.
3. All entries to be treated as original work of contestants submitting them. This contest is open to anyone residing in Canada except employees of Lever Brothers Limited, its subsidiaries, its advertising agencies and their families and anyone connected directly or indirectly with the handling of the contest. The contest is subject to all applicable laws.
4. All entries must be postmarked not later than July 31, 1951.
5. Entries will be judged for originality, sincerity, aptness of thought and neatness. Judges' decision to be final on all matters connected with the contest. Only one prize will be awarded to any one contestant. In case of a tie, the tying contestants will be asked, by mail, to submit in 25 words or less their reasons for selecting the tying name. The most apt and original of these statements will be adjudged the winner. If 2 or more names are still tied, duplicate prizes for which the contestants have tied, will be awarded. No entries will be returned. All entries, contents and ideas therein become the property of Lever Brothers Limited to be used as they see fit.
6. Grand Prize $5,000.00. There will be a second prize of $500.00, five prizes of $100.00, one hundred prizes of $10.00 and fifteen hundred prizes of $2.00. Major prize winner's name will be announced after the close of the contest over the radio programme "Let's Start an Argument" and in daily newspapers. All winners will be notified by mail. Prize winners' lists will be available approximately 8 weeks after the close of the contest and will be obtainable on request. Requests must be accompanied by stamped addressed envelopes.
7. You accept these rules when you enter the contest.

City Refuses To Enroll Smith Pupils

Must Find Room In Other Schools Board Decides

Trustees of SS No. 1, Smith township, are faced with the problem of finding some other accommodation for their schoolchildren now attending city schools.

Thursday night the Board of Education approved 13 pupils from Smith who will be coming to city schools at the beginning of the next school year. But the secretary was told to write the Smith trustees informing them that hereafter they would have to find other accommodation.

Crowded conditions in city schools is the reason.

Transferred Some

A month ago the Board of Education approved the transfer of 195 pupils from one city school to another. Parents of some of the children who were shifted from Queen Mary school objected. And they pointed out that Smith township children were enrolled at Queen Mary.

They argued that city schoolchildren should be given preference.

The upshot of the affair was that Smith officials were asked to submit a list of the pupils in advance so the board would know how many to expect. It was tabled at the Thursday night meeting of the board.

This September SS No. 1 Smith wants 13 children admitted — the same 10 that were attending last year and three others. They live west of Jackson Park, north of the city boundary.

"Isn't that section likely to be taken over by the city in the near future?" asked Mrs. Paige Rowell.

"My understanding is that it won't be," said Chairman Dr. Ralph Honey.

One member suggested that the board's resolution should spur the Smith trustees into building a school of their own.

In the meanwhile the junior rural pupils will go to Park Hill school and those above Grade III will likely go to Queen Mary.

City Festival

If you have been vaguely aware of a mild festive air about Peterborough during the past week, it is the flags and banners that were put up several days ago for the July 12 celebration. Today still waving gaily in the breeze, the banners—left over from last year's centennial celebration — keep the tourists thinking the city is celebrating their arrival. Welcome!

"Dying Duck" Cutting Weeds On Otonabee R.

(Picture on Page One)

The "dying duck" will soon be on its way down the Otonabee, foraging for weeds, the staple of its diet.

Among ducks, this one is a giant, measuring about 21 feet from nose to tail (or bow to stern). Its construction sets it apart from other ducks as well—this one is all steel.

Its job is to cut weeds under water the way a mower cuts hay on land; in fact, it's a floating mower. It is one of three or four in Canada.

The boat-machine is about six feet wide, is driven by a pair of paddles at the stern and has an immense set of teeth at the bow.

Gas Engine

The "dying duck" is the nickname Trent Canal employees have given to their motor-driven weed cutter, one of several operating on the Trent system. A one-lunger gas engine drives its paddles and teeth.

Sam Wawryko, six years a machinist with the Trent Canal in Peterborough, took it out for a test run today. The "duck" runs smoothly when she's steering a straight course, but becomes a little unwieldy when the rudder is used.

Sam said, "It used to be called Donald Duck, but when we saw the way those stern paddles kicked, we called her the dying duck."

Between Quinte And Lindsay

The cutter operates in summer between the Bay of Quinte and Lindsay, making one cruise a summer. Soon, it will be driving down river toward Lake Ontario on the first of its summer jaunts.

"The boys on the crew take a camping outfit—tent and all—and get themselves a good tan," said Sam.

About 75 water acres a day is the cutter's capacity—it can clean up Little Lake in two days. It doesn't cut swath after swath, like a lawnmower, but is steered to the weedbeds.

On the test run, Sam threw the cutters at the front into gear, and the duck clattered and splashed its way along, in front of the machine shop on the canal near Little Lake.

The cutters can be dropped about two feet into the water, and the braces that support them are lined with teeth as well. At three miles an hour, the duck putters along comfortably.

KING WILLIAM OF ORANGE, two of them, Jack Brown (Left) and Ernie Reid, mounted on white horses whose hides were just as wet as their riders, led the water-soaked July 12th Walk Thursday afternoon, as 130 lodges from seven counties marched unflinching through the rain to celebrate the 261st anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne in which William of Orange defeated the forces of James II.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

MARMORA NATIVE DIES

A native of Marmora, Charles D. Johns, 52, manager of a Montreal firm, died Wednesday while horseback riding. He moved to Montreal in 1939. Surviving are his widow, the former Marjorie Calnan of Picton and two brothers, Edward C., and Gordon M. Johns of Barrie.

GET C-O-L BONUS

Effective last Monday 235 employees of the Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Co. received a three-cents-an-hour cost-of-living bonus. When the union contract was signed in April the official index stood at 179.7 and it has risen 4.4 points since. The bonus is computed on the basis of one cent for each 1.3 increase in the index.

GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. James Jewell, residents of Lindsay for the past 48 years, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary recently. The couple have six daughters and two sons, all of whom were present at the anniversary celebrations. They are Mrs. C. Kellett (Gladys), Belleville; Mrs. William Fox (Pearl), Toronto; Mrs. Walter Johnston (Ethyle), Lindsay, Mrs. Lorne Thompson (Vera), Cameron; Mrs. Dennis Marren (Helen), Kirkfield; William, at home, and Harvey, Lindsay.

Starlings Plague Cobourg Citizens

COBOURG, July 13 —(ENS)— Citizens of Cobourg are fighting a losing battle with starlings. The birds are congregating by the thousands in the Chapel and College streets area. As yet no means of successfully combatting them has been found. All kinds of noise-makers have been used, including shotguns but the starlings only fly about and settle down in the trees again. The consensus is that somebody should have used a shotgun on whoever imported the birds in the first place.

Sodden Orangemen Walk With Spirits High In Rain

It was a wet July 12 for the Orangemen and for any of the many citizens out watching their annual Walk. The rain slowed efforts at organization and it was not until just after 2:30 p.m. that the parade began its march through the downtown district.

Ten bands, scattered through the mile-long parade, kept the marchers' spirits up. Most were the traditional fife and drum bands of the LOL, but two pipe bands were marching, one from Havelock and another from Oshawa.

Two King Williams on white horses led the parade.

The marchers formed up at the Armouries and from there marched east on McDonnel to George St., down George to Hunter, across to Aylmer and south on Aylmer to Charlotte St.

Disbanded In Park

They went east on Charlotte St. to George, north on George to Hunter and across the bridge to Riverside Park, where they disbanded.

For a lot of the marchers, who were wearing orange and blue shoulder ribbons and plumes on their white hats, the rain was a disaster. Dyes ran in the ribbons and plumes, and stained white shirts, hats and dresses.

Down George St., and along the rest of the parade route, crowds lined the sidewalks, first huddling beneath awnings when rain was still heavy and venturing nearer the curb as it eased.

As the tail end of the parade headed across Hunter St. bridge the rain had stopped and the sky brightened. In Riverside Park the marchers heard speeches. Some however straggled back as soon as they disbanded to find a place to get dry.

Smart Bands

Some of the smarter bands were the RCSCC Skeena Sea Cadet bugle band from Port Hope, the 33rd Medium AA regiment bugle band from Cobourg, and the Havelock pipe band.

Nearly 200 children marched in the parade, some of them holding the colored support ropes for the banners, and others marching in their juvenile lodge groups.

Elderly men and women formed no small part of the parade, and nearly all of them were marching. Seven cars were in the parade, carrying some of the elderly Orangemen and women, and high officials.

Pointed Gun Charged In Court

For pointing a 12-gauge shotgun at Neil Paudash, Hiawatha Indian Reserve, last Saturday night, Robert Gardner, Toronto, was placed today on two years' suspended sentence.

Paudash testified that he and Gardner had an argument in the dance hall prior to the shotgun episode and after a half hour left the dance hall.

"Bob (Gardner) was across the road. He had a gun—at east I thought it was a gun. I said 'Come on out on the road."

Paudash added that Gardner was kneeling at the side of the road, pointing the gun out on the road where Paudash was walking. While Paudash's father crept up on Gardner from behind, Paudash and his brother gathered in on Gardner from the front.

Crown Attorney John Bradshaw, KC, asked Paudash if the gun was loaded.

"I don't think it was."

Four City Accidents Reported To Police

A minor hit-and-run accident was reported at the police station by witnesses, Chesel McColl and Vernon Earnshaw, both of Apsley, Thursday night.

A parked car on George St., near Hunter St., owned by Harry Lewis, 756 Snelgrove, was hit on the left front when another car pulled into the curb in front. The Apsley men said that the car failed to stop and proceeded on Hunter St.

Police investigated the car licence plate number and located it later parked on George St. South of Simcoe St. At 1 a.m. the police questioned the owner, T. J. Keating, 300 Aylmer St.

Bicyclist Len Basciano escaped unhurt from a collision with a car on McDonnel St. at Aylmer St. Thursday. He met in collision with a car, driven by Roy Hunter, RR 3, Millbrook, at the intersection. Only slight damage was done to the bicycle.

Driving east on Aylmer St. Mrs. Lorraine Selkirk, Wallis Drive, met in collision with a car, driven east on Brock St. by Gilbert A. Morris, Fraserville. Damage was slight.

In a second minor accident at Water and King Sts. cars, driven by Raymond Lobb, 262 Aylmer St. and R. J. MacDonald, RR 1, Millbrook, collided. Slight damage was reported.

Lindsay Issues Bonds For $200,000

LINDSAY, July 13. — Lindsay council passed a motion Thursday that it will issue and guarantee debentures amounting to $200,000 to pay for hydro extensions.

The $200,000 in debentures will be paid by the hydro commission and the town will assume no part of the cost.

The money will be used to pay for the sub-station on William St. purchased from the Ontario Hydro at a cost of $5,700; renovations to this sub-station of $40,000; a new sub-station which is to be built in the south ward at a cost of $80,000; a water meter control to cost $19,500 and other necessary renovations.

Chairman of the Lindsay hydro commission assured council members that the Lindsay commission was well able to meet the debenture payments and that the issue would cost the town nothing.

Friday 13th Better Look Out

That one-day open season of the superstitious—Friday the 13th—is back. There was one in April, and there were two last year, in ... and October.

The Junior Astrologists' Handbook advises all born on this date: "Don't do it. Don't even get out of bed. This one is a stinker. Avoid all kinds of exercise, even breathing if possible. Don't walk in front of trains, fast buses, motorcars, or behind black cats."

Maybe today some daring youngster will run safely under a ladder, yelling, "Look maw, I made it," and some cautious old lady, walking three blocks out of her way to avoid a black cat, will be struck by a ten-ton truck and punted into an open manhole.

There's a Friday the 13th next year—watch out.

Church Money Stolen

On Thursday afternoon between noon and 3 p.m. someone broke into the money container of the Blessed Virgin's Box in St. Peter's Cathedral. Police believe that between $12 and $15 was taken. At the same time the police department is investigating similar actions at Sacred Heart Church where a money box was emptied on Thursday.

FIRST BERRIES

Some of the first raspberries of the current season appeared in front of city fruit stores on Thursday. They were selling at 35 cents a pint. Local berries, selling for about 33 to 35 cents a pint, are expected in town Saturday. Thursday's berries were imported, mostly from the Toronto district.

BobcaygeonMan To Command RCAF Airport

OTTAWA, July 13 (CP).—The staff of Canada's first air defence command, equivalent of Britain's fighter command, is being built up.

On the heels of announcement that Air Vice Marshal A. L. James will take over the command Aug. 1, it was announced today that Group Capt. J. C. Scott, 37, is being posted to the headquarters at St. Hubert Airport, Montreal, as senior air staff officer.

Group Capt. Scott, from Bobcaygeon, Ont., has been assistant air attache on the Canadian joint military staff in Washington. He is being succeeded there by Group Capt. H. G. Richards, 42, former commanding officer of the RCAF station in Summerside, PEI, and a native of Portsmouth, England.

Also announced today was posting of Group Capt. C. L. Trecarten, 44, of Ottawa, as commanding officer of the RCAF station at Aylmer, Ont., succeeding Sqdn. Ldr. J. W. McNee, who has been acting as OC for some months.

Port Hope House Becomes Ballet Centre

Once an Indian trading centre, the Bluestone at Port Hope is now planned as a cultural centre for ballet, music, drama and art. The century-old landmark was recently bought by Boris Volkoff, Toronto ballet instructor.

Already classes in ballet are being held with some 12 Port Hope children taking lessons. These special classes will be held throughout the summer months with Mr. Volkoff occasionally instructing. The classes in ballet are under the direction of Miss Mary McMillan.

A studio has been set up in the large upstairs room and plans call for enlarging for another room.

"I'm not going to change the downstairs part," said Mr. Volkoff, adding, "It is really too interesting an historical section to be destroyed."

At one time Indians traded in the basement of the building.

Blowtorch Starts Fire In House

Fire caused by a plumber's blowtorch today did slight damage at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl McNabb, 308 Burnham St. The fire started at 10.20 a.m.

The plumber was walking upstairs from the cellar when flames from his torch set fire to clothing on the back of the door leading to the kitchen.

Mrs. McNabb said she was stirring a pudding on the stove when she saw smoke come from the crack at the top of the door.

"I ran over and opened the door," she said." The back of it was all in flames."

Damaged were two umbrellas, an overcoat, and the back of the cellar door. Damage is about $35.

New Collegiate To Cost $100,000 More If Gym Included In Plans

Board To Ask Council If It Will Approve Raising Debenture Issue To $685,000; Open Tenders With and Without Gymasium

More money is needed if Peterborough's second collegiate is to be built according to plan. That was the hard fact that came out Thursday night at the July meeting of the Board of Education. Here, in brief, is the situation: If the collegiate is to have a gymnasium, debentures for another $100,000 will be required. If no gymnasium is included, the Board believes the school can be built and equipped for $585,000— the amount approved last year by Peterborough ratepayers.

The mounting cost of materials, the tightened debenture market with higher interest costs, and the extra expenditure required for the foundations—these three factors are blamed for the $100,000 increase in the estimated cost.

The next move is up to the Board.

Thursday night the trustees agreed that the best thing to do was go to the city council and "lay our cards on the table."

Instead of $585,000

They will ask for a debenture issue of $685,000 instead of $585,000. If the city council can't see its way clear to grant this additional $100,000 then the Board will go ahead with the smaller bid from Eastwood Construction Co. The bid is on the school without the gymnasium.

Thursday afternoon the accommodation committee opened tenders on the collegiate that is to be built on Monaghan Rd. S. Contractors were asked to bid on both a complete school and one without the gymnasium.

Two Contractors Tender

Two contractors tendered:

George Hardy, $615,319 with gym; $523,734 without.

Eastwood Construction, $579,753 with gym; $485,827 without.

The Eastwood Construction was considerably lower on both bids.

"The ratepayers approved of an expenditure of $585,000 at the December elections," said G. Wilson Craw, chairman of accommodation, "and at that time the Board believed that the complete building could be put there for that amount.

"Since then costs of building have increased and, because of the type of soil encountered, added costs became estimated at $30,000."

Mr. Craw said the committee felt the school without the gymnasium could be built for the original $585,000.

"But what is a secondary school without a gymnasium?" he asked.

Less Departmental Grants?

He said it was also probable that a school without adequate physical culture facilities would draw less money in grants from the department.

"Hence we have come to the conclusion that an additional $100,000 is required. We also believe that to keep faith with the parents of the pupils who will be attending the school that a gymnasium is a necessity."

Cost of equipment is estimated at $40,000 and another $32,000 is needed for fees.

Bond Sales Hitch

Another unexpected hitch is the problem of selling debentures. Present sales for Peterborough have not been bringing par value and a discount of two to four per cent is likely. On $585,000 this would mean a discount anywhere from $12,500 to $25,000.

W. B. Gordon said he thought the Peterborough taxpayers were all burdened heavily enough now and he didn't want to see any additional levy.

"Frankly I don't like to see anything done that will exceed the original estimated cost of the school." he said.

Dr. Russell Morgan suggested the Board reconsider its spending. He suggested there might be economies found in obtaining substitute materials that were equally good.

OFFICE DECORATED

Decorators are busy painting the Chamber of Commerce offices on George St. Walls and ceilings of the three rooms are receiving a coat of light green paint and wallboards are being painted a darker green. The job is expected to be finished in about a week.

By HARRY THEOBALD

A Canadian Problem Is Discussed Today by Ernest J. McWilliam, Who Is One of the Men Who Realizes That Canada Cannot Much Longer Remain a National Vacuum.

Canada—that nation that occupies half the North American continent, largely unpeopled, unprotected and flushed with prosperity writes Ernie McWilliam in discussing a Canadian problem.

Of any area in the world, Canada appears Utopia to the starving, crowded population of the Asiatic world. Here are vast areas of sparsely populated, fertile land—land that immigrants dream of—to own—to work—to raise their families on. Why should 14,000,000 people hold half a continent, when countless millions starve or suffer malnutrition in seething lands of Asia? Here is land, land for the taking, that could support the surplus populations of China and its neighbouring yellow hordes.

The new turn of Communism in Asia has lifted the peoples of that vast continent to a unity of purpose unequalled since the hordes of Ghengis Khan poured across half the known world. These trends are all too obvious in the bloody uprisings in Malaya, Indo China, East Indies, Korea. The yellow giant is rousing—and flexling the muscles of its countless millions. The old established order, modern governments and their armies, are crumbling under the sheer press of its vast numbers.

But why?—Why does China need such areas as Korea, Indo China, Tibet? These areas are already over-populated and seething with discontent.

They do not offer the vital "Living Room" required and essential to the survival of the swarming yellow race.

As any fighter must first "clear his decks' before he launches his main attack, so China must first clear her boundaries before she launches her bid for domination on the Pacific.

Backed and coupled to the might of Russia and its tenacles, these peoples represent two-thirds of the world's population. Combined with the Soviet satellites holding Europe enthralled in its rearment race and economic quagmire, this leaves the masses of the Asiatic mainland free to drive on the areas where lies land for the taking, Canada—Australia and South Africa. Of all these areas, Canada stands out like the perfect jewell in their eyes, pinched by countless centuries of famine, pestilence and poverty.

How have 14,000,000 people held this vast land mass of the Dominion of Canada so long from the grip of world conquerers? Why has the Canadian population been so slow to rise to its proper economic and political level?

Canada was wrested from the French and founded as a colony of Great Britain. All major policies affecting the status of the Dominion were largely dictated by the mother country. Even the passing of confederation failed to change the national policy. Immigration was largely restricted to British born subjects—the surplus from a population of fifty million at best, and this highly desirable but numerical trickle of settlers could do little to people the vast areas of half a continent. Coupled by the Canadian government's failure to recognize such people as "Canadian", citizens of this country were known by their mother country's nationality until 1946, leaving a feeling of apathy in the hearts of otherwise Canadianized peoples.

Canada did not achieve a place in world power due to her unique position within the British Empire. Her last fight for survival was in the War of 1812-1814 against scattered raids of United States militia. Since that date she has been adequately protected from sea invasion by the powerful British fleet, and landward by her rapidly developing neighbour to the south.

Today she finds herself, for the first time since Wolff climbed the Cliffs of Quebec, a country thrown on her own initiative, largely responsible to no one, dependent on her own resources for survival in this turblent century. The mighty British Fleet has been largely immobilized and scattered throughout the restless world. The United States to the south is becoming enmeshed and entangled in world politics and bloody action on the Asiatic mainland, and cannot hope to defend the entire Western hemisphere. So Canada must awake and rise—rise to the rank of mighty nations—and to do this she must have people—to defend her frontiers—to man her factories—to develop her vast fund of resources, and to establish her vast agricultural potential.

This potential is here—here within our own boundaries—vast areas now abandoned can be reopened—old farmsteads now vacant to be reestablished, huge areas to the north and west to be opened for agriculture. Millions of acres across British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan are waiting for the land loving settler.

Northern Ontario, Quebec and Labrador await the coming of the factory to extract some of the world's greatest deposits of Iron, Cobalt, Nickel and similar riches.

The Northern Prairies bulge with oil and rushing rivers waste potential millions in horsepower to turn the factories that never come.

The cry of the Canadian must rise through the "Colonial" fog of custom, and demand colonists—not in hundreds or thousands but in millions. It is only through such an influx that Canada as a country can survive.

We cannot much longer remain a national vacuum—far better to obtain these immigrants through colonization—than meet them swarming across our coast lines as invaders, and either way they will come—if not now—at some future date, and to us in Canada belongs the future if we act now—and build a bigger, better Canada and people it as it should be peopled, peacefully and methodically but with all the speed we may—before the sands of time run out and invasion holds us in her thralls.

SEEK BACON CONTRACT?

Ontario Hog Producers may take a leaf out of the Cheese Producers' declaration of independence. There was a suggestion at a recent meeting with packers to enquire about a direct contract with the British food ministry.

The cheese people took initiative into their own hands and secured a contract for 20,000,000 lbs. at 32 cents, as compared with the 25 cent price last year.

Bush House, centre of the scheme, will provide offices, a dining hall and recreation rooms. Its Adam friezes and staircase have been preserved.

SCOTLAND'S UNIQUE VILLAGE

Centre for biggest school of agriculture

A FEW miles outside Edinburgh, work is steadily going ahead on a project which will be watched with interest by farmers in Britain and elsewhere. And it will attract the attention of boys who are thinking of a career on the land.

With Bush House, a 30-roomed mansion, as the administrative and social headquarters, the 3,000-acre Bush and Dryden estates are being laid out as a centre for students of agriculture. It is known as the Edinburgh Centre of Rural Economy, and will eventually accommodate 150 to 200 students working on timber husbandry, milk production, farriery, animal genetics, stock raising and agricultural chemistry. There will be facilities for home and oversea visitors to see how teaching and research are being developed, and more variety than in any other establishment of this kind in the world.

Beauty spot

The idea of the Centre originated with Edinburgh University and the Edinburgh and East of Scotland College of Agriculture, and now it is being backed by other Scottish agricultural organisations.

When the hostel and various departmental buildings have been put up, this will be a new village, set among 200-year-old pines 90 feet high—an attractive spot likely to be visited by a steady stream of students from abroad.

Work is well advanced on the building of the glasshouse station, which will house courses of instruction in the commercial production of tomatoes, and a pig research station is now operating part of the time at Dryden, with the aim of finding ways of obtaining better quality bacon.

A Nissen hut has been converted into a laboratory for research into animal nutrition.

Cereals are grown in pots of chemically treated sand in the soil research glasshouse.

Wearing a beret in this group is a Southern Rhodesian student, Everard Cock, with colleagues from England, Scotland and Wales.

The lecture room is also a study at Bush House. Forty students are already in residence and working at the Centre.

Great Britain Now Boosts Capital Exports to Canada

By HAROLD MORRISON

OTTAWA — (CP) — Britain is adding to Canada's investment boom by relaxing controls on exports of capital.

Firms in the central and western provinces are changing hands and new ones are being built as a result of a more generous approach to capital shipments by Britain's Foreign Exhange Control Committee.

A gradual process, the relaxation—growing bigger as Britain's dollar position becomes stronger—has a two-fold purpose:

1. To create demand for goods in Canada by having United Kingdom subsidiary plants operating "right where the market exists."

2. To give Britain a bigger opening to scarce materials needed to feed a three-year $14,000,000,000 war-production program.

The move is expected by experts here to gradually change the face of Britain's investments in this country. Drained by the costs of war, Britain has been forced in the past to dispose of more and more of her investments in Canada to pay for goods.

In a matter of 20 years, investments in Canada have been sliced more than $1,000,000,000,000—from $2,766,300,000 in 1930 to $1,752,000,000,000 in 1949.

Shipments Doubled

Britain now is making a comeback. While no firm estimates were available it was expected she would increase capital shipments to this country this year possibly by $5,000,000 to $100,000,000.

Manufacturers are purchasing electric engineering companies in Ontario and British Columbia; the UK government, not to be outdone, is investing $40,000,000 in the west coast's big aluminum production program.

This investment is in the way of a loan to the Aluminum Company of Canada, building a $500,000,000 aluminum-producing project in the heart of British Columbia.

Later, there may be a decided flow of capital towards other resources development, particularly copper and zinc, badly needed by Britain's war machine.

The relaxation is not only helping the big manufacturer but the emigrant, too. Britain now is increasing the amount of capital which an emigrant may take. Previously it was £1,000 for four years. This has been increased by £400 for each dependent.

One UK official said the relaxation ss changing Britain's whole mental outlook.

"More Britons want to get out here," he said. "More of them are making investments here. Now they are really holding down a stake in Canada."

Molson's

Tom Gard's Note Book

New bunk beds in the children's rooms at the cottage presented a mattress problem. After much shopping in second-hand stores and at auctions, four of the right size were finally rounded up. We undertook to cover them with some faded chintz drapes put into discard after our decorating spree this spring. With the whole family working at it, the job was soon done. Now the surface of the mattresses can be kept fresh and clean — and the children can graduate from army cots.

Pin Box

It was a request for a new pin box after the cardboard one finally collapsed that reminded me I was out of shaving soap. What's the connection between pins and shaving soap? That empty soap tub would be just the thing to hold common pins. Right in the midst of the mattress-covering bee I took time off to clean it up and decorate the top with a few pine cones to serve as a handle. Junior suggested it would make a good [illegible] at that!

way of the automobile when you drive into the garage? Does it take up too much room in the basement? Shown is a little idea I've found most useful to keep it right in place — a couple of inches above the floor. Be sure to nail the cleats securely so as to carry the weight.

Save That Garden Hose

Every year I vow something will be done to preserve the rubber garden hose. It gets more wear and tear being coiled and uncoiled and rots more from the sun and undrained water than from actual use. The idea I am eventually going to use is not original but it will be effective. Two pulleys will be placed under the eaves on the north side of the house. A rope attachment will accommodate a 25-foot length on each quite handily and then the hose will be dry and up out of the way when not in constant use.

THE EXPERTS SAY:

Tips On Best Meat Buys Given For Women Shoppers

By KAY REX,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Rationing may be nothing but a memory of the wartime '40s, but food prices of the '50s remind the housewife that the same rules still apply.

In 1943 she chose her meat carefully because she was permitted to buy only so much of it.

In 1952 she still chooses her meat carefully because prohibitive prices discourage her from making poor buys.

Consequently, a Dominion Department of Agriculture wartime pamphlet about meat is every bit as up to date now as when it was first published.

It contains rules such as the following:

1. Unwrap meat at once. Wrapping paper draws juices from the meat.

2. Wipe with a damp cloth. Place on a dry plate and cover loosely, preferably with waxed paper.

3. Store in the coldest place available.

4. Ground meat spoils more quickly than unground meat and therefore should be used promptly.

Glamor Touch

Even the lowly pot-roast can be given a touch of glamor if the correct seasonings are added.

Home economists of the department's consumer section suggest a spicy pot roast:

Ingredients one-half cup water; one-half cup vinegar; four cloves, small bay leaf; one-half teaspoon salt; one smal onion (cut fine).

Combine the above ingredients. Place meat in bowl and pour the spiced liquid over it. Let stand three hours, turning meat several times.

Remove meat, prepare and cook as pot roast, using strained liquid in place of water in cooking.

Cooking of the pot roast — brown well on all sides in a little hot fat in a heavy pot or Dutch oven. Place a rack under meat, add water, cover tightly. Cook this over low heat or in slow oven (300-325 degrees fahrenheit) lntil meat is tender. Allow about 40 minutes to the pound. Turn several times during cooking.

Another Suggestion

There's nothing like an old-fashioned "boiled" dinner to draw compliments from the man of the house after he has had a hard day at the office.

Ingredients: three to four pounds beef (fresh or corned brisket, rump or plate); six medium potatoes; six carrots; one medium turnip; six medium onions; one small head cabbage.

For corned beef: cover with cold water, bring to boiling point and then discard water.

Cover meat with boiling water and cook slowly at a simmering temperature until tender (about three hours). One hour before serving add turnip, carrots, onions and seasonings (horseradish sauce may be served with fresh beef) as desired. Half an hour later, add the potatoes. Cut cabbage into wedge-shaped pieces and add 15 minutes before serving.

Signs of the Times

Remember when sweetbreads were considered a delicacy? Nowadays they lost less than a pound of the most ordinary cut of beef. Check your butcher to see if this isn't so.

COBOURG LODGES WALK

COBOURG, July 13 —(ENS)— Lodges from Cobourg were up bright and early yesterday donning regalia and doing some preliminary parading before heading for the big Orange walk at Peterborough. Representing Cobourg were LOL 127, Maple Leaf Lodge 351, Helen Navin Memorial Lodge and Juvenile Orange Lodge. They were accompanied by the trumpet band of the 33rd Medium Regiment, Cobourg, under command of Drum Sergeant S. Bassinger.

WHAT YOU WILL WEAR WHEN YOU TRAVEL involves not only what to wear when you reach the ultimate spot, but how you will look en route. No matter what the conveyance, you don't really want to step from it looking as if you'd just made a cross-country trek by covered wagon is the winning of the West.

A suit that's a hardy traveller, therefore, is the suit that most women want. It should have simple, uncluttered lines and be cut from a fabric that can take it and still come out looking fresh.

Such a suit (left) is in pale blue rayon given a soil-and-crease resistant finish. It's useful both on the way and at the point of arrival. The single-breasted jacket with its double-cuffed pockets can be worn with other skirts, slacks and with knee-length shorts. The straight skirt can fill in with odd sweaters and blouses

Another of these suits (right) is double-checked in grey-and-yellow. It has cuffed patch pockets, pear buttons at the front closing, and a lapelled collar. Skirt is slim but sufficiently easy to allow for walking comfort.

New StylesStressFemininity Tough Season For Bachelors

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK, July 13—(AP)—This is going to be a tough season for bachelors, to say nothing of benedicts and indulgent fathers.

Bachelors will find new feminine weapons, such as rustling taffeta petticoats that bring out all deadlier wiles of womanhood.

And husbands and fathers will find it hard to foot the bills for the new feminine finery, which is going to cost more than ever.

It seemed for a while as if petticoats were going the way of the horse and buggy and the dust ruffles of another, gentler day. But all of a sudden they're back with a swish, and it's likely to mean a whole revolution in modern manners.

If a girl wears a ruffled taffeta petticoat, for instance, she can't very well wear bobby sox and flat-heeled loafers—or at least she shouldn't.

When she puts on frivolous high-heeled shoes and sheer nylon hose to match her new femininity, she may regain her sense of "ankle etiquette", which at least one leading male authority recently thought was lost forever.

Need Ankle Appeal

Roy E. Tilles, president of one of the largest hosiery companies, said that a generation of sloppy shoes and bobby sox has robbed American girls of ankle appeal. He added:

"I'd like girls to re-learn how to walk alluringly, how to cross their knees gracefully, sit attractively and make seam-straightening as much a reflex as using a lipstick."

It looks as if Mr. Tilles' wish may come true.

Notable in the new styles are the full skirts, shown on daytime as well as evening clothes, which require the most feminine and be-ruffled of petticoats—sometimes two or three of them.

One of the top exponents of femininity in dress is Ceil Chapman, known for her dream-like dance frocks with clouds of misty net for skirts and as little as the law allows for bodices.

Her collection today continued to underline her belief that girls should be girls.

Wilma Robertson Wed In Toronto

Danforth United Church, Toronto, was scene Saturday of the wedding of Wilma Annie Robertson, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Robertson, of Keene, to William Alexander Ferrier, the son of Mrs. G. N. Ferrier and the late Mr. Ferrier, Toronto. The Rev. H. S. Bland officiated at the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. F. S. Cooper, Toronto. She chose a gown of white Chantilly lace and net over white satin, the skirt extending into a chapel train. A Juliet cap of lace held her veil of tulle illusion and she carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis and red roses.

The attendants, Mrs. F. S. Cooper and Mrs. Donald Manley, sisters of the bride, and Miss Ruth Maitlock, of Westwood, wore blue and lilac net over blue taffeta with matching halo headdresses. They carried fans of mauve sweet peas and tea roses.

Mr. George Ferrier was groomsman for his brother, and the ushers were Jack Ferrier, Frank Gill, Donald Manley and Walter Pamenter.

Before the service Mr. Murray Holmes sang "O for Thy Tender Mercies, Lord," and during the signing of the register "Where E'er You Walk."

The bride's sister, Mrs. Victor Edwards, of Lang, receiver in a gown of coffee lace over taffeta with matching hat of velvet and corsage of tea roses. The groom's mother chose a gown of lady-love lace and crepe with pink accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

For the honeymoon trip to Washington, DC, the bride wore a white linen suit with navy accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

They will live in Toronto.

Salad 'n Sandwich Party Style And Picnic Ideas

That favorite combination, salad and sandwich, can be as pretty to look at as it is good to eat. Serve a luscious crushed pineapple salad mold on your nicest platter, surrounded by open finger sandwiches. Deviled ham, with its spicy goodness, is mixed with chopped salted peanuts for the flavorful sandwich spread. When You're looking for something light, satisfying, yet easy to fix, this twosome is for you.

Make the Salad Early

Little wonder that molded salads rate tops with busy hostesses, they're so easy to fix way ahead of serving time. And, crushed pineapple is a salad natural, its tangy flavor and golden color compliments so many foods.

Pineapple 'N Carrot Salad Mold

1 can crushed pineapple, 2 pkgs. lemon-flavored gelatin, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 cup finely grated carrots, salad greens, celery seed fruit dressing.

Drain pineapple. Add enough water to syrup to make 3 cups liquid; heat to boiling. Dissolve gelatin in it. Add salt. Chill until the consistency of unbeaten egg whites. Fold in grated carrots. Pour into a 1½ qt. ring or fancy mold. Chill until firm. Unmold on salad greens and serve with celery seed fruit dressing.

Celery Seed Fruit Dressing

Mix ½ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 1 teaspoon grated onion, and 2 tablespoons white vinegar. Add 1 cup salad oil slowly, beating constantly. Add 3 more tablespoons vinegar and 1 tablespoon celery seed. Continue beating until dressing is thick. Makes approximately 1½ cups dressing.

Deviled Ham for Easy Sandwiches

When it comes to sandwiches, deviled ham is about the easiest filling you can fix. For parties we like it this way. Add ½ cup chopper salted peanuts and 4 tablespoons mayonnaise or salad dressing to two 3-oz. cans deviled ham. (Cover tightly and refrigerate if made in advance of serving). spread generously on finger-size strips of bread. Makes 8 to 10 open sandwiches. (Or, make covered sandwiches and cut into fancy shapes.)

Picnic Ideas

Now that the picnic season is here, these heartier variations will be popular with your family. Add 2 tablespoons mayonnaise or salad dressing to one 3-oz. can deviled ham along with any of the following, to make 4 whole sandwiches.

¼ cup chopped sweet or dill pickles, ¼ cup chopped celery or cucumber, 2 tablespoons catchup and cooked egg, 2 tablesoons grated onion, minced chives, or horse-radish.

TWO BABIES and one bottle seems to be the problem as a nine-day-old fawn nudges Felicio Chaplin of Upton, Mass., for a share of the refreshment. Felicia's daddy, Bryant R. Chaplin, who works for the Fish and Game Department of Massachusetts, is caring for the orphaned fawn until it grows up.

THE FITTED COAT is back this autumn but the coat with easy fullness remains. The creamy cashmere coat (left) is casual, may be worn belted or unbelted. It has a convertible collar. Twilight grey wool (centre) adapts itself to a fitted coat with tiered skirt and sparkling buttons. The full wrap coat (right) is in "sugar plum," a cyclamen pink. It has shawl collar, tuxedo front and great cuffs in black. Coat fullness is controlled, appearing at sides and back rather than the front.

Fitted Coats Reappear For Smart Wear Next Autumn

By GAILE DUGAS

NEW YORK (NEA)—The fitted coat has returned to us for Fall. Long shoved to the back of the closet by the pyramid, it looks entirely new for autumn. Yet, it isn't taking over the entire fashion stage; it shares the spotlight with the full coat.

And even the full coat has changed its ways for fall. In place of the sweeping lines of the pyramid, there is gentle, controlled fullness. Most often, this means fulness placed at the sides in combination with a straight front and back. The coats that do have fullness at the back do not have the tremendous sweep of a year ago.

The return of the fitted coat makes good fashion sense. There is a new skirt fullness in daytime dresses this fall. This means that there must be coats that fit well over such dresses. Biggest surprise about these new coats is that they look so handsome in the hairy, thick, fuzzzy fabrics.

One fall collection does a fitted coat in twilight grey flannel. This coat is so slim that a first glance it appears to be a dress. With notched cuffs, narrow collar and rhinestone buttons to the neatly-belted waist, it has a full, tiered skirt. The lining is a flashing red silk.

This group also contains a casual coat in pale, creamy cashmere that's worn either belted or unbelted. Without the belt, it falls into lines of controlled fullness with a central back pleat. Further fullness is achieved through deep pleats at either side. A wide collar converts to standing or flat position.

The full coat is in a shade that this designer calls "sugar plum." This is a cyclamen pink in a pretty fleece that wraps deeply. It has a shawl collar, tuxedo front and cuffs in black. Black buttons slant down the front, holding the lines of the coat smooth. The shoulder line is natural.

STOLES ARE THIS YEAR'S top fashion accessory and are being worn over everything from evening dresses to bathing suits. Fringe, fancy buttons or rick-rack braid, plus a little imagination can add a highly personal touch to your work.

Re-New Sun Dress By Making Fringed Stole

Stoles continue to be a leading fashion accessory. In New York, smartly dressed women are wearing them with sheath dresses to cover bare arms. At Canadian resorts they are being worn over everything from dance dresses to swim-suits.

If you still have your holidays to look forward to, you will find that a stole will do wonders for last year's sun-dress, and will add zest to your new clothes. Or if you find yourself thinking about fall fashions while you idle in the hammock or doze on the beach, you might consider making a few bright stoles in woollen plaid or jersey to wear over your first autumn suit. Because here is an attractive and most useful accessory which anyone man make quickly and inexpensively.

Most of the stoles being shown have fringe or other trimming and if you use your imagination you can make your own trimmings. Sewing center experts tell how to make a fringed edge: Cut out your stole the desired length, then machine-stitch the fringed edge. Mark desired depth of fringe along edge. Stitch with thread along marked line, pivoting on needle at corners. Stitching with thread of contrasting color adds interest. Ravel out fabric threads parallel to edges from close to stitching all the way to edge.

If the material you choose makes this type of fringe impractical, here are some other easy and inexpensive ideas: Gay rick-rack braid could be appliqued in criss-cross patterns all over the stole, or you might sew on a row of little pearl or rhinestone buttons along the two edges. Ball fringe, ribbon, lace edging and metallic thread could all be used to give a highly personal touch to your work.

English Girl Wins 3 Titles

TORONTO, July 13 — (CP) — A young English girl won herself three Ontario tennis titles last week, but as far as she is concerned she's still strictly a physiotherapist.

Candace Collet, from Oxford Town in Oxford County, won the ladies singles and doubles and the mixed doubles in the Northern Ontario tennis championships at Bigwin Inn in the Muskoka district.

She said she was more surprised than anyone at her victory.

Tennis was a minor factor in her trip to Canada. Candace came here on her own when a proposed exchange between six Canadian and six English physiotherapists fell through. She's spending her time chatting with fellow therapists and seeing as much of the country as she can.

"Canada is very nice and everyone has been wonderful to me, but I really hadn't planned to stay more than a year," she said.

A MESSAGE TO THE WOMEN . . . who have to do the Cooking at their Summer Cottage
How often have you said . . . "I could really enjoy a cottage if I didn't have to try to prepare a decent meal on a little oil heater . . . or have to spend hours getting a portable stove to burn right . . . and never know when it was going to blow up in my face."
If you have . . . here's the answer to all your problems . . . Bottled Gas. Just like the gas you use in your kitchen only it comes in a convenient portable tank that lasts for weeks. And even though you get easy, instant cooking, it costs only a few cents a day. Once you have tried Propane Gas you'll wonder how you ever got along without it.
All you have to do is connect a Propane Bottle to your gas range, hotplate or refrigerator . . . turn on the jet . . . and you have trouble-free cooking for weeks. Refills are inexpensive and readily available.
Drop into our showrooms and see how Bottled Propane Gas works . . . see the modern gas appliances we have on hand . . . and best of all see how inexpensive it is for your particular needs.

DOROTHY DIX

Children Need Proper Food To Progress In Studies

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: How can I get my wife to feed our two children properly? I have begged her to give them meat and vegetables at noon and then a light supper, but she refuses to do so. Thinks all of their meals should be light. The result is they are undernourished. When they do not get good marks at school, she blames them for not studying more, but no child can work and do a good job on insufficient food. Even her mother has talked to her about this, but she pays no attention.

Dorothy Dix

Our house is full of women's magazines that have recipes and pictures of food set on a table. The daily newspapers devote a section to food and cooking, but though Helen looks at them she makes no move to give us decent meals. Our dinners are awful. It seems to me that a woman who can't or won't learn to feed her family properly must have something lacking. Can you make any suggestions.

R. O. B.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The law grants a woman a divorce from a husband who does not suport her. I have always contended that what is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander, and that a man should be entitled to a divorce from a woman who is a poor housekeeper.

Anyone Can Learn

In these days when cooking is taught in the public schools, when every college has a domestic science course, when every newspaper carries its column of simple and tried recipes, and when cookbooks are given away, any woman who can read can learn all about food values and balanced menus and how to feed her family if she wants to. Any man who brings home the bacon has the right to expect his wife to fry it properly, and if she is too lazy and trifling to do so, she deserves to get fired from her job.

Evidently your wife is too stupid or too selfish to realize that when a woman is at the head of a household the welfare of her husband and children is in her hands, and whether they prosper or not depends on how she feeds them. Maybe if you could get your doctor to give her a talk he might wake her up to her duty and make her get busy with the cook stove. But the chances are she will just call him an old crank and go on thinking that it is gross and material to care about what we eat.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 21 years old, have been married three years and have two little girls. I am very happy with my husband but for the last year and a half I've been sick. I'm anaemic, thin, have arthritis and must soon undergo an operation. My husband keeps telling me he loves me in spite of everything, but I hate to see him work so hard just to pay doctor and hospital bills. Besides this, my older girl, who is 2 years old, is getting very mischievous and I can't keep up with her as weak as I am. I love my husband more than anything in this world and just don't know what to do.

DELLA

ANSWER: Nothing is more discouraging than a long bout of illness and I can easily understand how hopeless you feel. You are blessed beyond measure with a wonderfully devoted husband, and for his sake you must look ahead to the time when your health will be regained. All of your ailments can be cured or at least arrested, you have the advantage of youth, but you do sorely need a cheerier outlook on life.

You daughter is at the busiest, and therefore most mischievous time of her life, but it is also a most adorable age and she must offer lots of compensation for her naughtiness. Can't you get someone to take her off your hands for a while each day so you can get more rest? There may even be a nursery school in your neighborhood where for a small fee, or perhaps none at all, she can be amused for most of the day.

Keep your courage up. Try a little spiritual reading for comfort, see as many people as you can. You have many good years ahead of you and a fine fmily to help you over the hurdles. God bless you!

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My husbnd and I are separate. Recently I wrote asking for a divorce but he wrote back saying I didn't need one as we weren't really married anyway. It seems his first wife hadn't gotten her divorce at the time he married me. What do I have to do? Can I just forget the whole thing and go on, or do I have to get a divorce in order to marry?

L. B.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: This tangle has the makings of a serious tragedy if you don't find out exactly where you stand. Don't take your husband's word for this marital mixup. See a lawyer and have him find out exactly what your status is. Be sure you establish the legality of your former marriage before you enter a new one or you may find yourself in an awful mess.

Woman Spends Winter Doing Trapping

BIG RIVER, Sask. — (CP). — Mrs. Fred Darbyshire spends 10 months a year trapping in the lake and bush country of Northern Saskatchewan.

It's a hard, rugged life with little comfort.

But it's interesting, and "you both love it and hate it at the same time," she says.

Mrs. Darbyshire and her husband spend a brief summer at their home in Big River northwest of Prince Albert.

Late in August they start back to their trapline in the north.

Winter supplies include staple foods like flour, sugar, beans, dried fruits, macaroni, salt pork, and tea. Having no chance to grow a garden, they have no vegetables—not even potatoes.

All winter Mrs. Darbyshire—a tall, slim, blue-eyed woman — travels on the trapline with her husband. It is her chore to stretch the pelts and trim them.

In her spare moments she knits mitts and socks — with winter temperatures often 60 degrees below zero, they use a lot of them.

Every Two Weeks

The 100-mile trapline is covered every two weeks. They travel by dog team and carry a canvas tent and small camp stove which they set up for shelter at night.

Mrs. Darbyshire doesn't ride much but runs most of the time. It's so cold the young people must keep moving to keep from freezing.

They catch fish for dog food and for themselves try to kill a moose which is smoked and their main food during the winter.

The nearest neighbour is a trapper about 50 miles away.

One winter Mrs. Darbyshire decided not to go north. But she found the winter spent in civilization was harder to take than being north with her husband.

HUGE POPULATION

Latest estimates of the 35 provinces of China including Manchuria in 1950-51 gave a total population of 466,500,000.

FAMOUS SIEGE

Almost 28,000 houses were destroyed or damaged in the enemy air raids on Malta in the Second World War.

THE DINNER-TO-DANCING DRESS is notably short in most of the fall collections. There are long evening gowns for really fancy occasion.

The taffeta, the satin, the nylon net, the ottoman that make up these short evening frocks are cut, for the most part, with very full skirts and cuffed tops or wide necklines. The skirts sometimes are stiffened by means of a lining, sometimes given crinoline petticoats.

Colors are pale for these short gowns. These are the new pastels, pinks, ice blues and champagne-color yarn-dye dresses, done in dull satin. Nylon nets, in grey or taupe, appear in this designer's collection. They are given glittering touches in smocking, in skirt or hip decorations, by means of bugle beads, irridescent sequins, rhinestones and pearls.

Grey nylon net, cut into a short evening frock (left), has a very full frock skirt. Bodice has the uncollared look with a high neckline that ties in a bow of self-cording. A jewelled effect, worked over the bodice, is done with grey braid embroidered in pearls, rhinestones, bugle beads and sequins. The jewelling is eased off on the skirt by menas of a rayed design.

Another after-five dress from this same collection is periwinkle blue taffeta (right) with a crisp cuff framing the face in portrait effect. The cuff, lightly draped about the shoudlers, swerves down through the bodice into a full, stiffened wraparound skirt that buttons.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Recipes Using Maple Syrup

QUESTION: I would like some recipes using maple syrup. As we have our own sugar bush I have all the maple syrup I can use and some to sell. I saw the maple syrup recipes you published some time ago. As the rice delight and also the maple cream called for whipping cream I could not make them as we cannot buy it here and I don't like anything with cream in it.—Red Rose.

Maple Syrup Cake

(This cake won a prize so other readers should sit up and take notice.)

Five-eighths cup (10 measuring tablespoons) butter or half butter or margarine and half shortening or lard, ⅞ cup sugar (1 measuring cup less 2 tablespoons), 2 very large eggs, 3 cups sifted best cake flour, 2½ teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, ⅝ cup milk, 1 cup maple syrup, ½ to 1 cup cut-up nuts—preferably butter nuts, but walnuts and pecans are good, too.

Cream the butter and shortening until very light and fluffy then beat the sugar into well, then beat in the unbeaten eggs until mixture is light. Sift the flour and measure it, then sift it with the baking powder and salt. Measure the milk and add it to the measured maple syrup. Sift the flour mixture over the creamed mixture, one-third of it at a time, alternately with the milk-syrup mixture, until all is just blended. Fold in the nuts. Pour into two buttered and paper-lined layer cake tins or into a pan that is about 13 x 9 inches. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 30 to 35 minutes for layer cakes or 35 to 40 minutes for oblong.

Frost with

Maple Syrup Icing

Boil ¼ cup maple syrup to firm ball stage (242 deg. Fahr.) and then slowly pour it over 2 stiffly beaten egg whites while beating constantly, until mixture will stand in peaks when beater is lifted out of it.

Maple Spanish Cream

Soak 1 tablespoon gelatine in 2 tablespoons cold milk, then dissolve it by adding 1 cup very hot milk and stirring. Pour this over 2 beaten egg yolks, stirring. Return to double boiler and stir until mixture just begins to thicken and lightly coat back of spoon. Remove from heat and add ¾ cup maple syrup. Pour this over 2 stiffly beaten egg whites, folding it in. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla, shake of salt and let chill until it just begins to set then fold in 1-3 cup chopped nuts. Chill until set.

Please see a column early next week for information on electric roaster.

Plan $150,000 Centre For Blind In London

TORONTO, July 13 (CP) — Plans for a $150,000 rehabilitation centre for the blind in London, Ont., and district were announced today by A. N. Magill, Ontario superintendent of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

The new centre—in part of the Shute Foundation property—will house about 35 persons, he said, and will also provide a large recreation hall, Braille reading rooms, listening rooms for recorded books and music and a hobby shop where the institute hopes to increase earnings of blind pensioners and those whose handicap denies full-time employment.

At least 400 blind persons will benefit from the centre, Mr. Magill said.

Kazarian Suspension Lifted By OLA

TORONTO, July 13 (CP)—The Ontario Lacrosse Association today announced lifting of the suspension on Harry Kazarian, former Owen Sound defence star who now plays with Fergus Thistles.

Kazarian was suspended June 22 after an injury to Pat DiPippo of the Toronto team. The executive ruled that the suspension would be lifted when DiPippo was able to play again. Manager Don Holden of Toronto's today notified the OLA that DiPippo has recovered.

Hastings News

Visitors with Mr. and Mrs. M. A. O'Shea over the holiday were: Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McCarthy and sons Jack and Joe of Toledo, O.; Mr. Paul Coughlan of Campbellford, and Misses Olive Coughlan and Evelyn Elmano of Toronto.

Master Douglas Waters of Norwood is visiting his cousin, Master Paul Humphries.

Misses Adele Dodd and Andree Crate spent Thursday in Peterborough.

The Rev. John F. Coughlan of Peterborough spent a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. O'Shea.

Mr. and Mrs. William Waters were visitors Thursday with the former's sister, Mrs. L. W. Humphries and Mr. Humphries.

Miss Margaret Rose Baker is visiting with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Larke at Amherstburg.

Mrs. W. J. Dunford

Pallbearers at the funeral Thursday afternoon of Mrs. William John Dunford, 83, Lakefield, were Wilbert Frankish and her five sons, Bruce, Harry, Welly, Oscar and Russell Dunford.

Mrs. Dunford, a resident of the village for 23 years, died Monday after a long illness.

The service was at the Hendren funeral home, the Rev. W. H. Tonge, Lakefield United Church, officiating. Burial was in Ray's cemetery.

Flower bearers were Oscar Reed and Stanley, Milton, Truman, —Charles, Robert, Hugh and Gordon Dunford.

DIXIE, the cigarette-smoking chimp, gets her daily ration from Captain W. L. Kay, master of the freighter Cambray which brought her—and dozens of other assorted animals, reptiles and birds—from Freetown to Montreal for consignment to an animal farm at Egypt, Mass. Sixteen of the animals died on the trip across.

Plan To Develop Air Wing To Help UK In Emergency

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON

LONDON — A far-reaching scheme for the immediate formation of an air wing to operate as an adjunct to Britain's civil defence force, has been placed before the government for priority consideration.

The proposal, submitted by the Air League of the British Empire, provides for the creation of a strategically-based reserve of light aircraft, a pool of non-active service pilots and a strongly-manned ground organization.

Outlining the objects of the plan, Air Chief Marshal Sir Guy Garrod, chairman of the league, suggested the air wing should be built up without delay and geared for action to meet possible air attack on the United Kingdom.

The league's executive council, he said, was convinced that if a fully-trained air unit was functioning at the outbreak of hostilities the country's civil defence organization could be expected to operate with infinitely greater speed and efficiency.

Ready To Organize

The air chief marshal said the league stood ready to assist or take full charge in organizing the air wing throughout the country. It was felt, however, that the groundwork could be based effectively on a revived air transport auxiliary, the wartime civilian force responsible for ferrying aircraft from factories to airfields.

Alternatively, it suggested that the special force could operate as a section of the RAF volunteer reserve or as part of the Royal auxiliary air force.

New Threats Foreseen

Emergencies transcending anything experienced on the home front in the two world wars, are envisaged by the architects of the plan.

They foresee the possibilities of large communities being isolated through disruption of surface communications, the need for quick evacuation of the homeless and bomb casualties, as well as urgent calls for food and other emergency supplies.

In such circumstances, it is submitted, aircraft would be the only certain means of maintaining contact with a heavily bombed area and between the operating bases of the widely-scattered civil defence regions.

Need Light Planes

To meet such problems the demand would be for inexpensive, light planes, capable of operating within restricted space, easily flown and maintained with the fewest possible calls on strategic materials. The many flying clubs throughout the nation would provide a ready-made reserve of suitable aircraft and thus relieve the arms industry of any serious production problem.

The scheme is based on the assumption an adequate supply of air crew could be recruited from former RAF men, excluded from further active service flying. Sufficient aircraft could be stationed at existing flying clubs and reserve training schools to provide the pilots with the necessary peacetime practice.

The league's plan suggests that ground crews could be marshalled from flying club members as well as former officers and tradesmen of the RAF.

Full details of the proposed peacetime setup and its practical operation in event of war have been referred to the Air Ministry, War Office and Ministry of Civil Aviation, for further study

Australia Needs Dollars Boost Trade With Canada

Written for The Canadian Press
By Margaret Ecker Francis

SYDNEY, Australia. (CP) — Vigorous trans-Pacific trade between Canada and Australia is spoken of here in the future tense and in the past tense.

Dollar shortages and the crippling Australian labor shortage hold present trade between the two dominions far below what it could be.

Canada has soft lumber, heavy machinery, newsprint and canned salmon needed by the island continent. But the dollar committee, on which sit representatives from national finance, treasury, trade and customs departments, veto imports other than those essential to the country's economy and unobtainable from sterling or soft currency countries.

Australia has manufactured products, wines, woollens, skins, fruits, to name only a few items, which would find ready demand on the Canadian market but the labor shortage in Australia, (with 200,000 unfilled jobs), limits production of all types.

During 1950, Canadian exports [illegible] ported sugar, fruit, canned meat and wool valued at $32,802,935. As has been for many years, the balance of trade was in Canada's favor. Australia, however, had increased her exports to Canada 4½ per cent from 1939 when that country's purchases from Canada wre four times the value of her sales.

Third Best Customer

In 1938 Australia was Canada's third best customer, porchasing such items as automobiles, trucks, newsprint, lumber, machinery, fabrics, tools, canned fish and wood pulp.

The pound shortage and an industrial self-sufficiency gained during the war has pushed her down to seventh place among Canada's markets. Home industry now produces many items such as shoes, clothing, silk stockings and other light and heavy industrial products. Australians have been told that they must replace with their own fish the once-popular tinned salmon from British Columbia.

Trade With Europe

Due to currency regulations such items as soft timber and newsprint must be imported from Scandinavian countries. Pre-fabricated houses are being imported from Sweden, Italy, France and Britain, rather than from Canada.

The international bank loan of $100,000,000 for Australian purchase of industrial equipment increased trade with Canada by $2,000,000 when between November, 1950, and April of this year, 20 Diesel engines were purchased. The figure could have been increased further if Canada had had available for export hydro-electric heavy equipment for the Snowy River power project. Monies loaned by the International Bank could be used only for essential equipment.)

It is in heavy machinery that C. M. Croft, Canadian Trade Commissioner in Sydney sees the future of inter-Dominion trade. "When the dollar shortage ends," he said, "Canada will have a good market in Australia for hydro-electric equipment. The trend will be to producers' goods rather than consumers' goods, since the war forced the country to build up her own light and heavy industries."

[illegible] ed down the Pacific from Canada to Australia: lumber valued at $5,800,000; newsprint, $603,000, (a drop from $5,000,000 in 1949).

More than 50 per cent of the trade was centred around motors, (trucks and passenger cars and parts), to the extent of $17,000,000 in 1950.

Other Canadian imports included: industrial cotton fabrics, $2,750,000; aluminum, $1,600,000; asbestos, $1,300,0000; sandpaper and emory cloth, $655,000; motion picture films, $412,000.

Australian exports to Canada here topped by wool, $12,112,788 and sugar, $11,000,000. Others were: dried fruit, $792,000; pineapple, $1,750,000; canned fruit, $820,0000; wine, $488,000; rabbit hides, $775,000; sausage casings, $436,000; glycerine $140,000; canned meat, $60,000.

HEMEL HEMPSTEAD, England (CP).—Decision to take over every one of 53 public houses in this Hertfordshire town because a new satellite town is to be built in the area, has been announced by the department of the home secretary.

Hope Report Not Shelved J. V. Foote Tells Orangemen

The Hope report on education in Ontario is not something that has been filed away or shelved, Major John W. Foote, V.C., minister of reform institutions, assured an audience of 600 Orangement in Riverside Park, Thursday afternoon.

Major Foote was one of the five principal speakers who addressed a rain-soaked body of marchers who had come from seven counties to celebrate the Glorious Twelth.

Rain which had fallen steadily during most of the parade stopped before the marchers got to Riverside bowl, and a hot sun broke out from behind cloud intermittently as the speakers addressed the gathering.

Applause greeted Major Foot's declaration that the Hope report had not been shelved. As a government spokeman, he said, he could assure them that the department of education was making a careful study of it.

Responsibilites.

"The government has responsibilities to all," he said. "And the Hope report deals with subjects other than restricting the actvities of separate schools. There's more to it than that."

He recommended that all lodges get a copy of the controversial report so Orangemen can be conversant with the chief recommendations.

Major Foote said that his personal feeling toward the Orange Order was this: It means fellowship with people in the community the Orangeman respects and who are respected in that community; people who not only belong to an Order but live out its principles in everyday life.

Orangmen Friends.

"The greatest friend that the Roman Catholic Church has in the world today is the Orange Order," declared Major Foote.

He said that it was the Orange Order that had fought freedom of religion and that meant freedom to be a Roman Catholic as well as any other denomination. In the "iron curtain" countires Roman Catholicism is being oppressed, he said, and he was sure that the Catholics in those countries would gladly exchange their lot for life in a Protestant country.

Major Foote said that while William the Third was not a meditative man he did have a strong belief in Calvinism.

"Calvinism is a doctrine that we need today. It has a quality of iron in its thinking."

People with this belief were willing to fight and suffer when faced with the threat of tyranny but they kept on because of their belief that a godless despot would not triumph.

A similar situation exists today, he said. There is too much talk of fear of Russia. "But a nation that has turned away from the sovereignty and power of God is no threat as long as we have William's spirit."

Welcome By Mayor.

Mayor Max Swanston welcomed the visitors on behalf of the city council and local residents.

During the 100 years of the incorporation of Peterborough, the Orange Order has played a prominent part in the building and developing of the community, said the mayor. Orangemen have also taken an active part in every worthwhile civic program.

They have given service on the appointed and elected bodies of the city.

"I know you men and women members of the Orange Orders will do all in your power to preserve democracy and help put an end of communism," said the mayor,

Gordon K. Fraser.

"The Orange Lodge throughout the years has helped build this Canada of ours," said Gordon K. Fraser, MP, and I know that in the future it will fight to keep Canada from being blasted to pieces by Stalin and his communist friends."

Mr. Fraser warned his audience that British freedom as we know it will have disappeared in 10-15 years unless we are prepared to fight for it.

"Korea is the present battleground for British freedom," he said.

Mr. Fraser said the Orange Lodge was founded on the principles of peace and goodwill. Hate and intoleranec were not wanted.

Those principles have been lived up to in the Canada we have today, he said. And he concluded by urging his audience to be good citizens.

"Stick together and help Canada," he said.

The Rev. F. C. Beazer, grand chaplain of the Grand Orange Lodge, Ontario East, said the victory at the Battle of the Boyne was a victory for British liberty. It had benefitted the Protestant cause and Roman Catholicism as well.

He urged Orangemen to make sure that public school supporters are not dealt with unfairly by the government. Roman Catholics are already asking for a greater share of the building costs, he said.

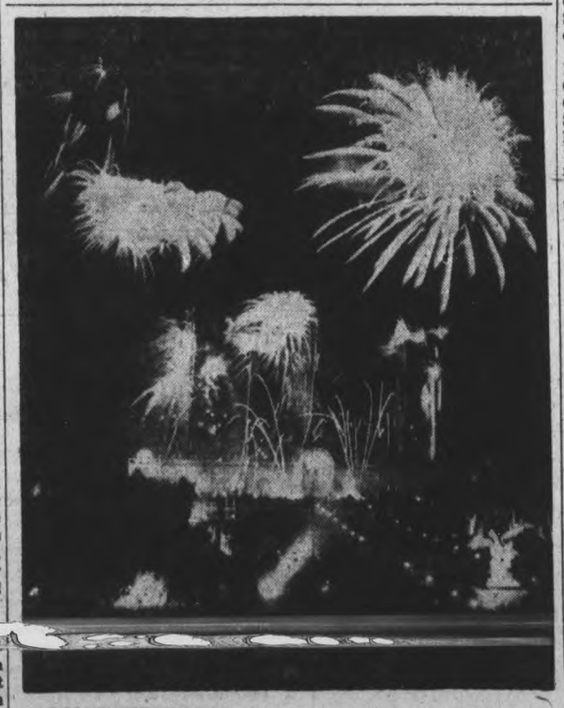
Major Cyril Everitt, Salvation Army, said the Orange Order wanted "equal rights for all, special privileges for none." Do your duty to God and to your fellow man.

Major Everitt opened the program with a prayer. Chairman was Morgan Brown, grand lecturer of the Grand Lodge, Ontario East.

Margaret Truman Prefers US Men

NEW YORK, July 12. (AP)—Margaret Truman was back home today from her seven-week European tour.

"I'm a good sailor," President Truman's daughter said, "but nothing looks as wonderful as land."



Reporters kept asking Margaret what she thought about European men.

"Give me American men," Margaret said. "Continental men are very charming but there is nothing like the gentlemen at home."

Margaret said she enjoyed meeting the two English princesses. "They are very charming and very much prettier than their pictures," she said.

Cleaners and Darners

MANCHESTER, England (CP) —A cleaning firm started a sock-darning service — and found housewives its best customers. An official commented: "It seems that housewives prefer to economize in other directions so that they can afford to have their husbands' socks darned for them."

GIANT FIREWORKS, lasting for one hour, marked the climax of Paris' 2,000th birthday celebration. View was made from the top of the Grand Palais. In right foreground are the columns of Alexander III Bridge with the Esplanade beyond the columns. The Hotel des Invalides and the Domes des Invalides can be seen through the fireworks in the background.

CANOE MARATHON—Two canoes battle for the lead as the 100-mile, $1,000 Gold Rush Canoe Derby got under way July 8 at Cranberry Portage, Man. The event was a feature of the first annual Northern Manitoba Trout Festival at Flin Flon. Eleven teams entered the grind and first prize was $500.

US Military Men Helping S. Korea Build Up Army

By SAM SUMMERLIN

US EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, KOREA (AP). — A small team of United States military advisers is welding the South Korean army into a fighting force that some day may be capable of defending this battle-scarred republic.

The team is attached to KMAG —the U.S. military advisory group to Korea — since war began last June 25 these advisers have managed to hold the Korean army together despite staggering losses.

Today, through an intensive training program, KMAG is forming a nucleus of professional Korean soldiers. Republic of Korea forces have lacked this solid core.

Two big questions now are:

What would be the role of KMAG if and when a cease-fire developed?

Would this South Korean army be able to protect this country?

Both questions were posed to Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet, commander of the US Eighth Army.

The answer to the first question, he said, must come from Washington.

Effective Army

As for the second, Van Fleet said the KMAG training program "will create an effective army for the republic of Korea which will be sufficient to maintain peace within the country and defend it against any aggression from a neighbor"

KMAG was set up in August, 1948, as a provisional military advisory group in expectation of the withdrawal of US occupation forces then stationed in Korea. The group's mission was to advise and train the South Korean army. Each high Korean officer had an American officer as an adviser.

This army, however, was prepared only to maintain internal security when a year ago the North Koreans swarmed across the 38th Parallel.

Despite overpowering enemy strength, KMAG members stood alongside the South Koreans in their desperate effort to stem the Communists onslaught.

Little War Experience

Although the Koreans suffered some 40,000 casualties in the first few days of the war, KMAG managed to replace these and at the same time boost the army from about 90,000 to nearly 250,000 men.

The recruits got little training —usually from two to four weeks. The Korean army lacked both equipment and good officers. Controlled by Japan for years, South Korea had little experience in war.

Shortly after the Third South Korean Corps collapsed in the Communists' May offensive, Lt. Gen. Chung Il Kwon, its Chief of Staff, diagnosed the trouble as lack of heavy equipment, lack of training and inexperienced officers.

A new program was launched to attack this problem. A military school system, modelled along American lines, bore down on non-commissioned officers and officer candidates to improve the quality of junior leadership. Units up to division size were rotated from the front for instruction.

Stress Quality

KMAG gained a new chief June 1 when Brig.-Gen. Garrison H. Davidson succeeded Brig.-Gen. Francis Farrell, who had served in the position since last July.

Davidson, white-haired, handsome former head football coach at West Point, stressed that KMAG now has shifted the emphasis from quantity to quality for the Korean army.

"When the war first broke out," he said, "the demand was for lots of men in a hurry. Now that the situation has become more stabilized, we can concertate on quality.

Davidson said the full effect will not be felt for another six months, but "we can feel certain that the South Korean army in the future will be far more capable of containing any aggression than it was before the war."

Unheralded Visitor

MONTREAL—(CP)—Louis St. Laurent, of Ottawa, holder of a $2.50 radio licence, dropped into the new Radiio-Canada building to see how the CBC was spending his money. Few of the other visitors inspecting the newly-opened building recognized the Prime Minister on his informal visit.

Tax Collectors Plan Drive On Self-Employed Citizens

OTTAWA, July 13 — (CP) — Income tax officials said Thursday at campaign to check into the possibility that businessmen and other self-employed taxpayers may be making fraudulent tax returns.

A Revenue Department spokesman said the campaign, which will continue for the next year or two, is aimed at no particular professional groups. It will embrace all persons not covered by salary or payroll tax deductions.

"We aren't going after any one in particular," the spokesman said. "But we do want to find out if there are self-employed people who are getting away without paying their full quota of income taxes."

In the campaign, departmental investigators would check past income tax returns and other records.

Plan New Program For Union Participation

MILAN, Italy, July 13 (AP).—Newly-elected executives of the free world's trade union movement started Thursday to put into effect a new program of labor union participation in world affairs.

The program was adopted during the last nine days by delegates to the World Congress of the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions which has a membership of 50,000,000 in 66 countries.

The 19-member executive board chosen at the final congress elected Britain's Sir Vincent Tewson, 53-year-old labor leader, as president to succeed Belgium's Paul Finet.

WHITE-FLAGGED JEEPS are parked outside the meeting place in Kaesong where negotiations for a possible cease-fire order in Korea broke off between UN and Communist representatives. Vice Admiral C. Turner Joy said negotiations were recessed following interference by armed Chinese Communists with authorized UN personnel.

Three Navy Men Awarded Mention In Despatches

OTTAWA, July 13 (CP)—The defence department today announced that three officers of the Royal Canadian Navy have been awarded mention in dispatches for services in the Korean war theatre.

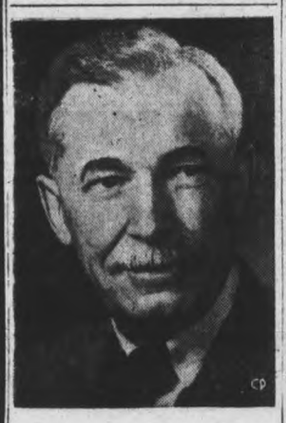
The officers are Capt. Jefery V. Brock, DSC, of Winnipeg and Vancouver; Cmdr. Robert P. Welland, DSC, of Victoria and Commissioned Engineer E. V. Dear of Victoria.

Capt. Brock commanded HMCS Cayuga during her first tour of duty in Korean waters and was commander of the three Canadian destroyers during this eight-month period.

The citation said in part that Capt. Brock "led his destroyers well and has kept them at a high state of efficiency. During the Inchon landings he was in command of the southern blockade element and contributed a great deal to the early rehabilitation of the islands on the southwest and west coasts of Korea."

Cmdr. Welland commanded HMCS Athabaskan in the Korean theatre for more than nine months. The Athabaskan was one of the ships supporting the invasion of Inchon last September.

Showed Great Skill



The citation accompanying his mention in dispatches said Cmdr. Welland had shown "great dash and skill" and his ship was "a fine example of efficiency."

It also noted that "on Aug. 22, 1950, HMCS Athabaskan landed a party of sailors and with the aid of ROK marines, captured the islands of Takh Chaku To and Ryank To and destroyed by demolition a W/T station on Hachibi To."

Commissioned Engineer Dear served as chief petty officer in the Athabaskan throughout his period of duty in the Korean theatre. Senior engine room artificer in the destroyer, he was promoted shortly after his return to Canada. He now is attending an officers' training course at HMCS Cornwallis.

His citation said he displayed "outstanding devotion to duty in the trying conditions imposed on engine-room personnel in the naval operations off Korea."

The award of mention in dispatches to the three navy officers will be published in this week's Canada Gazette. They will each be entitled to wear an oak leaf on the general service medal ribbon.

RESEARCH EXPERT — Gideon Milroy Garrie, OBE, Owen Sound, Ont., native, has been named to command a division of the Defence Research Board that will make him responsible for the research and development requirements of the army. A veteran of both world wars, he will be closely associated with the operations of defence research laboratories. The research board is the scientific arm of the defence department.

Announce Members Of Elizabeth's Suite

LONDON, July 13 (Reuters)—Princess Elizabeth will take Lt.-Gen. Sir Frederick Browning, her principal adviser, with her on her October visit with the Duke of Edinburgh to Canada, it was announced today.

Other members of the Royal suite will be Maj. Martin Charteris, her private secretary, Lieut. Michael Parker, equerry-in-wating, and Mrs. Andrew Elphinstone, lady-in-wating.

Browning, 54, is comptroller and treasurer of Clarence House, the Princess' London home. He and Charteris, 37, look after all arrangements for her public engagements.

Browning's wife is novelist Daphne Du Maurier.

Editor Dies

MONTREAL, July 13 (CP)—Michael Stavrides, editor of the Greek newspaper Estia published in Montreal and New York, died Wednesday night in hospital here. He was 55. Mr. Stavrides was born in Smyrna in 1896 and came to Canda in 1924. He was supervisor of Greek schools in Canada and the western United States.

Peers Planning Pubcrawl To Decide Issue

LONDON, July 13 —(AP) — A difference of opinion over the adequacy of British drinking establishments as tourist attractions provoked two members of the House of Lords to agree on a competitive round of pubs Thursday.

Lord Mancroft told the peers that Britain's visitors like to sit outdoors and sip but there are not enough places where they can do this under existing regulations.

Lord Lucas, a staunch Labor Government supporter, disputed Lord Mancroft's accuracy on this point.

Lord Mancroft, who is 37, then offered the 57-year-old Lord Lucas an official tour of London pubs. Lord Mancroft said he would buy the drinks at every outdoor spot Lord Lucas could find and, at every pub where outdoor drinking was barred, Lord Lucas would foot the bill.

Lord Lucas agreed cautiously, insisting on a handicap allowance because of Lord Mancroft's "practice and capacity against my inexperience and age." Lord Mancroft said that would be fine and "by the time we get home I won't be sober and Lucas won't be solvent."

325 Sea Cadets Head For Island

MIDLAND, July 13 (CP). — A 57-acre island in Georgian Bay near here is the summer headquarters of junior sailors from all over Canada.

Princess Alice Camp, operated by the Navy League of Canada on Minnicog Island, has already withstood the impact of its first 290 Sea Cadets of the season and is ready for the 325 who will replace them next week.

That's pretty good for a camp that was sold to the League for $1 back in 1949.

The island was turned over to the Navy League by James Norris and Gordon Laitch for use as a naval training base during the Second World War. As many as 3,000 Sea Cadets a season were trained for emergency use by the Navy League in co-operation with the Canadian Navy.

This year it has been reclassified from a provincial camp to a junior camp accommodating cadets from all over Canada. Cadets trained there qualify for the senior camp at Latona, BC.

Suspend Sentence

OAKVILLE, July 13 (CP). — Mr. and Mrs. Norman Lawrence, accused of leaving their four young children alone in their home in nearby Bronte while they went to a beverage room here, Thursday were given a year's suspended sentence on a charge of neglect. The court was told the children were alone and unprotected for four hours

Marshall Finds Loophole To Buy Arms

OTTAWA, July 13 — (CP) — US Defence Secretary George Marshall has found a loophole in the Buy-American Act.

He has authorized annual purchases by the US armed forces of military equipment and supplies up to $300,000,000 from Canada, it was learn Thursday. But Canada still has to get the orders.

Marshall's action means that it will be possible to strike a rough balance between the amount of equipment the US buys here and the amount Canada buys in the US.

It represents a triumph for Defense Production Minister Howe, Defense Minister Claxton and others who have long argued that sort of balance should exist. Otherwise, Canada would have to drain her US dollar reserve to buy US arms.

Marshall, in response to Canadian representations, has taken action under a clause in the Buy-American Act. This act provides broadly that US Government purchase, including those for the forces, should be made in the US.

But it has a loophole which allows the administration, under certain circumstances, to buy from other countries.

Freights Collide In Dense Fog

HAMILTON, July 13 (CP) — The Canadian National Railways main line between Hamilton and Niagara Falls was blocked today when a westbound freight train struck the rear of another freight at Grimsby during dense fog.

One locomotive and about five cars were derailed.

The caboose on the front train was smashed and plowed into the car ahead of it.

First reports said none was injured.

Weiss Kills Self

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP).—Bernard Weiss, 43, awaiting Federal trial on a counterfeiting charge, shot himself to death in his Bronx home Thursday. Police said Weiss, free on $25,000 bond, left a suicide note, asking friends to forgive him. To his enemies, Weiss wrote:

"I wish them a worse fate."

Battle Rages In Congress On Controls

If Measure Passes Truman Stripped of Power

WASHINGTON, July 14. —(AP)—The battle over economic controls in the United States continued today with the Administration fighting a rear-guard action against a coalition of Republicans and southern Democrats in the House of Representatives.

Commerce Secretary Charles Sawyer warned Friday night that inflation will do the United States great harm "unless we keep controls".

In a radio speech, Sawyer promised that "as soon as controls can be abandoned or alleviated, they will be." But he added:

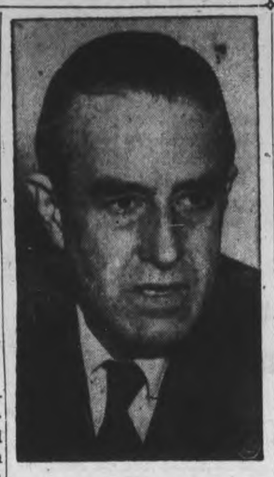
"It is childish to pretend that inlationary pressures are not upon us."

The House version o the Bill fto

The House version of the Bill to extend wage-price-rent controls is expected to be completed by next Thursday. The bill then goes to a House-Senate Conference committee for ironing out differences between it and a Senate-passed bill.

Strip Authority

The Senate measure reduces President Truman's present powers over the US eco nomy and gives him none of the new authority he asked. The House bill appears certain to be as rough—if not rougher—on the administration.



Representative Isidors Dollinger (Dem.-NY) told the House Friday that it "is not controlled by Democrats; it is controled by an unholy alliance of Repubicans and Dixiescrats.

Dollinger's statement drew from Representative Charles Halleck (Rep.-Ind.) the countercharge that Democrats are "playing politics" with controls, and asserted the House has yet to adopt "one single amendment which affects wage or price controls."

Meanwhile farm state spokesmen from both parties readied their big guns to kill off price rollbacks.

Their immediate target is not only the 10 per cent beef cut but all future farm price cuts. In addition, a move was in the making to end the administration's power to reduce the prices of industrial goods.

The House already has banned livestock slaughtering quotas, imports of fats and oils, and farm subsidies.

IN IRAN TALKS—W. Averell Harriman, President Truman's personal adviser, will arrive in Iran Sunday to discuss the oil crisis there. In an efort to ease the tense situation created by Iranian nationalization of British-leased oil lands, President Truman offered to send Harriman and the Iranian government accepted.

Communists Still Vague On Details

Allied Bombers Step Up War Against Red Lines

SEOUL, Korea, July 14. (AP) — Pyongyang radio tonight broadcast a Communist acceptance "in principle" of Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's ultimatum on renewing cease-fire talks.

The broadcast, as recorded in Tokyo by Japanese Monitors, said the Red top command told Ridgway:

1. "In principle we agree to neutralize Kaesong."

2. "We propose" joint negotiations for insuring safety of delegates.

3. "We agree to admit not more than 20 correspondents" to Kaesong. But the Reds objected to Ridgway's "one-sided demand."

Ridgway's headquarters said:

"There will be no comment until we have received a properly authenticated message."

33 Hours Late

The Pyongyang broadcast was recorded by Japanese monitors of Kyodo News Service at 9 p.m. (7 a.m. EDT). That was 33 hours after the UN commander laid down his terms for renewing armistice talks.

The UN broke off negotiations Thursday when Chinese guards refused to allow 20 newspapermen to continue with a UN convoy of which they were an official part.

The Pyongyang broadcast was addressed to Ridgway and signed by the two top Reds in Korea — Gen. Kim Il Sung, North Korean Premier, and Gen. Peng Teh-huai, commander of the Chinese forces in Korea.

As translated from Korean to Japanese to English it read:

"We reply to your July 13 proposal as follows:

"1. In principle we agree to neutralize Kaesong in order to make negotiations develop smoothly.

"2. We propose to take up a joint committee of both parties to discuss definite measures for maintenance of guards and assur-

Canada Offers Aid To Stricken Kansas Flood Area

KANSAS CITY, July 14. (AP)—Paralyzing flood waters tightened their grip on the Kansas City metropolitan area of 900,000 persons today and threatened new destruction. A state of emergency was proclaimed. Help came from coast to coast for the stricken twin cities of Kansas City, Mo., and Kansas City, Kas., and the eastern half of the state of Kansas. Help was also offered Friday night by the head of the Canadian Red Cross Society.

Dr. W. Stuart Stanbury, National commissioner, said the Canadian organization stands ready to lend a hand to flood victims in Kansas and Missouri. But he thought trained Canadian disaster workers might be more welcome than materials.

"The Canadian society will offer any assistance needed in the United States floods," he said in a statement.

Fight Bad Fires

Flooded fuel tanks touched off fires that added to the devastation.

Three major industrial districts in the Kansas City area were inundated.

The surging waters of the Missouri and Kansas rivers threatened two other heavily industrialized sections—North Kansas City and Fairfax. Both districts were evacuated.

Floods over Kansas and Missouri during the last week have caused at least 13 deaths. Many persons were missing but because of the thousands of refugees close ton, told reporters damage in Kansas may run over $500,000,000.

City officials ordered stringent safeguards to conserve the water supply and to clear disaster areas for rescue work.

Highway and rail traffic halted. checks were impossible.

Still Fight Blaze

Firemen fought a fuel tank-farm fire throughout the night in a flooded two-block area. The fire began Friday.

Nine firemen were injured, seven buildings were destroyed, and two others damaged.

About 20 tanks containing a total of 500,000 gallons of gasoline, Diesel oil and naphtha exploded at intervals.

Early today all residents in an eight-block area near the fire were ordered to flee as the fire again roared out of control and threatened a chemical company. Great quantities of naphtha and other explosive materials are in the plant, firemen said.

The fire was touched off by a floating 6,000-gallon oil tank that struck an electric power line.

Cities and towns in eastern and central Kansas were hard hit by floods, too.

Mixed Reception For Acheson Armistice Stand

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP)—State Secretary Dean Acheson's stand for a Korean armistice on the basis of present battle lines got a mixed reception among lawmakers today.

Acheson told a press conference Friday he feels the truce should be based on the fighting front as it now exists and indicated he did not favor withdrawal to the pre-war dividing line of the 38th Parallel.

While senators looked on this as more advantageous than a cease-fire at the 38th, many of them said they won't be satisfied unless definite strides are taken in any truce agreement toward unification of Korea.

Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, top Republican on the Senate Armed Services Committee, said the present battle line, which bulges north of the 38th Parallel, would be "more desirable" as a dividing line than the pre-war boundary between North and South Korea.

Want United Korea

"But that doesn't satisfy our aims at all," he said. "What I am for and what I thought we were fighting for is a completely United Korea."

Senator Lester Hunt (Dem.-Wyo.), another committee member, said the dividing line doesn't make so much difference if the truce provides for "free and open inspection" by the United Nations on both sides to prevent a recurrence of aggression.

"What good would it do to settle on either line, then get out of Korea and have the same thing happen all over again?" he asked.

Senator Harry Cain (Rep.-Wash.) said he believes that "any truce which does not cover a unified Korea is not a truce that will last."

Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep.-Wis.) said the question of a dividing line is far overshadowed "by what we have lost already in prestige in the Orient by sending our delegates marching with a white flag down a corridor of armed Chinese to negotiate with the Reds."

Armed Soldiers, Barbed Wire Maintain Order

CHICAGO, Ill., July 14—(AP)—Soldiers, bayonets, barbed-wire barricades and roving police squads formed a strong defence line today to maintain peace and order in suburban Cicero's riot front.

No attempts were made to crash the line in the area of the embattled apartment building where a Negro family had rented a flat, touching off the disorders.

No Negroes live in Cicero, a community of 70,000 west of Chicago.

Police broke up any small groups which former Friday night within four blocks of the apartment building which had been stormed by a riotous mob Thursday night.

Persons disobeying orders to "keep moving" were picked up and taken to the Cicero police station. About 70 were nabbed during the night.

Thirty-nine were charged with unlawful asembly. The others, including 15 youths were released.

Various Charges

Sixty of the 72 nabbed Thursday were booked on various charges, including unlawful assembly, assault and inciting to riot.

Although comparative peace settled over the trouble zone, about 200 of the 450 National Guardsmen and police details remained on duty throughout the night.

In Thursday night's rioting, guardsmen and police battled a frenzied mob for more than two hours. Twenty-three persons, including soldiers and policemen, were injured.

New British Rifle Too Short Army Develops Sudden Lean

LONDON, July 14. (Reuters)—Britain now may have what she considers the best infantry rifle in the world, but her army's sergeant-majors are in a fluster over its behavior on the parade square. The new .280-calibre rifle is shorter and lighter than the .303 weapon the British Army has used for 50 years.

Troops are unable to touch the ground with the rifle butt when standing at ease unless they lean over to one side. The change of balance makes it impossible to slope arms the way drill manuals direct.

Says It's Best

Defence Minister Emanuel Shinwell claims the rifle is the best in the world, being a single shot as well as an automatic weapon of high accuracy.

The greatest criticism of it is that it ignores attempts to standardize Allied armament. When a change of rifles was first announced, it was expected the new one would conform to the United States .30-calibre Garand.

Faced with American and Canadian criticism, Britain has announced she is willing to discuss her adoption of the new weapon at ministerial level with other North Atlantic Pact countries. The talks are due soon.

Greek Attempts Channel Swim

DOVER, England, July 14 — (Reuters). — Greek artillery Major Jason Zingaros was reported today to be making steady progress in his attempt to swim the English Channel from England to France.

He set off from here in ideal weather. Sea temperature was 61 degrees before the sun got up, the water was almost dead calm, and there was a faint off-shore breeze.

Major Zingaros, 41, is the first swimmer to attempt the Channel crossing this year. If he succeeds he will be the fourth man to swim the Channel in both directions.

He has twice conquered the 21-mile stretch from France to England—in 1949 and 1950.

Composer Schoenberg Dies In California

LOS ANGELES, Calif., July 14 (AP)—Composer Arnold Schaenberg, father of the modern atonal school of music, died at his home Friday night after a two-year illness. He was 76.

A native of Vienna, Schoenberg came to the United States in the 1930s after Adolf Hitler's rise to power and the Austrian anschluss. He served as professor of music at the University of California at Los Angeles until illness forced his retirement 2½ years ago.

Most of Schoenberg's compositions were based on a system of a 12-tone scale, which he adopted in preference to the traditional eight-tone scale. He began experimenting for new musical sounds in the earlier 1900s. His work, at first harsh on the ear, won many converts.

His best known compositions include "Verklarte Nacht" (Transfigured Night), "Gurre-Lieder" (Songs of the Dove), and a symphonic poem "Pelleas and Melisande."

3 British Sisters Moving To Canada

SOUTHAMPTON, England, July 14 (Reuters)—Three British sisters with their husbands and eight daughters aged from five to 21 left today aboard the liner Georgic for St. Catharines, Ont.

The three families travelled from Surbiton, Surrey, to the ship in a motor coach with five dogs and two bicycles. They were Mr. and Mrs. Len Cuming and three daughters, Mr. and Mrs. John McEwan with three daughters, and Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Davey with two daughters.

"We all have homes and jobs to go to," McEwan said.

A 15th member of the party is John Meadows, 24, engaged to Mr. and Mrs. Cuming's eldest daughter, June, 21.

Davey was on the British Olympic hockey team in 1947 and 1948.

12 Best Air Cadets Take Oshawa Course

OSHAWA, July 14 — (CP) — Twelve youths selected as outstanding air cadets of the year [illegible] start an aviation course sponsored by the federal government.

The month-long course is designed to promote Canadian aviation and to supply a reserve of trained pilots. Cost of tuition is estimated at more than $1,000 each.

Bandit Shoots Pal In Error

BUFFALO, NY, July 14 (AP)—One would-be bank robber shot another Friday, and a policeman shot a man who was on the side of the law. Both wounded men survived.

Police said former convicts [illegible] and Joseph Palame, 41, had just entered a branch bank of the Marine Trust Company, when Palame's gun went off accidentally. Sikora, wounded in the back, was in fair condition today.

Palame helped Sikora to his feet and the pair fled. They forced Norman Drum, 39, to drive them away in his station wagon. When they had gone a few blocks, Sikora took the wheel, despite his wound, and Palame held a gun at Drum's head.

As the vehicle sped northward out of the city, police forced it to the curb.

Police Inspector Martin J. Feinen said he saw a glint from a pistol as Drum bent over the back of the wagon, and the inspector thought Drum was the robbers' accomplice, ready to fire.

Feinen shot Drum twice. He later learned that Drum had been trying to grab Palame's gun.

See No Rush Of Reservists To Join Brigade

OTTAWA, July 14 (CP)—Canada's Europe-bound 27th Brigade has had little success in attracting men from the reserve army, called on two months ago to mobilize its manpower.

This lack of interest among part-time soldiers in the first regular peacetime formation to be built around reserve units was reflected today in figures released by army headquarters.

They showed that of the 9,200 men who have been posted to the brigade, less than 2,000 have come from reserve ranks. That is, for every two men who have gone active from the part-time units, seven have enlisted who have had no connection with them.

In a unique step, the government called on 42 reserve units in May to raise the manpower for the brigade.

The 1,988 reservists who have gone active represent between four and five per cent of the 46,000 men on the reserve army rolls.

Previous Experience

The army's figures showed that some 3,140 men in the 27th have previous military experience. This is about one-third. The percentage in the special force 25th Brigade, now in Korea, is higher.

The army said the brigade now is nearing 10,000, "the goal originally set when recruiting started two months ago." In the past, the official word has been that the brigade itself would need between 5,500 and 6,500 men plus about as many more for replacements.

Whether this represents a scaling-down of objectives is not clear. However, the army in a statement said there will be no let-up in the drive for men for the 27th. The present drive will be continued indefinitely.

Present commitments, involving three brigades plus replacement groups and various other units, make it necessary for the army to keep getting men at about the rate of [illegible] them in the two months of recruiting mainly for the 27th.

That is, about 1,000 men a month will be needed from now on.

Present army strength is 39,000.

Seven Killed In 2nd Crash

LINCOLN, England, July 14—(Reuters)—All seven crew members were killed when an RAF four-engined Lincoln bomber crashed into a field at Welton near here early today.

It was the second major RAF crash in 48 hours.

Three crew and seven trainees were killed when a Vickers Valetta transport crashed Thursday night shortly after leaving Lyneham air station, Wiltshire, England.

The Lincoln was on a local [illegible] supply in the United States Lincoln. It burst into flames on hitting the ground after narrowly missing a farmhouse.

Trade Gasoline

WASHINGTON, July 14. (AP)—The United States is trading 65,000 tons of premium gasoline to Germany for 25,000 tons of benzol. Benzol is a light oil obtained as a by-product when coal is cooked down to coke. It is in [illegible] used in making synthetic rubber. The trade was completed Friday.

Deny Rifle Caused Crash

HAMILTON, July 14—(CP)—A Department of Transport Inspector Friday night denied reports that the investigators probing Thursday's fatal plane crash [illegible] an exploding rifle in the craft as the cause.

The report had said that officials at the scene thought a shattered .22 calibre rifle found at the scene of the crash, which took the lives of three Pennsylvania sportsmen, may have exploded in the luggage compartment.

Inspector Arthur Empey branded the report as "false all the way through."

A Provincial Police officer said today that the rifle had definitely not been discharged.

Two investigators from the United States Civil Aeronautics Bureau also examined the wreckage.

Says Oil Dispute US Problem Too

TEHRAN, Iran, July 14 (Reuters).—The British-Iranian oil dispute is just as much as a problem for the United States as for Britain, Dr. Henry F. Grady, United States ambassador here, told a press conference today.

"There is no question of the appropriateness of our trying to find an answer," he said. "There is no time for niceties when the house has burned down to the first floor."

Grady said there was "no limitation" to the scope of the discussions to be undertaken here by President Truman's personal representative, Averell Harriman, who is due to arrive here by air from Washington Sunday.

He indicated that in addition to talking on the dispute over Iran's decision to nationalize the country's oil, Harriman might also talk about Iranian economic difficulties generally.

Grady said that in about twelve conversations with Iranian Prime Minister Mohammed Mossadegh he had found the premier "courteous but firm."

Firms Feel Pinch In Kitchener Area

KITCHENER, July 14—(CP)—Hundreds of Twin City workers are on short hours or taking extended vacations. Industry heads view the situation as a temporary condition resulting from several causes.

Cited as factors are credit controls, material shortages, increased excise taxes and overloaded retail inventories. The latter looms largest in the present picture, spokesmen for many of the affected industries indicated.

Without exception plant heads said they feel the situation will right itself shortly. Placing of fall orders in many industries is expected to speed up activity.

TORONTO, July 14 (CP)—Mrs. Francis J. Davis, whose husband was formerly master of various Canadian Pacific steamships on the Great Lakes, died Thursday. She lived in Port McNicol prior to her husband's retirement 12 years ago.

Arizona Would Like Order Surplus Water From Kansas

PHOENIX, Ariz., July 14 (AP) —"We not only ain't had any rain, we ain't even had a cloud."

Just like that, a Utah stockman tells why you'll find it harder to get beef steak, mutton chops . . and rice pudding.

Drought poises over two sections of the southwestern United States.

In an area as big as the Atlantic seaboard, hot, dry days are burning cattle and sheep country in Arizona, most of New Mexico, southern Utah and southern Colorado.

Skipping a belt in the high plains of eastern New Mexico and west Texas, the drought dips into the rice and cotton country of Texas and Louisiana.

Stockmen talk of ruin if they must sell their animals for lack of range feed.

Arizona alone places its loss thus far at $25,000,000.

The impact is so great in other States, officials haven't tried to make loss estimates.

A firecracker-like chain of 250 forest fires has burned nearly 110,000 acres in Arizona and New Mexico.

Over the region, multi-million dollar irrigation projects are almost dry from the two-year dearth of rain and snow. Last winter there was almost no snow on the high peaks, fountainheads of the now dusty rivers.

On the eastern edge of Navajo reservation Indian families can get only one pail of water a day for both drinking and washing. Their springs are drying up.

Get Fresh Evidence For Pacific Institute

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP)—Senate internal security investigators said today that five hours of secret testimony by Owen Lattimore gave them "fresh evidence" regarding activities of the Institute of Pacific Relations.

Lattimore, Far Eastern affairs authority, told reporters that might be so. But he added the inquiry paned had turned up "absolutely nothing" to cause him any worry.

Lattimore, a professor at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, has served occasionally as a consultant to the State Department.

The Senate's security submittee spent Friday questioning Lattimore about his association with the Institute of Pacific Relations. He is a trustee of the organization and was editor of its magazine, "Pacific Affairs," from 1936 to 1941.

UNITED NATIONS PEACE CAMP, Korea — (Reuters).—The United Nations cease-fire convoy, including 20 Allied reporters, were ordered tonight to be ready for possible departure for Kaesong at 7 a.m. Sunday (9 p.m. EDT Saturday).

Ukraine "Sees" Mistakes In Red Educational Work

MOSCOW, July 14—(CP)—The central committee of the Communist party in the Ukraine the field of ideological educational nizing its own serious mistakes in has come out with a decree recogwork. The decree also attacks bitterly the manifestations of Bourgeois nationalism in Ukrainian art and among the intelligentsia of that area.

Meanwhile, Ukrainian press reports indicate that a big movement is in full swing throughout that region, on the Soviet Union's western frontier, to root out manifestations of nationalism in art and literature. The movement was set afoot by two articles which Pravda published.

The Pravda articles appeared after a festival Ukrainian art which took place in Moscow. The Moscow theatres were given over to Ukrainian productions and the museums were filled with Ukrainian exhibits. There were various conferences on Ukrainian art, drama and literature.

One of these articles attacked the Libretto of the opera Bogdan Khmelnitsky written by Wanda Wasilewska and her husband, Alexander Korneichuk, former Ukrainian foreign minister.

Pravda condemned the Libretto for distortions.

An unsigned editorial in Pravda attacked the verses of the famous Ukrainian poet V. Sosyura which were first published seven years ago. The editorial said that the verses—"Love the Ukraine"—did not distinguish between the old oppressed Ukraine and contemporary Socialist Ukraine, and could have been written by any enemy of the Ukrainian people.

Pravda drew the broad conclusion htat there were serious mistakes and faults in the ideological-educational work of the central committee of the Communist party in the Ukraine. This criticism is being taken most seriously in the Ukraine.

Cool Weather Eases BC Forest Fire Threat

VICTORIA, B.C., July 14—(CP)—Cooler weather today slightly eased the jittery forest fire situation in British Columbia.

About 550 forestry men and loggers are fighting 57 fires scattered through the province's woodlands. All but a few are under control and there is no blaze that approached the size of early-July's 20,000-acre fire near Campbell River on Vancouver Island.

King Billy Heads Parade, Nabs Greasy Pig

Flanked by two Union Jacks, William III, Prince of Orange and King of England, led his men through the pouring rain of Bancroft, as resolutely as the original King Billy led his men during the famous campaign in Northern Ireland.

Although the Orangemen were celebrating the 261st anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne, the weather and terrain were more like that of the Netherlands in the days when William won a reputation for patience before he came to England to be the successor to James II. And mounted on a white charger, wearing a scarlet coat and plumed cavalier's hat, King William, Eward Wanamaker of Bancroft, seemed to be invulnerable to the weather.

Following him were the lodges of Hastings county, all there in white and blue and gold and orange, marching in a sprightly manner to the music of a band from Frankford, another from New Carlow, a sound truck from Tweed and numerous fifes, drums and mouth organs.

These were enthusiastic musicians, for they were fifting and drumming as their trucks and buses rolled into the village, as they walked to the assembly point, as others played softball and baseball and as their vehicles left town at the end of the day. Whenever somebody tired, volunteer musicians from the crowd eagerly carried on.

The kids were in the parade. So were their grandfathers and grandmothers. Even a pet was there, for one Belleville lodge brought along a tiny goat. Many of the less hardy type rode in cars at the back of the marchers.

When they reached the high school grounds somebody decided that a shower was a shower, but this rain was getting to be a bit annoying. Orders were given to march to the rena to hear the speakers, Reeve Theodore Tyron of Bancroft; R.W. Brother H. A. Graham, Field Secretary of the Grand Lodge, Ontario East; and W.M. Jewel Bentley of Belleville lodge.

During the morning there were swimming and foot races for the children. The afternoon brought forth a softball game for the girls and a baseball game for the men. Of course there was the special attraction, catching the greasy pig. The victor was Ewart Wannamaker, King William in the parade. Evening was the time for the young and the not so young to unite and bring the season's largest dance crowd to the community hall.

But the greatest and most popular recreation of the day was visiting. As one strolled through the grounds one could see people shaking hands everywhere, and on dozens of porches on any street the same scenes were being enacted. Practically every farm, sawmill and construction job was closed for the day and the village was really packed.

One octogenarian expressed the spirit of the gathering when he was heard to say "We've been celebrating this day officially since 1798, and unofficially since 1690, and we've never yet been stopped by rain."

By 3.30 the sun was shining, and the program of outdoor sports and games proceeded for the remainder of the afternoon.

ROWBOATS WERE THE VOGUE in dozens of flood-isolated cities and towns of Kansas recently as the worst disaster in the state's history drove more than 60,000 persons from their homes. Weeks of heavy rains have sent streams and rivers bursting and overflowing dikes, turning the area into a huge lake. In Manhattan, Kas., where the photo above was taken, martial law has been declared. The water there is 15 feet deep in the heart of the business district. Office workers were evacuated from downtown buildings by rowboat as dike breaks sent the swirling waters rising to record heights.

Three People Killed At Stockholm Airport

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, July 14 (Reuters).—Three persons were killed and three others severely injured when a Lockheed Hudson plane crashed at Bromma Airport here today.

Eyewitnesses said one of the two motors stopped about 15 seconds after the plane took off.

It crashed to the ground from about 150 feet and caught fire.

The plane, used for flying Stockholm newspapers to the provinces, had started for Joenkoeping, southwest of Stockholm, with six passengers aboard.

Threaten To Strike

DETROIT, July 14 (AP)—The United Auto Workers (CIO) threatened Friday to strike "any or all" Chrysler Corporation plants where it contends there has been a recent "speed-up" of workers. Norman Matthews, the UAW national Chrysler director, said officials of "many" Chrysler plants have been attempting to get productivity increases out of extra effort by workers instead of through technological advances.

Broadcast From Korea

TORONTO, July 14 (CP) — Transcriptions of voices of Canadian troops both in and out of action in Korea will be broadcast Sunday at 6 p.m. EDT on the CBC trans-Canada network. CBC officials said the broadcast will include an air attack in support of Canadian troops. Brig. J. R. Rockingham will describe the action.

Tuna Boat Burns

SAN DIEGO, Calif., July 14 — (AP)—The tuna clipper Countess grounded on a reef and burned 20 0miles south of here Friday. As flames spread over the 112-foot craft, valued at [illegible] crew of 12 fled in a small boat. They later were reported safe.

Continue Protection

OTTAWA, July 14 (CP)—Protection for Canadian manufacturers against cheap Japanese goods will be continued under the draft peace treaty with Japan, officials said Friday. Dumping duties are put on to protect Canadian goods against imports selling in this country at less than they sell in the country of manufacture.

Danger of Indian Famine No Longer Ottawa Problem

OTTAWA, July 14. (CP)—The Indian famine has quietly passed away as a major Government problem. Only a month ago it was bringing frequent calls in Parliament for Government action. One Opposition member requested that Canada make a $100,000,000 gift for famine relief. The Government said at that time it was "exploring every avenue."

Now the crisis period has pretty well passed without any special help from Canada beyond the 300,000 tons of wheat India bought commercially here last fall.

The Canadian government twice offered, additionally, to provide low-grade wheat—all there was available—and India turned it down.

The government also considered sending dried milk and other specialized foods. It rejected the idea itself on the grounds it wouldn't be needed and because India's harbors already were overtaxed.

Current reports here are that the crisis has pretty well passed in the threatened areas. It came this month. Famine didn't materialize because grains and other oods were rushed in.

Can't Handle It

Food now is pouring into India at a faster rate than the harbors can handle. The U.S. is shipping 2,000,000 tons of wheat on a loan basis after weeks of argument in Congress.

India herself is hoping for a good crop in September.

The threat of future famines hangs heavily over the country and New Delhi plans to tackle that menace in two ways. The short-range aim is to build up food reserves. The long-range aim is to increase India's own ability to produce food through irrigation and hydro-electric projects.

That is the background for discussions that have been going on between India and Canadian officials.

The expectation here is that India will at least duplicate and quite possibly surpass last year's order for 300,000 tons of top-grade wheat once Canada's new crop is ready in a couple of months.

Dangerous Drivers

TORONTO, July 14 (CP) — There is good reason to run for cover from a car driven by a teenager says L. J. Flora, general underwriting manager of the Lumbermen's Mutual Casualty Company. He told a driver education class at the University of Toronto's summer school Friday that 93 of every 1,000 drivers in the 18-24 age group had accidents in Ontario last year, while only 43 of every 1,000 older drivers had mishaps.

Cheese, Produce And Livestock

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, July 14 — CP) — Produce prices quoted on the spot market here today were unchanged.

HOG PRICES

TORONTO, July 14. (CP)—Hog prices were unchanged from yesterday's price of $38.50 for truck hogs at Stratford today. Other markets were unreported.

TORONTO FRUIT

TORONTO, July 14 — (CP) — Wholesale fruit and vegetable prices were unchanged here today with these exceptions: Hothouse tomatoes, No. 1, pound, 30 cents; beans, round, 6-qt. 65-75 cents, 11-qt. $1.25, flat, 11-qt., 50-75 cents; Leamington tomatoes, No. 1, 11-15, $2.75-$3.50.

Potato prices were unchanged.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, July 14 (CP) — A lower trend on United States markets prompted selling in all commodities on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange Friday, and prices moved to lower levels. Dealings were dull throughout most of the session, but picked up toward the close.

Export loadings of wheat included 370,000 bushels to Italy and 350,000 to the United Kingdom.

Prices for IWA and Class 2 wheat were up one-quarter cent.

Fire Destroys Payroll

TORONTO, July 14 (CP) — Merina Matthews, bookkeeper for an automobile wrecking firm, Friday tucked $676 in payroll cash into a favorite hiding-place—a paper-filled wastebasket. When she went to make up the pay envelopes, the basket was empty. Too late, she found that a conscientious janitor had emptied the basket and burned its contents, including the rolls of bills.

ARRIVAL OF THE LAW, in the person of a motorcycle policeman, washed up the fun of these youngsters in London's suburban Hampstead. The public fountain and cattle trough became the toddlers' private "swimming hole" until the law laid bare the facts about nudism in public places.

Introduce New Phone System

MONTRTAL, July 14 (CP). — The Bell Telephone Company of Canada Friday announced that, for the first time in Canada, a new type of voice carrier system has been placed in service—between Montreal and Ste. Agathe, Que., a distance of about 70 miles.

The new system can carry 12 high-quality telephone circuits simultaneously in both directions on only two pair of wires. Voice carrier systems previously in use required two cables, one for each direction.

Because of this new development, the announcement said low-cost inter-city circuits on a number of heavily-loaded routes over comparatively short distances will be possible in the company's Quebec-Ontario territory.

Another advantage of the new system is that its terminal equipment occupies less than one-fifth of the space needed for previous voice carrier systems.

"In effect," the announcement said, "the latest development in carrier systems by Bell engineers allow 12 conversations to take place at one time over the same circuit without interference."

ance of safety of delegates of both parties during the negotiations.

"3. The UN correspondents' problem which caused interruption of the negotiations had nothing to do with the neutrality problem.

"4. The liaison officers who attended the preliminary conference did not have the power to discuss decisive issues like the neutrality problem. The correspondents problem which caused interruption of the negotiations is just a tiny matter.

Inappropriate Move

"5. So it is not a problem that is crucial enough to cause interruption or rupture of the negotiations. American delegates had taken up this matter at the conference. But the negotiations so far made little headway. Even the schedule has not been worked out. Therefore we consider it inappropriate to let foreign correspondents come to Kaesong.

"6. We hold a firm stand that all issues should be based upon discussions. Therefore, your one-sided demand is not justifiable. In order to prevent this tiny problem from causing rupture of the negotiations we agree to your proposal to admit not more than 20 foreign correspondents as members accompanying delegates. We have instructed our delegates to offer all facilities necessary to you."

Ridgway and the UN cease-fire delegates were at the Allied "peace camp" in Munsan. US Army officers said their first word of the Pyongyang broadcast came from Tokyo, although Army monitors have been tuned since Friday afternoon to Pyongyang and Peiping radio wave lengths awaiting a reply.

Not Direct Acceptance

The Red broadcast was conciliatory but avoided a direct acceptance of any of Ridgway's demands.

Observers first reactions were hopeful that talks could be resumed soon.

The UN commander had sent the Red chieftains a series of flat demands. His message indicated no intent of negotiation or compromise, although he may have had that in mind.

He messaged them:

"The assurances which I require—include as primary prerequisites the establishment of an agreed conference area of suitable extent completely free of armed personnel of either side. Each delegation must have complete recriprocity of treatment to include complete and equal freedom of movement to, from and within the agreed conference area and complete and equal freedom at all times in the selection of the personnel in its delegation party to include representatives of the press."

He made three more proposals to implement this — a five-mile neutral zone, guard-free roads, a 150 limit on size of delegations. Then he said:

Must Accept For Parley

"If you agree to these proposals the present recess can be terminated and the conference resumed without delay and with some expectation of progress."

From the Communist reply as reported by Tokyo, it will take further negotiations to bring the parties into agreement.

Most striking differences of the two viewpoints appeared to be regarding press delegations. The United Nations position was that they should be accepted without question as personnel of the UN commander on the theory Ridgway can name anyone he wants.

The Reds have insisted all along that the opposing sides should first negotiate on when newspapermen were to be admitted. The broadcast conceded, in effect, "OK, send them along as part of your delegation but we don't like it."

The Red suggestion to set up a joint committee to discuss "measures for maintenance of guards and assurance of safety of delegates" opened the way to get armed Communists off the highway UN representatives drove from their peace camp to Kaesong and to eliminate the Red checkpoint where Red guards determined who should pass.

It was at this check-point, nine miles from Kaesong, that Communists refused to let 20 newspaper men go along with the convoy on Thursday, thus precipitating the crisis.

Guards were posted by the Communists along the highway and in Kaesong itself without consulting the UN.

Full acceptances of Ridgway's demands would put both delegations on a completely even footing, and remove talk of the Reds playing "host."

As the UN allies had waited throughout Friday night and Saturday for the Communist reply, one allied authority said:

"We are going to find out whether the Communists really wanted an armistice."

Waited Through Day

The five-man UN armistice delegation waited at the advanced peace camp throughout the day, ready to move as soon as the Reds agreed to the conditions.

Lt.-Gen. James A. Van Fleet, commander of the US Eighth Army, paid a surprise visit to the delegation at lunch time. The subject of the discussions was not announced.

Fighters and bombers stepped up their support of Van Fleet's powerful ground forces. They stung Communists with 680 sorties, smashing heavily at transport lines which could bring new troops and supplies to the front.

One American bomber was credited with destroying or damaging 68 Red vehicles in a single strike Friday night.

An Eighth Army officer said that if the Reds are at full strength on the west central front they have 200,000 to 220,000 troops. The west-central front starts about 25 miles northeast of Kaesong, where armistice talks were held Tuesday and Wednesday.

Little Action

Action all along the front was quiet as allies waited for a reply to Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's terms for resuming cease-fire negotiations.

Armistice talks were interrupted even before delegates had agreed upon what they would talk about, said Lt.-Gen. Sir Horace Robertson, commander-in-chief of the British Commonwealth forces in Korea.

Robertson, who was at the UN peace camp in Munsan, predicted talks would be resumed. He thought Communist commands would make minor counter-proposals to Ridgway's demand, but would accept his request for complete neutralization of the conference area.

Conditions imposed on UN delegates in Kaesong, Robertson said, were such that "progress was impossible."

The talks were suspended by the UN Allies Thursday after Red armed guards below Kaesong stopped a UN motor convoy and refused to pass 20 selected correspondents. Vice-Admiral C. Turner Joy notified the Communists the cease-fire team would return to Kaesong if the Reds lifted the press ban.

AMERICAN MONEY built this copper and gold refinery in Northern Quebec, where these workers are going off shift.

American Money Invested In Canada Expands Industry

By JAMES MONTAGNES

TORONTO (NEA) — Judging by the record-breaking increases in capital investment by United States interests, American business has a bright future in Canada. More American capital has flowed to Canada in the post-war years than ever before.

Based on various official government figures, it is estimated that early in 1951 U.S. capital had a stake of $6,750,000,000 in Canada, out of a total foreign investment of $8,750,000,000. The bulk of the balance is owned by British and European interests.

While Canada has become an important industrial nation with a living standard only second to that of the United States, it still has a small population and vast undeveloped natural resources.

Official Figures

Official government figure are not always up-to-date, but latest statistics show that 1097 manufacturing companies were controlled by United States capital in 1948. Of these there were 104 mining developments, 117 utilities, 422 merchandising enterprises, and 263 financial institutions. There are more than 2,200 Canadian companies which are controlled in the United States, and of these nearly 40 have an investment value of over $10,000,000 each.

The variety of recently formed Canadian subsidiary companies of American industries is great.

A large glass manufacturer bought a war surplus factory near Toronto to make oven ware, which had never before been made in Canada. Seven American automobile manufacturers have plants in Canada, in addition to a number of truck trailer and bus manufacturers.

One aircraft factory has been established by Americans in a government aircraft plant built during World War II, and now makes four-engined transports and jet fighters.

Pulp Plants

A number of new American-owned pulp and paper companies have built entire new mills and towns since 1945 in northern Ontario, north of Lake Superior.

There are post-war American-capitalized factories making everything from pens to chemicals, and including such items as canned foods, hats, electric batteries, scientific instruments, photographic materials, diesel-electric locomotives, records and radio transcriptions, and television receivers.

American capital in post-war years has also gone into new mining developments of all kinds, especially base metals of strategic importance, such as the huge Labrador-Quebec iron ore development.

New oil developments in Alberta and Saskatchewan, in the Canadian west, have been largely financed by American oil producers, as have been oil and gas pipelines now under construction or just completed.

Bandit Gave Police Tip-off

TORONTO, July 14—(CP)—An underworld tip-off led to a police trap in which one bandit was killed and two others seriously wounded, a Toronto detective said Friday.

Detective Albert Bunn said the police informant was Orvald Fleming, 22, one of three men shot down by police when they attempted to rob a North Toronto Dairy April 14.

The detective testified at the opening of Fleming's trial. Fleming and Douglas Odam, 28, were jointly charged with attempted armed robbery, shooting with intent to kill, car theft and theft of licence plates.

Fleming was sentenced to two years when he was convicted of car theft. The other charges were dropped.

Odam is still in hospital, unfit to stand trial. He was shot in the spine during the gun duel with police and now is a paraplegic. Fleming spent three weeks in hospital from bullet wounds.

A third bandit, John David Hunter, 30, died of bullet wounds.

Bunn testified that Fleming told him of a robbery which he and the two others planned for the night of April 14.

Recall Thompson To Handle Tour

OTTAWA, July 14 — (CP) — Walter Scott Thompson, CBE, one of Canada's best-known and best-liked publicity men, has been called out of retirement to handle press, radio and picture relations for the forthcoming Canadian tour of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh.

The former director of public relations for the Canadian National Railways, who retired Oct. 22 last when he reached 65, now is holidaying in London with Mrs. Thompson.

Announcement of the appointment came Friday from Charles Stein, Under-Secretary of State and chairman of the committee making tour arrangements. The royal couple is expected to arrive in Canada early in October for a three-week cross-country tour.

For 36 years, with time out for special assignments such as handling press arrangements for the 1939 royal tour, conducting other royalty and high dignitaries through Canada, and doing a wartime public relations job for the federal government, Mr. Thompson was with the railways which grew into the Canadian national system, making his home in Montreal.

The terse announcement from the arrangements committee simply said Mr. Thompson had been appointed "to take charge of all matters relating to press, radio, photographs and other information questions associated with the visit."

Dikes Break

A break in dikes protecting the rich Fairfax industrial district in Kansas City, Kas., occurred early today. Industries in the area are valued in excess of $100,000,000.

Virtually all the industrial employees were evacuated shortly before the flood waters moved in.

At Kansas City's municipal airport, beside the Missouri river, workmen sought to close a washout in a protecting dike by dumping abandoned automobiles and blocks of concrete into it. Planes and employees at the airport were evacuated Friday night to Grandview, Mo., airport, 10 miles south of Kansas City.

In eastern and central Kansas where some communities have been battling floods for a month, high waters swept into new areas.

Canadians Rush Consulate For US Visas

WINDSOR, July 14— (CP). — Better wages in the United States are attracting South-western Ontario residents across the border in such numbers that officials in the US Consulate are snowed under with work, forcing a would-be emigrant from Canada to wait about two months for a visa, Robert J. Cavanaugh, US Internal Security Act which was passed last October.

Where a person was born does not concern the consulate too much, but what he did in his country of origin, or countries lived in since is of vital concern to the government.

For instance, with the exception of diplomats, a Communist is automatically barred from getting into the States. On the other hand a person who was born in Russia or has lived there, either before or after the Russian revolution in 1917, is not necessarily prohibited from entering. A person of Russian origin or of Russian domicile who has no use for Communism is welcome in the United States.

Mr. Cavanaugh said Friday his consulate in Windsor has issued 2,241 immigration visas in the first six months of this year, compared with 1,461 in the comparable period of 1950.

In the last three months, he said, the consulate has had 2,521 applications for visas from residents in the area it serves. The consulate accepts applications for United States entry from those living in the counties of Essex, Kent, Elgin, Middlesex and Lambton.

Mr. Cavanaugh said most of the applications have come from Canadians, the balance being from those living in Canada who have not become Canadians.

Alberta Court Has Test Case On Crime Comics

CALGARY, July 14—(CP)—The Alberta Attorney-General's Department came under fire in police court here Friday as the Crown opened a test case under crime-comics legislation passed at the last session of parliament.

The accused, Joseph Busheikin and Morris Shapiro, Calgary magazine distrbutors, chose preliminary hearing before Magistrate G. H. Rose. The Magistrate reserved decision for one week.

Defence Counsel S. J. Helman produced a letter from the Deputy Attorney-General to Busheikin and Shapiro, operating as Alberta News Ltd. It said the Department did not intend to prosecute to circulate offending material "after having received a warning to have it eliminated.

But, said Mr. Helman, his clients had been given no warning against selling the magazine "Underworld Detective," or scores of other magazines.

Crown Prosecutor M. H. Staples said he had no knowledge of the correspondence. The police had acted on complaints received from the Customs office.

Magazines Returned

Detective Ken Barr testified he learned at the Customs Office that hundreds of copies of the magazine were coming into Calgary from the United States. When he visited Alberta News Ltd. he found 350 copies of the publication. These were taken to headquarters, examined, and returned except for three copies.

Detective Barr said the magazine depicted crime and violence.

Mr. Helman contended that "Underworld Detective" does not come under the Criminal Code Amendment. Children would not be subjected to this magazine.

With a laugh, he added: "The biggest purchasers are police."

Some stories in the magazine were entitled "A Week To Live," "Furlong For Death," "I Killed My Father," and "Blood Corpse in the Kitchen."

"It is quite apparent the police had no knowledge of the Department's actions, but no doubt there will be collaboration on future publications between the two," said Magistrate Rose.

Newsprint Men Object to Special Price

QUEBEC, July 14 (CP). — Premier Duplessis said Friday his government's view of special newsprint price consideration for Quebec newspapers brought objection from the province's newsprint makers.

He said the government was studying the objection based "on certain complications and difficulties of a diplomatic rather than a financial nature. . ." He did not elaborate.

The Premier also announced the Quebec Legislature will meet next fall to study legislation governing the province's 50 per cent share in a federal-provincial old age pensions plan for needy persons of 65 to 69.

The Premier indicated the session, starting after the October visit of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, will be the last before provincial elections are called.

Remains Unchanged

Premier Duplessis said his government's wish for a newsprint price-cut for Quebec newspapers remained unchanged after learning of the newsprint makers' objection during a meeting last Wednesday.

The Premier called the meeting with representatives from 12 Quebec newsprint companies after Quebec daily and weekly newspapers asked his government two weeks ago to study a memorandum explaining a July 1 increase of $10 a ton for newsprint put them in a difficult situation.

Price of newsprint now is $112 a ton in Canada, exclusive of a 10 per cent sales tax.

Premier Duplessis said the industry's representatives "showed a desire for co-operation and understanding."

The Premier last month hinted that the government might consider some form of newsprint control if the manufacturers did not agree to a price-cut in Quebec.

The Premier said he told the newsprint makers that the government's view is that "our forest resources should first of all, and most of all, benefit the people of the province and its institutions among which are the newspapers.

Indication that the coming fourth session would be the last of the 23rd Quebec Legislature came when the Premier renewed his offer to hold an unopposed by-election in favor of Georges Lapalme, provincial Liberal leader.

Asian Technicians Come To Study Canadian Ways

OTTAWA, July 14 (CP)—The first technicians coming to Canada for training under the Colombo plan will arrive here Monday, the External Affairs Department said Friday night.

They are coming from Pakistan to familiarize themselves with Canadian agricultural facilities and farming methods.

They will receive training in this country under the technical co-operation program of the Colombo plan, which is a large-scale Commonwealth scheme for the economic development of the countries of South and Southeast Asia.

The technicians, members from Pakistan of an agricultural mission nominated by Pakistan and India, are Dr. K. A. Rehman, director of agriculture, Punjab; A. M. Sial, of the ministry of agriculture and education of the State of Khaipur; and Dr. S. Hidyatullah, director of agriculture, East Bengal.

They will study the training obtainable in this country, the availability of technicians to assist in training agricultural students in Pakistan, and farming equipment designed and manufactured in Canada.

Indian members of this agricultural mission are expected to arrive about the end of this month. They are M. Kanti Raj, deputy director of agriculture for Madras and Dr. J. K. Dubey, director of agriculture for Bhepal.

To Come Later

Two other missions, one concerned with road construction and bridge erection and the other with hydro-electric development, will arrive in Canada later in the summer. They will include specialists and senior government officials from India, Pakistan and Ceylon.

Also due here about the end of July are the first seven nominees to take advantage of the Canadian Government's offer of instruction in Canada under the scholarship and fellowship program for students and government officials from South and Southeast Asia.

They constitute the advance party of some 60 scholars and fellows coming to Canada during the next two months to study railway operation, various branches of medical science, the national insurance program, farm and soil mechanics, marketing methods, gelogy, factory management, hydro-electric development, land settlement and town planning.

Instruction will be given in goverment departments, universities and industry.

Union Sponsors 9 Newspapers

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP)—The International Typographical Union announced Friday night it will sponsor nine new daily newspapers, with four expected to get going this month.

The papers are to be published in Allentown, Pa., Monroe, La., Texarkana, Ark., Springfield, Mo., Meriden, Conn., Lorain, O., Huntington, Beckley, and Charleston, W.Va.

An organization known as the News Newspaper Service has been set up to supervise the operation of the papers.

This organization said in a statement:

"The papers have been created to provide competition in communities where newspaper monopolies exist and to insure maintenance of union working conditions."

Each paper will be known as the Daily News-Digest and will be supplied with its news report from the Washington office of the New Newspaper Service.

Each paper will be tabloid size.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., July 14 (CP)—The body of a man about 38 years old was recovered Friday from the Niagara River at the Maid of the Mist landing, not far from the falls. He was six feet tall and weighed 180 pounds. The body has not been identified.

Couple To Celebrate 60th Anniversary

LINDSAY, July 14 — Mr. and Mrs. George Heaslip, Janetville, will celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary Sunday.

The couple were married in Lindsay July 15, 1890, by the Rev. G. M. Campbell.

Mrs. Heaslip is the former Teresa McGill, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James McGill, Burton.

Mr. and Mrs. Heaslip nearly all their lives lived in Manvers township and their family also lives in that area. A son, George, and a daughter, Mrs. Robert Wright (Alberta) live in Yelverton.

Mr. Heaslip has been a member of the Manvers township council for a number of years and was deputy-reeve for two terms and reeve for a similar period.

Charge Youth Shot At 9-Year-Old Boy

NEWMARKET, July 14—(CP)—Jack Smith, 19, was accused in court of shooting at a nine-year-old boy with a shotgun shell loaded with beans.

He said he was trying to scare off a gang of boys disturbing his aunt's house and warden. One boy suffered seven wounds.

Friday deferred sentence for a week on the assault charge against the youth to give him time to complete his final examination for the Navy.

Magistrate O. S. Hollinrake said: "When he gets in the Navy, he'll get his fill of guns and real bullets," said Smith's lawyer, Joseph Dales.

"And lots of beans," added Crown Counsel Arleigh Armstrong.

Say Enemy Casualties 1,202,938 In Korea

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP)—The Army Friday raisedf its estimate of enemy casualties in Korea to 1,202,928 — an increase of 11,506 since its last estimate was issued nine days ago.

The figure covers the period from the beginning of the fighting through July 4, before the cease-fire negotiations were started with a resulting lull in fighting.

Of the total, 827,737 were battle casualties, an increase of 8,788.

Prisoners totalled 163,473, an increase of 343.

Non-battle casualties were estimated at 166,718, an increase of 2,375.

Grain Dealer Dies

NAPANEE, July 14 — (CP) — Archie T. Turnbull, a hay and grain dealer in Napanee several years ago, died at his home here Friday night after a lengthy illness. Surviving is his widow, formerly Merle Mills, a son, Robert, in Napanee, a daughter, Clara, Mrs. Norman Hinton, Kingston, and a sister, Mrs. Paul Berry, at Capreol.

More Planes Than Pilots

DESERONTO, July 14—(CP)—Planes at the RCAF summer training camp here outnumber reserve pilots on hand for a refresher course. Technicians work from dawn to dusk to service 15 Mustang fighters, 10 Vampire jets and 16 Harvard trainers, which RCAF officials say is probably the biggest fleet of reserve aircraft ever assembled on one field.

Invitation To Churchill

CHURCHILL, Man., July 14—(CP)—An invitation for Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh to visit this Hudson Bay port during their Canadian tour will be sent to Governor-General Viscount Alexander by the Chamber of Commerce. Churchill is about 600 miles north of Winnipeg.

Approve Faculty

CHICAGO, July 14 (CP)—The Faculty of Medicine of the University of Ottawa has been approved by the council on medical education and hospitals of the American Medication Association, it was announced Friday.

EAGER PASSENGER—Bambi, a bottle-fed orphan, is a favorite pet of No. 418 "City of Edmonton" RCAF Reserve Squadron, and especially of Ft. Lt. Tom Harvey of (10742 97th Ave.) Edmonton. The fawn was found at Tofino, Vancouver [illegible], probably by a mountain lion. Flt. Lt. Harvey took control and rigged up a box in the navigator's compartment of his aircraft for the animal.

Negotiations In Korea

To negotiate successfully requires a flexible attitude. It is understatement to say that there is not enough flexibility in the attempts to negotiate an armistice in Korea. If both parties come with their minds made up on all points, and, as must happen, their minds are made up differently, how can negotiation succeed? It cannot even take place. Although basic principles must not be compromised, the negotiators must be free to alter their first suggestions as the exploration towards settlement develops. It is easy to blame the Chinese as intransigents. But is the United States not equally immovable? It is a Western slogan now to label any concession or change in tack acceptable to the Reds as "appeasement." If neither side yields an inch in their stand how can they come closer together?

* * *

The United States and most of the Western World now believe in negotiating from circumstances of strength. The Quakers, who have had long and on the whole successful experience in negotiating on international peace planes have questioned this method in a new pamphlet "Steps to Peace: A Quaker View of U.S. Foreign Policy." They warn that "a philosophy of negotiating from strength is more likely to be admired in one's self than in others" and advise flexibility, openness of mind, privacy and persistence in negotiating. The difficulties in the Korea talks now arise from differing motives, and also from weaknesses in negotiating techniques. There is not enough flexibility and willingness to hear each other's points of view. There is not enough privacy. The U.N. delegation halted the talks because Chinese halted a truck-load of U.N. (chiefly American) reporters. Even Westerns may question whether forty reporters are necessary to the negotiations. Is there anything heinous about the Quaker technique of "open covenants secretly arrived at?" Finally, is there not too much insistence on both sides, too little persistence?

* * *

The basic principle that an armistice is desirable seems to be agreed on by both parties. That is why the talks were begun. From that basis, and with proper techniques of negotiation and less concern for face-saving, an armistice in Korea should be possible. The United States is so strong, and is in fact negotiating from immense strength, that no loss of face can diminish it.

Flowering Of A Myth

How many Canadians know that there flourishes in the city of Quebec a society for the study of the life and adventures of Sherlock Holmes called the Canadian Baskervilles? We say "the life and adventures of Sherlock Holmes," rather than "the Sherlock Holmes stories of Arthur Conan Doyle," because for hundreds of thousands of enthusiasts Holmes is less an author's creation than a historical person, to be studied as one might study Napoleon or Lincoln. And the Quebec Club is merely one of many which flourish on this continent and abroad. Sherlock Holmes is a reality to many people, and his emergence from literature into life is an astonishing instance of the tendency of mankind to create myths and to worship heroes.

Sherlock Holmes is unquestionably the greatest of fictional detectives. He was not the first; Edgar Allen Poe created Legrand and Dupin half a century before Holmes was thought of, and Wilkie Collins, in Sergeant Cuff, has introduced a successful and attractive detective into English fiction. Since Holmes, the detectives have been countless, and some of them—Sam Spade, Lord Peter Whimsey, Poirot—have been successful in winning large followings. But Holmes is master of them all, and his cult is still growing.

How much it is growing is shown by the fact that part of the Festival of Britain celebrations is a Holmes exhibition on the site of his famous lodgings at 221b Baker Street, in the Marylebone district of London. This exhibition includes much material relating to Conan Doyle, of course, but the heart of it is a wonderful reproduction of the living-room which Holmes shared with Dr. John Watson. This has been designed by Michael Weight, and it contains every object mentioned in the descriptions of Holmes' dwelling—his pipes, walking-sticks, his Inverness cape and deerstalker cap, his bottle of cocaine and his syringe, his Persian slipper full of tobacco, his cigars concealed in the coal scuttle, his violin, the bunch of skeleton keys lying in the butter dish, and the stack of unanswered letters, fastened to the mantel with a knife. At the window sits the bust of Holmes which the great detective used to deceive Colonel Moran in The Adventure of the Empty House, and from its shoulders hangs the famous grey dressing gown. The street noises to which Holmes was accustomed —the clatter of horses' hooves and the rumble of carriages—are heard from beyond the window. It is a masterly reconstruction. Hundreds of people visit it every day, and gaze at it with awe, as though it were indeed the dwelling of a great man.

If Sir Arthur Conan Doyle were alive today it is unlikely that he would be greatly pleased by this display, for he wearied of Holmes, and tried to kill him off quite early in his career. Doyle thought that his better writing was neglected in favour of the detective stories which he disliked. But it is not within a man's power to decide what work of his shall be most successful, and it is safe to say that for every reader of The White Company today there are a thousand readers of the Sherlock Holmes adventures.

Literary enthusiasms of this sort are not uncommon. Lovers of Jane Austen are a race apart, ready to discuss and argue about her novels interminably; the small but avid group who pore over Ulysses and Finnegans Wake can lose themselves in the labyrinth of James Joyce's imagination; the Trollopians are a formidable force. But no coterie of literary admirers rivals in numbers the enthusiastic followers of Sherlock Holmes. Which is odd, for his creator grew to hate him, and Holmes himself had the strongest dislike for publicity.

Reuters' Century

This week the great British news-gathering agency, Reuters, celebrates its hundredth birthday. Like every other newspaper of any standing in the English-speaking world, The Examiner is obliged to Reuters, either directly or indirectly, for a vast amount of material. Unless we are much mistaken, it was the first news-agency on the modern plan that the world has known, and it is still one of the best. Before Baron Paul Julius de Reuter set up his news agency in London, newspapers relied entirely upon their own correspondents and upon news-letters for their news from abroad; though some of the correspondents were brilliant and ingenious men, it was impossible for them at all times to obtain accurate information and to get it to their papers quickly. It was Reuter who established an interlocking system, and who made imaginative use of the newly discovered telegraph. He also, at times, used carrier pigeons with great success.

No one who is not connected with newspapers and professionally interested in them can be fully conscious of how much more rapid and accurate news transmission is now than it was a century, or half a century ago. There are inaccuracies and misunderstandings in modern news transmission, but they are trifling compared to what they used to be. It is a fact that you can now believe most of what you see in the papers. The greatest pains are taken to collect accurate news, and to disseminate it as fast as possible. Much of the credit for this modern movement, and for the smaller world which has resulted from it must go to Reuters, for it was the Reuter organization which first took up the battle against rumour and irresponsible news-mongering.

Who Is My Neighbour?

Big cities can be lonely and inhuman. People do not know or bother to know families in the next apartment or next house. The anonymity in big cities may give the blessing of privacy; it also can create a terrible callousness towards one's neighbours. In Washington on Wednesday a man was stabbed to death while pleading in vain for help from scores of onlookers. One man, asked why he had not intervened replied: "Would you have stopped him (the killer) with a knife in his hand?" Our answer is Yes. It is, we think, the answer most of our folk would give. We do not pretend to be braver than Washington people, but we think we have enough human decency to try to come to the aid of a fellow creature in mortal distress. The anonymous man-in-the-street is our neighbour at such times. We are not then an innocent bystander. We are the culpable neighbour, guilty of a great transgression against human nature, if we do not raise a finger to thwart a killer. This is a moral obligation which citizens in small cities recognize automatically, thank God. It is humanly impossible for us to pass by on the other side.

NOTE AND COMMENT

One of the great unfairnesses of life is that most of us have a dozen ways of spending money, but only one way of earning it.

A St. Louis woman recently hit her husband over the head with a club to stop him from drinking, which it did. Stopped his breathing, too.

Canadian chartered banks are asking permission to have a five-day week. Well, if they close Saturdays we won't be able to draw out until Monday the dollar we hopefully deposited Friday pay-day.

Gay Brief On Our Theatre

(A Precis by I.N.S., Ottawa Journal, of a Special Study prepared by the Editor of the Examiner at the behest of the Royal Commission on Arts, Letters and Sciences.)

IT IS always fun to see a man having fun. That's why Robertson Davies' "Brief" to the Massey Commission on the state of the theatre in Canada is such gay reading.

Most of us, if asked to submit a paper to a Royal Commission, would get stuffed heads and produce a ponderous tome. But not the bearded sage of the Peterborough Examiner. He cried hey nonny, and conjured up two characters — Trueman and Lovewit — and wrote for them a theatre-style dialogue.

Lovewit gives early hint of what's to come by declaring that when Canadian actors say that Canadians are indifferent to the theatre they delude themselves. The fact is, he says, that Canadians are indifferent to bad theatre.

To which Trueman says amen. "Sometimes we are a little provincial. But we are by no means stupid."

Lovewit and Trueman discuss rather proudly Canadian reception to good travelling theatre, but they sadly note that Gielgud lost money with Congreve's Love for Love. "Our Canadian education is so poor in quality that virtually no Canadian who is not a university graduate in English has ever heard of its author . . . There are great realms of drama closed to us for this reason alone. We are an illiterate people in this respect, and we fear the unknown as only the ignorant and the intellectually lazy can fear it."

✧ ✧ ✧

TRUEMAN sang loudly the praises of our amateur theatre and said that if such a theatre flourished as well proportionately in the U.S.A. news of the prodigy would circle the earth. The Dominion Drama Festival "is one of Canada's cultural glories, but Canada characteristically does not know it. The Dominion Government is indifferent to it, and hundreds of thousands of citizens either know nothing of it or are profoundly misinformed about it. It receives no penny from the public purse . . . I cannot think of any other country in the world where a comparable effort would be so persistently snubbed by the Government."

LOVEWIT: "Do not grow too heated, my dear fellow. It may be a blessing in disguise. The artist who is slighted by his Government is at least not under his Government's thumb".

✧ ✧ ✧

LOVEWIT tried to go on from there to suggest amateur theatre should be judged by the same standards as the professional. But Trueman cried out whoa, like this:

"When judging the work of amateurs who plainly are not the best, one must use one's common sense, and some measure of charity. Do not forget, Lovewit, that I am a Canadian playwright, and I have seen my plays acted by professionals, good amateurs and bad amateurs; if I had judged them all by the same standard I should not be here to collaborate with you now for I should have slain the bad amateurs and chopped them into messes before the astonished eyes of their friends and relatives. When one has said that they, too, are God's creatures one has said absolutely all that can be said in their defence."

✧ ✧ ✧

FROM there began discussion of the individual characteristics of Canadian amateur actors. The good were very good, but the bad were very bad. They were fearful of being robust and made a fetish of restraint. They reminded Trueman of Roy Campbell's comment on some South African novelists:

"You praise the firm restraint with which they write—
I'm with you there, of course:
They use the snaffle and the curb all right,
But where's the bloody horse?"

Lovewit—he should really have known better—ventured to remark that Canadian theatre was handicapped by lack of halls. Trueman fell upon him, shouting that if our theatre awaited well-found playhouses it would wait until the crack of doom. "For get this through your head, Master Lovewit—the theatre is not first a thing of bricks and mortar, but of players and playwrights." Trueman argued that our present theatres were not so bad that they couldn't be put into satisfactory conditions with some energy and ingenuity.

Then what about audiences? asked Lovewit. Trueman was curt: "More theatrical ventures are killed by their own lack of merit in a year than are killed by the neglect or malignity of the public in 10."

✧ ✧ ✧

AS MAY be expected, neither of these individualists thought much of a government-sponsored national theatre. The government could give help in a variety of indirect ways but to move into the theatre business would herald grief and repression, to say nothing of interference by members of parliament who didn't like the plays selected or the cut of an actress' dress or the length of an actor's hair.

LOVEWIT: "There may come a day when a Canadian theatrical company has unmistakenly earned the right to be called a National Theatre. By that time it will have its traditions, its method of work, its individual style, and its faithful and appreciative public. It the nation chooses to offer support to it, it can accept upon honourable terms ... it be allowed to know its own business better that the noble tribunes of the people. For although I am a democrat, Trueman, I do not believe that people who know nothing about the arts should be allowed to make life miserable for those who do."

TRUEMAN: "A National Theatre cannot be brought into being simply by the expenditure of public money. It must grow. Set up a National Theatre, and remove it from money anxieties by a state grant, and in 10 years it will have become a pension scheme for the artistically worn out, the incompetent and the faddists."

LOVEWIT: "Either that or a new playground for the professional do-gooders. Never forget those well meaning enemies of art. They are the people who will not allow the theatre to be its own justification. Let the people get their hands on it who regard it as means of spreading some sort of education dear to themselves, or who think that it is a social medicine, and you will kill it as dead as a doornail."

✧ ✧ ✧

AS often happens in real conversation, the two set out rather belatedly to define what they meant by a National Theatre. It was Trueman who pinned it down, after Lovewit first established agreement that the Canadian theatre should thoroughly learn its job before there is any talk of a National Theatre.

TRUEMAN: "To many people the words National Theatre mean a building, probably in Ottawa. Now unless such a building is a centre from which travelling companies go on tours through the length and breadth of Canada, it is foolish extravagance. A theatre is not a thing of bricks and mortar. If a djinn from the Arabian Nights were to whisk the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre from Stratford and set it down in Ottawa, with all its equipment, we would still be without a National Theatre. But if we can develop even one company, acting in a tent or in school halls, which can move Canadians to tears and laughter with the great plays of the past, and with great plays of the present (including perhaps a few of their own), we have the heart of a National Theatre."

✧ ✧ ✧

AND so on this agreeable and agreeably sensible note the two were about to move off to the village pub, but Lovewit stuck out his neck just once more (or rather Robertson Davies had him stick it out, for he's a poor playwright who can't write the best lines for himself) asking whether Canadian plays might interest people abroad.

"Lovewit you disgust me!" roared Trueman. "Is not the theatre of the civilized world interested in plays by and about Russians, Norwegians, Frenchmen, Swedes, Hungarians, Italians, Belgians and even—God bless us! Irishmen and Scotchmen! Are Canadians so cut off from the charity of God and the indulgence of mankind that they alone are of no interest to their fellow-beings? Take my word for it, if the plays are good enough, the world will like them."

An American View: CAUSE AND EFFECT

U.S. Footballers To Canada

(TIME MAGAZINE)

A STARTLING shift was under way in big-time professional football: U.S. players were crossing the border in growing numbers to play with Canadian teams. Cases in point last week:

Quarterback George Ratterman, star of the New York Yanks, popped up in Montreal to sign a contract with the Montreal Alouettes. Reputed salary: $20,000, or $7,000 more than the Yanks paid him. The New York club charged Ratterman with breach of contract, tried to block his transfer to the Alouettes with an injunction and a threat to sue for damages.

Tackle Dick Huffman of the Los Angeles Rams was fighting a court injunction to stop him from joining the Winnipeg Blue Bombers (at a reported $10,000 salary).

Centre Bill Blackburn was faced with a court order, granted to the Chicago Cardinals, that would prevent him from going to the Calgary Stampeders.

Canadian clubs have been offering big salaries to American stars, although home-grown talent gets an average salary of only $2,500 or so. U.S. players have proved to be superior gate attractions. Bidding for their talent is now so spirited that the eight senior Canadian clubs have set a limit of seven "imports" per team to avoid outbidding themselves into bankruptcy—and to assure Canadian players some kind of chance. To date, about 130 U.S. players have gone to Canada. Besides the high salaries, they like the Canadian system of night practice sessions, allowing them to settle into permanent, full-time jobs on the side. Ratterman, for example, hopes to earn $100 a week working for a Montreal brokerage firm. A lot of American imports denounce the U.S. National Football League's contract-option system as "peonage."

(The same cry was raised in 1946 when 18 U.S. baseball players, who dubbed themselves "peons," broke their contracts, went to Mexico for higher salaries. They were reinstated in 1949, some with big out-of-court cash settlements because baseball owners did not dare test their player "ownership" system in court.)

Pro football has had a spectacular post-war boom in Canada. Last season more than 1,000,000 Canadians crowded into the Dominion's comparatively small stadiums (the biggest, in Toronto, has 35,000 seats). The American players have added to the game's appeal with their flashy, wide-open playing. Canadians have become so fond of football that the annual Grey Cup playoff, between the western and eastern professional champions, now rivals the U.S. baseball World Series as a popular sports event.

'Rat Race'

(Hamilton Spectator)

Government is—even now—trying to make the fight against inflation look too easy. It has hit hard at some economic groups through taxes and credit restrictions, trumpeted loud hosannas about the efficiency of indirect controls.

Consumers might be pardoned for not being too impressed. The old rat race goes on—more money wages, higher food price subsidies, increasing "welfare" payments, reduced hours of work and political handouts. If some simple tap-turning by Ottawa will stop inflation, then some simple tap-turning must have started it. To suggest this would be unfair both to the Government and to the public.

Inflation has deep roots that won't give without personal and national sacrifices. To make the battle against it look too easy is to invite a bitter harvest. And the bitterest will be that of the pensioner.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And it was so, that when Solomon had made an end of praying all this prayer and supplication unto the Lord, he arose from before the altar of the Lord, from kneeling on his knees with his hands spread up to heaven. And he stood, and blessed all the congregation of Israel with a loud voice, saying, Blessed be the Lord, that hath given rest unto his people Israel, according to all that he promised: there hath not failed one word of all his good promise, which he promised by the hand of Moses his servant.

The Lord our God be with us, as he was with our fathers: let him not leave us, nor forsake us... And let these my words, wherewith I have made supplication before the Lord, be nigh unto the Lord our God day and night, that he maintain the cause of his servant, and the cause of his people Israel at all times, as the matter shall require: that all the people of the earth may know that the Lord is God, and that there is none else. (I Kings 8: 54-57, 59, 60.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And the seventh angel sounded; and there were great voices in heaven, saying, The kingdoms of this world are become the kingdoms of our Lord, and of his Christ; and he shall reign for ever and ever.

And the four and twenty elders, which sat before God on their seats, fell upon their faces, and worshipped God, saying, We give thee thanks, O Lord God Almighty, which art, and wast, and art to come; because thou hast taken to thee thy great power, and hast reigned. (Rev. 11: 15-17.)

This Beats Folk Dancing

(Montreal Star)

Sugar Ray Robinson's defeat this week at the hands of Randy Turpin was not one of the scheduled activities of the Festival of Britain. But it is doubtful if all the programs of British music, folk dancing and pageantry so thoughtfully worked out by the Festival's highbrow organizers will give a greater lift to the people of Britain than the mercenary activities of that low-brow boxing promoter, Mr. Jack Solomons.

Folk dancing is all right in its way but for a people disturbed by the appearance of American admirals off their shores there must be something very satisfying indeed in Randy cutting Ray's eye open and chasing him all round the ring.

20-Cent Fare Threat

(Windsor Star)

Threat of a 20-cent fare has Chicago street car riders aroused. But is this just a Chicago affair, or another sign of the times?

Chicago was one of the first cities, perhaps the first, to push its street transportation rate up to 15 cents. The charge seemed huge then, while fares still were 10 cents or less in many places. But a year or two brought a big change. The 15-cent fare became a reality in Boston and Detroit. We moved up to a 12-cent cash fare ourselves.

The proposed Chicago increase, therefore, will be interpreted by many as the shadow of a coming event; and the public resentment it is creating points up the risk involved for the transportation utility.

Fare increases have their own point of diminishing returns, and already it may have been reached.

TORCH OF LIBERTY, PERSIAN STYLE

Friend of mine who hands out bottles at the LCBO store was hopping mad the other morning. He had reason to be. A shorts-clad sun-goggled American lady visitor came up to him with a fist full of our coin of the realm, mostly in two-dollar bills.

"Where can I get this JAPANESE money exchanged?" she inquired.

My friend, a veteran of long overseas service, was livid. But he managed to control the oige to moidah and directed her to a bank.

This is one of the few unpleasant things tourists annoy us with. We Canadians try to be tolerant and good-natured with them since they are our guests but we should not have to grovel before them or grin politely as they slander our country's customs.

Now if we had those old four-dollar banknotes which were called in several years ago and the good old shinplaster, it really might be a bit confusing.

Our governmental agencies are continually harping on the theme of making our visitors feel that they are in a foreign land. Display the Jack. Develop Canadian food dishes. Restore and talk about our historical sites. All noble things, indeed. Our two-dollar bills have a foreign touch—to them—too, and would ask that they respect them. Heaven knows WE do; there are so few of them around these days.

Writers get no farther in describing the wild call of a loon as "wild demoniacal laughter," "eerie calls." If they would ever pay attention to their noises—especially this season of the year, duckling time—they would hear a truly looney language.

Was paddling down the Kawarthas with my family last Sunday night and passed several pairs with their chicks. When we came too close, the females put on their broken-wing act uttering wild insistent gabbling. Papa played an entirely different tune. Pairs of birds in the middle distance did a lot of "talking" to each other in a different key. Lone birds "calling for wind" produced the long drawn-out cries that ended in high note, held at some length. And when they were finally airborne, they beat overhead in the dark, chuckling softly. Looney tunes come in endless variety if you are listening for them.

Chief executive of the province, the Hon. Leslie M. Frost, Premier, is a fisherman of note and conservationist, too. Story has it that he snagged a 24-pound 'lunge at Pigeon Lake before the season opened. The fish showed strange looking cut marks about the head so the Chief handed it over to the conservation officer at 'Caygeon to forward to the department's biological laboratory.

APSLEY ROUNDUP: Twenty Junior Foresters under deputy-ranger Bill Everetts are under canvas at the south end of the village on Eel's Creek. Their big chore this summer is cutting out a phone line to the Methuen Fire Tower (Blue Mountain-Kosh area). A few cases of budding axemen cutting their feet is reason for posting them to camp for lighter duties: one lad was put on KP and, during his first two hours of hobbling about the cook tent, managed to slice his finger with a knife. After recovery the boss will limit his tools to shovels.... From the start of the season, lake trout have been hitting well at Jack's Lake; George Davis took five in five hours on opening day. A few muskies are being taken, too.... Only one deer has been killed on Highway 28 this summer season. The animals have wintered well, have multiplied considerably.... Beaver population has increased also; a dozen nuisance animals (road-flooders) have been removed by conservation officers.

A note of condolence to all those characters, laughingly known as the head of the house, Peterborough paters. How are you getting along in the lonely house with the Little Women and kids away at Camp-A-Wee? Does the refrigerator run out of ice, are you tired of canned beans and boiled dinners and how high can you stack the dirty dishes? It's a sad state of affairs. I know. There is no one at home these days except me and four potted geraniums, a rank growing flower garden and grass six inches high.

Twelve Lakefield Sea Scouts arrived back at their home port after an eight-day cruise to Lake Simcoe. Among their many adventures was the near loss of the treasury. Able Skipper Ken Jakins caught a glimpse of floating wallet during a stormy blow, dove in, retrieved it. It was his own, fairly well padded with cruise funds. His rookie ABs "came about" smartly and hauled him back aboard.

♠ ♠ ♠ ♠

Do you have a car-riding pooch in your home? We have, a gentle small collie-type by the name of "Stony". She has an obsession for sneaking into our visitors' cars, hoping for a ride. Last week the family took her to Toronto for a few days, by car, and brought her home. The next day during the confusion of leaving the house, our lady guest did not notice the dog until she was a few blocks from her home in North Toronto. Another family, Stony Lake-bound, delivered the hitch-hiker back to us. A few hours later the dog was barking at loons from the bow of our canoe as we, too, headed north for the weekend.

KAWARTHA SCOREBOARD: As Ba'tiste, the Canadien guide says, "The fish-ing, m'sieu? C'est comme si, c'est comme ca...." Yes, "This way and that way," describes the general picture in the Kawarthas for the past week. When the lunge ARE hitting they are non-keepers, for the most part, occasionally drop into the 15-pound class, like the one held by Charlie Myer of Indianola, Pa., at the Left; Charlie and brother Sam, guests of Jimmy Duffus' Theona Lodge on Buckhorn Lake, had much better results with bass and pickerel.... From Omemee Lodge on the Pigeon River comes word of two more muskies in the same weight ratio. Joe Loreta of Garfield Heights, O., with a 15-pounder and George Fenton of Columbus with an 18.... A couple of items from Al Nicholls' Clearstone Lodge on Rice Lake shows that Jack Eckert of Pittsburgh caught a 7-pound, 2-ounce pickerel, the largest of his string, and Al Solomon of the same city, a 6½-pound large mouth.... Down at Crowe Bay, seven miles north-east of Campbellford, D. H. Touvell of Niles, O., boated a 22½-pound 'lunge, the best record in that area so far this season.... Jim Houghtailing of Toronto, Right photo, is tickled all to death with the information he got from the Cobourg C. of C. He wanted some brown trout fishing and got it. Came back from Shelter Valley Creek, east of Grafton, with a four-pound, 13-ounce brown, caught in a deep hole with worms. This is not an item from the Kawartha district, unfortunately, but a feller has to make some long casts these days for good fishing news.

UPSIDE-DOWN TREE EXPIRES: The dead trunk and bough at the Left are almost all that remain of one of three dwarf elm trees in Confederation Park. At the extreme RIGHT is one of the two healthy squat trees, planted many years ago. There is a stubborn local tradition that these little trees were, by error, planted upside-down. Whether this is true or not, at least it has not been disproved. So Peterborough, and all people who come from great distances to see Peterborough's "Upside-down Trees" must mourn this year the passing of one of the remaining trio . . . The monument to the left centre is the Brown memorial; centre, bottom foreground is a stone with a bronze marker inset on the top, established by the National Survey, to mark the exact elevation of that point.—Examiner Staff Photo.

Daily Steamers Plied All Over The Kawarthas In 1880's

By HOWARD PAMMETT, M.A.

Just as the railways meant the end of stage-coach lines wherever the rails were laid, so they encroached upon the steamer services from Fenelon to Port Perry, and from Peterborough to Rice Lake and Hastings. On the lakes between Lakefield and Fenelon Falls, however, the steamship was in its heyday, since the lumbering industry was at its peak and the tourist trade was growing yearly. The larger steamers were used on regular passenger runs, carrying also freight; the medium-sized ones were used for excursions and also for towing logs and scows; the smaller ones were either towing tugs or pleasure yachts. About half the steamers were propeller-driven, and half had side-paddle-wheels, with one or two stern-wheelers.

On the western lakes, Capt. Crandell of Lindsay operated steamers between Port Perry, Lindsay, Fenelon and Bobcaygeon with trips each way daily; in 1883 M. Boyd of Bobcaygeon (backed by George Cox and A. White of Peterborough) organized the Trent Valley Navigation Company, with daily steamers to Lindsay, Fenelon, Buckhorn and Bridgenorth; Capt. E. Bottum of Bobcaygeon operated the "Maple Leaf" on the Bobcayeon-Bridgenorth daily run.

Older boats operating on these lakes were: the "Anglo-Saxon" (38 tons) a Port Perry propeller tug; the "Mary Ellen" (81 tons), a Lindsay sidewheeler tug put out of service 1887; the "Ontario" (80 tons), a Lindsay sidewheeler passenger boat, laid up as unfit in 1888; the "Vanderbilt" (286 tons), Crandell's passenger sidewheeler; the "Sampson" (30 tons), a Scugog passenger and freight propeller boat, retired in 1884; the "Enterprise" (117 tons), a Lindsay propeller tug; the "Beaubocage" (129 tons), Boyd's passenger and tug sidewheeler at Bobcaygeon.

New Steamers

The following new steamers were registered in the 1880's: the "Water Witch" (9 tons), built in 1880 at Lindsay by H. Dunsford, a propeller passenger boat; the "Stranger" (28 tons) built 1880 at Lindsay by Crandell, a propeller tug; the "Minden" (4 tons) built 1880 at Minden, used for towing and passenger service on Gull Lake, and renamed the "Gem" in 1881; the "Eva" (34 tons) built 1881 at Lindsay by Crandell, a propeller passenger boat; the "Bella Fair" (7 tons) a propeller yacht built 1882 at Bobcaygeon; the "Seaborn" (9 tons) a steam yacht built 1877 at Brockville and brought to Lindsay in 1883; the "Mary Louise" (10 tons), a Port Perry yacht built 1883; the "Esturion" (118 tons), a sidewheeler built 1884 at Bobcaygeon for the Trent Valley Navigation Line; the "Maple Leaf (26 tons), a side-wheel passenger boat built 1884 at Lindsay to replace the old "Maple Leaf"; the "Dominion" (46 tons), a sidewheel tug built 1884 at Lindsay; another "Dominion" built the same year at Lake Scugog; the "Paloma" (150 tons) a passenger barge built at Bobcaygeon 1885 for TVN excursions (it was towed beside or behind a steamer); the "Myrtle" 27½ tons), a paddlewheel tug built 1888 at Fenelon Falls for use on Cameron Lake; the "Express" (4 tons) a propeller yacht built 1887 in Toronto and brought the next year on a flatcar to Lindsay; the "Dawn" (20 tons) a propeller passenger boat built 1888 at Lakefield and taken the same year to Lindsay; the "Alice Ethel" (71¾ tons), a passenger paddlewheeler built 1889 in Lindsay. Thus through the decade over 20 steam vessels operated on the waters from Scugog to Cameron to Chemong Lakes.

Boyd Journal Records

A few items from the Boyd Office Journals at Bobcaygeon will show the great extent of maritime activity around those lakes: 1880: April 14: Bottum with "Maple Leaf" today made first trip to Bridgenorth; April 20: "Beaubocage" towing timber to Lindsay today; May 4: "Beaubocage" took to Lindsay 4 scows lumber and 1 scow lime; May 5: Mr. Boyd went to Lindsay on "Vanderbilt" at noon; June 4: "Beaubocage" to Brigenorth this morning and brought up Sir Charles Tupper and party who arrived at 12 noon; in afternoon took them to Fenelon Falls, then back to Bridgenorth with group from Peterborough June 11: 'Beaubocage" got in this morning towing 12,000 logs from Fenelon; July 15: Montreal deputation passed through on 'Vanderbilt" traversing route of Trent Canal; Aug. 14: "Beaubocage" to Lindsay with tow of lumber for Albany; Aug. 21: "Beaubocage" excursion down to Oak Orchard—canoe races and cricket match Bob vs. Little Bob; Aug. 25: "Beaubocage" to Lindsay, returned to Bobcaygeon, and back to Lindsay all in one day; Sept. 1: "Beaubocage" running excursion for RC church from Lindsay arrived noon and left 5 p.m.; Sept. 8: English Church excursion on "Beaubocage" to Oak Orchard; Sept 10: Excursion from Fenelon on "Vanderbilt" arrived 11 a.m. and delayed until 5:30 leaving as "Victoria" in way; Nov. 16: "Maple Leaf" made last trip to Lindsay and return.

1885: April 27: "Beaubocag" picking up part of 30,000 logs that broke loose yesterday and went over dam into Pigeon Lake; May 5: SS "Eva" up lake to try for Lindsay; May 6: SS "Esturion" first trip to Lindsay 7:30 to 11 a.m., back at 6 p.m.; steamers "Eva" and "Beaubocage" went there also; May 25: "Beaubocage" chartered by Lindsay Boat Club to run excursions Lindsay to Sturgeon Point this year; June 6: "Beaubocage" took boom timber down to Squaw River and brought back timber to saw up for Excursion Scow; June 8: Sent up stuff for Burnt River log-drive on "Esturion" today to Fenelon Falls; June 10: "Beaubocage" running Catholic picnic Lindsay here today; July 2: "Beaubocage" ran for TVN Co. while "Esturion" getting false sides on; July 7: "Mary Ellen" took up 3 scows of lumber to Lindsay; July 13: Steamers inspected by federal inspectors in Lindsay today; July 20: "Esturion" returned from Lindsay after repairs and commenced regular run; July 29: "Beaubocage" took excursion from Lindsay to Ceazerea today; Aug. 1: "Beaubocage" towed J. M. Irwin's block of logs from Fenelon all night; Aug. 3: Irwin's logs brought from Sturgeon Point by "Beaubocage"; Aug. 4: "Beaubocage" ran excursion from Bridgenorth to Oak Orchard; Aug. 11: Sons of England excursion from Peterborough to Sturgeon Point on SS "Esturion"; Aug. 15: Excursion scow "Paloma" launched today; Aug. 18: "Esturion" brought excursion from Lindsay to Sturgeon Point

'Twas Snow All Summer! 1816 The 'Summerless Year'

By LEO M. PETTICREW, Hastings

Snow will commence falling about the middle of June, and will reach a depth of one foot by the middle of August.

If this statement were to appear in a weather forecast today it would be considered unbelievable. But 135 years ago the people were prepared to believe anything, by the time August rolled around.

The year was 1816, and like other years had started out fine, with farmers sowing their crops carefully, in expectation of an abundant harvest.

Until the middle of June their hopes were being fulfilled; and then the snow came.

The year 1816 became known as the "summerless year".

Local lore records that in the summer of 1816 snow commenced falling in the middle of June, and by the middle of August was one foot in depth.

From the first fall of snow in June, until the following summer, the ground was covered continually with a blanket of white, so tradition has it. There were no crops of any kind, as all the grains rotted in the fields, and the population were forced to live on meat and fish.

Hay Famine

It was impossible to buy flour, as there was none, and the only way in which the menu ever varied was in a change from fish to meat, and meat to venison.

An absolute famine of hay existed, and in order to keep the cattle in the province of Quebec from starvation it was found necessary to import this usually abundant fodder from Ireland. The price of this important article was $45 per ton.

Flour kept going up and up until it reached $17 per barrel, and potatoes cost a penny a pound.

In New Hampshire the price of hay was $180 per ton, and the following season corn sold at $2, wheat $2.50 per bushel, and rye at $2 per bushel. Butter which as a rule, sold around 8 cents to 10 cents per pound, was up to 25 cents.

Sunspots, which for the first time known to history could be seen without the aid of a telescope, were thought to be the cause of this "poverty year" as it was known.

(Ed. Note: The information in this account cannot be wholly verified by the weather statisticians and the Dominion Meteorological Office in Toronto. The latter confirms that 1816 was known as "the summerless year" because of the unusually cold summer and an extraordinary amount of rain. University of Toronto and meteorological officials are now looking into whatever scattered records they can find, to set down a complete and accurate account of the weather circumstances of that unusual year. If ... can fall in southern Alberta in July, as it did this week, what ... mer are impossible to Ontario?)

Poison Ivy Secrets Non-Volatile Oil

By HENRY PREE (NEA)

Fortunately there are few garden plants that are poisonous, and these are dangerous only if eaten.

Who will believe that to nibble the foliage of the stately delphinium and foxglave would necessitate a call for a physician, or that the leaves of rhododendron and mountain laurel can be equally dangerous if taken internally?

Of the hundreds of native plants, only poison ivy is poisonous by contact.

Poison ivy, botanically listed as rhus toxicodendron, is often mistaken for the harmless Virginia creeper, but the latter has five leaves while poison ivy has only three, and they are noticeably shiny. The plants differ also in their fruit, the poison ivy having small white berry-like fruits, while those of the Virginia creeper are black.

Poison ivy is hard to kill and any chemical that will eradicate it will kill nearly everything near it. The surest method is to dig it out, keeping manfully at the job until all the roots—and they run far and wide—are in the fire. Wear gloves and do not rub your face or bare parts of the body after you have touched the plant. Afterwards wash hands, arms and face thoroughly in strong laundry soap, and to be on the safe side, wash the gloves as well.

Some folk, and I am one of them, appear to be immune to the plant and can handle it without danger. Even so, the smart person will, after returning from the woods, use soap and water as a precaution.

Alcohol or straight gasoline will dissolve the poisonous non-volatile oil which is secreted upon the leaves. Ethyl gasoline should not be used because it may result in lead poisoning.

Small patches of poison ivy may be killed by spraying now with 2, 4-D or ammonium sulfimate. Two or three applications at 10-day intervals may be necessary as it is difficult to cover all the foliage. 2, 4-D is sold under various trade names, while ammonium sulfimate is listed as Ammate. For best results mix according to the directions on the bottle.

Gardening Questions

Q—Must tuberous begonias be planted in complete shade—and what are their requirements?—L.S.

A—Tuberous Begonias like partial shade, sunlight in the morning and at the end of the day—but never during the hot midday hours. A well-drained, light, humusy sandy soil and frequent, but light, feedings with weak liquid fertilizer should produce bushy plants.

♦ ♦ ♦

Q—Please recommend a good book on mums—F.N.

A—"Chrysanthemums for Pleasure," by Enest L. and Aleita H. Scott. Simple and concise, a thorough-going manual on chrysanthemums for both beginner and advanced amateur. It not only tells how to grow mums but also discusses such topics as decorative plantings, controlling the blooming date by pinching, by lights and shade, greenhouse culture, and use in arrangements. Diseases and insects are covered by Prof. Dimock of Cornell. Over 300 pages. Illustrated with pen drawings, half-tones, and charts.

Pupils of 10 Had to Take 9999 Inches From 99 Miles

Now that school is over for the summer, pupils can sit back and sigh with relief. But they have not as much to be relieved about as their great-grandfather did. In those pioneer days promotion was not automatic; pupils did not pass from one grade into the next on recommendation. They wrote examinations — stiff ones, too, judging from samples of Durham county promotion examinations recently sent into the Examiner from Bethany.

Half a dozen small, printed examination papers are in the packet. They were the property of the late Wesley Galloway, who died several years ago, and discovered by his brother-in-law Thomas Staples among papers in the attic. They are not Entrance examinations but merely spring promotion examinations, for Senior Third (pupils attempting to get into Junior Fourth in the years 1887* and 1888). "Senior Third" is now Grade Six; "Junior Fourth" is Grade Seven.

Thus all pupils in Senior Third (their ages would be nine to eleven) throughout the whole county of Durham—in places like Bethany and Cavan— had to try these examinations. Toughies they are, too. How would you make out with such geography questions as these? Here is the whole paper, for April 1st, 1887. The pupils were given one hour to complete the paper.

Geography Paper, 1887

1. Define, using complete sentences, latitude, axis, canal, harbor, climate.

2. Name two of the principal tributaries of each of the following rivers: the St. Lawrence, the Mississippi, the Amazon, the Oronoco, the Ottawa, and say in what direction each flows.

3. Name in order, beginning at the west, the counties that border on Lake Ontario, giving their capitals.

4. Draw an outline map of Ontario. Sketch neatly the boundary lakes and rivers. Write in the names of the boundaries. Indicate the position of the cities, with names.

5. Name in order the Provinces of the Dominion with their capitals, beginning at the east.

6. Give the names and directions of the principal mountain chains of Europe and the countries they separate or in which they are.

7. Name and give the breadth and the boundaries of each Zone. Say what you can about the climates and the chief productions of each.

8. Draw an outline map of the Dominion. Sketch neatly the boundary lakes and rivers. Write in the names of the boundaries. Indicate also the principal railways.

Grammar Drilled In

In those days children were taught Grammar. It was an iron discipline. Here are some of the questions Senior Third youngsters had to answer in 1888 when seeking promotion into Junior Fourth —children aged ten and eleven: "Write the phrases in the following sentence, and tell the kind of each with reasons: On the housetop, at day-break, a man stood after the fire in the main building had been extinguished by the efforts of the people on the ground. . . . Parse the italicized words."

Here is a question from the paper of the year before "Write a sentence in which the subject shall be modified by a noun in the possessive case and a noun in apposition, and the predicate modified by an adverb and a phrase; place brackets around the modifiers in each case." How would Grade 6 teachers like to deal with that question today? In 1887 it was a question for their pupils.

Here is another question from the same grammar paper. It suggests what kind of errors in speech were current in Cavan 64 years ago: "Correct the following examples of false syntax, giving reasons for your correction in each case: Me and John shot an owl, squirrel, and quail. He spoke to John and I and told us who we should invite to our party next week. Thinks I to myself each of the boys should attend to their work." (There are seven mistakes according to our count. How many can you find? Can you say why they are false syntax?)

There were even writing examinations in 1888. Pupils were required to copy "without ruled spaces" a verse of five lines, and to write twice in ruled spaces the following words: phthisis, gptl, Messrs. Wyld, Llanfyllin.

If the school-days of the eighties were not "dear old golden rule days," they were sterner stuff than today's pupils face—at examination time anyway.

ARITHMETIC – March 29, 1888.

DURHAM PROMOTION EXAMINATIONS.

SENIOR III to JUNIOR IV.

1. Take 9999 inches from 99 miles. Give ans. in inches.

2. How many seconds are there from 24 min. past six in the morning until 15 min. 45 sec. past 4 in the afternoon?

3. John took out ⅜ of the money in a certain purse and his brother took out $6 from the same purse, and there still remained in the purse $39. How many dollars did the purse contain at first?

4. Simplify (1) 38 bus. 3 pk. 3 qts. x 49. (2) 19 miles, 2 fur. 3 per. 1 ft.÷6.

5. Find the G. C. M. of 6852 and 5904.

6. A person owns ⅜ of a ship, and sells 2/3 of his share for $1260. What is the value of the ship.

7. Find the amount of the following bill:—12 yards of Tweed at $2.85; 16 yards of silk at 2.12½; 12½ yards of flannel at 50 cents; 42 yds Shirting at 16½ cents; 20¼ yards of Scotch Plaid at 60 cents.

8. Reduce 130757 inc. to miles, and from the result subtract 1 m. 3 fur. 23 per, 1 yd. 11 in.

Value 9 each. Time, 10:20 to 11:50 a.m.

Tigers Tame Petes, 8 to 5 To Cimb in OLA Standing

Hamilton Tigers worked the Friday 13th jinx on the Petes here last night as they beat the OLA senior leaders 8-5 before more than 2,000 fans to climb into a second-place tie with St. Catharines. They took a 2-0 lead in the first quarter and after a 1-1 secon dheat and a 2-all third chukker, the Tigers edged the Crowe crew 3-2 in the fourth, ragging the ball and playing it in canny fashion. Hamilton earned the verdict on their play, the Petes missing passes aplenty in every stanza.

Blain McDonald, of Hamilton, was a third-quarter casualty when he sustained a shoulder separation in a crash into the end boards. Curly Mason and Dutch Guthroe drew majors in this same period forfighting. The checking was close and often rugged, Peterborough being handed eight of the 14 enalties. Both goalies were good in this encounter which was lively in spots, tight in others, but always close and interesting.

Got Two Each

Jack Dorney and George Masters scored two goals each for the visitors, with singles going to McDonald, Al Doyle, Tommy Love and Coach Jack Gair. Grainger aided on pair and Gair, McDonald and Doyle one apiece. For the losers, Don Ashbee scored two with Bob Thorpe, Nit O'Hearn and Mason getting one each. Jerry Fitzgerald (who killed off penalties neatly) assisted on two, and Crowe and O'Hearn one each.

Ashbee got one of the nicest goals of the night in the third quarter on a pretty play with Fitzgerald, ending up in a backhander into the twine. A similar play was pulled off in the fourth, O'Hearn backhanding home a pass from Fitz. But as a whole the Petes didn't play nearly up to par, some of the locals looking very ragged all evening. They weren't as sharp as usual, whereas Hamilton turned in an effective, careful game, checking well, passing neatly and making most of their in-close shots count. They led throughout but for a brief space when it was 3-3 early in the third. Teams:

Hamilton — Goal, Favell; defence, McKenzie and Edmonds; centre, Lee; wings, Love and McDonald; rover, Gair; alternates, Grainger, Doyle, Guthroe, McFarlane, Masters, and Dorney.

Petes — Goal Wootton; defence, Fitzgerald and O'Hearn; centre, Thorpe; wings, Ashbee and Vitarelli; rover, Dugan; alternates, Wipper, Magee, Mason, Powless, Slater, Hildebrand and Crowe.

Referees—J. Murphy and L. Vipond.

The summary:

First Quarter

Hamilton—Dorney	2:52
Hamilton—McDonald (Doyle)	8:23
Penalties—Ashbee, McFarlane, and Mason.

Second Quarter

Hamilton—Dorney	6:02
Petes—Thorpe (Crowe)	9:43
Penalties—Guthroe, Dorney.

Third Quarter

Petes—Ashbee	0:54
Petes—Ashbee (Fitzgerald)	1:33
Hamilton—Gair (McDonald)	8:10
Hamilton—Doyle (Grainger Gair)	14:27
Penalties—Doyle, Ashbee, Grainger, Dugan, Mason, Guthroe, Wipper.

Fourth Quarter

Petes—O'Hearn (Fitzgerald)	2:15
Hamilton—Masters	2:42
Hamilton—Masters (Grainger)	4:12
Petes—Mason (O'Hearn)	9:14
Hamilton—Lowe	12:06
Penalties—Wipper, Fitzgerald.

Royal Princess Loses 3rd Race

TORONTO, July 14 (CP). — The "Friday the 13th" jinx caught up with Royal Princess, the queen of the Canadian pacers, Friday when she lost the third race of her career.

After winning 39 of 41 starts in her two years of racing, W. C. Topping's extraordinary mare from London, Ont., broke badly in the second heat of Friday's pacing stake and finished third to Rocket Hanover and Guy Regent.

Earlier in the afternoon, Royal Princess had scored her 19th consecutive win of the season in the first heat when she was the easiest kind of winner over Sir Peter L. with Rocket Hanover in third place. Royal Princess paid only $2.30 to win but Rocket Hanover paid $15.70 when he scored his stunning upset.

It was a freak of racing fortune which spoiled the mare's record. Driver Barney Hughes sent her on the outside of four horses going into the club house turn and he collided with another sulky.

The mare lost at least 40 lengths as she broke stride and had to be settled down. However, when she got back on her gait, she practically flew and was beaten only by two lengths.

Lindsay Whips Royals 9-3

LINDSAY, July 14.—The front-running Lindsay Merchants extended their winning streak to six straight clubbing three Bowmanville Royals hurler for two big innings and a 9-3 Lakeshore Baseball League victory here Friday night.

Merchants knocked out left-hander Gord Sturrock in the first inning with a four-run outburst. Negro southpaw Bill McIntosh gave way in the fourth when Lindsay scored five runs.

Bill Shill cracked a two-run double in the first for the winners and Grant Wickett lined out his sixth two-bagger of the season in the big fourth with the bases loaded. Mike McArthur, ex-Oshawa Merchant, came up with the only telling blow off Lindsay's Loucks, a line two-run single in the third.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

Tonight the Family Hour tournament is at 7.30 o'clock.

It's not too late to make an entry for the Selkirk Trophy tournament. Play begins Monday evening at 7.00 p.m.

In a well-played game last night F. Worsencroft and I. Cipin won from B. Jeffries and R. Whalan in the provincial doubles and will now represent this club in the next round.

The bowling was the best we have seen thus summer and if the boys can keep up that pace there is no doubt about who will be provincial champions. Good luck.

We have no report from any of the lady bowlers who took in the trebles tournament, at Campbellford, on Friday afternoon and evening.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Rested up after their overtime tie in the Falls earlier in the week, the young Petes (sponsored by Filter Queen) tangle again with Niagara Falls at 8.45 tonight in Miller Bowl, weather being right. It's an OLA junior fixture between the two toughest teams in the loop, the visitors being made up mostly of last year's Dominion junior "A" champs from St. Catharines. Good as they are, the Peterborough boys are still leading the group race, so the tilt tonight should be a dandy. A number of players on both teams are actually of senior "A" calibre—some also performing for the Athletics, and a few of the locals being watched closely by the senior Petes. Yes, it ought to be a dandy duel. Mimico juniors come here on Monday.

* * * * * *

Several puck fans picked up our item the other day and have come smack out and said the Petes and Eagles should combine and get into that senior "A" setup, despite the longer trips. If it wasn't for the hefty jaunts and the higher expense, we'd say yes — but probably the two local clubs wouldn't agree, anyway. We're just not laid out right, geographically, to compete with places like Owen Sound, Hamilton, Niagara Falls, Brantford, Kitchener, Stratford, Chatham and Sarnia. That "A" group will put a percentage of each game's receipts into a pool to be shared at seasons end. Also, no limit on imports. It would make for some mighty interesting hockey.

Best Trio Of 'Em All

Not only have we heard Harry Heilman — who died recently — broadcast ball games out of Detroit, but we've seen him play. Yeah, back in the 20's when he was a great outfielder with the Tigers. At one time, Heilman, Bob Veach and Ty Cobb, were rated the greatest outfield trio in major league baseball. By far. Big, genial Harry died Monday of cancer of the lung, and he also had a weak heart. Cancer (most accursed of all disease) killed another all-time great, Babe Ruth, only in his case it was in the throat. Not as colorful as the Babe, Heilman averaged the same as Ruth (.342) for 18 years in the big time.

In hitting above .400, he was in the company of seven other super-performers at the plate: Cobb, Rogers Hornsby, Joe Jackson, Nap Lajoie, George Sisler, Bill Terry and Ted Williams. The only batters who have a better lifetime average than Heilman and Ruth are Cobb .367 — in 24 years — Hornsby with .358 and Tris Speaker with .344. When we saw him in 1927, Harry hit .398. In the 26 years since he belted a grand mark of .403, only Williams, Hornsby and Terry have gone over .400 — so he rates a spot with the all-time greats of major league ball. Unlike the fiery Cobb (greatest of 'em all), Heilman was a genial and popular star.

Kingsways And Petes

Speaking of hitting, fans should see plenty of it tonight at eight in Riverside (weather being oke) when Toronto Kingsways tangle with the Petes in a Viaduct ball game. The Petes have been really powdering the pill at a terrific clip this season, mauling moundsmen regularly. But Kingsways are in third slot and trying to overhaul Oshawa for a crack at the top-place Petes. Big Alf Williams may muffle their maces, if he gets the mound call. Bill Edger, Lefty Dadson and Bunny Maeson are all available for the slab on Ed Whitehill's squad. Some keen contests over there lately, and this one might be another humdinger.

* * * * * *

Playing canny, close-checking lacrosse here last eve, Hamilton Tigers downed the Petes 8-5 to tie St. Kitts for second slot in the OLA senior standing. Earned it, too, as they had a margin on play for a good part of each quarter. Petes were below par, their passing game smelling rather musty. Don Ashbee, Nit O'Hearn and Jerry Fitzgerald, along with Moon Wootton in goal, were about the only ones we thought up to form over the route. Dootch Vitarelli was used sparingly, as he is recovering from an injured leg. Tough luck on Blain McDonald, that shoulder injury he suffered. The young Petes received the junior "B" trophy from McDonald and the city's individual cups from Ald. Doug Miller during an intermission, and Mort Knox turned over a most valuable player's trophy to the club from Ostrander's. A big crowd out.

Syracuse Splits Twin Bill With Orioles

By The Associated Press.

Syracuse Chiefs made one of the best bargains of the season when they obtained Gene Costello, 27-year-old righthander from Springfield Cubs late in May.

Costello, who failed to win or lose in 10 games with the Cubs, has won five games and lost only one for the Chiefs since June 3.

He has been used almost entirely in relief. He gained his fifth victory Friday night as the Chiefs edged Baltimore Orioles 5-4 in the first game of a twi-night doubleheader. The victory matched his 1950 output for Springfield.

The Orioles won the nightcap 5-2 behind Karl Drews who scattered nine hits. The Orioles sewed it up with four in the second, two on Billy Glynn's ninth homer.

In Fourth Place

The split dumped the Chiefs into fourth place with the Rochester Red Wings taking over third as a result of their 5-3 victory over Springfield Cubs.

Little Jackie Collum scattered 10 hits and fanned nine Cubs to post his eighth victory for Rochester. Johnny Blatnik drove home two runs and scored two on a triple and single.

Cliff Fannin pitched Toronto Maple Leafs to a 2-1 victory over Tom Acker and the Buffalo Bisons. The Leafs collected only four hits but one was Lew Morton's 14th homer, Grover Bowers drove in the winning run. Fannin allowed five hits and fanned six.

Montreal and Ottawa were idle.

Here And There In Sports . . .

By The Canadian Press

George Ratterman, American grid star, became a "free agent" to play professional football in Canada — until Sept. 27 at least.

However, Ratterman hasn't heard the last of the New York Yankees football team which wants to stop him from playing next season for Montreal Alouettes.

A temporary order restraining Ratterman from playing in Canada was lifted, but a New Jersey court has set Sept. 27 as the date when it will consider a plea by the Yankees for a permanent injunction on Ratterman's Canadian football aspirations.

In football squabble No. 2 involving tackle Dick Huffman, formerly with Los Angeles Rams, a court in Charleston, West Virginia, has threatened that if he ever comes back there, he'll be sure to face court action. The charge—leaving the Rams (who claim they have him under contract) to play for Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

A third player, Billy Blackburn is involved in injunction proceedings launched by Chicago Cardinals. The Cardinals are seeking to prevent Blackburn from playing with Calgary Stampeders.

There's just one thing holding up this case — Blackburn is in Canada.

For the first time in Canada, Rich Ferguson today runs against an athlete who has beaten him.

Canada's leading middle distance runner will face Valdo Lillikus, late of Estonia and now running under the colors of the Montreal Track and Field Club, in the eastern Canada track and field championships in Toronto.

Lillikus beat the 20-year-old Canadian by two seconds in a three-mile event held last year in England.

But Ferguson, who has finished many of his races a lap or two ahead of his competition, doesn't intend to let it happen again.

A Quebec cricket team is in Toronto today to defend the Lord Atholston Trophy it has win in the last two years in matches against Ontario. Alf Pope from Trinity College, Port Hope, and H. B. Robinson, an Oxford Blue, will lead the Toronto team which last won the trophy in 1948. The match will be played today and Sunday.

Jersey Joe Walcott, 37-year-old heavyweight contender who gets his fifth crack at the crown worn by Ezzard Charles next Wednesday in nearby Pittsburgh, Friday was pronounced in "better condition than most young fellows 10 to 15 years his junior."

Dr. E. C. Krug, examining physician for the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission, had nothing but praise for Walcott when he finished his checkup.

"Joe is in excellent condition," he said. "He evidently keeps himself in shape between fights. Fighters can't get the way he is overnight.

The Soviets have claimed another world track record, this time for the men's 3,200-metre relay.

Two Russians and two Ukrainians, each running an 800-metre leg, were reported clocked in 7:27.4, 1.6 seconds better than the world mark of 7:29 recorded by a Swedish national team headed by Lennart Strand in 1946. The Russians' record run was made in Moscow's Dynamo Stadium on Friday.

Only two days ago the Russians claimed a world record for the 3,000-metre steeplechase and the women's 2,400-metre relay.

Fergus Swamps Mimico 23-9

By The Canadian Press.

The lowly last place Fergus Thistles swarmed over fourth-place Mimico Mountaineers 23-9 in a senior Ontario lacrosse clash that was climaxed by a fourth-quarter free-for-all.

The fracas in the Fergus-Mimico match started at 9:05 of the fourth quarter when Bob Taylor, Mimico goalie clipped Bob Gear of Fergus just as he scored. That started everyone swinging.

Taylor and Gear got five-minute penalties for fighting plus a 10-minute misconduct penalty. Goal-keeper Ralph Speck and Jack Gear, both of Fergus also got five minute penalties for fighting.

Police Take Tilt

Police edged Grant & Loucks 8-7 in a Civic Softball League fixture at the Bowl last evening. They scored the tying and winning runs in the seventh of a nifty number after counting a run each in the first, third and sixth innings, and three in the fifth. The losers pushed over four in the first and three more in the fifth. Teams:

Police — McKendry, Rowe, Conlin, Naismith, Gibbs, Rodreque, Crough, Forestell, Traynor, Fife, Healy, Perry.

Grant & Loucks — Chenier, Harris, Smith, Carpenter, Conroy, Goodfellow, Harrison, Hancock, Leahy.

Knechtell Wins Junior Golf Tourney

TORONTO, July 14 (CP). — Promise of future par-busting was offered at Oakdale Golf Club here Friday as top Toronto junior golfers got together for their annual championship tournament.

An interesting golfing future was indicated for the likes of 16-year-old Jerry Knechtel who won the championship with a three over par 75, added to a 79, for a 36-hole score of 153.

Knechtel, who plays out of Kitchener Rockaway Golf Club, showed some of the form which could make him a likely successor to Gerry Kesselring, a top-flight amateur who burned up the junior ranks after getting his start at the same course.

Runner up in the tournament was Don Ziegler, also of Kitchener Rockway. The 18-year-old golfer put together a 76 and 79 for 155—two strokes behind his clubmate.

In third spot was Pete Hilldrop of Hamilton Cheroke, another 16-year-old, with 157.

B Class Golfers

In the B class for golfers 14 and 15 years old, Norman Thompson of Cutten Field, Guelph, was the winner, carding 84-81—165. Norman is the son of golf course architect Stanley Thompson. He finished two strokes ahead of William Fox, Jr., son of the professional at the Essex County Golf Club, who scored 87-80—167.

George Jamieson, also from Cutten Field, won the C class, 13 years and under, with 104-96—200 a single stroke better than Norman Doyle of Rouge Hills, who had 101-100—201.

Special prize for the younger competitor went to 10-year-old Bob Slatter of Huntsville who had 102 in the morning and 102 in the afternoon for a total of 205.

White Sox Battle to 5-4 Win In 19 Innings With Boston

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

The never-give-up White Sox have done it again.

Marathon 19-inning winners over the Red Sox in the longest night game in American League history, the "rags to Richards" gang trails Boston today by .003 in the steaming American League race.

Even the hardiest Chicago fan lost hope when Boston broke a 2-2 tie with two runs in the top of the 19th.

You can imagine the wild scene when the White Sox ought back to score three runs and write a new page in their Comiskey Park record book at approximately 2:17 a.h. EDT this summer Saturday morning.

The 5-4 victory boosted Chicago up even with Boston in the games-behind column, but the Red Sox hold the slender edge—.620 to .617 in the percentage table.

Amazing Record

Nobody who saw this third game of the vital four-game series will forget it. The clubs played Thursday night and followed with a 17-inning struggle, both won by a nine-inning twilight game Boston. Then came the 19-inning battle Friday night, making 45 innings in two days.

The 19-inning game tied the National League night high of last Sept. 15 between Cincinnati and Philadelphia. Longest day game was a 26-inning battle between Boston and Brooklyn in 1920.The American League's daytime record in 24 innings, done twice.

Mickey McDermott pitched the first 17 innings for Boston in a magnificent effort. He gave up two tying runs in the fifth and that was all. Harry Taylor, who took over in the 18th, was charged with the loss although Ray Scarborough relieved him before the game ended.

Boston forged ahead in the 19th with Clyde Vollmer, who homered in the fifth, singling home one run. An error by Nelson Fox let in the second.

But back came those White Sox. Floyd Baker opened with a single and Bob Dillinger followed with another single. Fox beat out a bunt to fill the bases. Eddie Stewart, batting for Jim Busby, singled to centre scoring Baker and Dillinger to make it 4-4.

That was all for Taylor and Scarborough came in. Al Zarilla beat out a bunt to the pitcher, loading the bases. Don Lenhardt's fly to centre sent Fox charging home with the winning run.

Beat New York

Cleveland came from behind to beat New York 11-8, edging up in the hot race. They trail by only 3½ games. Bob Porterfield pitched and batted Washington to a 3-1 margin over Detroit and Duane Pillette, of the St. Louis Browns, blanked Philadelphia 5-0.

Brooklyn held its 9½-game lead in the National by bopping Chicago, 8-6, for its eighth straight win and the Cubs' eighth straight loss. New York moved back in second place instead of St. Louis after the Giants slaughtered the Cardinals 14-4 with two grand-slam homers.

It was home run day—and night — in the National with a total of 15 tying the season record crop. Seven were hit at Ebbets Field by the Dodgers and Cubs.

Brooklyn piled up eight runs in the first two innings, then staved off a barrage of five Chicago homers to keep its winning streak intact.

Ranny Jackson hit two and Hank Sauer, Frank Baumholtz and Roy Malley one each for the Cubs.

Smash Homers

Wes Westrum and Davie Williams smashed homers with the bases loaded to tie a record held by many clubs in the Giants' lopsided romp over St. Louis. Dave Koslo was nicked for homers by Red Schoendienst and Del Rice in his route-going job for win No. 4. Dom Mueller of New York also homered.

While the muscle boys were having their fun at Brooklyn and New York, the Phillies' Robin Roberts came through with a two-hit 3-2 job on Pittsburgh for victory No. 11. All runs came on homers—Erv Dusak ruined Roberts' no-hit chances with a sixth-inning homer, and Tommy Brown homered with Richie Ashburn on base and Del Ennis with the bases empty for the Phils.

Howie Fox threw his second straight shutout at Boston with a five-hitter as Cincinnati beat the Braves 2-0. Johnny Wyrostek's two-run single in the third tagged Max Surkont with his seventh loss.

BORN IN SCOTLAND in 1790 Henry Fowlds (LEFT) and his wife Jean Marshall Steele (CENTRE) came to America and later to Canada settling in Asphodel township when the population was less than 560 and only 800 acres cleared. He with the assistance of his sons one of whom was William John Fowlds (RIGHT) cleared much of the land and floated the square timbers to Quebec where they were shipped to England.

Henry Fowlds: Pioneer Lumberman of the Trent Valley

Clearing Lands Of Asphodel Township

(The first instalment of an historical sketch of Henry Fowlds, pioneer lumberman of Hastings and Westwood, appeared last Saturday. Today Mrs. Marryat describes some of the hardships those lumbermen had.—Editor.)

By MRS. HELEN MARRYAT

When Henry Fowlds settled in Asphodel the population was less than 560; six residents owned horses (William Fortune owned the first, according to Robert Harrison) and there were but four frame dwellings in the township, with less than 800 acres cleared for cultivation (Poole's "Early Settlement".)

Ten years later less than 750 acres of crown land remained to be sold at 8/-per acre and 3,315 acres were under cultivation. Much of the land had been cleared by Henry Fowlds who had gone into the square timber business for himself in 1843. He also assisted the Gilchrists in taking their timber down to Quebec and in supplying the material for the various projects undertaken by the Board of Works. The old timber slide at Healey's Falls, where Sir Richard Bonnycastle so nearly lost his life in 1846, was built from timber off the Birdsall land.

During the summer of 1842, a serious injury necessitated James Fowlds' withdrawal from all active participation in the lumbering business and compelled Henry Fowlds to change his plans. During the winter 1843, James was employed as a clerk in the general store of James and Robert D. Rogers in Ashburnham: the intention being that he would open a store in connection with the lumbering activities of the family in order to supply the men in the shanties and on the rafts, as well as the settlers in the surrounding district.

The following extracts from letters to James in Peterborough from his father, who had moved his family to a Birdsall farm on the Ouse, known as "Stonleigh Farm" which he was clearing, fencing and building a frame house. The first letter was written March 23, 1843.

"Dear James;—I find that John Beckett will not have any Siberian wheat to sell; should you be able, secure 10 bushels—hay seems so scarce that there is none in our township for sale for any money. My last ton will scarce last out this week, but should it last, every stick, (of timber) will be drawn. Henry has unfortunately cut his knee, which has caused me to bargain with Timothy Grady for half a month to hew, and he has brought Mr. Harris' cattle. I propose making in all—150 pieces, and am now making framing timber; but have been obliged, too late, to attend to the drawing myself. The purchase of so much hay has changed the feature of my finances, especially in cash matters. I have not seen the tanner (Robertson) since I saw you, and Keeler's Mills and mills of any kind have given place to present pursuits. Peterborough has attracted my attention, in so far as its preferable advantages as regards society claim a preference, and I would sooner rent a mill than build one in the woods, could stock be obtained with reasonable trouble. I ailed a few days after I saw you but have got to my work again; am not so strong as in the beginning of winter . . . I will see you after Mr. Green's visit to this place . . . . with the needful."

(Mr. Green was agent for the Board of Works, and "the needful" was payment to be made for timber supplied for Crooks' Rapids and elsewhere. The late Charlie Fowlds said his father, William Fowlds, drew the long timbers that acted as arms to swing the lock gates with a yoke of oxen, and that as he had injured his ribs in an accident the jolting over the rough ground caused him agony.)

"Although absent you still retain our united love, and you will always in me, your father, command esteem beyond your merits; I remain, with much tenderness, your sincerely, Henry Fowlds."

Is it any wonder the Henry Fowlds lived to command esteem and understanding in his old age, even after his unfortunate business transactions had nearly ruined his sons? In 1865, he backed a note for a friend in the lumbering fraternity (it is supposed) and had to pay. Rather than lose all their property at Hastings, his three sons got permission to take over all the land and water power on condition that their father's obligations would be met. The papers and letters dealing with that period are full of sadness, but there is not one word of recrimination or annoyance. To the very end, Henry Fowlds still retained the united love of his family.

There may bave been a suggestion that James Fowlds would be responsible for a supply of goods to be sent to Healey's Falls, where construction was in progress, and where in 1846 Sir Richard Bonnycastle found a deserted village of frame houses built to shelter the workmen and their families. A few of those buildings were still standing at the Falls fifty years ago.

Spring Breakup

A letter of April 17 from Henry Fowlds mentioned . . . .

"I have seen Mr. Nagel (in charge of construction), who states that there will be no use for any goods at Healey Falls before August; and that then you can rely on all his interest by having security for payment of debts owing for any goods sold on credit from the pay-lists. He states that all my timber will be wanted and agreed to write to me when to deliver it. It is uncertain whether or not the oak may be wanted for lock gates at Chisholm's (Rapids), as what they have got for that purpose is not so good yet costs 9c-1/-per foot. Value seems to have been figured in cents up to one shilling (12 pence). Rather complicated but that is a fair sample.

"John Beckett has hired with me for a month and we are getting out last cuts and chopping; the ice is not broken above Cameron's Point, but the Ouse River is very high."

Owing to the possibility that his son might never lead an active life again, Henry Fowlds had been thinking of buying a saw mill and becoming a lumber dealer rather than a timber merchant. He wrote on April 28 . . .

"I will, as first agreed, try my hardest for Keeler's Mill; in case of failure the family solicits that I get the McCarthy Place (undentified). By being up in Peterborough you may have gained experience, and you have improved your writing, but although you have been paid $16.00 for riding about—that is not work, and by your presence here, as a united body—we should have been the gainers."

"It is almost impossible to keep track of the oak timebr; it was brought ashore on Sunday last, but the ice was all over the Lake and today three sticks are missing; tomorrow we will try and take it to the Ouse. The boom on the Ouse at the lower landing went out with the ice and some timber went with it; it was all followed and marked, and I think will all be rafted to-morrow. Much loose timber is now on the Lake in all directions. I have had no notice from Nagle where to deliver my timber . . ."

On June 26, Henry Fowlds was on his way to Healey Falls with the rafts and had time for a brief letter about the prospects of obtaining a mill from the Hon. T. A. Stewart of Auburn, or, failing, the Heriot place, nine miles farther up the Otonabee. Dr. Poole stated that "this fine water power passed through a variety of hands, the Hon. Z. Burnham being the chief proprietor. First known as "Nelson's then at Heriot's Falls; later as Selby, it is now Lakefield."

Evidently the Stewart mill was not for rent or sale after all and Henry Fowlds went to Cobourg on July 29 to see the Hon. Zaccheus Burnham about the Selby mill. If that failed he hoped for the MacDonald mill at Consecon. A decision could not long be delayed and he was a very anxious man.

"The Selby place is a much greater undertaking, and the advanced stage of my life is such that the ardour of such an undertaking is more than my personal efforts can be justifiably taxed. Although by joint family enterprise—by your and Henry's assistance—I would undertake to pay £300 or more the first year. But all the enterprise for the first year would be uphill, the family being divided, and having no assistance from the hay crop nor from the female department of the family. And although there would be a very wide difference in results of the two enterprises when matured, still in the lesser there would be no such risk of failure, and no small degree of improvement, although much heart-burning must be occasioned by the attempt on Mr. Walker's mill speculation, and, of course, bad feeling. On the other view of the larger proposition, the Benson dam, to me forms the greatest obstacle in the way, and my mind seems to favour the narrow and easy and seemingly more practical (if choice we may have.) At any rate I have made up my mind to a point that I will not give more than £500 for the broken front and 100 acres of land, or rather an offer for 200 or the whole 300 acres of land accompanying the broken front for £650-0-0."

Westwood Site

It seems clear from his reference to Mr. Walker, who owned a saw mill on the Ouse River that Henry Fowlds was even then thinking of the mill site he finally bought, at Westwood. His reference to the loss of the hay crop indicated that they could not carry out their contract with Mr. Birdsall and live at Selby. nor could they depend on the assistance of "the female department" in looking after a gang of men at two such widely separated points. On the bright side of the picture their hay crop was as good as the first year of cutting and the spring wheat as good as their most sanguine expectations—the rye middling—the fall wheat a failure. All over North America the winter of 1843 had been a mild one followed by a long cold and backward spring.

Lumbering was a business diversified with variety, Henry Fowlds remarked in one of his letters and a new angle to the business had taken his fancy — instead of driving all his sawlogs to River Trent (Trenton) to be cut into Deals, that is inch boards, he now speculated upon the possibility of cutting his own deals in his own mill, and in the summer of 1843 he decided to settle in Westwood, where he bought the east half of lot 11 in Con. 1, the whole of lot 11 in Con. 2, and the west half of lot 12 in Con. 2 of the township of Asphodel. James Fowlds described the land as of good quality "with a fine bright creek running through it." They cleared 16 acres before the end of the year and built their mill in the summer of 1844, valuing it at £300-0-0. They hoped to put up an oatmeal mill in 1845, and in the meantime they built a frame house next the saw mill; for James Fowlds had decided to settle there and had been married in July, 1844 to Margaret Macgregor, daughter of Malcolm Macgregor of Ashburnham. Perhaps this impending event decided Henry Fowlds to do what he had hitherto refused to consider—the building of a mill—in the woods.

Building A Mill In The Woods

Besides their farm and sawmill which operated the year round the store opened to supply themselves as well as the men in the shanties and on the rafts, was a busy place following its erection in 1844-5 and from their quarters overhead, Mrs. Henry Fowlds and her only surviving daughter, Elizabeth, kept an eye on things when her husband, James and Henry M. were away all summer, taking the rafts to Quebec. Willie ran the saw mill. All the men employed on construction had to be boarded, and after they had put up an oatmeal mill to supply "Pinhead" oatmeal beloved of our Scottish ancestors, they built the big frame grist mill still in use as a chopping mill but able to turn out flour in its early days by the hundred barrels—and of a quality sufficiently dependable to suit the Pratts, Cobourg's master bakers. The store beside the Ouse was burned many years ago and on this site Mrs. Jane Thompson now has her home.

Besides all this, the women of the family baked all their bread, made their soap, spun their wool from their sheep and made their own full-cloth for winter trousers, and as home-made flannel was sold in the store, they may have made that also.

The store was once the scene of a near riot when some of the French Canadians in the shanties tried to destroy the shanty book in which their time was kept. These men came up every year to work through the winter and go down with the rafts in the spring. Many of them settled around Hastings. One of the Goulets did the trip in reverse . . . going down with the rafts in the spring—buying a horse to sell at good profit when he returned.

One other item from the store accounts ties in with this series of articles on the lumbering business . . . In March, 1853, Henry Fowlds, still living in Westwood, explains to William Darling, wholesaler, that he was crowded for money with 75 teams in the woods eating 1½ bushels of oats daily at two shillings a bushel. That figure plus a comparatively large gang of men explains the extent to which their business had grown.

The following letter to his wife, who was spending a weekend with her parents in Ashburnham, was written James Fowlds in 1846.

"Came home (to Westwood) at half past two this morning, Sunday, completely tired out—the water (July 19) is so low that we are obliged to drive all our deals (which they were then cutting in their own mill) singly; and whenever they get fast in the rapids (at Healey's Falls) we have to wade through the current, sometimes up to our necks to lift them off the rocks, which, to us, who are not well-acquainted with that kind of work, is pretty dangerous. But we have got them all mallinetted in Crow Bay and we will begin to run the Middle Falls tomorow. I do not know how long it will take us to get through (to River Trent)—perhaps 10 or 12 days. I am fairly tired of it and wish it were all over, as I cannot stand the fatigue of being wet so much. I have not been well this past week, but must stick to it till we are done. Willie was swept off a jam the other day; but he swims like a fish and soon got ashore."

The drive had reached Quebec when we wrote again on August 18 to tell of meeting the Rev. Robert Steele—one of four missionaries of the Hamilton and Toronto Presbytery of the Free Presbyterian Church, who had often visited Westwood and was then on his way home to Scotland.

They had a large raft in the spring of 1849. James and Henry went along, and their father and William stayed at home. If they did well they intended to do less in the square timber and do more in the sawn lumber business. Henry Fowlds used to follow the rafts at a later date and then stayed in Quebec to sell the timber.

But in spite of everything—that annual pilgrimage was made for a good many years to come.

Fix Churches In Britain Costly Project

LONDON, — (CP)—Repair of Britain's ancient cathedrals and churches, many of them badly damaged by German raiders in the last war, will require an expenditure of about £5,000,000.

The urgent need of this large sum, to forestall the danger of further deterioration of many of the country's more famous structures, was stressed at the Summer Assembly of the Church of England.

The most Rev. Geoffrey Fisher, Archbishop of Canterbury, said that while the call for financial help was a heavy one, there was no reason for panic. Under prevailing conditions there was neither the material nor labor to carry out the entire reconstruction program in a single year. The proper course, he thought, would be to spread the work over a period of five years. This would entail an outlay of about £1,000,000, which plus maintenance costs would come to approximately the sum raised in 1950 for this purpose.

Following a spirited debate on the advisability of appealing to the government for a substantial grant-in-aid from state funds to speed up repairs, the assembly unanimously agreed to appoint a commission to inquire into the problem generally.

The Bishop of Winchester, Dr. M. G. Haig, warned against a state appeal for funds. If an appeal were made he suggested it should not be on religious grounds but strictly in the interest of preserving ancient buildings for the nation.

No Parking On Grounds Says Board

School Playground For Children Not Cars—Gordon

The Board of Education has no intention of allowing the Queen Mary School grounds to be used as a car parking lot.

"They are for children to play on, not for cars," said W. B. Gordon.

A letter outlining the reasons for the refusal will be sent to the city council who asked that this be done. K. S. Wightman, superintendent of schools, said that apart from any damage to the grounds or the question of liability there remained the physical fact that the grounds are to be torn up preparatory to grading.

Parking Restricted

Parking in the vicinity of Queen Mary school has already been restricted by city by-law and signs to this effect have been posted. The result has been that summer theatre patrons just park on other nearby streets and residents are complaining.

Because of this city council has asked, that in addition to the present restrictions as laid down by by-law, the Board allow theatre patrons to park nightly on the school grounds.

But the Board is unwilling to do so and it had already declined to do so once before.

Earlier in the year the citizen's committee, a pro-summer theatre group, said they had been offered use of the Dominion Woollens property north of McDonnel St.

The Enemy

When he returned from celebrating the "Glorious 12th" in Peterborough, Norman Stewart of Lucknow found that his late-model car had been stolen from his brother's driveway in Lindsay and driven into Pigeon Creek, 11 miles south of Lindsay.

Roy Little, a Minden truck driver, watched the car plunge into the creek. He ran over and pulled a young man and a girl out of it. They were up to their necks in water. Before anyone realized the car had been stolen, they were put into a passing car and headed for Lindsay and disappeared.

Police are looking for them.

2 Drivers Clip Hydro Pole, 3 Guard Rails

Three guard rail posts and a hydro pole were casualties in two minor accidents on local highways late Friday and early today.

The three guard rail posts fell before Harold Heffernan, 20, Elm St., who crashed into them when his car went out of control at Scott's Corners, five miles south of Peterborough on Highway 28.

Heffernan was on his way to Fraserville and his car went out of control at the junction of the boundary road between Durham and Peterborough counties and Highway 28. He was ininjured but the car had a ripped fender and bent bumper—some $75 damage in all.

A Pennsylvania car snapped off the hydro pole on the east side of the Chemong road, a half mile north of Highway 7.

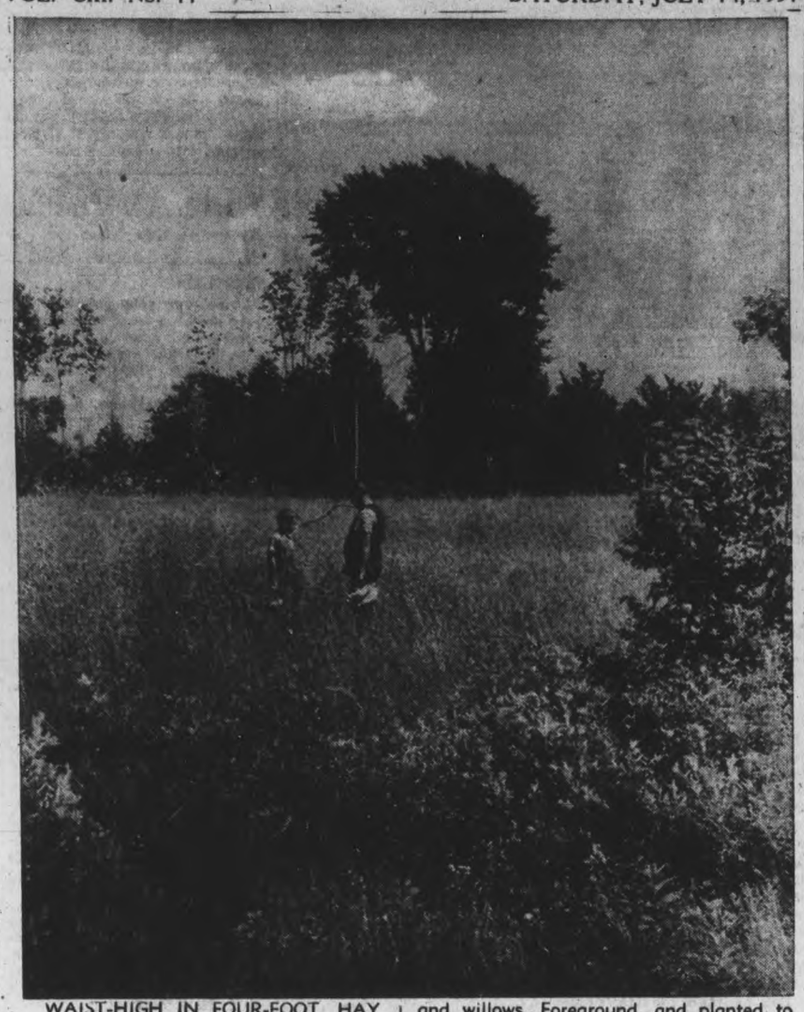
It was driven by Charles Lowry, 31, Beaver Falls, Pa. Lowry was driving south toward the highway when he lost control of his car and it crossed the road and piled into the east ditch, breaking off the pole.

The car was damaged but Lowry was uninjured.

OPP Constable Wallace Mohns investigated.

Lowry was charged with careless driving, entered a written plea of guilty in police cour today and paid a fine of $10 and costs.

Plant Muskies



MARMORA, July 4. (ENS) — This week 600 maskinonge fingerlings, five inches long were placed in Crowe Lake; 300 were also placed in the river close to the bridge on No. 7 Highway and 300 in Beaver Creek. These were in addition to a large number of maskinonge fry placed in these waters early in the spring.

TENDERS ON SCHOOL

The accommodation committee of the Board of Education has been authorized to call for tenders on levelling the property on McFarlane St. where the new city public school is to be erectd. The Board hopes that levelling can be done this fall and construction can start in the spring. It will be the second public school in Ashburnham.

WAIST-HIGH IN FOUR-FOOT HAY, George Whitfield and his son Billy of North Monaghan examine a swampy wasteland that Mr. Whitfield cleared of spare grass and willows. Foreground, and planted to hay and grasses last fall. Experts said it could not be done but the proof is here, several acres of it.—Examiner Staff Photo.

Waste Land Blossoms Hay

What was a waste field a year ago on the North Monaghan farm of George Whitfield is now covered with lush grass, some of it four feet high. Last summer, Mr. Whitfield was told there was nothing much to be done with the field. He thought there might be some hope for it and consulted with Ernie McWilliam of a city milling firm. Since the field is in a moist, low-lying part of Mr. Whitfield's farm, the two men decided the grasses to be sown on it for pasture should be more water-tolerant than normal pasture grasses. Accordingly, after the field was cleared, blue grasses, timothy and three types of fescue were used.

Willow Brush

At that time field was covered with willow brush. Mr. Whitfield cleared eight acres of it, plowed it, and seeded it to grass last October 4. It was a late time to plant, but the grasses sowed were hardy and survived the winter.

Fertilizer called 2-12-10 was used on the field in the fall. This fertilizer is two per cent. nitrogen, 12 per cent phosphoric acid, and 10 per cent potash. Six bags were used for each acre.

The field was intended for pasture, but by the time Mr. Whitfield got to look at it properly this spring, the timothy was too tall. The field had been sowed with timothy, Canada and Kentucky blue grass; chewings, red and meadow fescue.

Clover Added.

This spring, two clovers—white Dutch and Ladino—were added.

Explaining the lush growth of the grasses sown last October, Ernie McWilliam said the fertilizer had had little effect last fall; all its punch had been saved for this spring. As a result, the grasses in the eight-acre field shot right up as soon as the growing season started.

Mr. Whtfield plans to put a baler on the field as soon as the soil hardens up a bit with the summer sun. The field should yield a very good crop of hay, Mr. McWilliam estimated.

Hi! Neighbor!

"Some people in Ohio are certainly Kawartha conscious," Bill Duignan, manager of the Junior Chamber of Commerce booth, said today. "We had two long distant phone calls this week from Willoughby, Ohio, (approximately 400 miles) asking for tourist accommodation in the Kawartha district."

Children's Aid Society Adds 22 New Cases

A total of 22 new cases were referred to the Peterborough Children's Aid Society during June. These figures were released today by Miss Rachael Young, superintendent.

Of this total, 10 were family cases and the problems presented were physical neglect, non-support, drinking, desertion, infidelity, delinquency of children and lack of supervision. The number of cases known to the society in June totalled 357.

Eleven unmarried parent cases came to the attention of the society in June.

Three children were returned to their parents, who had satisfactory living arrangements for them; one ward reached her majority and adoption was completed for three children.

The staff members made a total of 548 visits during the month and held 215 office interviews.

There were 42 hearings in Family Court of which four were juveniles. The others were adult cases involving assault and non-support.

Tourist Trade Falls Into Slump

The tourist industry in the city and district has fallen far below expectation during the past week. It is also expected that this slump will continue through the week-end.

Bill Duignan ,operator of the Junior Chamber of Commerce booth on Charlotte St., calls the weather to blame for the unexpected slump.

"The first two weeks are usually our two big weeks," he said today. "Last week was good, but it has been getting consistently slower this past week."

He went on to explain that quite a few lodges have accommodation and the housekeeping accommodation is also opening up.

During this peak two weeks there have been a total of 654 people at the booth and 918 inquiries. During the same period last year 526 people were taken care of and 1,444 inquiries made. To date the peak day this year was July 2 with 113 people and 210 inquiries. The highest number of people served in the first two weeks of July last year, 73, on July 5.

To date the total number of people this year is 873 and there have been 1,013 inquiries made.

Quick Action Saves Burning Barn

CAMPBELLFORD, July 14 — (ENS)—Quick action by a number of neighbours who formed a bucket brigade on Friday afternoon was credited with saving a large barn on the farm of Clarence Scott of Rawdon Township, 9 miles east of Campbellford.

A Campbellford man, Wm. H. Brady, was driving along the road with his helper, Russel Emby of Campbellford, when he noticed smoke coming from the barn. He hurried to the farm home and Mr. Scott and his wife were vainly trying to subdue the flames.

The fire seemed to have a good start, but with the help of many neighbours who hurried to the scene, the barn was saved, along with much of the hay in it. A well near the barn supplied the volunteers with water. Combustion in the hay is believed to have been responsible for the fire.

Playing Safe

During June, two boys from the country, who had been wards of the Peterborough Children's Aid Society for two years and were then returned to their parents, had occasion to come to the city for medical care. They were too early for their appointment and came to the Children's Aid Society office, "because we knew that we would keep out of trouble if we did that."

Fluorescent Lights Put In Collegiate

Gradual conversion of the Collegiate classrooms from ordinary filament-type electric lighting to fluorescent lighting is going ahead.

Grant & Loucks have been awarded a contract valued at $1,358 for the installation of fluorescent lights in Rooms 15, 121, 221, 210 and 309. The contract was awarded by the property committee when Grant & Loucks submitted the lowest bid.

The committee has also awarded a contract valued at $785 to the Toronto firm of Phillips Co. to repair chimneys and ventilating flues at the Collegiate and two public schools.

Additional wash basins have been installed in the basement at King Edward School, in accord with the recommendation of the sanitary inspector.

They gymnasium floor at the Collegiate has been sanded and is being refinished by the Collegiate caretaker.

Interior painting is going ahead at King Edward, the committee reported.

Heart Attack Blamed

Mrs. George Coppaway, widow of Chief Coppaway, Curve lake reserve, said today that her husband died as the result of a heart attack on July 6, not the result of drowning.

"My husband was a very good swimmer but didn't have a chance to get out of the 10 feet of water in which he fell near his wharf when stricken with the attack."

Clinic Survey Reveals One TB Case

Industry, Stores Checked By Mobile X-Ray

Only one case of active pulmonary tuberculosis was found in the recent survey by the mobile x-ray clinic in Peterborough.

A total of 5,666 persons were x-rayed in the industrial and retail survey which took place from April 17 to 26 in the city, sponsored by the Peterborough County TB Association. The results of the x-ray were released today.

Of the total x-rayed, 98.1 per cent. or 5,558 showed no evidence of disease or abnormality.

The one case of active TB that was found was minor. There were two cases of minimal TB with activity questionable found; six cases of minimal TB inactive; two cases moderately advanced, but inactive and four cases of far advanced, but inactive.

A total of 92 or 1.6 per cent. of other diseases or abnormalities were found. They were 17 with significant scarrings, 18 with densities, 22 with accentuated lung markings, 15 with evidence of previous pleurisy, two with pneumonitis, two with abnormal mediastinal shadow, four with abnormality of heart and aorta, one with tumours including cysts, two with abnormality of the diaphragm, two with fungus infection, one with bronchiectasis and six with non-tuberculosis scarring.

2,000 Invade City For Picnic

The first train load of an expected 2,000 CPR employees and their children arrived at the George St. station at 10.25 this morning. They were coming here for their annual district picnic.

The train, hauling 14 passenger coaches and carrying the green flags of a special train was followed in 20 minutes by a second trainload of picnickers.

Each train carried more than 1,000 men, women and excited children.

The railroaders looked forward to a day of bright, dry weather.

The minor invasion of Peterborough was staged by the Canadian Pacific Recreation Club, Toronto. The two 14-car trains brought an estimated 2,000 holiday-seeking CPR employees to this city.

A mammoth picnic and sports program was organized by the committee in charge.

Special buses were on hand to take the railroaders from the station to Nicholls Park where the outing was held. Others decided to have a look around the city, do some shopping downtown and see the famed lift lock.

A number also expressed interest in the site of the fire where four firefighters died. The story aroused province-wide interest.

Three large tents were supplied by the city for the convenience of the picnickers and the CGE Pipe Band entertained with Scottish airs. Mayor Max Swanston was scheduled to welcome the visitors on behalf of city residents.

The program consisted mainly of sports events—racing and novelty events.

Offer Award For Air Cadets

OTTAWA, July 14—(CP)—The Royal Canadian Air Force Association is giving an award for the outstanding air cadet squadron in Canada, the association announced today.

Canada has 205 air cadet squadrons with a total strength of 17,000.

The top squadron will get a specially-designed trophy (for one year); prize money—amount still to be determined; a hand-illuminated parchment recording the achievement, and bars to be worn by each member of the winning squadron on a new badge which soon will be given all cadets of all squadrons.

The first "RCAF Association award" will be granted on the basis of the 1950-51 training year.

Squadrons will be judged on the basis of attendance, proficiency and general activity.

Safety Measures Protect Children In Parks

Safety measures have been taken on city playgrounds to prevent accidents similar to the one in Guelph where a young boy was killed by a falling slide, Alex Sinclair, recreation director, said today.

He pointed out that most of the slides on the eight city-operated playgrounds have been made by the parks department. In the manufacture, a safety device found in only a few commercially sold slides has been incorporated.

Mr. Sinclair said that the parks men have made the drop at the bottom of the slide less than in the commercial slides. Decreasing the drop, on the commercial slides 8 or 20 inches, reduces the jar at the end of the shoot .

Inspect Equipment

The director added that all the supervisors are taught to inspect the equipment daily. Any that they consider not safe for the children to play on are put aside until fixed or replaced.

The playground supervisors direct the parks activities, at the same time watching the swings, teeter totters and slides to prevent overcrowding and rough play.

Along the swimming beach at Inverlea Park, two beach supervisors have been patrolling for the past month. This week, to help them, a new beach tower which at a height of 12 feet gives the guards a clear view of the 200-foot swimming area was erected. Now one guard will sit on the tower and another patrolling the beach on the ground.

Mr. Sinclair repeated the four "Don'ts" at the beach: No swimming in the vicinity of the bridge; No diving off the bridge; No swimming across the river No swimming off the cement wall at the north end of the park.

Non-swimmers, he warned, should stay either inside the rafts or the smaller children inside the buoy area.

Equipment Damaged

Damage to the playground equipment immediately prior to the program opening, didnt help the supervisors during the first week. Mr. Sinclair said that "quite a lot of damage" was done late in June but "not so much since the supervisors have been on."

Most of the damage has been to the teeter totter boards and the swings (the children are not allowed to stand while swinging).

Older people and overloading by small children has caused most of the boards to break.

"Under normal circumstances, two children can never break a teeter board."

Swimming Classes

A move for swimming safety in the future began this week, when 160 children, mostly under 12 years, registered for swimming classes at Hamilton Park. Others were turned down because "we have all we can handle."

Mr. Sinclair said, "They're from all over the city, even as far south as below McKellar St."

Miss Betty Thomson is instructing the classes, held both in the morning and afternoon.

Ian F. McRae Appointed Defence Head

Named To Direct Guns Division For Next 6 Months

Ian F. McRae, manager of the CGE Peterborough works, has been appointed head of the Guns Division, Department of Defence Production.

In this office he will be a key man in pushing Canada's rearmament program. The Guns Division must get armaments for the Canadian army, navy and air force as well as other members of North Atlantic Pact.

He will organize the supply from Canadian sources.

On Loan

For six months Mr. McRae will be on loan from the Peterborough works. His appointment was effective July 3 and will run out at the year's end. The federal government requested his services and he will spend much of his time in Ottawa.

Mr McRae started as an apprentice in the Peterborough works in the early '20s and gradually worked his way up. By 1937 he was assistant to the works manager and in 1941 he was appointed manager.

During the Second World War he was also director and manager of Genelco, a government-sponsored plant producing war equipment. It was operated by the CGE and was taken over by the company when the war ended for peacetime production.

Mr. McRae was made assistant to the vice-president, manufacturing, last spring.

Refuge Camps Aided By Canadians

OTTAWA, —(CP)—Dr. Lotta Hitschmanovla, whose efforts on behalf of Europe's needy are well known across Canada, says there still is plenty to be done over there.

The doughty little executive director of the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada now is on her annual two-month European tour. Then she will report to Canada how donations from this country are being used over there. In a report to headquarters here she recently told of the state of Spanish Civil-War refugees now living in France.

"There are between 180,000 and 250,000 Spaniards still left in France," said Dr. Hitschmanova. They arrived before the Second World War, many of them wounded, ill, exhausted and easy prey of tuberculosis.

During a visit to Toulouse, France, Dr. Hitschmanova saw the U.S.C. headquarters there where "a continuous stream" of Spaniards came to ask for clothing, food, medicines and advice.

At the committee's St. Goin Spanish Children's Home she found Spanish children restored to health and happiness with the help of food and clothing donated by Canadian well-wishers.

Children's Republic

Dr. Hitschmanova also visited the U.S.C.-sponsored Children's Republic at Sevres, near Paris. This home shelters 130 boys and girls, all victims of the Second World War. As part of their rehabilitation they are taught handicrafts such as ceramics, weaving, sewing and embroidery.

Canadian motifs—the maple leaf, Canadian fish, Esk!mos—are brought into their work.

"It would be my dream to have some of these vases, plates and dish-clothes used in Canadian Embassies abroad," said Dr. Hitschmanova. "All this handicraft reproduces so well Canadian patterns and is done by children who owe their physical well being to their Canadian friends.

During her visits the U.S.C. director answered many questions about the "foster parents" who sponsor these boys and girls in Canada under the U.S.C. foster parent scheme.

An eight-year-old boy—"little Maxou"—was particularly delighted with a cowboy shirt Dr. Hitschmanova brought him from an Alberta Wonmen's Institute.

"And it fitted perfectly," she concluded. "He immediately donned it, and paraded proudly up and down."

Musicians In Peace Move Find UK Papers Critical

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON

LONDON— (CP) — Ignoring stinging criticism in the daily press, the newly-formed musicians' organization for peace, is pressing ahead with its drive for crusading supporters, interested in "arresting the drift to war."

Launched under the presidential baton of Sir Adrian Boult, conductor of London's famed Philharmonic orchestra, the movement claims as members some of the country's most distinguished musicians.

Among those listed are Sir Arnold Bax, master of the King's music, Benjamin Britten, the brilliant young composer, Paul Beard, leader of the B.B.C. Symphony Orchestra, Sir Hugh Robertson, conductor of the Glasgow Orpheus Choir, and Thomas Russell, chairman of the London Philharmonic. Many other celebrites were named.

"They may fancy they are composing a concerto, when in fact they are touching the notes of a crashing discord," commented the London Daily Telegraph.

Other papers warned that the newly-born organization might easily degerate into something not intended by its founders, through destructive infiltration of subversive elements.

Alarmed by the unexpected reaction, some of those who had signed up, excused themselves from official rehearsals. Before attempting to say it with music, they announced they would bide their time while they looked more closely into the organization's anti-war plans.

Non-Political Basis

But composer Arthur Benjamin, one of the association's 14 vice-presidents, and Ralph Wood, another composer and temporary secretary, planned to step up the campaign for new members. They insisted the movement had been launched on a non-political basis and was interested only in furthering international good-will and understanding.

"We are not affiliated with anything, but will welcome anybody willing to work for peace," said Mr. Benjamin. "We do not ask people what they are. Personally, I do not care whether they are die- hard tories or communists."

In a manifesto distributed by the organization, the chief aims of the movements were listed as follows:

1. The breaking down of suspicion and encouragement of free and friendly intermingling of peoples.

2. A call to the governments of the great powers to settle their differences by peaceful negotiations, however arduous and taxing to the patience this may be.

3. A plea to governments to view their problems in terms of human values rather than of national prestige.

"The alternative is degradation and horror," the manifesto concludes.

Oak Heights WA Plans Warkworth Meet

WARKWORTH, July 14 (ENS) —The Women's Association of the Oak Heights United Church met on Thursday at the home of Mrs. George Beatty

During the early part of the afternoon the ladies were piecing quilt blocks, while some were doing fancy work.

Later, a meeting was held with the president, Mrs. S. Lawrence, in charge. Mrs. Herbert Pratt read the scripture lesson, and Mrs. Lawrence took the devotional part, choosing for her topic "What Is God Like?"

During the business session the ladies voted unanimously to accept the invitation extended to them by Mrs. H. G. Lester, of Warkworth, to hold their August meeting at the United Church parsonage in Warkworth. Mrs. Jack Potter and Mrs. Douglas Langford were appointed program conveners for that meeting. Mrs. A P. Sayles was asked to take the devotional part of the meeting.

Mrs. Jack Potter presided over the following program: reading, "The Game of Life," by Mrs. Douglas Langford; Mrs. W. H. Porter gave a reading entitled "A Farmhouse Attic"; Mrs. A. P. Sayle sgave a reading, explaining the origin of the hymn "Jesus Lover Of My Soul"; Miss Clara Payne gave a reading entitled "Grandfather," and Mrs. Elijah Pratt gave one entitled "My Mother's Bible."

Each of the five grandmothers present was presented with a beautiful corsage of summer flowers. They were; Mrs. W. H. Porter, Mrs. Elijah Pratt, Mrs. Louis Lockhart, Mrs. George Beatty and Mrs. A. P. Sayles.

Lunch was served by the hostess and her daughters, Miss Ethel Beatty and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Arnold Beatty.

Fashion Vignettes

ARTICLE 9

An old-fashioned pleasantry for early morning wear week-ends is a full length gingham housecoat in your favorite most becoming small check. Crisply starched, there's something fetchingly attractive about them, gets you away from that feeling of being tied to the kitchen by your apron strings. Try it in red and white.

Schiaparelli, renowned French couturiere who always has some new trick up her fashion sleeves, uses a red velvet belt on a mauve satin evening dress. Which we'd say might look fine on one of her exotic fashion models. Something to know about but to be wary of trying!

Want to rehabilitate last year's black or navy straw sailor or cartwheel? Buy some pique flowers, depending on how many look best on your hat's shape and size, sew a rhinestone in the centre of each flower. A discreet use speaks more eloquently than a lavish display.

Lace is constantly in the news, now it's treated for rain-resistance in evening coats. Again, black lace goes to the beach over terry cloth beach ensembles. And purely extravaganza, there's the black Chantilly lace coat worn separately or over . . . er . . . white broadtail coat.

Another famous fashion authority travels in gray. Countess Jean de Polignac, daughter of the great Parisian designer, Jeanne Lanvin, has gray predominating in the travel clothes she selected for a trip to New York.

Waist-cinchers have importance again. Newest is combined with the strapless bra, extending right down to hipline, said to do a lovely waist-slimming job. Especially good with wedding frocks and evening dresses where a lovely fabric and design can lose the best effect because of that undisciplined area in the waistline between girdle and bra.

If you have a nice separate skirt of taffeta, faille or crepe, do team it up for late afternoon teas and summer evenings with a dainty batiste blouse, either a tucked, lace-trimmed shirtwaist or an old-world, off-shoulder peasant type. Be true to your own style in design, then try it in a solid pastel like candy pink, lemon yellow or lime. So long as it's so cool . . . so fresh.

Fall's far off . . . except in the fashion world where they naturally must work months ahead. It's whispered that gray's popularity swings on into fall. Cosmopolitan color, this! There's talk, too, of brown being very, very good come autumn.

SINGER TAKES REST

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., July 14 (AP)—Opera soprano Lotte Lehmann won't be singing much for the next two or three weeks. She popped a blood vessel while trying for a new high note in rehearsal yesterday. Her representative, Larry Helmer, said the condition is not srious — it frequently occurs to vocalists exploring the upper octaves.

Shore Dinner At Home

If you can't go to the ocean, bring it your way with seafood dishes that are real "catches" for a buffet supper party in the good old summertime.

Flaked fish or crab is the star in many a choice creamed-style casserole—ideal for buffet entertaining. And these dishes are so easy to whip up when you use condensed soup for the cream sauce. Right along this line is DEVILED SEA-FOOD, made with condensed cream of celery soup. You'll be pleased as punch at its goodness and convenience. You can use either flaked fish or crab for it, whichever fits your purse best.

For a party serve the seafood in baking shells or individual casseroles. Also have a crisp tomato lettuce salad, potato chips, and hot rolls. Decorate the buffet with sea shells and a net. This will be one party you're sure to enjoy with fine food that takes little time from your hostess duties.

Deviled Seafood

1 can (1¼ cups) condensed cream of celery soup.
1 can (6½ ounces) crab meat or 1 cup of flaked fish.
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper.
2 teaspoons chopped onion.
2 teaspoons lemon juice.
½ teaspoon prepared mustard.
2 tablespoons buttered crumbs.

Stir together the celery soup, flaked crab meat or fish, chopped green pepper and onion, lemon juice and mustard. Put mixture into one large or six small casseroles (baking shells are good for this). Sprinkle with buttered bread crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) until well heated and crumbs are lightly browned. Makes 6 servings.

SOUP SCOOPS

Shortcut Salad Dressing

Here's a tangy Russian dressing that you can whip together with just a simple two-step around your kitchen. Mix equal parts of choice tomato ketchup and mayonnanse or salad dressing. It's grand on crisp vegetable combinations. Sprinkle in a little chopped parsley or grees pepper when the dressing is to go over plain lettuce or other greens.

Cheese Rolls With Soup

Many a summer day, your appetite says "just soup please." If it's to be a guest meal, simply take down one of your favorites among the condensed soups—and serve it with something special like cheese rolls. For these, scoop out the insides of long hard rolls and fill the centres with a softened cheese spread—perhaps pimiento or chive cheese. Chill in the refrigerator several hours. Then slice to serve for pleasant crunching with the hot soup.

Banana Cheese Sandwiches Something New, Different

When you want eyebrows to go up in surprise, and come down again into a line of admiration for you, serve open-face sandwiches with banana slices and bacon on a flavorsome base of toast, smooth mayonnaise, and sharp cheese spread.

The combination is very unusual. The flavor is delightful. And these sandwiches are quick and easy to make. Just two quick spreads—mayonnaise and then cheese. Then banana slices go on, with bacon for topping. Sandwiches then go under the broiler for a mere second or two.

Make them for the sheer joy of making them, and the pleasure and enjoyment your family is sure to have in eating them.

Banana Cheese Spread Sandwiches

4 slices bread, crusts trimmed; banana slices; mayonnaise; 4 slices partially broiled bacon; 1 4-oz. glass sharp cheese spread; watercress,

Toast the bread on one side. Spread the untoasted side of each slice with mayonnaise, then with the cheese spread. Top each sandwich with slices of banana and a strip of bacon.

Place under low broiler heat or in moderate oven, 350°, until the bacon is crisp. Serve hot garnished with watercress.

DOROTHY DIX

Never Become A Martyr When Raising Children

DEAR MISS DIX: I have three small children. With keeping house, cooking washing and ironing, I find I keep pretty busy, but I feel that my husband and I are growing apart. Except for special occasions such as a wedding, we are never able to go out together. He goes out with the boys, and I go out with the girls, but somehow it isn't quite the same. Is a mother supposed to dedicate nights as well as days to her children? Is there anything so terrible about having a baby-sitter one night a week?

Dorothy Dix

My family does not live near me, but my mother-in-law, whom I love dearly, has often told me how she stayed in with her children until they were grown up. I accepted this as definite policy and we never go out together, but now I wonder if this is wrong. I can see that the children grow all too quickly, and that God has given us a great responsibility in these little lives, but somehow I also see other girls going out with their husbands and their children are as well-adjusted as mine.

It might be hard to leave them at first, as they have never been without us at night, but I feel it's now or never. I know we could get a high-school girl to come in once a week, even if it's only for us to go to our church meetings together instead of taking turns. Do you think this would harm the children in any way? If they wake up would they be too frightened if someone strange was there? Would appreciate your suggestions on this problem.

✧ ✧ ✧ B.E.

ANSWER: One of the worst things a mother can do in her relationship with her children is to make a martyr of herself for them. This is exactly the stand the older generation takes with the self-righteous attitude that because Grandma sacrificed every pleasure, every amusement and never left her children alone for a moment, every young mother should do the same. These are the women who will never admit that their children grow up, and who wail to high heaven when their offspring leave the family hearth to marry and set out on their own.

To my mind the responsibilities of parenthood are much better realized by the mother who teaches her children to stand on their own feet, without preaching of the hardships and sacrifices she has made to bring them into the world and rear them. She also has the responsibility to give them a happy, well-adjusted family background, and this surely entails a close, harmonious relationship between father and mother. The arrival of children all too often means the end of courtship days for the young parents— and this should not be so. An evening out together once in a while will do wonders to keep the love light burning. As the youngsters grow older, they will take a definite pride in seeing mom and pop step out all dressed up for a gala occasion. Isn't this better than having mom make a drudge of herself, never owning a pretty dress, forgetting how to dance, and giving up all her old friends?

Get a capable baby-sitter, then take an evening off now and then with no misgivings. You will be taking the best course for you, your husband and your children.

Before the children are actually left with the sitter for an evening, give them all a chance to become acquainted. Have the sitter over some afternoon and let the youngsters know that she will soon have charge of them for an evening. If you bring in a total stranger, the children probably would be frightened if they woke.
